PRICE CONTROL BOARDS

§ 1305.2400 Purpose of chapter. This chapter describes the method of appointing members of price control boards, the organization of the boards, the responsibilities of board members, volunteers, and paid employees, and the relationships between boards and district offices.

§ 1305.2401 Board location and area served—(a) Determination. The district director, with the approval of the regional administrator, shall determine the location and territorial jurisdiction of boards in the district, in accordance with standards established by the office of price board management.

(b) Location of board office. Normally the board office shall be centrally located within the area served by the board. In all cases full consideration shall be given to available public transportation facilities and to the traveling habits of the community. The location of the board's office within the area may be suggested by the board, but it will be approved by the district price board executive.

(c) Area served. A price control board is responsible for serving the entire area under its jurisdiction.

(d) Designation. The district price board executive shall designate by a code number each individual board in the district.

§ 1305.2402 Functions of boards. Price control boards have such functions as are delegated to them from time to time by orders, regulations, and operating procedures. In particular they:

(a) Provide local leadership for meeting community problems associated with price control programs.

(b) Inform the public of the nature, purposes, and methods of price control.

(c) Inform the district office of public response to OPA's programs, and the need for changes in operating procedure.

(d) Conduct surveys to ascertain compliance with maximum price regulations.

(e) Hold conferences with reported violators to ascertain whether or not a violation occurred.

(f) In behalf of the Administrator, negotiate a settlement with a violator of a maximum price regulation.

(g) Maintain prescribed records and prepare specified reports on actions taken.

(h) Perform any other functions assigned the board.

§ 1305.2403 Board organization—(a) General. Because of the wide range in size of area and problems faced by price control boards, only the broadest framework of board organization will be indicated. Each board will be organized to do its job by the board supervisor and board chairman within this framework. Board work divides into several categories: price panel and information panel activity, board clerical work, and out-board price checking and survey work.

(b) Responsibility and authority of the board chairman. (1) The board chairman is responsible to the district director for the effective operation of the board's programs. A board supervisor has been assigned to guide and assist him in the discharge of this responsibility.

(2) He is responsible, on behalf of the board, for supervision of the chief clerk and the clerical staff.

(3) The board chairman has authority to call all meetings of the board. Any five members or a majority of the members, whichever is smaller, may request the chairman to call a meeting.

(4) He is a member ex-officio of every board panel, without voting power on any one specific panel, except that with the consent of the district director he may serve as a voting member on one specific panel.

(c) Panel organization and authority. Each panel is assigned responsibility by the board chairman for a specific area of board work and acts for the board in all problems for which it has responsibility. Each panel has a panel chairman who is responsible to the board chairman for the actions of his panel. All panel members must be board members. A panel shall have three or more members.

(d) Price panels. The price control work of the board is divided into as many panels as are necessary to handle the cases brought before the panel. The board supervisor will advise the board chairman about adjusting or expanding the panel organization to handle any increases or changes in case work load. Each board has a minimum of four panels each of which specializes in one of these commodity areas: foods, consumer hard goods, consumer soft goods, and services. As more panels become necessary the board panel organization may be adjusted to meet board needs. For example, a board with many cases needs three panels working exclusively on restaurant price cases. More panels specializing in fewer price control areas are preferable to a few panels each of which covers many price regulations.

(e) Information panels. (1) The information work of the board is to centralize in an information panel which will distribute adequate and full information about the board price control activity. The panel should consist of specialists in press, radio, public meetings, community organizations, advertising, church groups, labor organizations, neighborhood areas, racial and nationality groups, etc., depending on local conditions. This panel organization may be adjusted. In some boards one person may handle the information work. In others a portion of the work may be done by the district office.

(2) This panel shall be responsible for conducting a board information program which will achieve these objectives:

(i) Community understanding of the objectives of price control and the board's part in the price control job.

(ii) Public participation in the board work as board members, in-board volunteers, or board representatives.

(iii) Public participation in the community price control job, either by reporting over ceiling sales and other violations of the maximum price regulations, or by persuading violators to observe the maximum price regulations.

(iv) Publicity program designed to inform the retail trade about the board's activities and the maximum price regulations affecting their businesses.

(v) Complete and thorough publicity about all Administrator's Claim settlements after they have been approved by the district office and about any other board activity which should be publicized.

§ 1305.2404 Board members.—(a) Nomination. Board members may be nominated by the board chairman, other board members, the board supervisor, or local government officials. If the board is seeking to broaden the basis for membership by recruiting from any special group, a board member or the board supervisor may request some organization which is representative of the special group to suggest several people to be considered by the board. Each nomination forwarded to the district director shall include a statement of the nominee's qualifications for the position.

(b) Qualifications of board members. (1) The following qualifications for board members shall be given special consideration:

(i) Fair-mindedness, integrity, and respect of neighbors.

(ii) Ability to devote the minimum number of hours required to do effective board work.

(iii) Appreciation of and enthusiasm for the objectives of the price control programs.

(iv) High regard for board membership as a public trust rather than as an opportunity to promote a special viewpoint.

(2) Board members are to be citizens of the United States, but the district director in his discretion may appoint a resident of the United States who has filed a declaration of intention to become a citizen.

(3) Normally board members are to be residents of the area served by the board but the district director may make an exception in special circumstances.

(4) The membership of each board is intended to represent the community as a whole. Selection of all members of any one board from the same political party, sex, religious faith, race, economic level, social level or occupation, should be avoided. When appropriate, board membership should include a housewife and members from labor, agriculture, business, the professions, consumers, and various minority and racial groups. In no case should a questionnaire be submitted to a present or proposed member which would require him to state his political or religious affiliations.

(5) No person engaged or financially interested in the selling of commodities shall participate, as a board member, in specific board price cases involving his business interest or those of a competitor.

(c) Appointment and removal.—(1) The district director shall have authority to select and appoint board members and shall designate one member as chairman. Generally he will be guided by the advice and suggestions of the district price board executive who will thoroughly review the qualifications of the proposed board member with the board supervisor and with other interested parties.

(2) The district director may at any time remove any board member who fails to perform his duties properly and adequately.

(3) A board member may resign by writing a letter to the district director stating when his resignation will take effect.

(d) Voluntary service of board members. Board members serve without compensation.

(e) Number of board members. The district price board executive determines the number of board members, guided primarily by the program to be administered and the population of the area to be served.

(f) Responsibilities of board members. (1) It is necessary that each board member familiarize himself with OPA policies, with the board members' operating handbook in the Loose-Leaf Service and with the maximum price regulations governing the programs handled by the panel on which he serves.

(2) When in doubt as to the proper interpretation of a regulation, the board seeks advice from the board supervisor or from the district office.

(g) Restricted activities of board members.—(1) In general. Appearance of Office of Price Administration employees board members, and former employees in a representative capacity before the OPA is governed by the provisions of Procedural Regulation No. 14. In addition, there are various Federal statutes which apply to all Federal officers or employees (e. g., secs. 109 and 113 of the Criminal Code; 18 U. S. C. 198, 203, relating to claims against the United States, and acceptance of compensation for services before a department). Uncompensated Board members have been exempted from the provisions of sections 109 and 113 of the Criminal Code except with reference to representation before OPA itself.

(2) As attorneys or agents.—(i) Price control board members are permitted by law to act as attorneys or representatives of corporations or individuals in any matter or proceeding pending before a government agency, except OPA. A board member may not represent or act as an agent of any person in any proceedings before OPA, except on behalf of his own private business or interest. However, he should not act in a representative capacity even with regard to his own business if other employees or associates of equal competence and ability are available to handle the problem.

(ii) As soon as a board member has resigned he may act as an agent, attorney, or representative in any OPA proceeding which is not pending in or instituted before a price control board. He must wait a period of six months after his resignation before he may appear in any proceeding before any price control board. In no event, however, may he act as agent, attorney, or representative in any OPA proceeding if at any previous time he has been officially associated with the specific matter to which the proceeding relates.

(3) Political. The district director is authorized to determine when political activity of a board member would impair the faith of the public in the impartiality of OPA regulations and adjudications. Subject to this general policy, board members may make contributions to political organizations, vote, attend meetings, join political clubs, and petition Congress on all but OPA business. A board member who is a candidate for a contested elective office, who is a campaign manager, or who otherwise actively participates for or against a candidate, may not act on the board during the period of the campaign.

§ 1305.2405 Operating the Board Office.—(a) General. The board office is operated by the chief clerk under the direction of the board chairman and in accordance with OPA policies. Paid and volunteer personnel do the work within the board and conduct the surveys.

(b) The chief clerk.—(1) Appointment. The chief clerk is appointed by the board chairman after approval by the district director.

(2) Authority and responsibility. The chief clerk acts as chief administrative aide and office manager for the board, under the supervision of the board chairman. In accordance with OPA policies and procedures he is specifically responsible to the chairman for:

(i) Organization and activities of the board's office staff.

(ii) Maintenance of all board files and records in accordance with instructions.

(iii) Preparation of all reports required.

(iv) Providing for adequate clerical assistance to the information panel.

(v) The manner in which members of the public are received and served by the board clerks.

(vi) Conducting the business of the board office so that board members may devote their time exclusively to training themselves in the use of the Members Handbook and to consideration of reported violations.

(vii) Directing the activities of the price clerk for each panel so that the reported violation presented to the panel will be properly prepared and the members will have had indicated for them the provisions of the regulations governing consideration of the case.

(viii) The administration of oaths and affirmations required in connection with forms issued by the board. The chief clerk does not need to be a notary public to render this service. No charge may be made for the service.

(3) Selection and supervision of board clerical staff. The board chairman appoints board clerks. The chief clerk under the supervision of the board supervisor and the board chairman recommends for selection and supervises the clerical employees of the board. He maintains and submits in behalf of the board such records and reports on clerical and other activities as are required.

(c) Board surveys. Paid and volunteer personnel participate in continuous surveys of various commodity areas to check compliance with price, posting, and record-keeping requirements of maximum price regulations. These surveys will be conducted in accordance with instructions and will be under the supervision of the clerk assigned responsibility for conducting surveys or the price clerk responsible for the commodity area being surveyed. The chief clerk shall be responsible for making the assignments and for allocating board personnel to surveys. He should see that the price panel conferences and in-board clerical work on survey findings are not delayed. If such delays arise, the chief clerk will call this problem to the attention of the board chairman and the board supervisor who will take steps to solve the problem.

(d) Board hours. In order to give adequate service to the community, board offices should be open at such hours that no large group of citizens will be inconvenienced. Whenever necessary either to give better service or to permit the inclusion of active board members who work during the daytime, every effort should be made to be open some evenings. The board secures approval of the district price board executive of its schedule of working hours for its paid clerical staff.

(e) General relationships between price control boards and area rent offices. Where area rental offices and local boards are physically consolidated, there shall be joint use of space, receptionists, telephones and other administrative services.

§ 1305.2406 Volunteer participation. It is the policy of OPA to enlist the aid of uncompensated volunteers as clerks and survey workers to supplement the paid staff in its price control activities. An uncompensated volunteer supervisor is appointed in each board in accordance with the established procedure for appointment of board members. This member serves as a staff aide to the board chairman. He is not assigned exclusively to any panel but works to recruit and organize volunteer assistance in the board work.

§ 1305.2407 General relationships between boards and district offices. The district price board executive through his representative, the board supervisor, shall be generally responsible for the adequate performance by the board of its duties and responsibilities. If the district director or a responsible member of his staff finds it necessary to examine the records, files, or operations of a board, he shall have authority to do so with such prior notice as he deems necessary. The board is responsible for all panel conference actions and decisions which it makes in accordance with orders or regulations of OPA, subject to such review by district offices as is provided for by OPA regulations. The board supervisor is responsible for assisting the board chairman by recruiting and training board members, volunteers, and paid clerks and for generally assisting in the performance of board work.

SUBPART M—DELEGATIONS OF FINAL AUTHORITY

§ 1305.2500 Nature of delegations. In addition to the general functions exercised by national and field offices described above, certain functions are exercised by virtue of delegations of final authority under OPA regulations or orders. Delegations to field offices may be made directly by regulation or order or may be made pursuant to conditions set forth in the regulation or order. Where authorized by regulation or order, redelegation of authority may be made to a subordinate level of field offices by order of the chief executive officer of the office receiving the delegation. Specific delegations and re-delegations made pursuant to price, rationing and rent regulations and orders are described below.

§ 1305.2501 Price delegations to continental offices. The following information is given for each delegation of authority:

(a) Regulation or order number, section containing authority delegated, and the Federal Register citation.

(b) The title and/or a brief description of the authority delegated.

(c) An indication as to whether the regional administrator can redelegate authority to district directors in district offices.

(d) The district offices to which authority has been delegated by the regional offices. As listed below (e), each of the eight regions is designated by a Roman numeral and each district office by an Arabic numeral. These numbers are used in place of the names of the regional and district offices in showing redelegations. For example, "II–3, 4" indicates that the specific authority has been redelegated by the New York regional office to the Baltimore and Newark district offices only; "III–ALL" indicates that the Cleveland regional office has redelegated the authority to all of the district offices in Region III; "IV–NONE" indicates that the Atlanta regional office has not delegated the authority to any of the district offices in Region IV.

PART 200—ORGANIZATION AND PROCEDURES

Sec.
200.1 General statement.
200.2 Central organization.
200.3 Field organization.
200.4 Delegations by the Board of final authority.
200.5 Where the public may secure information or make submittals or requests.
200.6 The general course and method by which the Board's functions are channeled and determined.
200.7 Description of forms and instructions.
200.8 Substantive rules and statements of general policy or interpretations of the Board.
200.9 Availability for public inspection of final opinions and orders.
200.10 Availability for inspection of matters of official record.

§ 200.1 General statement. The Railroad Retirement Board, an independent agency in the executive branch of the Government of the United States, is charged with the administration of the Railroad Retirement Acts of 1935 and 1937 and the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act. The Retirement Acts provide for retirement and death benefit payments for persons employed in the railroad industry and for certain survivors. For the purpose of financing the retirement system, the Railroad Retirement Tax Act lays pay-roll taxes, collected by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, upon employers and their employees. The Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act has the same coverage and provides for the payment of unemployment, sickness, and maternity benefits. Contributions for that purpose, levied on the employers, are collected by the Board.

§ 200.2 Central organization. (a) The Railroad Retirement Board is composed of three members appointed for terms of five years by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate. One is appointed upon recommendation of representatives of organizations of the employers, another upon recommendation of representatives of the organizations of the employees, and the third, the chairman, without recommendation by either employers or employees.

(b) The Board's headquarters are located at 844 Rush Street, Chicago 11, Illinois, where the Board holds its meetings. Its organization in the main is divided into staff offices and operating bureaus. The Office of the Director of Research, the Office of the General Counsel, the Office of the General Auditor and the Office of Liaison Activities are staff offices. The Regional Offices, the Bureaus of Retirement Claims, Employment and Claims, and Wage and Service Records are operating bureaus. Both the staff offices and the operating bureaus are under the direction of the Chief Executive Officer, who has under him also the Office of Administrative Planning and Analysis, the Office of Director of Finance, the Office of Supply and Service, the Office of Director of Personnel, and administratively, the Appeals Council. The Secretary of the Board is responsible to the Board itself. Three actuaries who constitute the Actuarial Advisory Committee, are not on the Board's regular pay roll, but function as consultants.

§ 200.3 Field organization. The Board's organization in the field is under the general supervision of the Chief Executive Officer and is divided into nine regions, each under a regional director. The regional offices are located at Atlanta, Georgia; New York City, New York; Cleveland, Ohio; Chicago, Illinois; Dallas, Texas; Kansas City, Missouri; Minneapolis, Minnesota; Denver, Colorado, and San Francisco, California. The organization in each region consists of a regional office section and a field service section. The former is under the direction of a regional adjudicator and the latter of a regional field supervisor. Within each region and under the supervision of the regional field supervisor are district offices, branch offices and base points. Below is a list of all the various field offices, shown by states. Generally, these offices are open Mondays through Fridays, and some, where it has been found to be in the interest of the public, operate six days of the week.

[1] Designates regional office.

§ 200.4 Delegations by the Board of Final Authority. The Board itself retains authority to make the ultimate decisions within the agency on any question arising in the administration of the Acts. Organizationally, however, certain delegations of authority have been made among various bureaus and offices. The following functions, duties and responsibilities listed as delegated to each office or bureau are not all that an office or bureau may have, but are those in which the authority of the office or bureau is, or may become, final without specific Board approval.

(a) Bureau of Retirement Claims. The Bureau of Retirement Claims adjudicates claims for annuities and death benefits. Annuities are granted on the basis of age or disability and length of service. The Bureau has authority to decide, on the evidence, in accordance with the Board rules and regulations, the adequacy of any of the component requirements for retirement or death benefits, such as age, length of service, when the service was rendered, the fact of death, disability, and survivor qualifications; and to calculate the amount of the benefits which may be due and to authorize payment. Claims of physical disability are referred to a unit in the Bureau, the Disability Rating Board, which decides the medico-legal question involved.

(b) Appeals Council. The Appeals Council acts as an intermediate appellate body. An applicant for retirement or death benefits who is dissatisfied with the decision of the Bureau of Retirement Claims may appeal to the Appeals Council and there present his case either by written statement, by brief, in person, by representative or counsel, or any combination of these methods. The decision of the Appeals Council is final unless appealed to the Board itself.

(c) Office of the General Counsel. The Office of the General Counsel has authority to decide cases of employer coverage and employee status under the Acts, but only on a precedent which had been decided or approved by the Board itself. Such a decision by the General Counsel, if not appealed to the Board itself, is final and binding on all persons. The General Counsel represents the Board as its attorney generally and in litigation and there has such final authority as is usually held by an attorney for an agency of the United States Government.

(d) Bureau of Employment and Claims. The Bureau of Employment and Claims through the Regional Offices, receives and adjudicates, under the direction of the head of the Bureau, claims for unemployment benefits. Its decisions, unless appealed, are final.

§ 200.5 Where the public may secure information or make submittals or requests. The public may secure information or make submittals or requests at the headquarters office or at any of the regional and other field offices listed above, either in person or by mail. In general, however, time may be saved in securing information concerning unemployment insurance benefits by inquiring at the nearest field office; concerning retirement benefits, by inquiry to the Bureau of Retirement Claims, 844 Rush Street, Chicago 11, Illinois; concerning employer and employee coverage or any other legal questions, by inquiry to the Office of the General Counsel, 844 Rush Street, Chicago 11, Illinois; concerning the filing of wage and service reports, by inquiry to the Bureau of Wage and Service Records, 844 Rush Street, Chicago 11, Illinois; and concerning the payment of contributions, penalties and interest, by inquiry to the Office of the Director of Finance, 844 Rush Street, Chicago 11, Illinois.

Applications for unemployment insurance benefits, and for retirement and death benefits as well, may be submitted at the nearest field office, where help and advice in executing them may be had. All other forms, and help and advice in executing them or any other communication to the Board, are similarly available at all field offices or upon writing, or calling in person at, the headquarters offices in Chicago. Applications for unemployment insurance benefits may be filed also with a contract claims agent. There are some 30,000 such agents who have been designated by employers from among their employees, under contract with the Board. An unemployed person may inquire from his recent employer as to the claims agent with whom he may file a claim.

§ 200.6 The general course and method by which the Board's functions are channeled and determined.—(a) Retirement and death benefits. Retirement and death benefits must be applied for by filing application therefor. (For details as to application, see Part 210 of this chapter.) The Bureau of Retirement Claims considers the application and the evidence and information submitted with it. Wage and service records maintained by the Board are checked and if necessary, further evidence is obtained from the employee, the employer, fellow employees, public records and any other person or source available. The Bureau makes a decision on the application in the first instance. An applicant dissatisfied with the Bureau's decision may, upon filing notice within one year from the date the decision is mailed to the applicant, appeal to the Appeals Council. There he may have an oral hearing, of which a stenographic record is made, submit additional evidence, be represented, and present written and oral argument. If dissatisfied with the decision of the Appeals Council, the applicant may appeal to the Board itself. This appeal must be made on a prescribed form within four months of the date a copy of the Appeals Council's decision was mailed to him. If new evidence is received, the Board may remand the case to the Appeals Council for investigation and recommendation on the new evidence. For details on all appeals procedure see §§ 260.1–260.4 of this chapter). An applicant after he has unsuccessfully appealed to the Board itself and has thus exhausted all administrative remedies within the Board, may obtain a review of a final decision of the Board by filing a petition for review within one year after the entry of the decision on the records of the Board and its communication to the unsuccessful applicant, in the United States circuit court of appeals for the circuit in which the applicant resides, or in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit, or in the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

(b) Unemployment insurance, sickness and maternity benefits. Sickness and maternity benefits are provided for by the amendment of July 31, 1946, to the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act but these provisions do not become effective until July 1, 1947. The course and method by which applications for such benefits are to be channeled and determined have not yet been established by the Board.

Claims for unemployment insurance benefits are handled by a comprehensive organization set up in the field. Under agreements between the Railroad Retirement Board and covered employers, the employers select employees of theirs to act as unemployment claims agents and as countersigning agents. These agents perform their services, specified in the agreement, in accordance with instructions issued by the Board but under general supervision and control of the employer. In accordance with the agreements, employers are reimbursed for such services at the rate of 50¢ for each claim taken by an unemployment claims agent and transmitted to the Board. There are some 30,000 such contract claims agents. An unemployed person who wishes to file a claim for benefits need only consult his recent employer to be directed to the agent with whom he may file his claim. In addition many field employees of the Railroad Retirement Board have been designated to take registrations and act as unemployment claims agents.

When an employee makes his first claim in any benefit year, he identifies himself and fills out an Application for Certificate of Benefit Rights (Form UI–1) and an Application for Employment Service (Form ES–1). The employee is given an Unemployment Bulletin No. UB–3 informing him of his responsibilities and explaining the statements to which he is required to certify and to which he certifies when he registers for benefits. When the applications are completed, the claims agent sends them to the regional office. On the basis of the information furnished on the application for Certificate of Benefit Rights, the regional office determines whether the applicant is a qualified employee (that is, whether he earned $150 or more from covered employment in the base year) and, if so, the maximum amount of benefits that may become payable to him during the benefit year. The applicant is notified of the determination by a Certificate of Benefit Rights (Form UI–2) if he is found to be qualified, or by letter if he is found to be not qualified. The Certificate of Benefit Rights furnishes to the qualified applicant information concerning his daily benefit rate, his maximum benefit amount, his benefit rights, and his responsibilities as a claimant. The field office uses the information furnished on the application for employment service to place the claimant in suitable employment.

In addition to the application for Certificate of Benefit Rights and an Application for Employment Service, the claimant executes, a Registration and Claim for Unemployment Insurance Benefits (Form UI–3). In substance the registration consists of his appearing before a claims agent during the agent's working hours, subscribing to statements of his qualifications for benefits on the Registration and Claim for Unemployment Insurance Benefits and signing his name on the form in respect to each day which he claims as a day of unemployment, on the day or not later than the fourth business day thereafter, or not later than the fifth business day thereafter if the day for which the employee registers is not a business day. In other words, counting Saturdays and Sundays as nonbusiness days, a claimant must appear for registration at intervals of not more than seven days. Under certain circumstances, such as illness, employment, looking for employment, etc., an employee may make a delayed registration in respect to any day for which he is unable to register within the time limit mentioned above. The unemployment claims agent sends the claim to his countersigning agent who examines the claim for completeness and consistency, enters such exceptions as he may find necessary, certifies by countersigning the claim that the unemployment claims agent who accepted the registrations was authorized to do so, and forwards the claim to the regional office. That office determines whether benefits are payable to the employee, and, if so, the amount of benefits payable. When the regional office finds that one or more days for which an employee has registered cannot be considered as days of unemployment, the employee is notified by letter. Claims on which benefits are payable are certified to the local disbursing office of the Treasury Department which mails a benefit check to the claimant. Ordinarily, within ten days after the end of the registration period, a claimant receives either a benefit check or a letter of explanation from the Board's regional office.

Any employee whose claim for benefits has been denied in whole or in part, may appeal from the initial determination, and such appeal will be heard before a referee or such other reviewing body as the Board may establish or assign. § 200.1 General statement. The Securities and Exchange Commission was created by act of Congress entitled the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. It is an independent agency of the United States Government. The Commission's central office is located at 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania. It has ten regional offices located in the principal cities of the country. The location of these offices is set forth in 17 CFR 200.14 (e).

The functions of the Commision are set forth in the following statutes which it administers: the Securities Act of 1933, the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, the Trust Indenture Act of 1939, the Investment Company Act of 1940, and the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. In addition, the Commission has certain duties in connection with court proceedings under Chapter X of the National Bankruptcy Act.

The Securities Act of 1933 is designed to provide disclosure, chiefly through the mechanism of a registration statement and prospectus, of pertinent information concerning securities publicly offered and sold in interstate commerce or through the mails, and makes unlawful fraudulent practices in the sale of such securities.

The Securities Exchange Act of 1934 provides for registration of national securities exchanges, securities listed on such exchanges, brokers and dealers trading in the over-the-counter securities markets, and associations of such brokers and dealers. Market manipulations, deceptive devices, and other fraudulent practices in the purchase or sale of securities are made unlawful and dealings in equity securities by insiders must be reported. The Commission is empowered to regulate the solicitations of proxies or other authorizations from the holders of listed securities, the hypothecation of securities held by brokers or dealers for the account of customers, the business of specialists and odd-lot dealers, and such trading activities as short-sales, stabilizing, and excessive dealings by members of national securities exchanges; and to exercise certain supervisory powers over the rules of national securities exchanges and national associations of brokers and dealers. The act authorizes the Commission if in its opinion the public interest so requires, with the approval of the President, summarily to suspend all trading on any national securities exchange for a period not exceeding ninety days.

The Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 requires the registration of companies in holding company systems engaged in the electric utility business or in the retail distribution of gas and their geographic integration and corporation simplification, provides for the regulation of security transactions, acquisitions and sales of assets, dividend payments, solicitation of proxies, intercompany loans, service, sales and construction contracts and accounting practices of such companies and makes unlawful political contributions by such companies.

The Trust Indenture Act of 1939 provides that issues of debt securities, with certain exceptions, may not be offered for sale to the public unless they are issued under a trust indenture which conforms to specific statutory standards designed to safeguard the interests of purchasers.

The Investment Company Act of 1940 requires the registration of investment companies and provides for their regulation. The act prescribes qualifications and affiliations of officers and directors, requires that certain matters receive stockholder approval and requires Commission approval of certain transactions such as dealings between affiliates and insiders.

The Investment Advisers Act of 1940 requires the registration of persons engaged in the business of advising others with respect to security transactions and outlaws fraudulent practices and certain specified transactions by them.

§ 200.2 General organization. The Commission is composed of five members, not more than three of whom may be members of the same political party. They are appointed by the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, for five-year terms, one of which expires each year. One of the five commissioners is elected chairman annually. The Commission is assisted in the performance of its duties by a staff of professional employees, including lawyers, accountants, engineers, and corporation analysts, and by administrative and clerical employees. The staff has been organized into the following separate divisions and offices, which are directly responsible to the Commission and act pursuant to its directions and orders:

§ 201.1 Business hours. The principal office of the Commission at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, is open on each business day, excepting Saturdays, from 9:00 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

§ 201.2 Appearance and practice before the Commission. (a) An individual may appear in his own behalf, a member of a partnership may represent the partnership, a bona-fide officer of a corporation, trust or association may represent the corporation, trust or association, and an officer or employee of a State commission or of a department or political subdivision of a State may represent the State commission or the department or political subdivision of the State, in any proceeding.

(b) A person may be represented in any proceeding by an attorney at law admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States, or the highest court of any State or Territory of the United States, or the Court of Appeals or the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia.

(c) A person shall not be represented at any hearing before the Commission or a hearing officer except as stated in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

(d) Any person appearing before or transacting business with the Commission in a representative capacity may be required to file a power of attorney with the Commission showing his authority to act in such capacity.

(e) The Commission may disqualify, and deny, temporarily or permanently, the privilege of appearing or practicing before it in any way to any person who is found by the Commission after hearing in the matter

(1) Not to possess the requisite qualifications to represent others; or

(2) To be lacking in character or integrity or to have engaged in unethical or improper professional conduct.

(f) Contemptuous conduct at any hearing before the Commission or a hearing officer shall be ground for exclusion from said hearing and for summary suspension without a hearing for the duration of the hearing.

(g) For the purposes of this rule, practicing before the Commission shall include the preparation of any statement, opinion or other paper by any attorney, accountant, engineer or other expert, filed with the Commission in any registration statement, application, report or other document with the consent of such attorney, accountant, engineer or other expert.

§ 201.3 Notice of hearings and issues; specification of procedures. (a) Whenever a hearing is ordered by the Commission in any proceeding, notice of such hearing shall be given by the Secretary or other duly designated officer of the Commission to each party to the proceeding, or to the person designated as being authorized to receive notices issued by the Commission. Such notice shall state the time, place and nature of the hearing and the legal authority and jurisdiction under which the hearing is to be held, and shall be accompanied by a short and simple statement of the matters of fact and law to be considered and determined. In proceedings pursuant to section 8 of the Securities Act of 1933 such notice of hearing shall include by number or name a statement of the items in the registration statement which appear to be incomplete or inaccurate in any material respect or to include any untrue statement of a material fact or to omit a statement of any material fact required to be stated therein or necessary to make the statement therein not misleading, and such notice shall be accompanied or followed by a short and simple statement concerning such items.

(b) The time and place for any such hearing shall be fixed with due regard for the convenience and necessity of the parties or their representatives. The notice of hearing shall be given to each party a reasonable time in advance of the hearing by personal service, by confirmed telegraphic notice or, in any proceedings other than those pursuant to section 8 of the Securities Act of 1933, by registered mail addressed to the last known business address of the party or his agent for service.

(c) Unless otherwise ordered by the Commission, notice of any such public hearing shall be given general circulation by publication in the Federal Register where authorized, by release to the public press, and by distribution to the applicable mailing lists on file with the Commission.

(d) In any proceeding parties other than the moving party shall give such notice of issues controverted in law or fact as is designated in the notice of hearing or special rules of this Commission. Parties claiming that facts have been admitted or issues have been conceded by failure of other parties adequately to controvert them shall make such claim at the opening of the hearing: Provided, however, That no inadequacy of responsive pleading shall operate to relieve a moving party from establishing facts required by statute to be found by the Commission as a basis for granting the action sought.

(e) In any proceeding the moving party shall, in the moving papers or the notice of hearing if that is practicable or, if not, as early as practicable in the course of the hearing, specify the procedures considered necessary or appropriate in the proceeding ,with particular reference to (1) whether there should be a recommended decision by a hearing officer, (2) whether there should be a recommended decision by any other responsible officer of the Commission, (3) whether the interested Division of the Commission's staff may assist in the preparation of the Commission's decision, and (4) whether there should be a 30-day waiting period between the issuance of the Commission's order and the date it is to become effective. Any other party may object promptly, or within such time as shall be designated by the hearing officer having due regard to the circumstances of the case, to the procedure so specified and may specify such additional procedure as he considers necessary or appropriate and, in the absence of such objection or specification of additional procedure, may be deemed to have waived objection to the specified procedure and to the omission of any procedure not specified (unless the Commission, for good cause shown taking into account any resulting prejudice to other parties, determines the contrary).

(f) The hearing officer on his own motion may, or at the request of any party shall, call a conference of the parties at the opening of the hearing or at any subsequent time for the purpose of specifying and agreeing on the procedural steps to be followed or omitted in the proceeding. Any proposal agreed upon by all the parties shall be read into the record and shall determine the procedure in that respect, except that the Commission may, for good cause shown taking into account any resulting prejudice to the parties, vary such procedure at the request of any party or, after notice, on its own motion.

§ 201.4 Amendments. (a) Whenever a hearing is ordered by the Commission in any proceeding pursuant to section 8 of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and items in the registration statement which appear to be incomplete or inaccurate in any material respect, or to include any untrue statement of a material fact, or to omit a statement of any material fact required to be stated therein or necessary to make the statements therein not misleading, are not particularly specified in the notice, such items shall be so specified by amendment to the notice prior to the taking of testimony in regard to such items. The hearing officer may grant or deny a motion for such amendment. Such motions shall be in writing, and may be filed with the hearing officer at any time prior to the termination of the hearing. On request of the registrant the hearing officer, after granting such motion, shall grant a reasonable time within which the registrant may familiarize himself with such matters before taking testimony in regard to such items.

(b) In any other proceeding instituted by the Commission, amendment may be allowed to the order, rule to show cause or other moving papers, by the Commission on application to it, or by it upon its own motion.

(c) When issues not raised by the pleading of a party or the Commission's statement of matters to be considered and determined are tried by express or implied consent of the parties, they may be treated in all respects as if they had been raised in the pleadings.

§ 201.5 Hearings for the purpose of taking evidence. (a) Hearings for the purpose of taking evidence shall be held as ordered by the Commission.

(b) All such hearings shall be held before a hearing officer, who shall be an officer duly designated by the Commission, one or more of the members of the Commission, or the Commission. The hearings shall be conducted by the hearing officer in an impartial and orderly manner. All such hearings, except hearings pursuant to the provisions of Clause 30 of Schedule A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or section 24 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, or section 22 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, or Rule N-45A-1 under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (17 CFR, 270.45a-1) shall be public unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(c) All witnesses at a hearing for the purpose of taking evidence shall testify under oath or affirmation, which shall be administered by the hearing officer. Hearings for the purpose of taking evidence shall be stenographically reported and a transcript thereof shall be made which shall be a part of the record of the proceeding. Transcripts of public hearings will be supplied by the official reporter at the prescribed rates. Transcripts of private hearings will be supplied at the prescribed rates to the parties.

(d) In any hearing for the purpose of taking evidence the hearing officer may withdraw from a case when he deems himself disqualified. In such event he shall immediately notify the Commission of his withdrawal and inform it of his reasons for such action. Any party or any person who has been granted leave to be heard pursuant to Rule XVII (17 CFR, 201.17) may in good faith request the hearing officer to withdraw on the grounds of personal bias or other disqualification. The person seeking disqualification shall file with the hearing officer a timely affidavit setting forth in detail the facts alleged to constitute grounds for disqualification, and the hearing officer may file a response thereto. If the hearing officer believes himself not disqualified he shall so rule and proceed with the hearing. If the person seeking disqualification excepts from the ruling of the hearing officer, the hearing officer shall certify the question together with the affidavit and any response filed in connection with it, to the Commission. The Commission may rule on the question without hearing or it may require testimony or argument on the issues raised. The affidavit and response, any testimony taken, and the decision thereon shall be part of the record in the case.

(e) In hearings for the purpose of taking evidence, every party shall have the right to present such oral or documentary evidence and to conduct such cross-examination as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. The hearing officer shall regulate the course of the hearing, receive relevant and material evidence, rule upon offers of proof, and exclude all irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence. During the course of any such hearing the hearing officer shall rule upon applications for issuance of subpoenas and issue such subpoenas in proper cases, shall rule upon applications for the taking of depositions pursuant to Rule VIII (17 CFR, 2018) and upon other procedural matters relating to the hearing and may hold conferences for the settlement or simplification of the issues by consent of the parties where time, the nature of the proceedings, and the public interest permit. Upon notice to all parties, the hearing officer may reopen any hearing prior to the filing of a recommended decision therein, or, if no recommended decision is to be filed, prior to the time for filing briefs with the Commission.

(f) Subpoenas requiring the attendance of witnesses from any place in the United States at any designated place of hearing may be issued by any member of the Commission, the hearing officer or any other officer designated by the Commission for that purpose in connection with any hearing ordered by the Commission, upon written application therefor. Subpoenas for the production of documentary evidence will issue only upon application in writing, which must specify, as nearly as may be, the documents desired and the facts to be proved by them, in sufficient detail to indicate the materiality, general relevance, and reasonable scope of the documents desired.

(g) Witnesses summoned before the Commission shall be paid the same fees and mileage that are paid to witnesses in the courts of the United States, and witnesses whose depositions are taken and the persons taking the same shall severally be entitled to the same fees as are paid for like services in the courts of the United States. Witness fees and mileage shall be paid by the party at whose instance the witnesses appear.

(h) Except where these rules specify otherwise, all procedural applications, motions and objections during the course of the hearing shall be made to the hearing officer, who may on his own motion certify any matter directly to the Commission. Exception to any ruling thereon by the hearing officer must be noted in order to be urged before the Commission. Upon exception to a ruling of the hearing officer, he shall promptly certify the matter to the Commission for its consideration and disposition in any case where (1) all the parties request such reference, (2) his ruling, if reversed by the Commission at a later stage of the proceeding, would unduly delay or prolong the proceeding or cause undue inconvenience to the parties, or (3) the Commission so directs. Objections to the admission or exclusion of evidence shall be in short form, stating the grounds of objections relied upon, and the transcript shall not include argument or debate thereon except as ordered by the Commission or the hearing officer. Rulings by the Commission and the hearing officer on all procedural applications, motions, and objections shall be part of the record.

(i) Except where a different procedure is established by a particular rule or regulation of the Commission, an application or declaration filed by a party other than the Commission in which the facts alleged have been duly verified under oath may state that the applicant offers it in evidence pursuant to this rule in any hearing thereon. If such offer is made the application or declaration shall be received in evidence at the hearing as proof in support of the allegations therein without the necessity of the applicant appearing and introducing further evidence, unless any party or person having a bona fide interest in the proceeding gives notice of his objection to the admission of the application or declaration or of his intention to appear in opposition to the application or declaration. Such notice shall be filed with the Secretary or other duly designated officer of the Commission who shall promptly notify the applicant or declarant thereof. If the applicant or declarant fails to appear and support the application or declaration upon being notified of the objection, or intention to appear in opposition, the application or declaration shall be dismissed, unless the Commission directs otherwise. Where timely notification of such objection or intention to appear cannot be given applicant or declarant in advance of hearing, the hearing will be continued to permit the appearance of the applicant or declarant.

§ 201.6 Motions and procedural applications. (a) All motions and procedural applications not required to be made to the hearing officer pursuant to Rules IV (a) (17 CFR, 201.4(a)) and V (17 CFR, 201.5) shall be made to and ruled upon by the Commission.

(b) Motions or procedural applications calling for determination by the Commission shall be filed with the Secretary or other duly designated officer of the Commission in writing, provided that motions or procedural applications calling for determination by the Commission but made in the course of a hearing may be filed with the hearing officer in writing, who shall refer such motion or procedural application to the Commission. Any such motion or procedural application shall be accompanied by a written brief of the points and authorities relied upon in support of the same. Any party may file an answering brief within 5 days after service upon him of such motion or other application as provided in Rule XIV (17 CFR, 201.14), unless otherwise directed by the Commission. Motions and procedural applications will be considered on the briefs filed following the time for filing the answering brief, unless othewise directed by the Commission. No oral argument will be heard on such matters unless the Commission so directs.

§ 201.7 Extensions of time, continuances, and adjournments. Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, the Commission for cause shown may extend or shorten any time limits prescribed by these rules for filing any papers, and may continue or adjourn any hearing. A hearing before a hearing officer shall begin at the time and place ordered by the Commission, but thereafter may be successively adjourned to such time and place as may be ordered by the Commission or by the hearing officer.

§ 201.8 Depositions. (a) Any party desiring to take a deposition shall make application therefor in writing, setting forth the reasons why such deposition should be taken, the name and residence of the witness, the matters concerning which it is expected the witness will testify, and the time and place proposed for the taking of the deposition. Thereupon the hearing officer or Commission, as the case may be, may in his or its discretion, issue an order which will name the witness whose deposition is to be taken, state the scope of the testimony to be taken, and specify the time when, the place where, and the designated officer before whom the witness is to testify. Such order shall be served upon all parties by the Secretary, or other duly designated officer of the Commission, a reasonable time in advance of the time fixed for taking testimony.

(b) Witnesses whose testimony is taken by deposition shall be sworn or shall affirm before any questions are put to them. Each question propounded shall be recorded and the answers shall be taken down in the words of the witness.

(c) Objections to questions or evidence shall be in short form, stating the grounds of objection relied upon, but no transcript filed by the officer shall include argument or debate. Objections to questions or evidence shall be noted by the officer upon the deposition, but he shall not have power to decide on the competency or materiality or relevance of evidence. Objections to questions or evidence not made before the officer shall not be deemed waived unless the ground of the objection is one which might have been obviated or removed if presented at that time.

(d) The testimony shall be reduced to writing by the officer, or under his direction, after which the deposition shall be subscribed by the witness and certified in usual form by the officer. The original deposition and exhibits shall be forwarded under seal to the Secretary of the Commission with such number of copies as may be requested by the Secretary of the Commission. Upon receipt thereof the Secretary shall file the original in the proceedings and shall forward a copy to each party or his attorney of record.

(e) Such depositions shall conform to the specifications of Rule XV (17 CFR, 201.15).

(f) Any part of a deposition not received in evidence at a hearing before the Commission or a hearing officer shall not constitute a part of the record in such proceeding, unless the parties shall so agree or the Commission so orders.

(g) Depositions may also be taken and submitted on written interrogatories in substantially the same manner as depositions taken by oral examination. The interrogatories shall be filed with the application in triplicate, and copies thereof shall be served on all parties by the Secretary or other duly designated officer of the Commission. Within 5 days any party may file with the Secretary his objections, if any, to such interrogatories, and may file such cross-interrogatories as he desires to submit. Cross-interrogatories shall be filed in triplicate, and copies shall be served on all parties, who shall have 3 days thereafter to file their objections, if any, to such cross-interrogatories. Objections to interrogatories or cross-interrogatories shall be settled by the Commission or hearing officer. Objections to interrogatories shall be made before the order for taking the deposition issues and if not so made shall be deemed waived. When a deposition is taken upon written interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, no party shall be present or represented, and no person other than the witness, a stenographic reporter, and the officer shall be present at the examination of the witness, which fact shall be certified by the officer, who shall propound the interrogatories and cross-interrogatories to the witness in their order and reduce the testimony to writing in the witness' own words.

§ 201.9 Certification of record, proposed findings and conclusions, and intermediate decisions. (a) In every proceeding in which the Commission has not presided at the reception of the evidence, the entire record shall be certified to the Commission for final decision. The record shall include the moving papers, notice of hearings, responsive pleadings, proofs of service, any motions or applications filed in the course of the proceeding and rulings thereon, the transcript of testimony, exhibits received at the hearing, any proposed findings and conclusions submitted by the parties, and any intermediate decision and exceptions thereto. Following any hearing before a hearing officer, except hearings in proceedings pursuant to the provisions of Clause 30 of Schedule A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or section 24 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, or section 22 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, or Rule N–45A–1 under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (17 CFR, 270.45a–1), the record shall forthwith be filed with the Secretary of the Commission. Following any hearing before a hearing officer in the excepted cases, the record shall forthwith be filed with the Chairman of the Commission.

(b) The hearing officer shall prepare a recommended decision in any proceeding in which a hearing officer's decision is required under the Administrative Procedure Act, unless such requirement is waived by all parties, and in any other proceeding in which the Commission directs him to prepare such decision.

(c) Except to the extent that the Commission directs otherwise, in any proceeding where a required intermediate decision may under the Administrative Procedure Act be in the form of a recommended decision prepared by any responsible officer of the Commission, such recommended decision shall be prepared by the staff of the interested Division, unless the requirement of an intermediate decision is waived by all parties.

(d) All recommended decisions shall be advisory only, and the findings, conclusions and other matters therein contained shall not be binding upon the Commission. The initial page of the recommended decision shall contain a statement to such effect. In any proceeding in which, under the provisions of Rule XIII (h) (17 CFR, 201.13 (h)) of these rules of practice, the recommended decision is first to be made available to the public on the opening date of public argument on the merits before the Commission, or in the event of submission to the Commission without argument, upon final determination of such proceeding, or pursuant to an order of the Commission, the initial page of the recommended decision shall also contain a statement to the effect that the recommended decision is confidential, shall not be made public, and is for the use only of the Commission, the parties and counsel, but copies of the recommended decision issued after it is made available to the public may omit such statement.

(e) Intermediate decisions shall be filed with the Secretary within 10 days after service upon the official charged with the responsibility for preparation thereof by the Secretary or other duly designated officer of the Commission of a copy of the record in the case, unless some other period is prescribed by the Commission. A copy of such intermediate decision shall be forthwith served on each party by the Secretary or other duly designated officer of the Commission.

(f) In any proceeding any party may submit a statement in writing setting forth proposed findings and conclusions, which may be accompanied by a brief in support thereof. Such statement and brief shall be filed with the Secretary or in the excepted cases listed in paragraph (a) of this section, upon the Chairman of the Commission, or other duly designated officer of the Commission within 5 days after the receipt by the party of a copy of the transcript of the testimony, if promptly at the conclusion of the hearing he has ordered a copy thereof, or if he has not ordered a copy, within 5 days after the filing of the transcript of the testimony with the Secretary or other duly designated officer of the Commission, or within such other time as the Commission may specify.

§ 201.10 Exceptions. (a) Within 5 days after receipt of a copy of an intermediate decision, any party may file exceptions thereto. A copy of such exceptions shall be forthwith served on each party by the Secretary or other duly designated officer of the Commission. Exceptions shall be argued only at the final hearing on the merits before the Commission.

(b) Objections to an intermediate decision not saved by exception filed pursuant to this rule will be deemed to have been abandoned and may be disregarded.

§ 201.11 Briefs. (a) In any proceeding any party may file a brief in support of his proposed findings and conclusions, and exceptions. Unless otherwise ordered by the Commission, briefs in support of exceptions to an intermediate decision shall be filed within 15 days from the date of service on the party filing the brief of a copy of the intermediate decision. In the absence of any intermediate decision, proposed findings and conclusions and a brief in support thereof may be filed in accordance with Rule IX (f). (17 CFR, 201.9 (f).)

(b) All briefs shall be confined to the particular matters in issue. Each exception or proposed finding or conclusion which is briefed shall be supported by a concise argument and by citation of such statutes, decisions and other authorities and by page references to such portions of the record, as may be relevant. If the exception relates to the admission or exclusion of evidence, the substance of the evidence admitted or excluded shall be set forth in the brief with appropriate references to the transcript. Reply briefs shall be confined to matters in original briefs of opposing parties. Any scandalous or impertinent matter contained in any brief may be stricken on order of the Commission.

(c) Exceptions and proposed findings and conclusions not briefed in accordance with this rule may be regarded by the Commission as waived.

(d) All briefs, including briefs filed pursuant to Rule VI (17 CFR, 201.6), containing more than 10 pages shall include an index and table of cases. The date of each brief must appear on its front cover or title page. If briefs are typewritten, 10 copies shall be filed; if printed or mimeographed, 20 copies, provided that only 7 copies of briefs in proceedings held pursuant to the provisions of Clause 30 of Schedule A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or section 24 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, or section 22 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, or Rule N–45A–1 under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (17 CFR, 270.45A–1) need be filed in any instance. No brief shall exceed 60 pages in length, except with the permission of the Commission.

(e) Copies of briefs shall be served by the Secretary or other duly designated officer of the Commission on the parties to the proceeding, and reply briefs may be filed within 5 days thereafter or within such other time as the Commission may specify.

(f) Briefs not filed on or before the time fixed in these rules or by Commission direction will be received only upon special permission of the Commission.

§ 201.12 Hearing before the Commission. (a) Except as to motions and procedural applications dealt with in Rule VI (b) (17 CFR, 201.6 (b)) upon written request of any party a matter to be decided by the Commission will be set down for oral argument before the Commission unless exceptional circumstances make oral argument impractical or inadvisable. Such request must be made within the time provided for filing the original briefs.

(b) The Commission shall determine the matter on the record, any briefs of the parties, and any oral argument before the Commission.

(c) The Commission, upon its own motion or upon application in writing by any party for leave to adduce additional evidence which application shall show to the satisfaction of the Commission that such additional evidence is material and that there were reasonable grounds for failure to adduce such evidence at the hearing before the Commission or the hearing officer, may hear such additional evidence or may refer the proceeding to the hearing officer for the taking of such additional evidence.

(d) Any petition for rehearing by the Commission shall be filed within 5 days after issuance of the order complained of and shall clearly state the specific grounds and the specific matters upon which rehearing is sought.

§ 201.13 Filing papers; docket; computation of time; public information; confidential treatment. (a) All reports, exceptions, briefs, and other papers required to be filed with the Commission in any proceeding shall be filed with the Secretary, except that all papers containing data as to which confidential treatment is sought pursuant to Rules 580 (17 CFR, 230.580), X–24B–2 (17 CFR, 240.24b–2) or U–104 (b) (17 CFR, 250.104 (b)) of the Rules and Regulations of the Commission, together with applications making objection to the disclosure thereof, and all papers and data relating to proceedings instituted by the Commission pursuant to Rule N–45A–1 (17 CFR, 270.45a–1) shall be filed with the Chairman. Any such papers may be sent by mail or express to the officer with whom they are directed to be filed, but must be received by such officer at the office of the Commission in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, within the time limit, if any, for such filing.

(b) The Secretary shall maintain a docket of all proceedings, and each proceeding shall be assigned a number.

(c) Wherever under these rules, unless otherwise expressly provided, any limitation is made as to the time within which any recommended decisions, proposed findings and conclusions, exceptions, briefs, or other papers are required to be filed with the Commission in any proceeding, hearing officers and parties who are residents of the following states: Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, Arizona, Nevada, Washington, Oregon, and California, shall have an additional period of 5 days; and hearing officers and parties who reside beyond the confines of the continental United States shall have an additional period of 20 days within which to file such recommended decisions, proposed findings and conclusions, exceptions, briefs, and other papers. For the purposes of this rule the person upon whom service is made by the Commission is the party whose residence shall determine whether the additional time provided herein shall be granted.

(d) In computing any period of time prescribed or allowed by these rules or by order of the Commission, the day of the act, event, or default after which the designated period of time begins to run is not to be included. The last day of the period so computed is to be included, unless it is a Saturday, Sunday, or a legal holiday in the District of Columbia, in which event the period runs until the end of the next day which is neither a Saturday, Sunday nor a holiday. Intermediate Saturdays, Sundays and holidays shall be included in the computation. A half-holiday shall be considered as other days and not as a holiday.

(e) Unless otherwise specifically provided in these rules or by a particular rule, regulation or order of the Commission an original and 6 copies of all papers shall be filed, unless the same be printed or mimeographed, in which case 20 copies shall be filed.

(f) Unless otherwise provided by statute or rule or otherwise directed by the Commission, all information contained in any notification, statement, application, declaration, intermediate decision, or other document filed with the Commission pursuant to requirement of a statute or a rule or regulation or order of this Commission shall be available to the public.

(g) Confidential treatment of material listed in paragraph (f) hereof may be requested for good cause where authorized by statute. Request for confidential treatment pursuant to the provisions of Clause 30 of Schedule A of the Securities Act of 1933 as amended, section 24 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 as amended, or section 22 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 shall be made, respectively, in accordance with Rule 580 (17 CFR, 230.580), X–24B–2 (17 CFR, 240.24b–2), or U–104 (b) (17 CFR, 250.104) of the Rules and Regulations of the Commission. In any case where a hearing for the purpose of taking testimony relating to whether confidential treatment should be granted or continued is to be held, the Commission may in its discretion, prior to the hearing, require the person desiring the confidential treatment to furnish in writing additional information in respect of its grounds of objection to public disclosure. Failure to supply the information so requested within 15 days from the date of receipt by the registrant of a notice of the information required, shall be deemed a waiver of the objections to public disclosure of that portion of the information filed confidentially with respect to which the additional information required by the Commission relates, unless the Commission shall otherwise order for good cause shown at or before the expiration of such 15-day period.

(h) All papers containing data as to which confidential treatment is sought, together with any application making objection to the disclosure thereof, or other papers relating in any way to such application, shall be made available to the public only in accordance with the applicable provisions of Rules 580 (h) of the rules and regulations of the Commission (17 CFR, 230.580 (h)), X–24B–2 (i) (17 CFR, 240.24b–2 (i)) or U–104 (b) (17 CFR, 250.104 (b)). Papers in connection with proceedings instituted by the Commission pursuant to Rule N–45A–1 of the rules and regulations of the Commission (17 CFR, 270.45a–1) shall not be made public except by order of the Commission. An intermediate decision, exceptions thereto, proposed findings and conclusions, and briefs in support of such proposed findings and conclusions or in support of or in opposition to such exceptions, which are filed in connection with any hearing relating to a proceeding concerning confidential treatment shall, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission, first be made available to the public on the opening date of public argument on the merits before the Commission, or in the event of submission to the Commission without argument or with private argument, upon final determination of the proceedings by the Commission, and prior thereto shall be for the confidential use only of the Commission, the parties and counsel.

(i) Information or documents obtained by the Commission in the course of any examination or investigation shall, unless made a matter of public record, be deemed confidential. Officers and employees are hereby prohibited from making such confidential information or documents available to anyone other than a member, officer, or employee of the Commission, unless the Commission authorizes the disclosure of such information or the production of such documents as not being contrary to the public interest. Any officer or employee who is served with a subpoena requiring the disclosure of such information or the production of such documents shall appear in court and, unless the authorization described in the preceding sentence shall have been given, shall respectfully decline to disclose the information or produce the documents called for, basing his refusal upon this rule. Any officer or employee who is served with such a subpoena shall promptly advise the Commission of the service of such subpoena, the nature of the information or documents sought, and any circumstances which may bear upon the desirability of making available such information or documents.

(j) Matters of public record may be inspected in the Public Reference Room at the principal office of the Commission, and such material on file at regional offices of the Commission may be inspected at those offices, during regular office hours. Copies of matters of public record will be furnished to any person upon request and upon payment of the charges therefor as specified in Rule 121 under the Securities Act of 1933 (17 CFR, 230.121).

(k) All final opinions and orders entered by the Commission in the adjudication of cases, and all rules of the Commission shall be released for general publication, except where confidential treatment has for good cause been directed by the Commission. Copies of such published material shall be available for public inspection at the office of the Commission or may be obtained by mail on request. Bound volumes of past Decisions and Reports are obtainable from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., at a prescribed charge.

§ 201.14 Service of intermediate decisions, exceptions, briefs, and other papers. (a) All intermediate decisions, exceptions, briefs, proposed findings and conclusions, or other documents or papers required by these rules to be served on any party to a proceeding shall be served by the Secretary or other duly designated officer of the Commission, provided that such papers relating to proceedings concerning confidential treatment pursuant to provisions of Clause 30 of Schedule A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or section 24 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, or section 22 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, or Rule N–45A–1 under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (17 CFR, 270.45a–1), shall be served by the Chairman.

(b) Subject to the provisions of Rule III (b) hereof (17 CFR, 201.3 (b)), such service, except on counsel to the interested Division of the Commission, shall be made by personal service on the party or his attorney of record or by registered mail addressed to the party or his attorney of record.

§ 201.15 Formal requirements as to papers filed in proceedings. (a) All papers filed under these rules shall be typewritten, mimeographed, or printed, shall be plainly legible, shall be on one grade of good unglazed white paper approximately 8 inches wide and 10½ inches long, with left-hand margin 1½ inches wide, and shall be bound at the upper left-hand corner. They shall be double-spaced, except that quotations shall be single-spaced and indented. If printed, they shall be in either 10- or 12-point type with double-leaded text and single-leaded quotations.

(b) All papers must be signed in ink by the party filing the same, or his duly authorized agent or attorney, and must show the address of the signer.

(c) All papers filed must include at the head thereof, or on a title page, the name of the Commission, the names of the parties, and the subject of the particular paper or pleading, and the docket number assigned to the proceeding.

§ 201.16 Signature of Commission orders; service of Commission rulings. (a) All orders of the Commission shall be signed by the Secretary or such other person as may be authorized by the Commission.

(b) Copies of all decisions, orders and rulings by the Commission on any written application shall be served on the applicant and, if made in connection with a pending proceeding, on all parties thereto.

§ 201.17 Intervention, leave to be heard, informal participation. (a) Any interested representative, agency, authority or instrumentality of the United States or any interested State, State commission, State securities commission, municipality or other political subdivision of a State shall become a party to any proceeding upon the filing of a written notice of appearance therein. Except to the extent that these rules provide otherwise, the interested Division of the Commission shall be deemed a party to all proceedings.

(b) Any person may, at the discretion of the hearing officer, be given leave to be heard in any proceeding as to any matter affecting his interests. Requests for leave to be heard shall be in writing, shall set forth the nature and extent of the applicant's interest in the proceeding, and shall be filed with the hearing officer or the Commission not later than 2 days prior to the date fixed for the commencement of the hearing, except that where a respondent is required to answer, requests for leave to be heard shall be filed within the time provided for the filing of the answer. The hearing officer or the Commission may direct any person requesting leave to be heard to submit himself to examination as to his interest in the proceeding.

(c) Leave to be heard pursuant to paragraph (b) hereof may include leave to call and examine witnesses, to offer documentary evidence, to cross-examine witnesses, to file briefs, to submit proposed findings and conclusions and to make oral argument. The hearing officer shall determine the time and extent of such participation except that oral argument may be permitted only by the Commission upon written request therefor. Persons granted leave to be heard shall be bound, except as may be otherwise determined by the hearing officer, by any stipulation between the parties to the proceeding with respect to procedure including submission of evidence, substitution of exhibits, corrections of the record, the time within which briefs or exceptions may be filed or proposed findings and conclusions may be submitted, the filing of intermediate decisions, the procedure to be followed in the preparation of decisions, and the effective date of the Commission's order in the case. Where the filing of briefs or exceptions or the submission of proposed findings and conclusions are waived by the parties to the proceeding, a person granted leave to be heard pursuant to paragraph (b) hereof shall not be permitted to file a brief or exception or submit proposed findings and conclusions except by leave of the hearing officer or of the Commission. Except as may otherwise be specifically directed by the hearing officer at the request of any person granted leave to be heard, such person shall be expected to inform himself by attendance at public hearings and by examination of the public files of the Commission as to the various steps taken in the proceeding, including continuances, the filing of amendments, answers, motions, or briefs by parties to the proceeding, or the fixing of time for any such action, and such person shall not be entitled as of right to other notice thereof, or to service of copies of documents.

(d) Except as provided in paragraph (a) hereof, no person shall be admitted as a party to a proceeding unless the Commission is satisfied on the basis of the written application of such person (and any evidence taken in connection therewith) that his participation as a party will be in the public interest, and (1) that leave to be heard pursuant to paragraphs (b) and (c) hereof would be inadequate for the protection of his interests or (2) in proceedings under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, that he may be aggrieved by the Commission's order in the proceeding.

(e) Any person who has not complied with the requirements of paragraph (b) hereof may, in the discretion of the hearing officer, be permitted to file a memorandum or make an oral statement of his views, and the hearing officer may accept for the record written communications received from any such person. Unless offered and admitted as evidence of the truth of the statements therein made, the memoranda and oral or written communications submitted pursuant to the provisions of this paragraph will be considered by the Commission only to the extent that the statements therein made are otherwise supported by the record.

(f) The hearing officer is directed to grant leave to be heard under paragraph (b) or (e) hereof, whichever may be applicable, to any person to whom it is proposed to issue any security in exchange for one or more bona fide outstanding securities, claims or property interests, or partly in such exchange and partly for cash, where the Commission is authorized to approve the terms and conditions of such issuance and exchange after a hearing upon the fairness of such terms and conditions.

(g) Any ruling of the hearing officer as to matters within the scope of this rule shall be subject to review by the Commission at the close of the proceedings, or, at the Commission's discretion, in the course of the proceedings. The Commission may, by order in any case, modify the provisions of this rule which would otherwise be applicable, and may impose such terms and conditions on the participation of any person in any proceeding as it may deem necessary or appropriate in the public interest.

§ 201.18 Consolidation. By order of the Commission, or upon agreement between the parties, proceedings involving a common question of law or fact may be joined for hearing of any or all the matters in issue in such proceedings and such proceedings may be consolidated; and the Commission may make such orders concerning the conduct of such proceedings as may tend to avoid unnecessary costs or delay.

§ 201.19 Rules of general application. (a) Any person desiring the issuance, amendment or repeal of a rule may file a petition therefor with the Secretary of the Commission. Such petition shall include a statement setting forth the text of any proposed rule or amendment desired or specifying the rule the repeal of which is desired and stating the nature of his interest and his reasons for seeking the issuance, amendment or repeal of the rule. The Secretary shall acknowledge receipt of the petition and refer it to the Commission for such action as the Commission deems appropriate, and shall notify the petitioner of the action decided upon by the Commission.

(b) Except where the Commission finds that notice and public procedure are impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest, whenever the Commission proposes to issue, amend, or repeal any rule or regulation of general application other than an interpretative rule, general statement of policy, or a rule of agency organization, procedure, or practice, or any matter relating to agency management or personnel or to public property, loans, grants, benefits, or contracts, there shall first be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER a notice of the proposed action. Such notice shall include (1) a statement of the time, place, and nature of the rule making proceeding, with particular reference to the manner in which interested persons shall be afforded the opportunity to participate in such proceeding; (2) reference to the authority under which the rule is proposed; and (3) the terms or substance of the proposed rule or a description of the subjects and issues involved.

§ 201.20 Nonapplicability of rules to investigations; transcripts in investigations. (a) These rules of practice, other than Rule II (e) (17 CFR 201.2 (e)) and except to the extent to which these rules specifically refer to investigations, shall not be applicable to investigations conducted by the Commission pursuant to sections 8 (e), 19 (b) and 20 (a) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended; section 21 (a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended; sections 11 (a), 13 (g), 18 (a), 18 (b) and 30 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935; section 321 (a) of the Trust Indenture Act of 1939; section 209 (a) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940; or sections 14 (b) and 42 (a) of the Investment Company Act of 1940.

(b) A person who has been compelled to submit data or evidence in such investigations shall, upon written application to the Commission, be entitled to retain or procure a copy or transcript of his data or evidence submitted on payment of the prescribed fees; provided, however, that the Commission may, in any nonpublic investigatory proceeding, for good cause deny the application for such copy or transcript. In the latter event, such person shall have the right to inspect the official transcript of his testimony upon proper identification.

By the Commission.

PART 202—INFORMAL AND OTHER PROCEDURES

Sec.
202.1 General.
202.2 Prefiling assistance and interpretative advice.
202.3 Processing of filings and facilitating administrative hearings.
202.4 Enforcement activities.
202.5 Adoption, revision, and rescission of rules and regulations of general application.

§ 202.1 General.—(a) A summary of the statutes administered by the Commission and a description of the duties and responsibilities assigned to the various divisions and offices of the Commission's staff are set forth at 17 CFR Part 200. The statutes administered by the Commission provide generally (1) for the filing with it of certain statements, such as registration statements, periodic and ownership reports, and proxy solicitation material, and for the filing of certain applications and declarations seeking Commission approvals; (2) for Commission determination through formal procedures of matters initiated by private parties or by the Commission; (3) for the investigation and examination of persons and records where necessary to carry out the purposes of the statutes and for enforcement of statutory provisions; and (4) for the adoption of rules and regulations where necessary to effectuate the purposes of the statutes. The Commission's functions in regard to the foregoing matters are channeled on the basis of the organizational pattern referred to above (17 CFR, Part 200).

(b) In addition to the Commission's Rules of Practice heretofore set forth (17 CFR Part 201), the Commission has promulgated rules and regulations pursuant to the several statutes it administers (17 CFR Parts 230, 240, 250, 260, 270 and 275). These rules and regulations contain substantive provisions and include as well numerous provisions detailing the procedure for meeting specific standards embodied in the statutes. The Commission's rules and regulations under each of the statutes are available in pamphlet form upon request at the Commission's central office.

(c) The statutes and the published rules, regulations and forms thereunder prescribe the course and method of formal procedures to be followed in Commission proceedings. These are supplemented where feasible by certain informal procedures designed to aid the public and facilitate the execution of the Commission's functions. There follows a brief description of procedures generally followed by the Commission have not been formalized in rules.

(d) The informal procedures of the Commission are largely concerned with the rendering of advice and assistance by the Commission's staff to members of the public dealing with the Commission. While opinions expressed by members of the staff do not constitute an official expression of the Commission's views, they represent the views of persons who are continuously working with the provisions of the statute involved. And any statement by the director, associate director, assistant director, assistant chief accountant, or chief counsel of any division can be relied upon as representing the views of that division. In certain instances an informal statement of the views of the Commission may be obtained. The staff, upon request or on its own motion, will generally present questions to the Commission which involve matters of substantial importance and where the issues are novel or highly complex, although the granting of a request for an informal statement by the Commission is entirely within its discretion.

§ 202.2 Pre-filing assistance and interpretative advice. The staff of the Commission renders interpretative and advisory assistance to members of the general public, prospective registrants, applicants and declarants. For example, persons having a question regarding the availability of an exemption may secure informal administrative interpretations of the applicable statute or rule as they relate to the particular facts and circumstances presented. Similarly, persons contemplating filings with the Commission may receive advice in the preparation thereof, including information as to the forms to be used and the scope of the items contained in the forms. Inquiries may be directed to an appropriate officer of the Commission's staff.[1] In addition, informal discussions with members of the staff may be arranged whenever feasible, at the Commission's central office or, except in connection with matters under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 at one of its regional offices.

§ 202.3 Processing of filings and facilitating administrative hearings. (a) Registration statements, proxy statements, letters of notification, periodic reports, applications for qualification of indentures, and similar documents filed with the Commission are routed to the appropriate examining section, which passes initially on the adequacy of disclosure and recommends the initial action to be taken. If the filing appears to afford inadequate disclosure, as for example through omission of material information or through violation of accepted accounting principles and practices, the usual practice is to bring the deficiency to the attention of the person who filed the document by a letter from the Assistant Director assigned supervision over the particular filing, and to afford a reasonable opportunity to discuss the matter and make the necessary corrections. This informal procedure is not generally employed where the deficiencies appear to stem from a deliberate attempt to conceal or mislead or where for any other reason the Commission deems formal proceedings necessary in the public interest.

(b) Applications, declarations, and other requests involving formal Commission action are scrutinized by the appropriate section for conformance with applicable statutory standards and Commission rules and generally the filing party is advised of deficiencies. Prior to passing upon applications and declarations the Commission receives the views of all interested persons at public hearings whenever appropriate; hence, any applicant or declarant seeking Commission approval of proposed transactions by a particular time should file his application or declaration in time to allow for the presentation and consideration of such views.

(c) After the staff has had an opportunity to study an application or declaration, interested persons may informally discuss the problems therein raised to the extent that time and the nature of the case permit (e. g., consideration is usually given to whether the proceeding is contested and if so to the nature of the contest). In such event, the staff will, to the extent feasible, advise as to the nature of the issues raised by the filing, the type of evidence it believes should be presented at the hearing and, in some instances, the nature, form, and contents of documents to be submitted as formal exhibits. The staff will, in addition, generally advise as to Commission policy in past cases which dealt with the same subject matter as the filing under consideration.

(d) During the course of the hearings, the staff is generally available for informal discussions to reconcile bona fide divergent views not only between itself and other persons interested in the proceedings, but among all interested persons; and, when circumstances permit, the staff endeavors to narrow, if possible, the issues to be considered at the formal hearing.

(e) In some instances the Commission in the order accompanying its findings and opinion reserves jurisdiction over certain matters relating to the proceeding, such as payment of fees and expenses, accounting entries, terms and conditions relating to securities to be issued, and other matters. In such cases, upon receipt of satisfactory information and data the Commission considers whether further hearing is required before releasing jurisdiction.

§ 202.4 Enforcement cativities. (a) Where, from complaints received from members of the public, communications from federal or state agencies, examination of filings made with the Commission, or otherwise, it appears that there may be violation of the acts administered by the Commission or the rules or regulations thereunder, a preliminary investigation is generally made. In such preliminary investigation no process is issued or testimony compelled. When it appears from information obtained either with or without a preliminary investigation that there is a likelihood that a violation has been or is about to be committed and that the issuance of process may be necessary, the matter is reported to the Commission, which may then order a formal investigation or examination if it is deemed necessary. Unless otherwise ordered by the Commission, the investigation or examination is nonpublic and the reports thereon are confidential.

[1] The particular officers to whom such inquiries should be made may be ascertained from the description of the Commission's organization set forth in 17 CFR Part 200.

(b) Where it appears after investigation that there has been a violation of any of the provisions of the acts administered by the Commission or the rules or regulations thereunder, the Commission may take one or more of the following actions: institution of administrative proceedings looking to the imposition of remedial sanctions, initiation of injunction proceedings in the courts, and, in the case of a willful violation, reference to the matter to the Department of Justice for criminal prosecution. The Commission may also on some occasions refer the matter to other federal agencies, state authorities or organizations such as the stock exchanges or the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc.

§ 202.5 Adoption, revision, and rescission of rules and regulations of general application. (a) The procedure followed by the Commission in connection with the adoption, revision, and rescission of rules of general application necessarily varies in accordance with the nature of the rule, the extent of public interest therein, and the necessity for speed in its adoption. Rules relating to Commission organization, procedure and management, for example, are generally adopted by the Commission without affording public discussion thereof. On the other hand, in the adoption of substantive rules materially affecting an industry or a segment of the public, such as accounting rules, every feasible effort is made in advance of adoption to receive the views of persons to be affected. In such cases, proposals for the adoption, revision, or rescission of rules are initiated either by the Commission or by members of the public, and to the extent practicable, the following practice is observed:

(b) A preliminary draft of the proposed rule is considered by the Commission and sent to interested persons (e. g. other interested regulatory bodies, principal registrants or persons to be affected, stock exchanges, professional societies and leading authorities on the subject concerned, and other persons requesting such draft) for criticism and suggestions. Following analysis of suggestions received, a revised draft is prepared and, where appropriate, a public hearing may be announced for final consideration of the proposal. Any interested persons may appear at the hearing or may submit written comment for inclusion in the record in accordance with the Commission's notice of the rule-making procedure to be followed. The rule in the form in which it is adopted by the Commission is publicly released and is published in the Federal Register.

Secretary.

SUBPART A—FOR REGISTRATION STATEMENTS

§ 239.1 Form A-1, General form—(a) General rule. This form is to be used for registration under the Securities Act of 1933 of all securities for the registration of which no other form is specifically prescribed.

[1] The descriptions given are based upon the instructions as to the use of the forms, but in cases of doubt as to the proper form to be used, the instructions should be consulted. Copies of any of these forms and of instructions for their use may be obtained on request addressed to the Administrative Division of the Commission.

(b) Special rule. Notwithstanding the rules for the use of Form A-2 (see 17 CFR, § 239.2) for Corporations, Form A-1 may be used by any incorporated investment trust for registration under the Securities Act of 1933 of an additional block of securities of a class, part of which has previously been registered on Form A-1.

§ 239.2 Form A-2, for corporations—(a) General rule. This form is to be used for registration statements, except such statements as to which a special form is specifically prescribed, under the Securities Act of 1933 by any corporation which files profit and loss statements for 3 years and which meets either one of the following conditions: (1) Such corporation has made annually available to its security holders, for at least 10 years, financial reports (which may be reports consolidating the reports of the corporation and its subsidiaries) including at least a balance sheet and a profit-and-loss or income statement, or (2) such corporation had a net income for any 2 fiscal years of the 5 fiscal years preceding the date of the latest balance sheet filed with the registration statement. If such corporation has subsidiaries, such income shall be determined on the basis of consolidated reports for such corporation and its subsidiaries. Notwithstanding the foregoing, however, this form shall not be used by any corporation organized within 10 years, if the majority of the capital stock thereof was issued to promoters of the corporation in consideration of property or services, or if more than one-half of the proceeds of the sale of securities of such corporation has been used to purchase property acquired by the corporation from the promoters of the corporation.

This form may also be used for registration statements (except such statements as to which a special form is specifically prescribed) by a corporation organized for the purpose of distributing to its stockholders only, water, electricity, or gas, and prohibited from paying any dividends to its stockholders except upon its dissolution or liquidation, Provided, That:

1. The corporation has been in existence at least 15 years prior to the date of the filing of the registration statement;

2. There has been no default by the corporation upon any of its funded indebtedness within the period of 15 years prior to the date of the filing of the registration statement;

3. The registrant will have a total indebtedness, upon the issuance of the securities registered, not exceeding 50 per cent of the amount, less valuation reserves, at which the total assets of the registrant are carried on the latest balance sheet of the registrant filed with the registration statement, giving effect to the proceeds of the securities registered; and

4. Within the period of 10 years preceding the date of the filing of the registration statement, the corporation shall not have failed to levy and collect assessments in amounts sufficient to meet all current charges.

(b) Special rules. (1) Notwithstanding that Form E-1 (17 CFR, 239.8) is specifically prescribed for use in cases involving an exchange of securities by the issuer thereof for others of its securities or a modification of the terms of securities by agreement between the issuer and its security holders, a registrant otherwise entitled to use Form A-2 may, at its option, use Form A-2 in any such case if the registrant is not in reorganization pursuant to section 77B of the Bankruptcy Act or in bankruptcy or receivership and if no default exists on any outstanding funded debt (other than a default in sinking fund payments which has been waived by the holders of at least 80 per cent in principal amount of the issue outstanding). If Form A-2 is used pursuant to this Rule, the fee payable for registration shall be calculated in accordance with Instruction 7 in Form E-1, and the table setting forth the calculation shall be prepared as prescribed in such Form.

(2) Form A-2 may be used by a registrant if all the following conditions exist:

(i) The registrant was organized as the successor to a single predecessor, or to a group of predecessors one of which, at the time of succession, directly or indirectly owned substantially all of the outstanding stock of all the other predecessors;

(ii) The registrant acquired all of the assets and assumed all of the liabilities of such predecessor or predecessors, and the capital structure of the registrant immediately following the succesession was substantially the same as the capital structure of the single predecessor, or as the consolidated capital structure of the group of predecessors, except for such changes as may have resulted from the substitution of issuers incident to the succession or from changes in capital stock liability per share; and

(iii) The single predecessor, or the parent company in a group of predecessors, could have used Form A-2 if the succession had not taken place.

In determining whether such single predecessor or such parent company in a group of predecessors could have used Form A-2, the record of the registrant in regard to income or annual reporting to security holders shall be considered a continuation of the record of such single predecessor or such parent company. In the case of a group of predecessor companies, the income of the parent company of the group shall be determined on the basis of consolidated reports for such parent company and its subsidiaries, the subsidiaries to be included in the consolidated reports whether or not they were combined with the parent company to form the registrant.

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of the last sentence of the rule for the use of Form A-2 for Corporations, that form may be used by a corporation otherwise entitled to use the form, if the property acquired from promoters under the circumstances stated in such last sentence consisted principally of one or more going businesses, or of securities representing directly or indirectly more than 50 per cent of the voting power controlling such businesses.

(4) Notwithstanding the rules as to the use of Form E-1 (17 CFR, 239.8) or the rule as to the use of Form A-2 for Corporations, Form A-2 may be used in the situation described below for registration statements, except those for which a special form (other than Form E-1 (17 CFR, 239.8) is specifically prescribed, by corporations which file profit and loss statements of their own or of their predecessors for 3 years and which, or the predecessors of which, have in the past 15 years paid dividends upon any class of common stock for at least 2 consecutive years. The situation in which Form A-2 may thus be used is that of registration of securities issued or sold in the course of a "reorganization", as defined in Rule 5 (1) as to the use of Form E-1 (17 CFR, 239.8), where the only operation which brings the transaction within the definition is the acquisition of assets of a subsidiary by the registrant in consideration of securities of the registrant, or the exchange of securities of the registrant for outstanding securities of a subsidiary.

(5) Any corporation which was formed by the consolidation of two or more corporations may use Form A-2, if each of the constituent corporations which collectively brought in a majority of the assets, as shown by the books of the constituent corporations prior to the consolidation, could have used Form A-2 if the consolidation had not taken place. In determining whether any such constituent corporation could have used Form A-2, the record of the registrant in regard to income or annual reporting to security holders shall be considered a continuation of such constituent corporation's record. In this rule all the corporations consolidated to form the registrant are called the "constituent corporations."

(6) Form A-2 may be used by a registrant if all the following conditions exist:

(i) The registrant was a wholly owned subsidiary of a corporation which, either alone or with one or more of its other wholly owned subsidiaries, was merged into the registrant;

(ii) The registrant acquired all the assets and assumed all the liabilities of the corporations merged into it; and

(iii) The parent corporation could have used Form A-2 had the merger not taken place. In determining whether such parent corporation could have used Form A-2, the record of the registrant subsequent to the merger, in regard to income or annual reporting to security holders, shall be considered a continuation of the record of such parent corporation.

(7) Notwithstanding the provisions of clause (b) of the rule as to the use of Form A-2 for Corporations, this form may be used by a corporation which has had a net income for only 1 fiscal year of the 5 fiscal years preceding the date of the latest balance sheet filed with the registration statement, if—

(i) The corporation was organized at least 5 years prior to the date of filing;

(ii) Total assets of the registrant and its subsidiaries after deducting valuation and qualifying reserves, amount to not more than $5,000,000, as shown by the most recent balance sheets filed with the registration statement; and

(iii) The registrant is not an investment company, a bank holding company, or a small-loan or other finance company.

§ 239.3 Form C-1, for securities of unincorporated investment trusts. This form is to be used for registration under the Securities Act of 1933 of securities of unincorporated investment trusts of the fixed or restricted management type, having a depositor or sponsor but not having a board of directors or persons performing similar functions.

§ 239.4 Form C-2, for certain types of certificates of interest in securities. This form is to be used for registration under the Securities Act of 1933 of certificates of interest in securities of a single class of a single issuer, if the following conditions exist:

(a) The major part of the certificates are to be sold to the public for cash;

(b) Under the terms of the deposit agreement the depositor (as defined below) has no rights or duties as depositor, subsequent to the deposit of the securities with the depositary;

(c) Under the terms of the deposit agreement the power to vote or give a consent with respect to the deposited securities may be exercised only by, or pursuant to the instructions of, the holders of the certificates of interest, except a power, if any, to vote to effect a split-up of deposited stock in such manner as to cause no change in the aggregate capital stock liability of the issuer of the deposited securities;

(d) The securities deposited by the depositor are registered under the Securities Act of 1933 in connection with the sale of the certificates of interest.

§ 239.5 Form C-3, for American certificates against foreign issues and for the underlying securities. This form shall be used for registration under the Securities Act of 1933 of American certificates (for example, so-called American depositary receipts for foreign shares or American participation certificates in foreign bonds or notes) issued against securities of foreign issuers deposited or to be deposited with an American depositary (whether physically held by such depositary in America or abroad) and of the foreign securities so deposited.

§ 239.6 Form D-1, for certificates of deposit. In registering certificates of deposit issued in anticipation of or in connection with a plan of reorganization or readjustment, Form D-1 shall be used. If a plan of reorganization or readjustment is proposed at the time the call for deposits is to be made, parts I and II of Form D-1 should be filed at the same time. If no such plan is proposed at the time the call for deposits is to be made, part I may be filed alone, and part II must then be filed before the plan is submitted to the security holders or deposits are solicited under the plan. Part II is an amendment of part I and as such shall become effective on such date as the Commission may determine, having due regard to the public interest and the protection of investors.

In the event that a registrant is exempted from the necessity for filing Part I, he may nevertheless file Part II.

Before the issuance of the securities provided in the plan of readjustment or reorganization. Form E–1 (17 CFR 239.8) is to be filed by the issuer of such securities, unless exempted from the necessity of such filing by the act.

§ 239.7 Form D–1A, for certificates of deposit issued by issuer of securities called for deposit. This form is to be used only where the issuer of the certificates of deposit is the original issuer of the securities called for deposit, and only if the certificates of deposit are issued in connection with a plan of reorganization or readjustment which involves the issue of new securities to the holders of certificates of deposit.

§ 239.8 Form E–1, for securities in reorganization. This form is to be used to register securities (including contracts of guaranty but excepting voting trust certificates, certificates of deposit, and certificates of interest or shares in unincorporated investment trusts of the fixed or restricted management type not having a board of directors or a board of persons performing similar functions, but having a depositor or sponsor) sold or modified in the course of a reorganization.

The "Rules and Instructions Accompanying Form E–1" contain the following definition of the term "reorganization":

As used in these rules and the accompanying instructions:

(1) The term "reorganization" includes any transaction involving:

(a) A readjustment by modification of the terms of securities by agreement; or

(b) A readjustment by the exchange of securities by the issuer thereof for others of its securities; or

(c) The exchange of securities by the issuer thereof for securities of another issuer; or

(d) The acquisition of assets of a person, directly or indirectly, partly or wholly, in consideration of securities distributed or to be distributed as part of the same transaction directly or indirectly to holders of securities issued by such person or secured by assets of such person; or

(c) The registrant is not in insolvency proceedings and, if it has been in insolvency proceedings, at least three fiscal years have elapsed since such proceedings were terminated:

Provided, however, That this form shall not be used for securities of insurance or investment companies, securities to be issued under an indenture required to be qualified under the Trust Indenture Act of 1939, or securities of corporations for which form S–3 (17 CFR, 239.13) is authorized.

PART 200—ORGANIZATION AND FUNCTIONS

Sec.
200.1 Creation and authority.
200.2 Offices.
200.3 Organization.
200.4 Functions.
200.5 Availability of information.

§ 200.1 Creation and authority. The United States Tariff Commission was created by Act of Congress approved September 8, 1916 (39 Stat. 795) for the purpose of supplying the Congress and the President with information regarding the position of the United States industries in competition with imports, regarding the administration and operation of the United States customs laws, and regarding commercial policies of foreign countries. The Tariff Act of 1922 (42 Stat. 858) increased its functions by providing for investigation and report by the Tariff Commission before action by the President under the authority given him by that Act to change duties when found necessary to equalize differences in costs of production in the United States and foreign countries and also before action by him embargoing imports pursuant to the provision declaring unfair methods of competition in the import trade to be unlawful. Title III, Part II of the Tariff Act of 1930 (46 Stat. 696; 19 U. S. C. 1330) provided for a reorganization of the Tariff Commission and reenacted substantially all the previous provisions regarding its powers and duties. The Trade Agreements Act of June 12, 1934 (48 Stat. 943; 19 U. S. C. 1351–54) names the Commission as one of the advisory agencies in the negotiation of reciprocal trade agreements. The Agricultural Adjustment Act (of 1933), as amended (7 U. S. C. 624), designates the Tariff Commission as the agency to conduct investigations to determine whether imports are interfering with certain agricultural programs undertaken by the Government. The Philippine Trade Act of 1946 (Public Law 371, 79th Cong.) imposes upon the Tariff Commission the function of conducting investigations and reporting to the President in connection with the administration of the provisions of that act respecting quotas on imports of Philippine articles.

§ 200.2 Offices. The main offices of the United States Tariff Commission are located in the Tariff Commission Building, E Street between 7th and 8th Streets, N. W., Washington 25, D. C. Telephone: National 3947, Branch 2. The only field office of the Commission is located at Room 513, Customhouse, New York 4, N. Y. Telephone: Whitehall 4–4300.

§ 200.3 Organization—(a) The Commission. The full Commission consists of six members, appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate for terms of 6 years each, one term expiring each year. The law provides that not more than three commissioners may be of the same political party. The Chairman and Vice Chairman are designated by the President annually from the membership of the Commission.

§ 200.4 Functions—(a) Investigations and reports under general powers. Under its general powers (section 332, Tariff Act of 1930; 46 Stat. 698; 19 U. S. C. 1332) the Commission, on its own initiative, investigates and makes reports on the following matters:

(1) The administration and operation of the customs laws of the United States and the fiscal and industrial effects of those laws.

(2) The forms of duty (ad valorem, specific, and compound) and the relations between the rates of duty on raw materials and on finished or partly finished products.

(3) Competition between United States and foreign industries in the United States markets, including such matters as the ratio of imports to domestic production and consumption, the comparability of imported and domestic products, and the differences in prices and in costs of production here and abroad.

(4) The trade and trade policies of foreign countries, the organization of the economies of foreign countries, their commercial treaties and agreements, and foreign trade controls.

(b) Investigations requested by the President and Congress. The Commission makes special investigations when requested by the President, by either or both Houses of Congress, or by Congressional Committees, particularly by the Committee on Finance of the Senate and the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives. These investigations are conducted under the Commission's general powers.

(c) Investigations under the flexible tariff provision. Under section 336 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (46 Stat. 701; 19 U. S. C. 1336), the Commission investigates the differences in costs of production of foreign articles and of like or similar articles produced in the United States; it reports its findings to the President, who is authorized by law to increase or decrease statutory rates of duty in accordance with the Commission's findings by not more than 50 per centum.

NOTE: The provisions of section 336 of the Tariff Act of 1930 may not be applied to any article with respect to the importation of which into the United States a foreign trade agreement has been concluded under the Trade Agreements Act of 1934, as amended. (Sec. 2 (a), 48 Stat. 944; 19 U. S. C. 1352 (a)).

(d) Unfair practice in import trade. Under section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (46 Stat. 703; 54 Stat. 724; 19 U. S. C. 1337, 1337a) the Commission investigates allegations of unfair methods of competition and unfair acts in the importation into or in the sale of imported articles in the United States, and reports its findings to the President, who may order the exclusion of the articles from entry into the United States if the existence of unfair practices is established.

(e) Discrimination by foreign countries against American commerce. It is the duty of the Commission to ascertain, and at all times to be informed regarding discriminations by foreign countries against the commerce of the United States, and to bring such practices to the attention of the President, who may take specified actions in such cases (46 Stat. 704; 19 U. S. C. 1338).

(f) Negotiation of foreign trade agreements. The Trade Agreements Act of June 12, 1934 (Sec. 4, 48 Stat. 945; 19 U. S. C., Sup. 1354) designates the Tariff Commission as a source of information and advice to the President in the negotiation of foreign trade agreements made under that act. The Commission's special function with respect to these agreements is to supply the fullest possible information regarding articles with respect to which action by the United States is being considered in the course of negotiations. In order to perform its function effectively, the Commission is represented on the various committees of the trade agreements organization, including the Committee for Reciprocity Information. (See Chapter III of this title.)

(g) Action to safeguard agricultural programs. When directed by the President, the Commission investigates whether articles are being or are practically certain to be imported into the United States under such conditions and in such quantities as to render ineffective or to interfere materially with certain benefits provided by law for agriculture. If, after the Commission's investigation and report, the President finds the existence of such facts, he may impose, within certain restrictions, fees or quantitative limitations on the importation of articles under consideration (7 U. S. C. 624).

(h) Import quotas on Philippine articles. Section 504 of the Philippine Trade Act of 1946 (Pub. Law 371, 79th Cong.) designates the Tariff Commission as the agency to investigate the effect of competition between imports of Philippine articles (not subject to quota restriction under Part 2 of Title II of the Act) and like domestic articles; the Commission reports to the President regarding the necessity under the Act for the imposition by him of import quotas on such Philippine articles.

(i) Cooperation with other government agencies. Under section 334 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (46 Stat. 700; 19 U. S. C. 1334), the Commission is required to cooperate with other Government agencies. Under this provision assistance is rendered, insofar as practicable, to those Government agencies requesting it.

(j) Analysis of import invoices. To carry on properly its work of acquiring basic factual information on the import trade, the Commission makes extensive studies of invoices and other import records, and primarily in connection with this work maintains an office at the Customhouse in New York City.

§ 200.5 Availability of information—(a) In general. Information concerning the activities, reports, and publications of the Tariff Commission is available to the public upon application, in writing or in person, to the Secretary of the Commission, Washington 25, D. Mimeographed, multilithed, and other publications produced within the office of the Tariff Commission are available to the public by application to the Secretary.

(b) Mailing lists. Mailing lists by various categories are maintained by the Commission for the purpose of sending notices to interested parties when new publications are ready for issue. Interested parties may apply to the Secretary for inclusion in such lists by a statement showing their interest and desire to receive such notices.

(c) Public announcements. Through the medium of statements to the public press the Commission announces new activities, formal investigations, and the issuance of reports, and other matters of official character of interest to the public. These appear generally in the publication Foreign Commerce Weekly of the United States Department of Commerce, as well as in various trade journals. Copies of these notices are sent to persons known to the Commission to have an interest in the subject matter, and to individuals and organizations who have requested notification in connection with the subject matter of such notices. Formal notices are also posted on the bulletin boards of the Tariff Commission at its main office in Washington, D. C., and on those of its field office, Room 513, Courthouse, New York City. S. C. 624), and to investigations under section 504 of the Philippine Trade Act of 1946 (Public Law 371, 79th Cong.). Rules having specific application to investigations under sections 336 and 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930, under section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, and under section 504 of the Philippine Trade Act, respectively, appear separately in parts 202 to 205, inclusive, of this chapter. In case of inconsistency between a rule of general application appearing in part 201 and a rule of special application in the other parts mentioned, the rule in parts 202 to 205 is controlling. No rules governing investigations under section 338 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (46 Stat. 704; 19 U. S. C. 1338) are issued because such investigations, which concern questions of possible discrimination by foreign countries against the commerce of the United States, are of a nature requiring their conduct under cover of secrecy.

§ 201.2 Exercise of powers. The Commission may meet and exercise all its powers at any place and may designate any of its members or any duly authorized agent or agents to prosecute any inquiry necessary to its duties.

§ 201.3 Quorum. A majority of the Commissioners in office shall constitute a quorum.

§ 201.4 Suspension of rules. In an emergency or when in the judgment of the Commission the public interest requires it, the Commission may modify or suspend any of its rules of practice and procedure except such details of procedure as are expressly required by law. Whenever feasible, public notice of such suspension will be given.

§ 20..5 Matters of official record available to the public. The following information and reports may be inspected by persons concerned, on request to the Secretary, either in the Tariff Commission Building, Washington 25, D. C., or if requested, in the New York office of the Tariff Commission, Room 513, Customhouse, New York City 4, N. Y.

(a) Applications for investigations; complaints of unfair practices in import trade; answers and other documents filed in opposition to such applications or complaints.

(b) Notices concerning investigations, including notices of institution of investigations, of hearings, and of disposition of investigations.

(c) Transcripts of testimony taken and exhibits (except exhibits accepted in confidence) submitted at hearings.

(d) Reports to the President on which the President has taken action.

(e) Reports made to either or both Houses of Congress or to Committees of Congress, after release by the body concerned.

(f) Reports and other documents issued for general distribution.

§ 201.6 Confidential information. (a) The following information and reports are held to be confidential for good cause found and are not available to public inspection:

(1) Reports to the President which have not been acted upon by the President.

(2) Reports made to either or both Houses of Congress or to Committees of Congress which have not been released by the body concerned.

(3) Reports containing confidential information, and reports prepared for the confidential use of other Government agencies.

(4) Trade secrets and processes within the meaning of section 325 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (46 Stat. 701; 19 U. S. C. 1335).

(5) Information accepted by the Commission in confidence and confidential information regarding the operations of individuals and of individual concerns.

(b) Acceptance of information in confidence. Much of the data obtained in Commission investigations is obtained with the understanding that it will not be used so as to disclose confidential information regarding the operation of individuals or of individual concerns. All information desired to be treated as confidential, when submitted to the Commission in connection with applications for investigations, or with complaints of unfair trade practices, or in the course of public hearings, should be submitted on separate pages clearly marked "Confidential." The determination regarding the confidential character of any information received or obtained by the Commission in connection with any matter under its jurisdiction, is within the discretion of the Commission.

§ 201.7 Methods employed in obtaining information—(a) Questionnaires, correspondence, and field work. In obtaining information necessary to carry out its functions and duties, the Commission may employ any means authorized by law. It is the practice of the Commission to obtain much of its information through the use of questionnaires and correspondence, and through field work by duly authorized members of the Commission's staff who interview such manufacturers, farmers, distributors, importers, representatives of labor, consumers, and others, as may be necessary to obtain the required information. Official requests for information required by the Commission are made either in writing or orally, and responses are received either in writing or orally, depending upon the nature of the information requested and the use to be made of it.

(b) Informal conferences. The Commission encourages informal conferences either with members of the Commission or its staff, in all matters concerning its activities. Such conferences can be arranged by addressing a request to the Secretary of the Commission at its office in the Tariff Commission Building, Washington 25, D. C., stating the subject matter of the proposed conference and the reasons for the request.

(c) Formal hearings. In formal proceedings, the Commission obtains information from the evidence presented at hearings as well as through independent investigation by the Commission and its staff of experts.

§ 201.8 Applications for investigation under section 336, Tariff Act of 1930, and under section 504 of the Philippine Trade Act of 1946, and complaints under section 337, Tariff Act of 1930. (a) All applications for investigations under sections 336 of the Tariff Act of 1930 or under section 504 of the Philippine Trade Act of 1946,[1] and complaints under section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930, must be filed with the Secretary, United States Tariff Commission, Washington 25, D. C. However, requests for information concerning such matters may be filed with the New York office as well as with the Washington office.

(b) Receipt by the Commission of an application for investigation or of a complaint properly filed will be acknowledged by the Secretary of the Commission, and public notice of such receipt will be posted at the principal office of the Commission in Washington, D. C., and at its New York office, and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, the weekly Treasury Decisions of the Treasury Department, and in the Foreign Commerce Weekly of the Department of Commerce. This public notice will set forth the name or description of the commodity concerned, the date of receipt, the purpose of the application or complaint, and the name of the applicant or complainant. Similar public notice will be given regarding the withdrawal or dismissal of applications or complaints. Copies of the notices referred to in this paragraph will be mailed to all persons named in the application or complaint concerned.

(c) From the time of posting notice of the receipt of an application or of a complaint, such application or complaint, except for confidential material, will be made available for public inspection at the office of the Commission in Washington, D. C., where it may be read and copied by persons interested.

(d) Applications and complaints may be withdrawn as a matter of course at any time before an investigation pursuant thereto has been ordered by the Commission, but, even if an application or complaint shall have been withdrawn, the Commission may order an investigation if in its judgment the public interest so requires. The Commission may also in special cases and for adequate cause allow the withdrawal of an application or complaint after an investigation has been ordered, but the investigation may be continued if deemed by the Commission to be in the public interest. Investigations may be terminated short of formal completion when, in the judgment of the Commission, the public interest so requires.

(e) The Commission will notify the applicant or complainant of its decision to order or not to order the investigation requested. In reaching its decision, the Commission will take into consideration the information furnished by the applicant or complainant, the information assembled by its staff, and the information furnished by other persons either in favor of or opposed to the institution of an investigation.

§ 201.9 Scope of investigation. In ordering an investigation, the Commission will not be confined to the subject matter of an application or a complaint but may broaden, limit, or modify the scope of the investigation.

§ 201.10 Public notice of investigations. Public notice will be given of every investigation ordered by the Commission under sections 336 and 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930, under section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act (of 1933), as amended, and under section 504 of the Philippine Trade Act of 1946, by posting a copy of the notice at the principal office of the Commission at Washington, D. C., and at its office in New York City; by publishing a copy of the notice in Treasury Decisions and in the FEDERAL REGISTER; and by an announcement regarding the notice in "Foreign Commerce Weekly." Subsequent notices will be given in the same manner. Copies of notices will also be sent to press associations, trade and similar organizations of producers, and to importers known to the Commission to have an interest in the subject matter of the investigation.

§ 201.11 Public hearings. (a) Hearings are required by law only in the case of investigations under section 336 and 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930, under section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, and under section 504 of the Philippine Trade Act of 1946. No public hearing is required in general investigations under section 332 of the Tariff Act of 1930; however, when determined by the Commission to be appropriate and feasible, hearings will be held in such investigations.

(b) Public notice will be given of the time and place set for all hearings, in the same manner that notice is given of an order instituting an investigation. Announcement of hearing will ordinarily be made 30 days in advance of the date set.

(c) Hearings will be conducted in accordance with the rules set forth in § 201.14.

§ 201.12 Appearances. (a) Any person showing to the satisfaction of the Commission an interest in the subject matter of an investigation may enter an appearance in such investigation, either in person or by representative, at any time before the close of the public hearing relating to the matter involved. Persons participating as witnesses only are not expected to enter appearances.

(b) Requests to enter an appearance shall be filed in writing with the Secretary of the Commission at its office in Washington, D. C., or at any other place where a hearing is held. Attorneys or agents desiring to appear for any interested person or persons shall file written notice to that effect.

(c) No register of attorneys or agents who may practice before the Commission is maintained. No application for admission to practice is required. Any person desiring to appear as attorney or agent before the Commission may be required to show to the satisfaction of the Commission his acceptability in that capacity. Any attorney or agent practicing before the Commission, or desiring so to practice, may for good cause shown be suspended or disbarred from practicing before the Commission, but only after he has been accorded an opportunity to be heard in the matter.

(d) No former officer or employee of the Commission who has, as such officer or employee, given personal consideration to an investigation (including preliminary inquiries prior to the institution of an investigation) shall be eligible to appear as attorney or agent before the Commission in such investigation. No former officer or employee of the Commission shall be eligible to appear as attorney or agent before the Commission within 2 years after the termination of such employment unless he has first obtained written consent from the Commission.

§ 201.13 Rehearings, additional hearings, postponements, continuances, and extensions of time. The Commission may in its discretion for good cause shown grant rehearings, additional hearings, postponements, or continuances of hearings, or extend the time for doing any act required by or pursuant to these rules. Motions or requests for postponements or extensions of time must be filed at least 10 days in advance of the time previously prescribed. Motions for additional hearing or rehearing must be filed within a reasonable time after the Commission's decision in the particular matter. The Commission may on its own motion order such rehearings, additional hearings, postponements, or continuances of hearings as it may deem necessary for a full presentation of the facts in any investigation.

§ 201.14 Conduct of public hearings. (a) Hearings are conducted by one or more Commissioners, and the record shall be presented for the consideration of the Commission.

(b) Parties interested may appear at public hearings, either in person or by representative, and produce, under oath, evidence relevant and material to the subject matter of the investigation. Publications of the United States Government, particularly reports of the Tariff Commission, need not be offered in evidence because the Commission will take notice of them as public documents. Reference may be made to a public document by its title and particular page.

CROSS REFERENCE: For rule regarding submission of confidential information, see § 201.6 (b).

(c) After offering evidence, witnesses may be questioned under the direction of the Commission by any member of the Commission, or by any agent designated by the Commission, or by any person who has entered an appearance, for the purpose of assisting the Commission in obtaining the material facts with respect to the subject matter of the investigation.

(d) Evidence, oral or written, submitted at hearings, will upon the order of the Commission be subject to verification from the books, papers, and records of the parties submitting the same and from any other available sources.

(e) All hearings are stenographically reported. The Commission does not distribute transcripts of the records of such hearings. Parties interested may inspect them at the Commission's office in Washington, D. C., or purchase them from the official reporter.

§ 201.15 Witnesses and subpenas. (a) Unless otherwise ordered by the Commission, witnesses shall be examined orally.

(b) The attendance of witnesses and the production of documentary evidence may be required from any place in the United States at any designated place of hearing.

(c) Any member of the Commission may sign subpenas, and members and agents of the Commission, when authorized by the Commission, may administer oaths and affirmations, examine witnesses, take testimony, and receive evidence.

§ 201.16 Witness fees and mileage. (a) Witnesses summoned before the Commission shall be paid the same fees and mileage that are paid witnesses in the courts of the United States, and witnesses whose depositions are taken and the persons taking them, except employees of the Commission, shall severally be entitled to the same fees and mileage as are paid for like service in the courts of the United States.

(b) When witnesses are summoned or depositions are taken at the request of a party interested, such party shall bear all expenses involved.

§ 201.17 Depositions. (a) The Commission may order testimony to be taken by deposition at any stage of an investigation. Depositions may be taken before any person having power to administer oaths and designated by the Commission. Such testimony shall be reduced to writing by the person taking the deposition, or under his direction, and shall then be subscribed by the deponent and certified in the usual manner by the person taking the deposition. After the deposition has been so certified it shall, together with a copy thereof made by such person or under his direction, be forwarded under seal to the Secretary of the Commission, Washington 25, D. C., and shall constitute a part of the record in such investigation. A sufficient number of additional copies of depositions must be furnished so that testimony so produced will be available to parties interested.

(b) Briefs of the evidence given by deposition and arguments thereon may be filed in the same manner as briefs of testimony given at a public hearing.

(c) Any person may be compelled to appear and depose and to produce documentary evidence under this section in the same manner that witnesses may be compelled to appear and testify and produce documentary evidence before the Commission.

CROSS REFERENCE: For provision regarding expenses, see § 201.16 (b).

§ 201.18 Oral argument. Oral argument may, in the discretion of the Commission, be heard upon the conclusion of the testimony in a hearing. The Commission will determine in each instance the time to be allowed for argument and the allocation thereof to the parties interested.

§ 201.19 Service of process. (a) Except when service by other methods shall be specifically ordered by the Commission, processes of the Commission, service of which is required by law or by the Commission's rules, shall be served by the Secretary of the Commission by mailing a copy thereof, registered, to the person to be served, or to a member of the partnership to be served, or to the president, secretary, or other executive officer or a director of the corporation to be served. Complaints and findings under section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930 shall be similarly served.

(b) When service cannot be accomplished by registered mail or whenever the Commission shall so direct, processes of the Commission may be served by anyone duly authorized by a Commissioner (1) by delivering a copy of the document to the person to be served, or to a member of the partnership to be served, or to the president, secretary, or other executive officer or a director of the corporation to be served; or (2) by leaving a copy thereof at the principal office of such person, partnership, or corporation.

(c) The return post office receipt for such processes, registered and mailed as aforesaid, or the verified return by the person serving such processes, setting forth the maner of said service, shall be proof of the service of the document.

§ 201.20 Authority to make decisions not delegated. (a) Authority to interpret the laws applying to the Tariff Commission and the rules adopted thereunder is retained in the Commission itself.

(b) Authority to make findings, recommendations, and reports authorized by law is retained in the Commission itself.

PART 202—RULES RESPECTING INVESTIGATIONS AS TO COSTS OF PRODUCTION UNDER SECTION 336

Sec.
202.1 Applicability of rules under section 336.
202.2 Applications.
202.3 Type of information to be developed at hearing.
202.4 Briefs.
202.5 Reports.

§ 202.1 Applicability of rules under section 336. The rules under part 202 of this chapter are specifically applicable to investigations for the purposes of section 336 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (46 Stat. 701; 19 U. S. C. 1336), and apply in addition to the pertinent rules of general application set forth in part 201 of this chapter.

§ 202.2 Applications. (a) Applications for an investigation for the purposes of section 336 may be made by any person, partnership, association, or corporation.

(b) Applications for investigation should be typewritten or printed and must be submitted in duplicate but need not be drawn in any particular form and need not be under oath. Applications must be signed by or on behalf of the applicant and should state the name, address, and nature of business of the applicant.

(c) Applications must clearly state that they are requests for investigations and must name or describe the commodity concerning which an investigation is sought. They should also refer to the tariff provision or provisions applicable to such commodity and should state whether an increase or a decrease in the rate of duty is sought.

(d) The applicant must file with his application such supporting information as may be in his possession. The filing of such information is required to aid the Commission in determining whether to order the investigation, and does not render unnecessary the investigation itself. As far as practicable, information of the character indicated below should be furnished:

(1) Comparability of the domestic and foreign articles and the degree of competition between them.

(2) Trend of domestic production and sales and trend of imports.

(3) Trend of cost of production and prices in recent years.

(4) Evidence of difference between domestic and foreign costs of production of the articles involved. (When considered with reference to section 336, the term "cost of production" includes transportation costs and other costs incident to the delivery of the articles to the principal market or markets of the United States.)

(5) Areas of greatest competition between the imported and domestic products and the principal market or markets in the United States.

(6) Other relevant factors that constitute, in the opinion of the applicant, an advantage or disadvantage in competition, and any other information which the applicant believes the Commission should consider.

CROSS REFERENCE: For rule regarding submission of confidential information, see § 201.6 (b).

§ 202.3 Type of information to be developed at hearing. (a) Without excluding other factors, but with a view to assisting parties interested to present information necessary for the formulation of findings required by the statute, the Commission will expect attention in the hearing to be concentrated upon facts relating to: (1) The competitive strength of the foreign and domestic articles in the markets of the United States.

(2) The degree of likeness or similarity between grades, classes, and price groups of the American product and the imported article.

(3) Costs of production and importation. Statements of average cost of production, domestic and, so far as known, foreign, may be submitted subject to verification and review in the Commission's investigation. Such statements should include not only the direct costs for materials and labor, commonly termed prime cost, but also indirect costs such as indirect labor, overhead factory expenses, fixed charges, the portion of general and administrative expense chargeable to manufacture, interest on investment equity, and transportation to markets. For the foreign product the expenses (other than duties) incident to importation are also important. Any information which may be available bearing on the general levels of domestic and foreign costs of production, the differentials between domestic and foreign producers as to particular elements of cost, and the extent to which invoice or wholesale prices are reliable evidence of foreign costs, will be pertinent.

(4) Other significent advantages or disadvantages in competition.

CROSS REFERENCE: For rule regarding submission of confidential information, see § 201.6 (b).

(b) The Commission also seeks information to determine: (1) Principal competing country. (2) Principal American market or markets. (3) Representative period of time for cost inquiry.

(c) Finally, parties interested appearing at public hearings are expected to present definite information rather than generalities and conjectures.

CROSS REFERENCE: For rules regarding public notice of investigation and hearings, see §§ 201.10, 201.11.

§ 202.4 Briefs. Briefs of the evidence produced at the hearing and arguments thereon may be presented to the Commission by parties interested who have entered an appearance. Unless otherwise ordered, 10 clear copies typed, mimeographed, multigraphed, or printed shall be filed with the Secretary of the Commission within 10 days after the close of the hearing.

CROSS REFERENCE: For rules regarding briefs of evidence given by deposition, see § 201.17 (b).

§ 202.5 Reports. After the completion of its investigation, the Commission will incorporate its findings in a report and the report will be transmitted to the President.

PART 203—RULES RESPECTING INVESTIGATIONS AS TO UNFAIR PRACTICES IN IMPORT TRADE UNDER SECTION 337

Sec.
203.1 Applicability of rules under section 337.
203.2 Complaints.

203.5 Briefs.
203.6 Record.
203.7 Findings.
203.8 Transmittal to President.

§ 203.1 Applicability of rules under section 337. The rules under part 203 of this chapter are specifically applicable to investigations for the purposes of section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (46 Stat. 703; 19 U. S. C. 1337), and apply in addition to the pertinent rules of general application set forth in part 201 of this chapter.

§ 203.2 Complaints. (a) Complaint alleging violation of section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930 may be made by any person, partnership, association, or corporation.

(b) Complaints must be made under oath but need not be drawn in any particular form. They must be signed by or on behalf of the complainant and must contain the name, address, and nature of business of the complainant and of the person or persons alleged to violate the law. The location of manufacturing plant or plants should also be stated. Complaints must contain a short and simple statement of the facts constituting the alleged unfair methods of competition or unfair acts. Specific instances of alleged unlawful importations or sales should be given.

(c) To the extent possible, complaints must also contain economic data concerning domestic production and distribution, imports and their distribution, and other pertinent facts such as will indicate: (1) That the domestic industry concerned is efficiently and economically operated and that it is being or is likely to be destroyed or substantially injured by the importations or sales in question; (2) that the alleged unlawful acts are preventing the establishment of an efficiently and economically operated domestic industry; or (3) that the alleged unlawful acts are having the effect or tendency to restrain or monopolize trade and commerce in the United States.

CROSS REFERENCE: For rule dealing with confidential information, see § 201.6.

(d) The complaint may be amended or further evidence submitted, in the discretion of the Commission, for good cause shown.

(e) Complainants must submit a clear copy of any complaint or amendment thereto for each person alleged to have violated the provisions of section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930, and the Commission may require the supplying of additional copies to be served on persons whose alleged violation of section 337 is called to its attention subsequent to the filing of the complaint. In addition, three copies must be submitted for the official use of the Commission.

§ 203.3 Preliminary inquiry. The Commission will make such preliminary inquiry as it shall deem necessary to determine (a) whether the institution of an investigation is warranted and (b) whether the issuance of a temporary order of exclusion from entry (if requested) under section 337 (f) of the Tariff Act of 1930 is warranted.

§ 203.4 Answers to complaints. After an investigation shall have been ordered, and not before, a copy of the complaint will be served by the Commission upon any owner, importer, or consignee, or the agent of any of them, alleged to violate the provisions of section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930, and such owner, importer, consignee, or agent, shall have 30 days, unless otherwise ordered, in which to make written answer under oath and to show cause, if any there be, why the provisions of section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930 should not be applied in respect of the alleged unfair methods of competition and unfair acts set forth in the complaint.

Copies of all answers will be served by the Commission upon complainants or upon their attorneys.

The Commission reserves the right to determine whether to send copies of complaints to respondents in foreign countries.

CROSS REFERENCE: For rule regarding public notice of investigation and hearings, see §§ 201.10, 201.11.

§ 203.5 Briefs (a) The Commission will fix a date on or before which briefs may be submitted, which date will be announced at the close of the hearing. Unless otherwise ordered, 20 clear copies typed, mimeographed, multigraphed, or printed shall be filed with the Secretary of the Commission.

(b) Application for extension of time for submitting briefs shall be filed in writing with the Secretary of the Commission at least 10 days before the date set for submitting briefs and shall set forth fully the reasons for such application.

(c) Copies of all briefs shall be served by the Commission upon all interested parties who have entered appearances or upon their representatives of record.

§ 203.6 Record. (a) A transcript of the testimony in an investigation, together with the findings and recommendations of the Commission, shall be the official record of the proceedings and findings in the investigation.

(b) Confidential material accompanying a complaint or an answer and exhibits presented at a hearing, but accepted by the Commission as confidential and so marked, will not be considered a part of the record sent to the court in the case of an appeal.

CROSS REFERENCE: For rule regarding submission of confidential information, see § 201.6 (b).

§ 203.7 Findings. (a) Upon the conclusion of an investigation, the Commission will formulate findings based thereon. When the findings show a violation of the statute, a copy of the findings certified by the Secretary under the seal of the Commission will be delivered or sent by registered mail promptly to the owner, importer, or consignee or to the agent of any of them, found to be guilty of such violation.

(b) Attention is directed to the provision of section 337 (c) authorizing rehearings by the Commission on questions of either fact or law and appeals by the importer or consignee within 60 days to the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals upon a question or questions of law only. If no appeal is filed within the time prescribed and no rehearing granted, or if appeal is filed or hearing granted and the Commission's findings are ultimately affirmed, the findings are then considered final.

§ 203.8 Transmittal to President. The final findings of the Commission will be transmitted with the record to the President for consideration and for action under the statute.

PART 205—RULES RESPECTING INVESTIGATIONS AS TO QUOTAS ON PHILIPPINE ARTICLES UNDER SECTION 504 OF THE PHILIPPINE TRADE ACT OF 1946

205.1 Applicability of rules under section 504, Philippine Trade Act of 1946.

205.3 Type of information to be developed at hearing.
205.4 Reports.

§ 205.1 Applicability of rules under section 504, Philippine Trade Act of 1946. The rules under part 205 are specifically applicable to investigations for the purposes of section 504 of the Philippine Trade Act of 1946 (Pub. Law 371, 79th Cong.) and apply in addition to the pertinent rules of general application set forth in part 201 of this chapter. Section 504 of the Philippine Trade Act does not apply to sugar, cordage, rice, cigars, scrap tobacco, stemmed and unstemmed filler tobacco, coconut oil, and pearl or shell buttons, on which quotas are imposed by part 2 of title II of the Act.

§ 205.2 Applications. (a) Applications for an investigation for the purpose of section 504 of the Philippine Trade Act may be made by any person, partnership, association, or corporation.

(2) Trend of domestic production and sales and trend of imports of the particular Philippine articles.

(5) Other significant factors concerning conditions of competition between the Philippine article and the like domestic article.

(b) Finally, parties appearing at public hearings are expected to present definite information rather than generalities and conjectures.

The report will be transmitted to the President and copies will be sent to each House of the Congress.

302.3 Publication.

§ 302.1 Public records. Matters of official record of TVA shall be made available to persons properly and directly concerned, excepting matters relating solely to the internal management of TVA and excepting information held confidential for good cause found.

(a) Scope. Subject to the limitations stated above, matters of official record of TVA include invitations for the procurement of material or for construction, bids, and awards; maps, plans and diagrams of reservoir areas and other real property held by TVA, including easements and rights of way; and final decisions of the Board of Directors in regard to proceedings under section 26a of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act (48 Stat. 58, 16 U. S. C. sec. 831, et seq.).

(b) Requests. Requests for such information shall be made in writing to the "Director of Information, Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tennessee," and shall contain sufficient information (1) to identify the matter of official record sought to be made available, and (2) the circumstances which make the person making the request one who is properly and directly concerned.

(c) Action upon requests. Upon receipt of such a request, TVA shall promptly determine whether the matter can be made available under the provisions of this Rule and shall notify the person making the request (1) where and when the matter can be made available, or (2) that the matter is not available, giving the reasons therefor.

(d) Manner of making available. TVA shall not be required to make and furnish copies of such matters, but shall fulfill its obligation by making the matter available for inspection; where, however, for reasons of convenience or necessity TVA determines that it is more practicable to fulfill its obligation by furnishing a copy of the matter, TVA may fulfill its obligation by furnishing a certified true copy thereof.

§ 302.2 Obtaining of approval for construction in the Tennessee River system. Under the provisions of section 26a of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act (48 Stat. 58, 16 U. S. C. sec. 831 et seq.), as amended, approval must be obtained from the Board of Directors of TVA prior to the construction, operation, or maintenance of any dam, appurtenant works, or other obstruction affecting navigation, flood control, or public lands or reservations along or in the Tennessee River or any of its tributaries. The Board of Directors established the following procedure to be followed in all cases where it is desired to obtain such approval.

(a) Request. Applicant shall make a formal request in writing, addressed to "Board of Directors, Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tennessee."

(b) Contents of request. The request shall be accompanied by four complete sets of the detailed plans for the construction, operation and maintenance of the structure desired to be built, which shall include: (1) Accurate maps showing the exact location where the structure is sought to be built, (2) detailed plans, in scale, of the structure sought to be erected, (3) detailed statements of the plans formulated for the maintenance and operation of the structure when erected, and (4) sufficient information to describe adequately all of the persons, corporations, organizations, agencies, or others who propose to erect such obstruction.

(c) Additional information. The Board, prior to acting on such requests, may require that it be furnished such further, other and more detailed information as it shall find necessary to its determination. The Board shall receive any additional information which applicant may submit in writing prior to the determination of the Board.

(d) Little Tennessee River; date of formal submission. As regards structures on the Little Tennesseee River, the date of formal submission shall be that date upon which applicant has complied in good faith with all of the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

No hearing has yet been requested. If and when application for a hearing is filed, the Board will prescribe rules for the conduct of that hearing. Upon the completion of the investigation, and hearing if any, the committee recommends approval or disapproval of the project to the Board. The Board then makes a final determination based upon the application and supporting papers, the report of investigation, the transcript of the testimony at any hearing which may be held, and the recommendation of the committee.

(f) Notification of final determination. The Board shall, so soon as a final determination has been arrived at, notify in writing all interested parties of record of such decision.

§ 302.3 Publication. Determinations of the Board or of TVA of matters required to be determined under the published rules of TVA, or otherwise, shall not be published. Such determinations will, however, be made available to persons properly and directly concerned upon their request in writing directed to "Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tennessee." Nothing in this section shall be interpreted, however, to require TVA to furnish information concerning matters relating solely to the internal management of TVA or information held confidential for good cause found.

8410.14 Forms.

§ 8410.1 Scope. This part states in general terms the procedures of the War Assets Administration for disposing of surplus personal property within the continental United States, its territories and possessions.

§ 8410.2 Types of property. Part 8301 [1] of this chapter states the types of personal property for which the War Assets Administration is designated as the disposal agency. In general, these types of personal property include capital and producers goods, consumer goods, aircraft and aircraft parts and components, and electronics and communications equipment.

§ 8410.3 Commercial levels of trade. Concurrent with or after suitable offering to priority claimants as hereinafter described in part 8412 of this chapter when property becomes available for commercial buyers, WAA ordinarily will offer such property for sale to the regular and normal channels of trade. Ultimate consumers, i. e., persons who buy for their own personal use, generally will not be permitted to participate in sales of surplus property. The following are included among those commercial purchasers who ordinarily may buy surplus property:

(a) Wholesalers and distributors. Buyers (including manufacturers) who normally perform functions of wholesalers or distributors, are permitted to purchase upon the making of certain certifications.

(b) Retailers. Buyers who normally sell to ultimate consumers are considered to be retailers. Manufacturers and wholesalers who own, operate, or control retail stores are required to buy as retailers for their own company—owned or controlled retail stores. Groups of stores operated on a chain system of buying must buy as retailers.

(c) Exporters. Commercial exporters and commercial purchasing representatives for foreign governments are permitted to buy surplus property not deemed to be in short supply as "wholesalers".

(d) Industrial and commercial buyers. In most cases industrial and commercial buyers may purchase surplus property. Industrial and commercial buyers are those engaged in or about to engage in a business or an industry in which it is a normal practice to purchase items similar to those on sale directly from manufacturers or wholesalers. The commercial or industrial buyer shall purchase as a retailer except when he purchases in wholesale quantities and at wholesale prices for incorporation in an end product. He shall certify that the purchase is for use and not for resale in its present form.

(e) Buying agents. Purchasing agents, resident buyers, commission men, and others who perform the purchasing functions for the principal they represent, are permitted to participate in sales: Provided, They present written authorization from the principal to act in such capacity and: Provided, They purchase in the name of the principal. These buyers shall be required to present written authorization from their principals to act in such capacity.

§ 8410.4 Public notice of sales. With due regard to the statutory requirements of public notice as hereinafter set forth in Part 8412 of this chapter, the Administrator gives such public notice as he deems necessary to advise priority claimants and commercial levels of trade of offerings of property for disposal. Newspapers and trade journals are common media used to give notice of prospective sales. Direct mailing of brochures, catalogues, and special listings are also used to disseminate information concerning proposed sales. Under certain circumstances radio may be used. Samples of surplus property may be displayed at War Assets Administration regional or district offices, at site-sales locations, warehouses, or other public places.

§ 8410.5 Methods of sale. Surplus property is offered for sale by the method most adaptable to the particular type of property being offered. The following methods of sale are utilized:

(a) Fixed price offering. This method of sale contemplates an offering at prices and terms established by the War Assets Administration prior to the offering. The fixed price method is preferred. Every effort is made to fill orders in such a manner as to provide equitable distribution among the groups ordering and in the areas solicited.

(b) Sealed bid offering. A sealed bid offering is an offering of surplus property under stated terms and conditions by which the prospective purchasers are required to submit a bid for a stated quantity at the highest price they wish to pay, by mail or telegram, prior to a specified time. The sale is made after a public opening of all written offers.

[1] Reg. 1 (11 F. R. 7970).

(c) Spot sale. This method contemplates an offering of commodities on the spot to the highest bidder, either at the location of the property or at any other suitable place where bidders after a reasonable opportunity of inspecting the property submit written offers to the salesman in charge. The spot sale method generally is used to dispose of residual merchandise after a fixed price sale to priority and nonpriority purchasers.

(d) Public auction sale. The auction sale contemplates the offer of commodities to the highest bidder, held at the location of the property, in which bidders make verbal offers to the auctioneer. It is used in lieu of a spot sale when deemed advisable.

(e) Site sale. This method of sale contemplates that the sale be conducted at a specified warehouse or site where surplus property is currently located. The sale may be made generally by the fixed price method but any method or combination of methods may be used in conformance with the requirements for each type of sale. It is used wherever possible, when large quantities of property in short supply are located at one site, or where there is a pressing need for warehousing space at a particular site. The site sale is usually conducted under the supervision and direction of the regional office in whose geographic sales area the activity is located. A field director, assisted when necessary by an assistant field director, is generally in charge of the sale at each site, and is the officer approving such sale. The field director's function is that of a subregional director. The regional director has the responsibility of appointing the field director.

(f) Negotiated sale. A negotiated sale is a sale of surplus property at prices and at terms arrived at by agreement between War Assets Administration and the purchaser. The negotiated sale of surplus property is, under ordinary circumstances, the only type of sale handled directly by the national office but is not reserved exclusively to the national office, i. e., such sales may be effected by the regional offices. This method of sale may be used when other methods of sale are not feasible or have proven unsuccessful.

§ 8410.6 Special types of disposal. In certain instances because of the nature of the property or the quantities involved, special disposal methods are employed. These special methods of disposal are:

(a) Industry agency agreements. An industry agency agreement is an agreement between WAA and the manufacturer, distributor, or dealer who handles the property involved, whereby the manufacturer, distributor or dealer undertakes the disposal of the commodities covered by the agreement. This method is used when it has been determined that the class of property involved is of such a highly specialized or technical nature that proper disposal can be made only by qualified specialists in the industry or when a major portion of the property in question requires servicing, rehabilitation, or conversion and this service can best be performed by a manufacturer of the particular kind of property.

(b) Approved dealer agreement. This is an agreement between WAA and an "approved dealer" under which the dealer is authorized to solicit purchases of the property covered by the agreement and is paid a commission on sales developed by him and approved by WAA. This method is used only when the nature of the property in question renders it suitable for an approved dealer agreement.

(c) Loan of property. Property for which there is no commercial use or demand may be loaned by War Assets Administration to private individuals or companies, or Government entities to permit experimentation and research in order to develop new uses for the property.

(d) Leases. (1) Surplus personal property may be leased by War Assets Administration for monetary considerations to an individual or concern or a Government entity for specified periods of time. Leases of personal property are limited to property which will not be substantially damaged or altered by extended use and which will be useful in the production of goods for the civilian economy, such as machine tools, production equipment, railroad equipment and other property as determined by the Administrator.

(2) Types of property suitable for lease to commercial users are equally available to non-commercial users. Regional directors may negotiate leases with State governments, their political subdivisions and instrumentalities and with eligible nonprofit institutions or instrumentalities upon request by such entities. Leases to none-commercial users may be negotiated for any period of time not to exceed the estimated useful life of the property involved and may include provisions for an option to buy.

(e) Donations. Property having no commercial value or property for which the cost of care, handling, and disposition will exceed the proceeds, is available for donation to agencies or institutions supported by the Federal Government or agencies or institutions supported by any State or local government, or to nonprofit, educational or charitable institutions.

§ 8410.7 General pricing methods—(a) Considerations on which price is based. Prices are based on the widest range of price data available. Information may be obtained from market surveys, manufacturers' catalogues, OPA ceiling or formulas such as the Clayton Formula and from previous sales by the War Assets Administration. Prices generally are f. o. b. common carrier (cars or trucks) but delivered prices and freight differentials may be established. Where fixed prices are applied, consideration will be given to location, condition, demand, packaging and packing, and special treatment applied for military requirements and the fact that the War Assets Administration is not a continuous source of supply in any line of goods. Each of the above represents a factor in establishing prices.

(b) Lot sizes. Minimum lot sizes are established to conform to normal commercial practices. Consideration is primarily given to the needs of small business in establishing lot sizes. Minimum lot sizes are so established as to move the property in volume and yet achieve a reasonable distribution of the quantity available. Maximum sizes are established to achieve equitable distribution when an offering of property is likely to be over-ordered.

(c) Price differentials. In many cases, in the fixed price method of sale, prices are set for two levels of trade—wholesale a d retail. The differential between these prices corresponds to that which is normal in the trade, and reflects the difference in the cost of the distributive functions performed. Large retailers who normally purchase in quantities far in excess of the small retailer and the small wholesaler, generally receive a discount of not more than five (5) per cent below the prices to small retailers. However, where it is the normal commercial practice, or where unusual circumstances exist, a uniform price may be established to all buyers regardless of the level of trade or quantity purchased. In the case of certain types of aircraft a discount is given for quantity purchases.

§ 8410.8 Consultation with industry and business organizations. The War Assets Administration avails itself of the experience and considers recommendations of business and industry through industry advisory committees. Industry advisory committees are usually composed of representatives of a particular trade of industry affected by the disposal program. Also, liaison is maintained by the national and regional offices of the War Assets Administration with business and veterans organizations, trade association and civic groups to disseminate information concerning surplus property disposal activities.

§ 8410.9 Terms and conditions of sale. In accordance with section 15 of the Surplus Property Act, as amended, War Assets Administration, as a disposal agency, is authorized to dispose of surplus property by sale, exchange, lease, or transfer for cash, credit or other property, with or without warranty, and upon such other terms and conditions as the agency deems proper: Provided, That in the case of raw materials, consumer goods and small tools, hardware, and non-assembled articles which may be used in the manufacture of more than one type of product, no extension of credit shall be for a period longer than three years.

(a) Standard conditions of sale. War Assets Administration generally offers surplus personal property subject to the following standard conditions of sale:

Standard conditions. The Sales Memorandum and these standard conditions of sale constitute the entire agreement between the parties with respect to the sale of the property specified in the Sales Memorandum. No variations from or modifications thereof, and no representations made or warranties given by any representative, agent or employee of seller in variance thereof shall be of any effect unless specified in writing and included in the Sales Memorandum. The standard conditions of sale are as follows:

(1) Unless credit is provided for in the Sales Memorandum, payment must be made in U. S. coins and currency, money order, certified check, cashier's check, check issued by a recognized finance company, traveler's check, U. S. Government check, the purchaser's own check, or draft drawn under irrevocable letter of credit prior to shipment of the property or its removal by purchaser.

(2) Seller makes no warranty, either express or implied, with respect to the property covered by the Sales Memorandum, except (a) seller warrants it has the right to transfer title to the property; and (b) seller warrants the accuracy of the description of the property: Provided, however, That if the property is described as new, seller warrants only that it has not been used. Seller's liability under this paragraph shall not exceed amount of purchase price.

(3) Sales are subject to such adjustment upon the request of the purchaser as the War Assets Administrator, or his authorized representative, in his sole discretion, may determine to be equitable under the circumstances, and any such determination shall be final. Requests for such adjustment will be considered only if filed in writing in the office of War Assets Administration responsible for the sale within fifteen (15) days (or such additional period as may be allowed in writing by the Administrator or such representative) after removal of the property by purchaser or delivery by a common carrier at the original destination.

(4) In case of error in the extension of prices, the unit price will govern.

(5) Unless otherwise specifically stated in the Sales Memorandum, sales are made f. o. b. common carrier (cars or trucks) and shipping expenses will be paid by purchaser. Specific shipping instructions from purchaser must be received by the regional office of War Assets Administration responsible for the sale within ten (10) days from the date of the Sales Memorandum; or if prior to the expiration of said ten day period purchaser notified seller that he will remove the property such removal must be effected within fifteen (15) days of the Sales Memorandum. Seller will not ship the property to more than one destination except in cases where such separate shipments each constitutes a carload, truckload or a minimum if established by War Assets Administration.

(6) If the property covered by Sales Memorandum is lost, damaged, or destroyed otherwise than by the fault or negligence of purchaser prior to removal or shipment during the applicable period prescribed in paragraph (5) above for removal or the issuance of shipping instructions, seller's liability shall, at election of seller, be limited to the replacement of the property lost, damaged, or destroyed or refunding any amount paid by purchaser therefor.

(7) If purchaser fails to issue shipping instructions or to remove the property within the applicable period prescribed in paragraph (5) above the risk of loss, damage or destruction of the property shall be upon purchaser. In the event of such failure purchaser shall, upon demand, pay to seller reasonable storage charges if the property is stored on premises owned or controlled by the Government, or seller may store the property elsewhere for the account and at the expense of purchaser. Seller may also, upon failure or in the event of default on the part of purchaser in making payment or otherwise, upon giving ten (10) days written notice to purchaser, rescind the sale, or resell the property for the account of purchaser upon such terms and conditions as it deems proper, and purchaser shall, upon demand, pay to seller the amount of all losses and expenses incurred by reason of such failure or default. The exercise by seller of one or more of the rights herein specified will not preclude seller from exercising any other rights it may have against purchaser.

(8) Seller shall not be liable for delay in shipping or loading the property covered by the Sales Memorandum due to causes beyond its control and without its fault or negligence, including without limitation, acts of God or the public enemy, acts or requests of any State or local governmental officer or agent purporting to act under authority, floods, fires, epidemics, quarantine restrictions, riots, sabotage, freight embargoes or failures, strikes, lock-outs and disputes with workmen.

(9) Seller reserves the right to cancel the contract of sale without liability in cases where purchaser is an agent for an undisclosed principal if such action is determined by the War Assets Administration in the public interest.

(10) No Member of, or Delegate to, Congress, or Resident Commissioner of the United States of America shall be admitted to any benefit that may arise therefrom unless it be made with a corporation for its general benefit.

(b) Qualified conditions of sale. In some instances these conditions of sale are modified to meet the needs of a particular sale or to meet the needs in the sale of a particular class of property. In the case of the sale of aircraft, sales are sold on an "as is, where-is" basis.

(c) Standard terms of sale. War Assets Administration reserves the following rights in connection with the sale of surplus property: (1) to reject any and all bids and offers; (2) to withdraw all or any part of the property included in the sale at any time prior to a contract of sale; and (3) to reserve the right to require a deposit.

(d) Submission to the Attorney General. In the case of any proposed disposal to private interests of personal property which cost the Government one million dollars or more a statement of such proposed disposal is submitted to the Attorney General as required by Section 20 of the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended.

§ 8410.10 Methods of payment. Unless the property offered is salable on credit and the purchaser has made prior arrangements for the extension of credit, payment shall be made before the release of the property in U. S. coins and currency, money order, certified check, cashier's check, check issued by a recognized finance company, traveler's check, U. S. Government check, the purchaser's own check, or draft drawn under irrevocable letter of credit. Cashiers may accept uncertified checks of business enterprises in payment for merchandise purchased. Uncertified checks of individuals other than individuals operating a business, may be accepted for small amounts.

§ 8410.11 Credit. Credit may be granted to purchasers of surplus property: Provided, The property is to be used for business purposes including professional and agricultural enterprises and not for private use. The applicant for credit must provide credit information and references similar to those provided for any business credit transaction. The following credit terms have been extended:

(a) Open accounts. On open accounts, payment is generally required thirty (30) days after release of the goods by the War Assets Administration.

(b) Installment plan. Where purchase is of surplus property classified as durable, and the property is to be used in a business and not for resale, installment credit may be given. A down payment and periodic payments normally are required.

(c) Special credit arrangements. Special credit arrangements may be made if the purchaser's credit needs require such arrangements.

(d) Credit for site and similar sales. Credit arrangements, when desired, should be made prior to attendance of a special type of sale, such as site and spot sales.

(e) Other credit terms. Credit terms may be granted in the installment sales of aircraft and sales of machinery by dealers' agents.

§ 8410.12 Insurance. Insurance coverage satisfactory to the Administration is required upon all personal property leased or sold on a purchase money mortgage or installment basis. The cost of insurance is borne by the lessee or purchaser. Generally, open policies, which automatically attach at the time of sale and continue so long as the Government retains an unsatisfied interest in the property, are used. Insurance coverage varies depending upon the method of the disposal transaction and the type of property involved as indicated below:

(a) Personal property other than motor vehicles or aircraft. Personal property other than motor vehicles or aircraft is insured against the perils of fire, lightning, windstorm, hail, explosion (except steam boiler or machinery explosion losses), aircraft or motor vehicle damage, smoke, riot, strike or civil commotion, vandalism and malicious mischief, collision or derailment of conveyance while in transit, earthquake and flood or water. If the property involved includes power plants or certain types of machinery, such as turbines, large fly wheels, etc., where an internal explosion factor is present, boiler or machinery explosion insurance on the conventional policy form is required in addition to the open policy coverage.

(b) Motor vehicles. Motor vehicles are insured against the exposures of fire, lightning, transportation perils, theft, windstorm, explosion, hail, earthquake, flood, riot or civil commotion, aircraft, and collision or upset ($50.00 deductible).

(c) Aircraft. The purchaser of aircraft is required to provide aircraft full insurance covering airplanes sold on an installment basis for a period of time not less than one (1) year. Coverage written on a component parts basis is not acceptable, unless that form applies only to the purchaser. Two methods of coverage are acceptable: (1) single interest coverage of the Government's interest under open policies obtained by War Assets Administration; and (2) dual interest coverage of the Government's and purchaser's interests obtained by the purchaser from underwriters acceptable to the Government.

§ 8410.13 Claims and adjustments. War Assets Administration may settle such claims or make such adjustments as may be permitted by and warranted under either express warranties or the so-called "equitable adjustment clauses" contained in sales contracts. Such adjustments may be allowed in discharge of probable legal obligations and to satisfy equitable rights occasioned without fault of the buyer. All claims must be submitted in writing, by or on behalf of the original purchaser, to the regional office responsible for the sale, within the time specified in the sales contract.

§ 8410.14 Forms. Because of the variance in circumstances and conditions of each disposal, forms used for purchasing surplus personal property have not been standardized for all types of sales. Representative forms which have proved satisfactory in applicable cases, such as offers to purchase, priority certifications, and credit applications, as well as complete information on personal property disposal, may be obtained from any War Assets Administration office.

Issued this 28th day of August 1946.

Administrator.

§ 8411.1 Scope. In disposing of surplus real property, the War Assets Administration performs a dual function: one function relates to the policy jurisdiction assigned under the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended and Executive Order 9689 in classifying and assigning surplus real property to the appropriate disposal agencies; and the other function relates to the disposal responsibilities of War Assets Administration as a designated disposal agency. This part outlines the procedures of War Assets Administration solely as an agency designated for the disposal of surplus real property.

§ 8411.2 Types of surplus real property for which War Assets Administration is the disposal agency. Pursuant to the provisions of WAA Regulation 1, Part 8301[1] of this chapter, War Assets Administration is designated the disposal agency for the following types of surplus real property.

(a) All industrial real property (including buildings and fixtures and real property which is suitable and equipped for owning operations) and land which the Administrator shall determine is essential to the use of industrial plants, factories, and similar structures and facilities;

(b) Railroads, including land, trackage, rights of way, structures and equipment used or useful in connection therewith;

(c) Pipelines and facilities used for transporting petroleum products or gas;

(d) Airport property (including buildings and fixtures) and land which the Administrator shall determine is essential to the use of such property;

(e) Power plants and facilities, power transmission lines, and rights of way, and land which the Administrator shall determine is essential to the use of such property;

(f) All structures and improvements which are to be disposed of for removal off site by demolition or otherwise;

(g) Marine industrial real property, including buildings and fixtures, such as shipyards, ship repair yards and marine terminals; and

(h) Real property normally assigned to another disposal agency, when the Administrator shall determine that designation of War Assets Administration will facilitate the disposal of the property.

§ 8411.3 Classification. By the provisions of Part 8301[1] of this chapter and orders issued thereunder, all declarations of surplus real property are made to the Administrator. Each such declaration is screened and classified to determine the highest and best use of the property and the disposal agency or agencies to which the property is to be assigned.

§ 8411.4 Priority claimants. The Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended, directs disposal agencies to grant a priority in the purchase of surplus real property to certain classes of purchasers. These classes of purchasers differ with the type of property being offered. The priority claimants and their status for each type of property under the disposal jurisdiction of War Assets Administration are as follows:

(a) Industrial and marine industrial real property. For industrial real property, including pipe-lines and facilities, railroads, and power plants and facilities and power transmission lines and rights of way, and marine industrial real property the sequence of priority is (1) Government agencies, (2) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation acquiring property for resale to purchasers which it considers to be small business under section 18 (e) of the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended, and (3) State or local governments.

(b) Airport property. For airport property the sequence of priority is (1) Government agencies, and (2) State and local governments.

(c) Non-industrial real property. When War Assets Administration is designated the disposal agency for any surplus non-industrial real property, it follows the sequence of priority set forth in section 23 of the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended, and Part 8305[2] of this chapter.

(d) Emergency housing. A special provision has been made to offer to Federal Public Housing Authority structures which may be suitable for emergency housing and which can be disposed of separately from the other realty.

§ 8411.5 Period allowed for exercise of priorities. The time allowed for the exercise of priorities varies for the different types of real property as follows:

(a) Industrial and marine industrial real property. A period of fifteen (15) days after the date on which priority notices are mailed, will be allowed for the exercise of a priority.

(b) Airport property. A period of thirty (30) days after the date on which priority notices are mailed will be allowed for the exercise of a priority.

(c) Non-industrial real property. The periods of time during which priority claimants wishing to acquire non-industrial real property may exercise their priority are set forth in Part 8305 of this chapter.

§ 8411.6 Public notice—(a) General. Public notice of the availability of surplus real property for sale is made by the use of legal publication advertising, newspaper, trade journal or other publication advertising, or through the mailing of letters, circulars, brochures, and such other media as may be deemed advisable. Such information usually includes a description of the property and its location and may include possible uses for which the property is adaptable.

(b) Notification of priority claimants. In addition to the public notice set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, Federal agencies, State and local governments, and former owners are notified by letter of the availability of surplus real property. Such letters may include a copy of the advertisement or the notice of availability.

§ 8411.7 Methods of disposal. Surplus real property is disposed of by the method which is deemed to be in the best interests of the United States. The following methods of disposal are generally used:

(a) Sale and transfer. The sale and transfer of surplus real property are preferred when such disposals will best meet the objectives of the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended.

(b) Lease. Surplus real property may be leased when it is determined that the best interests of the Government will be served by lease rather than by conveyance of the fee title of the particular property involved. In addition interim permits and revocable leases may be utilized to insure continuous utilization of a particular property pending final disposition. Where the property is of such size or where other factors intervene, portions of a particular property may be leased to different individuals under a multiple tenancy lease agreement or portions may be leased with other portions conveyed.

(c) Donations. Surplus real property is transferred without consideration only in those cases in which the property has no commercial value or the cost of care and handling and disposition would exceed the estimated proceeds of the sale thereof. Such transfers are only made to an agency of the Federal Government, any State or local government or to non-profit educational or charitable organizations.

(d) Abandonment. Surplus real property may be abandoned when it has been contaminated through military uses and the cost of reclamation would exceed the value recoverable by selling, lease or otherwise, or when utilization of such property would endanger life and health. In addition surplus real property may be abandoned when all other methods of disposal have been found to be impracticable.

§ 8411.8 Pricing. In general, surplus real property is sold at fixed prices to priority claimants and to non-priority purchasers at the highest bid or a negotiated price. Offers for the purchase or transfer of surplus real property are received in writing from prospective purchasers or priority claimants after notice of sale is first published. In the case of priority claimants, prices are determined in the following methods:

(a) Industrial real property. Prices at which surplus real property is sold or transferred to priority claimants are established at the fair value of such property. Fair value of the property is determined after impartial appraisal of the property by War Assets Administration or independent appraisers acting on behalf of War Assets Administration. Such appraisals are made on the basis of the highest and best use of the property at the time it is reported as surplus, regardless of its former character or use;

(b) Non-industrial real property. Government agencies may purchase non-industrial real property at the fair value as established in the same manner prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section. Prices for State and local governments, non-profit institutions and owner-operators are established at the current market value. Current market value is determined by appraisal of War Assets Administration or independent appraisers on behalf of War Assets Administration as the highest price the property will bring in terms of money if offered for sale in the open market with reasonable time to find a purchaser buying with knowledge of the uses and purposes to which the property is adapted and for which it is capable of being used. Prices for other classes of priority claimants are set forth in Part 8305 of this chapter.

(c) Airports. Airport property is sold to priority purchasers at a price which is substantially the same as the estimate of fair value except that a transfer without reimbursement to another Government agency may be made where authorized by law or disposal to any State or local Government may be made without a cash payment, in consideration of the acceptance by such State or local Government of the reservations, restrictions and conditions imposed by the Administrator.

§ 8411.9 Terms and conditions of sale.—(a) General. Because of the differing character of lots of surplus real property, terms of sale may vary according to the lots being offered. All surplus real property is offered subject to the right of War Assets Administration as a disposal agency to reject any or all bids or offers, to withdraw all or any part of the property prior to the completion of a sale and to require a deposit. Commercial buyers are required to show evidence of their financial responsibility and may be required to meet such conditions relating to the use of the property as the Administrator may deem necessary in the public interest.

(b) Conditions relating to the resale or use of surplus industrial real property. Each purchaser of surplus industrial real property must specify in writing that he is not buying the property for the purpose of reselling or leasing and that in no case will he resell or lease it within three years without first obtaining the written authorization of the Administrator. Purchasers buying on credit are required to agree that they will not resell or lease the property until final payment is made unless they obtain the prior written authorization of the Administrator. Upon the request of the owning agencies or any other interested Government agency, War Assets Administration requires the purchaser of a specific plant to enter an agreement to the effect that the facilities shall be continuously available for any future Government defense needs upon mutually acceptable terms. Such representation and agreements are contained in the instrument of transfer or lease.

(c) Methods of payment. Payment for surplus real property by commercial purchasers shall be made on a cash or credit basis. Unless prior arrangements for the extension of credit have been made, payment is required, before the release of the property, in currency or other negotiable instruments.

(d) Submission to the Attorney General. In the case of industrial real property or transportation property with a cost of one million dollars or more a complete statement of any proposed disposal to private interests is made available to the Attorney General as required by Section 20 of the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended.

§ 8411.10 Credit. Credit may be granted to purchasers of surplus real property when the property is to be used for business purposes and not for private use. The applicant for credit must provide credit information and references similar to those provided for any commercial credit transaction. When credit is extended, a down payment of twenty (20) percent of the full purchase price is required with the balance to be paid quarterly over a period not to exceed ten (10) years and with interest at an annual rate of four (4) percent on the unpaid balance.

§ 8411.11 Insurance. Insurance coverage satisfactory to the Administrator is required upon all real property leased or sold on a purchase money mortgage or installment basis. The cost of insurance is borne by the lessee or purchaser.

(a) Leases. All lessees are required to provide fire, and supplementary coverage for the full insurable value of all insurable property, and special public liability insurance coverage and boiler and machinery or automobile fire and theft (comprehensive) insurance if applicable. War Assets Administration as a disposal agency has made arrangements to continue the broad forms of fire and supplementary coverage and public liability insurance, with appropriate modifications which were made available by underwriters to the Defense Plant Corporation under its war time leasing program.

(b) Purchase money mortgage or installment sales. Fire and extended coverage insurance written in accordance with commercial practices is required covering all property and boiler and machinery coverage is required when applicable, such policies to bear appropriate loss payment clauses. War Assets Administration may also require that purchasers carry certain other insurance coverage, such as workmen's compensation and employees liability, public liability, use and occupancy, when failure to carry such coverage may otherwise jeopardize the purchasers financial responsibility.

§ 8411.12 Forms. Quit-claim deed forms have been prescribed by the Attorney General for the various jurisdictions. Standard forms prescribed by Title 41 of the U. S. Code, annotated, promulgated by the Procurement Division, U. S. Treasury Department, are used where applicable. In all other cases individual types of contracts are drafted for each specific type of case.

Issued this 28th day of August 1946.

§ 8412.1 Scope. The Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended, and regulations issued thereunder, Parts 8302[1] and 8314[2] of this chapter prescribe certain classes

[1] Reg. 1 (11 F. R. 7970).

[2] Reg. 5 (11 F. R. 7611, 7969).

[1] Reg. 2 issued Aug. 19, 1946.

[2] Reg. 14 (11 F. R. 6969).

of purchasers who are entitled to priority in their purchase of surplus property. This part outlines the procedures of War Assets Administration in effecting disposal of surplus personal property to priority claimants.

§ 8412.2 Sequence of general priority. The classes of purchasers entitled to priority in their purchase of surplus property and the sequence in which orders from each class will be filled are as follows:

(a) Federal agencies for their own use;

(b) Veterans for use in their own small business, professional or agricultural enterprise;

(c) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation buying for resale to small business;

(d) State and local governments, their political sub-divisions or instrumentalities for their legitimate needs; and,

(e) Eligible non-profit institutions, certified by the Federal Security Agency. This priority is prescribed by statute to the extent feasible and in the public interest and is subject to adjustment by the Administrator.

No priority status will be accorded claimants desiring to purchase in the status of a broker.

§ 8412.3 Special priority; set-asides for veterans. Pursuant to Pub. Law 635, 79th Congress, amending the Surplus Property Act, the Administrator is authorized to set aside or otherwise make available such quantities and types of any surplus personal property which he determines to be appropriate for the exclusive disposal to veterans for either their own personal use or to enable them to establish and maintain their own small business, professional, or agricultural enterprise. Items of surplus property both new and used are placed upon the "set-aside list" after consideration of the following factors:

(a) The item is in short supply;

(b) The foreseeable demand from veterans, based upon available data, exceeds the supply or supply likely to be available;

(c) The item is of such a character as to be readily adaptable to disposal in single units or quantities suitable for personal use; and

(d) Any other factors which make the selection advisable.

§ 8412.4 Over-riding priority. Orders from the following classes of buyers have precedence in the purchase of surplus property over all other priority claimants, set forth in §§ 8412.2 and 8412.3 of this part, in the order listed below:

(a) The Federal Public Housing Authority claiming property for use in the Veterans' Housing Program under authority of Public Law 292, 79th Congress, 1st session; [1]

(b) Holders of certificates or directives issued by the Civilian Production Administration under Priority Regulation 13 or holders of certificates issued by the National Housing Agency under Housing Expediter Priority Regulations 1, 2, and 3; and

(c) The armed forces.

§ 8412.5 Circumstances under which property may be disposed of without regard to priority claimants. Property may be disposed of without regard to priority claimants when:

(a) It must be disposed of immediately to prevent deterioration, spoilage, or to relieve critical storage requirements;

(b) When, upon a finding by the Secretary of Agriculture that farm production is impaired or threatened to be impaired, the Administrator shall, pursuant to the provisions of Part 8303 of this chapter, direct the disposal of trucks, machinery, or equipment (including farm supplies) to farmers or farmers' cooperatives;

(c) The cost of all similar items at one location is less than $300;

(d) The Administrator finds that disposal to priority claimants is impracticable or uneconomical;

(e) The property is not usable or safe for use by the consumer in its existing form without processing, reprocessing, reconditioning or repackaging; or,

(f) It has been determined that there is no demand from priority claimants.

§ 8412.6 Reserves of property not on the "set-aside list." Based upon estimates of the requirements of priority claimants, all or a portion of any type of surplus property may be reserved for sale specifically to such claimants during the period of time set forth in § 8412.7. Any portion of the surplus property not so reserved may be concurrently offered to non-priority purchasers.

§ 8412.7 Public notice and period during which property is held for priority claimants—(a) Public notice. Priority claimants will be notified of available surplus personal property by means of newspaper advertising, listings, special notices, brochures or other types of direct mail pieces, public advertisement, or by direct contact. Federal agencies will be notified in the manner prescribed before notification is made to any other class of priority claimants eligible to purchase the property.

(b) Period of time during which priority may be exercised. The Surplus Property Act of 1944 as amended and Part 8302 of this chapter prescribe the time requirements during which personal property will be offered to priority claimants and during which set-aside property shall be held for disposal to veterans. Within the time requirement so specified, the Administrator has determined that the following periods of time will be adequate to fulfill the requirements of specific priority claimants concerned: (1) types or quantities of property on the "set-aside list" will be available for exclusive sale to veterans during such time as they are on a "set-aside list"; (2) Federal agencies will be allowed ten (10) working days after notification to inspect and to purchase; (3) the minimum period for veterans purchasing non-set-aside items will be fifteen (15) days from the date of public notice of the availability of the property; (4) the Reconstruction Finance Corporation purchasing for small business will be allowed ten (10) working days after notification to inspect and to purchase, unless a shorter period of time is mutually agreed to by officials of War Assets Administration and Reconstruction Finance Corporation; (5) all other classes of priority claimants will be permitted a period of time which will normally not exceed five (5) days after public notice in which to place their orders.

§ 8412.8 Veterans—(a) Certification. A veteran desiring to acquire set-aside property, or to exercise his priority, shall apply to the nearest certifying office of WAA and shall furnish complete information regarding the property he desires. The veteran is required to furnish evidence of his status and to establish that the property applied for will be acquired for his own personal use, or to enable him to establish or maintain his own small business, professional or agricultural enterprise. The War Assets Administration issues an appropriate certificate to the veteran stating that he is entitled to purchase the types and quantities of property described in the certificate. The veteran is required to present the certificate to inspect and purchase the property for which he is certified.

(b) Maximum and minimum quantities. The WAA may establish maximum quantities of surplus property which may be acquired by veterans as a means of obtaining equitable distribution. When the supply of any type of surplus property offered exclusively for disposal to veterans is insufficient to meet the requirements of all eligible veterans, equitable distribution among such veterans will be made by filling orders in sequence of the dates of the certifications or by such other means as are deemed equitable.

§ 8412.9 Pricing. Prices at which surplus personal property is sold to priority claimants are generally established at the fair value of the property. Fair value shall not be greater than the lowest price at which the property is offered to any level of trade at the time of acquisition by the priority claimant.

(a) Exceptions. (1) Educational and public health institutions and instrumentalities are allowed a discount of forty (40) percent from fair value. (2) Buyers holding certificates issued by the Civilian Production Administration or the National Housing Agency will pay commercial prices.

Issued this 28th day of August 1946.

Administrator.

The following summary description of the new organization, is furnished for the information of all concerned.

§ 1.2 General. (a) The War Department and the Army were reorganized effective 0001, e. s. t. June 11, 1946 to provide under the Chief of Staff a War Department General and Special Staff; a ground force under a Commanding General, Army Ground Forces; an air force under a Commanding General, Army Air Forces; and Administrative and Technical Staffs and Services under their respective heads; all the headquarters in Washington, D. C., with the exception of the Army Ground Forces, which will establish its headquarters at Fort Monroe, Virginia; and in addition thereto, six army areas, the Military District of Washington, and such overseas departments, task forces, base commands, defense commands in theaters of operations, and other commands as the Secretary of War may find necessary. Charts A, B, and C illustrate the organization of the War Department, the Army Air Forces, and the Army Ground Forces.

(b) The following principles were applied in designing the organization of the War Department as illustrated on Chart A and described herein:

(1) The Army Air Forces was provided with the maximum degree of autonomy permitted by law without permitting the creation of unwarranted duplication in the functions of service, supply and administration.

(2) A simple and flexible organization with clear-cut command channels, to satisfy the requirements of economy and efficiency.

(3) A top organization of the War Department capable of carrying out the Chief of Staff's orders quickly and effectively. At the peak of this top organization is the War Department General Staff which must be the agency to deal with matters of high policy and high-level planning and which must also direct and supervise, to the end that orders and directives are issued and supervised to the necessary degree in their execution.

(4) The structure of the staff organization supporting the Chief of Staff and the Deputy Chief of Staff was made as simple as possible with a minimum of individuals habitually reporting direct to the Chief of Staff or his Deputy.

(5) Adequate organizational means was provided for carrying on the best possible research and development program and intelligence and counterintelligence activities, and for the elimination of unnecessary overlapping of activities of the War Department.

(6) The necessary degree of efficiency and vitality in the top echelons of the War Department are attained through the aggressive application of the principle of decentralization. Thus, no functions are performed at the staff level of the War Department which can be decentralized to the major commands, the Army areas, or the administrative and technical services without loss of adequate control by the General and Special Staffs.

(7) There is a single continuous command channel from top to bottom of the War Department organization.

(8) Direct contact and mutual arrangements within approved policies between major commands, staff divisions, and administrative and technical staffs and services are authorized and encouraged.

§ 1.3 Assignment of functions established by statute. (a) The functions, duties, and powers of the chiefs of the following arms are assigned to the Commanding General, Army Ground Forces: Infantry, Cavalry, Field Artillery, and Coast Artillery Corps (except those relating to procurement, storage, and issue).

§ 1.6 Chief of Staff. The Chief of Staff is the principal military adviser to the President and to the Secretary of War on the conduct of war and the principal military adviser and executive to the Secretary of War on the activities of the Military Establishment. The Chief of Staff has command of all components of the Army of the United States and of the operating forces comprising the Army Ground Forces, the Army Air Forces, the army areas, oversea departments, task forces, base commands, defense commands, commands in theaters of operations, and all other commands, and the related supply and service establishments of the Army, and is responsible to the Secretary of War for their use in war and plans and preparations for their readiness for war. The Chief of Staff, under the direction of the Secretary of War, is responsible for the coordination and direction of the War Department General and Special Staffs and the administrative and technical services.

§ 1.7 Chief of Public Information. The Chief of Public Information advises the Secretary of War and the Chief of Staff on matters of policy relating to public relations and information and coordinates the operations of the Public Relations Division, the Legislative and Liaison Division, and the Information and Education Division, War Department Special Staff.

§ 1.8 War Department General Staff. The War Department General Staff, under the direction of the Chief of Staff, is responsible for the development of the Army and insures the existence of a well-balanced and efficient military team. It is specifically charged with the duty of providing such broad basic policies and plans as will enable the Commanding Generals of the Army Ground Forces, the Army Air Forces, task forces, theaters of operations, oversea commands, and such other commands as may be established, and the heads of the administrative and technical services, to prepare and execute detailed programs. In addition, the General Staff assists the Chief of Staff by issuing in the name of the Secretary of War and the Chief of Staff, necessary directives to implement such plans and policies and supervises the execution of these directives. In performing its duties the General Staff follows the principle of decentralization to the fullest degree. No function is performed at the general or special staff level of the War Department which can be decentralized to the major commands, the army areas, or the administrative and technical services without loss of adequate control of operations by the General and Special Staffs. The War Department General Staff includes six divisions each under the immediate control of a director. Each director plans, directs, and supervises the execution of operations within the confines of his sphere of action. In carrying out their duties, the Directors of the six General Staff Divisions are guided by the following general principles:

(a) They plan, direct, coordinate, and supervise. They assist the Chief of Staff in getting things done, in addition to coordinating, planning, and policy-making on an Army-wide level.

(b) By means of direct contact with troops, they determine that orders, instructions and directions are being carried out as the Chief of Staff intends.

(c) They follow the principle of decentralization to the fullest degree. The War Department General Staff concerns itself primarily only with matters which must be considered on a War Department or Army-wide level. All other matters are decentralized down to the proper echelons of command for action or decision. In order for this to be done properly, adequate authority is delegated to responsible commanders and the heads of the administrative and technical services. Each director takes necessary action to indoctrinate each officer of his division with a thorough understanding of the duties, functions, responsibility, and authority of the various echelons of command in the Army.

(d) They act to minimize duplication. While observing the principle of decentralization, all general staff directors take appropriate action to minimize duplication and overlapping between the commands and services.

The aim is to provide the Army Air Forces with the maximum degree of autonomy permitted by law without permitting the creation of unwarranted duplication in the functions of service, supply, and administration.

He is responsible for the procurement of information and intelligence relating to the activities of individuals or agencies potentially or actually dangerous to the preservation of the military establishment within the zone of interior; for executing counterintelligence measures; and for the collection within the zone of interior of foreign positive intelligence. He is responsible for meeting intelligence requirements of the Army Ground Forces, the Army Air Forces, continental and oversea commands, and the administrative and technical services. As intelligence is a vital function of command, the commanding generals of the major commands and their subordinate units must have intelligence agencies adequate to meet their intelligence requirements. Operating under general coordination of the War Department, all intelligence agencies must mutually support and collaborate with each other to form a team serving their own, subordinate, and higher echelons. The Director of Intelligence is responsible for representing the War Department on intelligence and counterintelligence matters with other departments of the Government and with foreign governments.

Without vitiating the primary interests of other general staff directors in their respective fields of responsibility, he coordinates all policies and directives and changes thereto, including allocation of resources, affecting strategic, operational, and political matters relating to oversea and major commands. He estimates the current situation to determine military policy, objectives, and major elements of requirements and means. SECRETARY OF WAR'S DISABILITY REVIEW BOARD

§ 2.1 Secretary of War's Disability Review Board. The Secretary of War's Disability Review Board is an administrative agency, created within the War Department under authority of section 302, Title I, act of June 22, 1944, Public Law 346, 78th Congress, as amended by section 4, December 28, 1945, Public Law 268, 79th Congress, to review at the request of any officer retired or released from active service without pay for physical disability, pursuant to the decision of a retiring board or disposition board, the findings and decisions of such board. The board is charged with the duty, in cases within its jurisdiction, of ascertaining whether an applicant, requesting review, who was separated from the service or released to inactive service without pay, for physical disability, incurred such physical disability in line of duty or as an incident of service. The Board transmits its proceedings and decision, affirming or reversing the decision of the previous retiring board or disposition board to The Adjutant General for final action of the President, as provided in the statute. Such remedial action is intended primarily to insure that no officer separated from the service or retired to inactive status without pay for physical disability shall be deprived unjustly of retirement pay benefits or retired status and retired pay, as the case may be, by reason of erroneous findings.

§ 2.2 Information. The public may secure information concerning the functions of this agency from The Adjutant General, War Department, The Pentagon, Washington, D. C., and may call at the Office of the Board, Room 5D–266, The Pentagon, Washington, D. C., for the purpose of conducting essential business.

§ 2.3 Application for review. Any person desiring a review of his case under the provisions of the act should request The Adjutant General to supply him with a blank form of request provided for this purpose. If the applicant is found to be entitled to a review under the provisions of the act, The Adjutant General assembles all pertinent records in the case and forwards them to the Board with the Applicant's request for review. A hearing date is set at least thirty days in advance of the date of the receipt by the Board of the application for review and the pertinent records, and the applicant notified by registered mail of the date, time and place for the hearing of his case. The applicant requesting review is permitted to appear before the Board in person and/or be represented by counsel, and may present testimony, either in person or by affidavit. The review is based upon all available pertinent records relating to the officer requesting such review and such other evidence as may be presented by such officer. In carrying out its duties, the Board has the same powers as exercised by or vested in the board whose findings and decisions are being reviewed and conducts its hearings in so far as practicable in accordance with the provisions of section 2, Army Regulation 420–5, May 20, 1940 (Boards of Officers for Conducting Investigations). The applicant is advised in writing by The Adjutant General of the final decision in his case.

§ 2.4 Classes of persons whose cases are reviewable. The class of persons whose cases are reviewable include officers of the Army of the United States, other than officers of the Regular Army, who were discharged or released to inactive service under the conditions prescribed in § 2.1 above; and former officers of the Regular Army who were wholly retired under section 1252, Revised Statutes (ML—1939, section 324). The Board is authorized to review cases of officers separated from the service under the above conditions whether denial of retirement or retirement pay benefits, as the case may be, was pursuant to the adverse findings of a retiring or disposition board or was pursuant to administrative action in the case whereby there was favorable action by the retiring or disposition board.

SECRETARY OF WAR'S DISCHARGE REVIEW BOARD

§ 2.11 Constitution, purpose, and jurisdiction of the Board. (a) The Secretary of War's Discharge Review Board is an administrative agency created within the War Department, under authority of section 301, Title I, act of June 22, 1944, Public Law 346, 78th Congress (WD, Bull. No. 10, 29 June 1944), to review, upon its own motion or upon application by or on behalf of the individual concerned, the type and nature of the discharge certificate or other documentary evidence of discharge or dismissal of former members of the Military Establishment. The scope of the inquiry of the board shall be to determine whether the type of discharge received was equitably and properly given. When the board determines in an individual case that the type of discharge was not equitably and properly given, it is authorized, in the manner herein prescribed, to direct The Adjutant General to take appropriate action, that is, to change, correct, or modify any discharge or dismissal, and to issue a new discharge, such direction being subject to review and modification by the Secretary of War. Such remedial action is intended primarily to insure that no discharged or dimissed former member of the Military Establishment shall be deprived unjustly of any benefit provided by law for former members of the military service by reason of a type of discharge or dismissal inequitably or improperly given.

(b) The board shall not review a discharge or dismissal given by reason of the sentence of general court-martial.

(c) The board has no authority to revoke any discharge or dismissal, to reinstate any person in the military service subsequent to his discharge or dismissal, or to recall any person to active duty.

§ 2.12 Application for review. (a) The applicant for review will submit a written request for a review by the board, with the certificate of discharge or dismissal in question, if available, and such other statements or affidavits as he desires to present.

(b) The request should be made on WD AGO Form No. 94, which may be obtained from The Adjutant General, Washington 25, D. C. The request should state in brief: (1) the full name, army serial number, and rank and organization or assignment at date of discharge of the person whose discharge or dismissal is in question; (2) the date and place of discharge; (3) the type and nature of the discharge or dismissal; (4) the basis of the claim for review; (5) what corrective action is desired of the board; (6) whether the applicant desires to appear personally before the board; (7) whether the applicant desires to be represented by counsel before the board; and if so, the name and address of counsel so designated; (8) whether such appearance of applicant, or counsel, or both, is desired to be before the board in Washington, D. C., St. Louis, Missouri, or San Juan, Puerto Rico; and (9) the address to which all correspondence in connection with the review is to be sent.

(c) The request will be signed by the applicant or by a surviving next of kin, legal representative or guardian, in which case satisfactory evidence of the required relationship must be submitted.

(d) No application for review will be granted unless received by the War Department prior to 22 June 1959, or within fifteen years after the effective date of the discharge or dismissal of the former service man or woman concerned, whichever date is the later.

(e) The request for review will be forwarded either to:

Washington 25, D. C. or
Personnel Records Center, A. G. O.
4300 Goodfellow Boulevard
St. Louis 20, Missouri.

If the applicant is a resident of Puerto Rico, the request should be forwarded to:

Secretary of War's Discharge Review Board for the Antilles Dept.
APO 851, c/o Postmaster, Miami, Florida.

(f) Upon receipt of an application The Adjutant General will assemble the originals or certified copies of all available War Department records pertaining to the former service man or woman named in such application. Such records, together with the application and any supporting documents, will be transmitted to the president of the board.

§ 2.13 Proceedings of Board—(a) Convening of board. The board will be convened at the call of the president and will recess or adjourn at his order. In the event of the absence or incapacity of the president, the next senior member will serve as acting president for all purposes.

(1) Unless otherwise designated by the president, the board will convene in Washington, D. C., at the time and place indicated by him. Panels of the board currently convene in Washington, D. C., St. Louis, Mo., and San Juan, P. R.

(2) The board will assemble in open or closed session for the consideration and determination of cases presented to it. Cases in which no request for hearing is made by the applicant will be considered in closed session on the basis of all documentary evidence presented to it, any briefs submitted by or on behalf of the applicant.

(b) Hearings. An applicant for review, upon request, is entitled by law to appear before the board in open session either in person or by counsel of his own selection. As used in these regulations the term "counsel" shall be construed to include members of the Federal bar in good standing, the bar of any state in good standing, accredited representatives of veterans' organizations recognized by the Veterans' Administration under section 200 of the act of June 29, 1936 (Public Law 844, 74th Cong.), and such other persons who, in the opinion of the board, are considered to be competent to present equitably and comprehensively the claim of the applicant for review. In no case will the expenses or compensation of counsel for the applicant be paid by the Government.

(1) In every case in which a hearing is requested the secretary will transmit to the applicant and to designated counsel for the applicant, if any, a written notice stating the time and place of hearing. Such notice shall be mailed at least thirty days prior to the date of hearing. The applicant may waive such time limit and an earlier hearing date may be set by the secretary. The record shall contain the certificate of the secretary that written notice was given applicant and his counsel, if any, and the time and manner thereof.

(2) An applicant who requests a hearing and who, after being duly notified of the time and place of hearing, fails to appear at the appointed time, either in person or by counsel, thereby waives his right to be present.

(c) Conduct of hearing. (1) Conduct of hearing will be, insofar as practicable, as provided in Section II, AR 420-5, 20 May 1940, except that neither the applicant nor his counsel will have access to any classified reports of investigation or papers related thereto or any document received from the Federal Bureau of Investigation. When it is necessary to acquaint the applicant with the substance of a document, such as above described, the Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, WDGS, on the request of the board, will prepare a summary of, or extract from, the document deleting all references to sources of information and other matter the disclosure of which, in his opinion, would be detrimental to the public interest. Such summary then may be made available without classification to the applicant of his counsel.

(2) In the conduct of its inquiries, the board shall not be limited by the restrictions of common law rules of evidence.

(3) Witnesses. The testimony of witnesses may be presented either in person or by affidavits. If a witness testifies in person he shall be subject to examination by members of the board.

(4) Continuances. The board may continue a hearing on its own motion. A request for continuance by or on behalf of the applicant may be granted, in the board's discretion, if a continuance appears necessary to insure a full and fair hearing.

(5) Withdrawal. The board may, at its discretion and for good cause shown, permit an applicant to withdraw his request for review without prejudice at any time before the board begins its deliberations.

(6) Expenses. Expenses incurred by the applicant, his witnesses or in the procurement of their testimony, whether in person, by affidavit or by deposition, will not be paid by the Government.

§ 2.14 Composition of Board—(a) Members. The board will consist of five or more officers designated by the Secretary of War. The senior member shall be president of the board.

(1) The same five members of the board will sit throughout the open and closed hearing of each individual case.

(2) Upon request of the president, the Secretary of War will detail for service with the board such additional personnel as may be deemed necessary for the proper performance of the duties of the board, including personnel detailed to perform the duties prescribed herein.

(3) Such additional boards as may be required will be designated by the Secretary of War.

(b) Secretary. It will be the duty of the secretary to:

(1) Examine applications and, when necessary, obtain from the applicant or from War Department records such additional data as may be required to furnish complete information to the board.

(2) Maintain custody of all records of the board and all documents transmitted to and filed with it.

(3) Establish and maintain a docket of all cases to include docket number assigned to each case, date of receipt of application in the War Department, date and nature of all procedural action taken, and final disposition.

(4) Act as recorder within the meaning of Article of War 114.

(5) Perform such administrative duties as are required in connection with the proceedings of the board or as may be prescribed by the president.

(6) The Secretary will not collect evidence, present cases to the board, examine witnesses, or serve as counsel for the Government or the applicant. In no event will the secretary participate in the deliberations or discussions of the board in closed session, although he may be present for the purpose of performing his administrative duties.

(c) Examiners. It will be the duty of the examiners to examine all War Department records and all contentions and evidence submitted by the applicant and that revealed by the official War Department files pertaining to each case and prepare a written brief containing a complete and impartial summary of the pertinent facts disclosed by such examination. Such brief will be prepared before the board convenes in closed session to consider the case. Such brief shall be informational in character only. The following shall be set forth separately:

(1) Pertinent facts disclosed by War Department records;

(2) Propositions advanced by the applicant;

(3) Evidence presented in support of (2) above.

The restrictions of paragraph (6) above apply to examiners.

(d) Reporter. It will be the duty of the reporter to record the proceedings of the board in open session and the testimony taken before it. Shorthand may be used in the initial instance.

§ 2.15 Findings, conclusions, and directions—(a) Findings. The board will make written findings in closed session in each case. The findings will indicate the salient points on which the board bases its conclusions.

(b) Conclusions. On the basis of its findings in each case the board, in closed session, will prepare written conclusions as to whether corrective action should be taken by the War Department with respect to the discharge under consideration. No corrective action exceeds the jurisdiction of the board, as defined in paragraph 1 of these regulations, will be taken.

(c) The findings and conclusions of a majority of the board shall constitute the findings and conclusions of the board.

(d) Minority reports. Such reports will be in accordance with paragraph 27, AR 420-5, 20 May 1940.

(e) Directive to The Adjutant General. The president or acting president of the board will, in the name of the Secretary of War, issue a directive to The Adjutant General specifying the action to be taken.

§ 2.16 Disposition of proceedings—(a) Record of proceedings. (1) When the board has concluded its proceedings in any case, the secretary will prepare a complete record thereof. Such record shall include the application for review; a transcript of the hearing, if any; affidavits, papers and documents considered by the board; all briefs and written arguments filed in the case; the report of the examiner; the findings and conclusions of the board and the directive to The Adjutant General; any minority report prepared by dissenting members of the board; and all other papers and documents necessary to reflect a true and complete history of the proceedings. The record so prepared will be signed by the president and authenticated by the secretary as being true and complete. In the event of the absence or incapacity of the Secretary, the record may be authenticated by a second participating member of the board.

(2) All records of proceedings of the board shall be confidential but shall be open to perusal by the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs or his duly authorized representative.

(b) Transmittal of records and action by The Adjutant General. The record of proceedings in each case will be transmitted by the secretary to The Adjutant General for appropriate War Department action to be taken to carry out the directions of the board. The Adjutant General will perform such administrative acts as may be necessary, and thereafter will notify the applicant and his counsel, if any, of the action taken. Written notice specifying the action taken, and the date thereof, will be transmitted by The Adjutant General to the president of the board to be filed by the secretary as a part of the records of the board pertaining to each case.

§ 2.17 Consideration on the Board's own motion. The board may on its own motion consider and determine a case which appears on the face of the record likely to result in a decision favorable to the former soldier and does so result without the knowledge or presence of the former soldier. If such a case does not result in a decision favorable to the former soldier, it shall be returned to the files with no formal action recorded and will be considered without prejudice if and when an appeal is made by the former soldier in question. If, upon consideration by the board on its own motion, such a case results in a decision favorable to the former soldier, The Adjutant General will be directed to notify the former soldier at his last known address.

§ 2.18 Reconsideration, revision of procedure, and Army-Navy coordination—(a) Reconsideration. When the board has formally considered the case of an applicant for review and its decision has been approved in the name of the Secretary of War, it will not open the case for a reconsideration unless presented with additional material evidence likely to result in a decision of the case contrary to the decision at the original hearing and not available to the board at said hearing. If, upon receipt of such evidence, the board reconsiders the case, it will be governed by the same procedure as prescribed in paragraphs 3-16 above for original consideration.

(b) Changes in procedure of board. The board may initiate recommendation for such changes in procedures as established herein as may be deemed necessary for the proper functioning of the board. Such changes will be subject to the approval of the Secretary of War.

(c) Army-Navy coordination. Provision will be made by the board for close liaison between the Army and Navy to include periodic joint conferences to discuss common problems and to study results of actions taken. Where it is apparent that divergent action is being taken that cannot be reconciled by the respective Army and Navy boards, the Joint Army and Navy Personnel Board will be advised.

SUBPART B—OFFICE OF THE UNDER SECRETARY OF WAR

DELEGATION FROM THE SECRETARY OF WAR TO THE UNDER SECRETARY AND OTHERS

Memorandum for: The Under Secretary of War.

Subject: War Department Board of Contract Appeals.

(a) There is hereby constituted in the Office of the Under Secretary of War a board to be known as "War Department Board of Contract Appeals." The board shall consist of three members, one of whom shall be designated as president of the board. There will also be a recorder. The president of the board and the recorder shall be persons trained in the law. The Under Secretary of War shall recommend appointees for membership on the board and for recorder, and shall nominate the president of the board. Appointments will be made by the Secretary of War. If the Under Secretary of War at any time shall determine that additional members of the board are necessary in order to process appeals with reasonable dispatch, he may from time to time recommend for appointment such additional members of the board as he may deem necessary, and will make recommendations for the filling of any vacancies on the board and in the office of the recorder. Upon request of the Under Secretary of War, The Judge Advocate General is authorized to assign to the board one or more judge advocate as trial attorneys or examiners, and if and when deemed necessary by the Under Secretary of War and upon his request, The Judge Advocate General may also assign a judge advocate as general counsel.

(b) Except in the case of an appeal under a contract which provides that the Secretary of War may designate a board as his duly authorized representative to determine appeals, the president of the War Department Board of Contract Appeals is hereby designated as the duly authorized representative of the Secretary of War to hear, consider and decide as fully and finally as the Secretary of War might do, appeals from the decisions of contracting officers or other authorities, including the chiefs of the supply services and the Commanding General, Matériel Command, Army Air Forces, under War Department contracts requiring the decision of appeals by the head of the War Department or his duly authorized representative.

(c) The board created by paragraph (a) of this memorandum is hereby designated as the duly authorized representative of the Secretary of War to hear, consider and decide as fully and finally as the Secretary of War might do, appeals to the Secretary of War under contracts which contain provisions authorizing the Secretary of War to designate a board as his duly authorized representative to determine appeals.

(d) In appeals from decisions of contracting officers or other authorities under contracts heretofore or hereafter entered into providing for appeals to the Secretary of War, but which do not provide that the Secretary of War may designate a board as his authorized representative to determine appeals, the board constituted by paragraph (a) hereof, shall nevertheless hear, consider and report its views on such appeals to the president of the War Department Board of Contract Appeals as the authorized representative of the Secretary of War. If, however, such representative shall not be in accord with the decision of the board, he will promptly submit the case for final determination upon the record, to the Under Secretary of War, who is hereby designated as the authorized representative of the Secretary of War for that purpose.

(e) The president of the board, from time to time, may divide the board into divisions of one or more members and assign members thereto. A majority of the members of the board or of a division thereof shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of the business of the board or of a division, respectively, and the decision of a majority of the members of the board or of a division shall be deemed to be the decision of the board or of a division, as the case may be. If a majority of the members of a division are unable to agree on a decision or if within 30 days after a decision by a division, the board or the president thereof directs that the decision of the division be reviewed by the board, the decision will be so reviewed, otherwise the decision of a majority of the members of a division shall become the decision of the board. If a majority of the members of the board is unable to agree upon a decision, the president of the board will promptly submit the appeal to the Under Secretary of War for his decision upon the record, who is hereby designated as the authorized representative of the Secretary of War for that purpose. A vacancy in the board or in any division thereof shall not impair the powers nor affect the duties of the board or division nor of the remaining members of the board or division, respectively. The authority and procedure provided in this paragraph shall apply, whether the board shall be acting as the designated representative of the Secretary of War under paragraph (c) above, or in an advisory capacity under paragraph (d) hereof.

(f) Any member of the board, or any examiner designated by the president of the board for that purpose, may hold hearings, examine witnesses, receive evidence and report the evidence to the board or to the appropriate division, if the case is pending before a division.

(g) The board shall have all powers necessary and incident to the proper performance of its duties, and with the approval of the Under Secretary of War, shall adopt its own methods of procedure and rules and regulations for its conduct and for the preparation and presentation of appeals.

(h) The office of the board shall be in the Office of the Under Secretary of War, but hearings may also be held in such other places as the board may determine to be expedient or necessary for the proper performance of its duties.

(i) The board shall have a seal bearing the following inscription:

"War Department Board of Contract Appeals"

This seal shall be affixed to all authentications of copies of records, and to such other instruments as the board may determine.

(j) The board shall fix the times when and the places where hearings will be held, and shall serve notice thereof, and the parties, or their representatives, shall be entitled to be heard and to introduce evidence: Provided, That if a transcript of the evidence taken at a hearing in the office of the chief of a supply service or in the office of the Commanding General, Matériel Command, Army Air Forces, accompanies the record, the board may limit the testimony before it to matters not disclosed by the transcript.

(k) All appeals pending before the Board of Contract Appeals and Adjustments now functioning in the Office of the Director, Purchases Division, Services of Supply, upon which hearings have not been held, will be transferred for appropriate action to the board herein constituted, and there will also be transferred thereto all books, records, and papers of the present Board of Contract Appeals and Adjustments.

(l) Appeals pending before the chiefs of the supply services, including the Commanding General, Matériel Command, Army Air Forces, which under the terms of the contracts authorizing the appeals, they are not authorized to decide either finally or subject to further appeal to the Secretary of War, shall be transferred for appropriate action to the board hereby constituted: Provided, That appeals which have been heard but not determined will be disposed of under existing instructions. Appeals to the Secretary of War from decision of chiefs of the supply services and the Commanding General, Matériel Command, Army Air Forces, under contracts providing therefor, will be forwarded to the War Department Board of Contract Appeals.

(m) All correspondence pertaining to contract appeals will be referred to and conducted by the board herein constituted.

(n) The board shall submit to the Secretary of War, on the first day of October of each year, a report containing a full and complete account of its transactions and proceedings for the preceding fiscal year.

(o) This memorandum will become effective August 24, 1942.

(v) Action indicated above, and all correspondence incident thereto, is taken by the Review Subsection, Separation Section, Officers' Branch, AGO.

(b) Review of retirement board action, at request of officer concerned, who was retired or released to inactive service, without pay, for physical disability.

REFERENCE: Sec. 302, Pub. Law 346, 78th Cong., approved June 22, 1944.

(1) Same procedure as followed under Section 301, except that all pertinent records are submitted to the Secretary of War's Disability Review Board. Application for such review is submitted on WD AGO Form 0258. If board action is favorable to the applicant, certification is made to the Veterans' Administration for payment of a specified amount of retirement pay benefit. Section 302, Pub. Law 346 applies to officer personnel only.

(2) Applications for review of type and nature of discharge or dismissal involving enlisted personnel should be addressed to The Adjutant General, War Department, Demobilized Personnel Records Branch, St. Louis, Mo., and not to Washington, D. C. When an enlisted man is discharged or dismissed from the service, all records pertaining to such enlisted man are forwarded to the Demobilized Personnel Records Branch, St. Louis, Mo., for file, while records of officers are retained on file in the Officers' Branch for a period of four (4) months after complete separation from the service.

(c) Absence without leave and desertion, officers, warrant officers, and flight officers (Ref AR 605–300). (1) The procedure governing action in connection with absence without leave and desertion of officers is quite similar to that governing enlisted personnel, except that there is no provision of law for payment to any civil officer or civilian of a reward or expense money for apprehension or return to military control in the case of an officer (Par. 10. c. AR 605–300.) See Part 306 § 306.30, page 3027, Code of Federal Regulations of the United States of America, Cumulative Supplement, Titles 10–17, Book 3, for procedure governing enlisted personnel.

(2) Office procedure. The initial action of The Adjutant General's Office (Officers' Branch, Disciplinary Section) on cases involving officers whose status has changed to absent without official leave is to check with files and status desk in the Personnel Information Section to insure that the information furnished by the organization from which the officer is supposedly AWOL. (WDAGO Form 45) is correct, insofar as the records of the War Department show. After this check has been made a "StopMemo" is placed in the 201 file jacket of the officer concerned, to the effect that any change reported in the status of the officer should be immediately reported to the Disciplinary Section.

(3) The Provost Marshal General is advised of the officer's status, and is requested to secure the assistance of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in returning the officer to military control.

(4) After an interval of thirty (30) days from the initial date of change in the officer's status to AWOL, the records in the field (WDAGO Forms 30, 44, 45, and 66–1, evidence bearing on the case, inventory of personal effects, and copy of notification of change in officer's status to the disbursing officer) are forwarded to The Adjutant General. These records, if found to be complete and correct, are forwarded to The Judge Advocate General for an administrative determination of the officer's official status.

(5) At such time as the officer is apprehended, WDAGO Form 46 is received from the field, and after determination has been made as to the Officer's immediate commanding officer in accordance with AR 605–300, the records which had been forwarded to this office during the period in which the officer was AWOL are forwarded to his commanding officer for such action as he deems appropriate.

(6) A weekly report is made on all AWOL cases to the Provost Marshal General (new cases, or change in status of cases previously reported).

§ 2.71 Correction Branch, AGO—(a) General. Establishment of United States Disciplinary Barracks, United States Code, annotated, Title 10, Army, Chapter 35—United States Disciplinary Barracks.

Section 1451: The United States Military Prison, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, shall hereafter be known as the United States Disciplinary Barracks (Mar. 4, 1915, c. 143, sec. 2, 38 Stat. 1084).

Section 1 of act March 4, 1915, c. 143, 38 Stat. 1074, contains the further provisions: "The United States military prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, shall hereafter be known as the United States Disciplinary Barracks and the branches of said prison as branches of said barracks."

Section 1453: The Government and control of the United States Disciplinary Barracks and of all offenders sent thereto for confinement and detention therein shall be vested in The Adjutant General of the Army under the direction of the Secretary of War, who shall from time to time make such regulations respecting the same as may be deemed necessary (Mar. 4, 1915, c. 142, sec. 2, 38 Stat. 1085; May 29, 1928, c. 901, sec. 1 (33), 45 Stat. 988).

Section 1457: Whenever he shall deem such action merited, the Secretary of War may remit the unexecuted portions of the sentences of offenders sent to the United States Disciplinary Barracks for confinement and detention therein, and in addition to such remission may grant those who have not been discharged from the Army an honorable restoration to the Army to complete their respective terms of enlistment, and such application and order of restoration shall be effective to revive the enlistment contract for a period equal to the one not served under said contract (Mar. 4, 1915, c. 143, sec. 2, 38 Stat. 1085).

Army Regulation 5-5, April 2, 1945, Paragraph 4a, delegates responsibility for supervision over military prisoners and action upon clemency cases in mitigation or remission of sentence by court-martial to the Under Secretary of War.

(b) Functions. The Correction Branch, AGO, supervises the operation of a penal and correctional system of the Army and is charged with the care, custody training and rehabilitation of general prisoners confined at United States disciplinary barracks.

Formulates minimum standards and outlines procedures for classification, discipline, military and vocational training, work and recreation of prisoners, and plant and equipment.

Coordinates administration and activities of disciplinary barracks and branches, post, camp and station guardhouses and stockades in the United States. Conducts regular inspections of these installations.

Handles applications for home parole, makes disposition of insane general prisoners and effects transfer of general prisoners from one institution to another.

Processes requests for Presidential pardon for members of the United States Army.

(c) Procedures—(1) Clemency. Under the provisions of paragraph 18a Army Regulations 600-375, May 17, 1943, the case of each general prisoner is considered by the War Department for clemency at sometime within the first six months and annually thereafter. Applications for clemency may be made in writing by or in behalf of a general prisoner. Such an application will set forth the grounds upon which the appeal is based, and will be forwarded through channels, with appropriate recommendations, to the commanding officer holding general court-martial jurisdiction over the prisoner. Good conduct cannot form a basis for clemency, but will aid in obtaining it. After the first application, applications by prisoners will be limited to one each year unless new and material matter is presented which justifies immediate consideration. The Adjutant General reviews files of general prisoners periodically for clemency, making recommendations to the Under Secretary of War as to action to be taken and notifies all concerned of results of clemency consideration.

(2) Restoration. Applications for restoration to duty or for enlistment are submitted by the general prisoners directly to the Commandant or Warden of the institution where confined. If favorably considered by the Commandant, recommendation is made to the War Department to assign general prisoner to a Military Training Company for the necessary training prior to restoration to duty.

(3) Parole. Under provisions of Army Regulation 600-415, a prisoner who is confined under military control within the continental limits of the United States pursuant to a sentence imposed by a general court-martial or other military tribunal, who has served one-third of the total of his term or aggregate terms of confinement, but in no case less than 6 months, or has served 10 years if sentenced for life, will be eligible for parole. Abatements for good conduct will be excluded in computing such minimum periods of confinement.

Each prisoner who makes application on the prescribed form will be considered for parole upon becoming eligible, and at least annually thereafter.

A prisoner who does not desire to make application for parole will execute a waiver or parole on the prescribed form. If at any time prior to release a prisoner wishes to withdraw his application for parole, he will execute a waiver or parole. A waiver of parole is no barrier to subsequent application for parole.

No prisoner will be released on parole until an officer of a recognized probation, parole, or other correctional organization or, if not available, some other suitable person residing in or near the place where the prospective parolee will live while on parole, has been approved by the commandant as a parole advisor.

Unless waived by The Adjutant General for physical disability or other cogent reasons, no prisoner will be released on parole until satisfactory evidence shall have been furnished that he will engage in a reputable occupation. The prospective employer will be required to execute the prescribed "Agreement of Employer" form.

In the above the following printed forms will be supplied by the parole officer at the institution where confined and filled in:

Waiver of Parole.
Statement of Parole Advisor.
Agreement of Employer.
Report of Arrival of Parolee.

Parole of general prisoners at Federal institutions. Policies and procedures governing that release on parole of general prisoners confined at Federal penal and correctional institutions are under the jurisdiction of the United States Board of Parole.

(4) Pardon. Application for Presidential pardon will be requested by letter to The Adjutant General who will supply the proper forms to be executed.

§ 2.72 Decorations and Awards Branch—Authority. (a) A Certificate of Authority to manufacture certain articles will be granted upon application to The Adjutant General's Office, Attention: Chief, Decorations and Awards Branch, Room 2B 852, The Pentagon, Washington 25, D. C., only upon agreement in writing by the applicant to abide by the following provisions:

(b) The Certificate of Authority will be valid for 3 years from date of issuance. Application for a renewal must be filed with The Adjutant General's Office, Attention: Chief, Decorations and Awards, Branch, Room 2B 852. The Pentagon, Washington 25, D. C., at least 60 days prior to expiration date of the existing certificate.

(c) Each application for a Certificate of Authority to manufacture Army insignia is investigated by the War Department through the various Army Commands. The background and business standing of each firm is checked through the various credit firms such as Dun and Bradstreet, the local Better Business Bureaus, Chambers of Commerce, and banks. Should the information so obtained indicate irregularities in the conduct of the business the application is disapproved and the applicant so advised.

In the event the information obtained indicates nothing of a derogatory nature the application is approved and the applicant furnished a Form of Agreement for completion and signature and return to The Adjutant General's Office, Attention: Chief, Decorations and Awards Branch, Room 2B 852, The Pentagon, Washington 25, D. C., upon receipt of which a Certificate of Authority is prepared and mailed to the applicant.

§ 2.73 The Personal Affairs Program. (a) Personnel Affairs Officer, in all major Army installations, provide a conveniently centralized counseling service to military personnel and their dependents on problems relating to the service of the military personnel. Discharged personnel, their dependents and dependents of deceased personnel may also receive assistance on problems which relate solely to Army administration.

(b) These offices are primarily information centers. They do not themselves administer governmental programs of assistance to servicemen, veterans or their dependents. If the operating agency for a specific program is known, inquiry should be addressed to that agency. If not, the Personal Affairs office at the nearest military installation will assist in channeling the request to the proper agency.

(c) They collect and disseminate information relating to rights and benefits accruing to military personnel by virtue of their service. They also maintain liaison with governmental and private agencies in order to expedite the solution of personal problems of military personnel and their dependents. This program is administered by The Adjutant General through the Personal Affairs Offices under the policies of the War Department.

§ 2.74 Enlisted Branch, AGO—(a) General. The Enlisted Branch, Personnel Bureau, AGO administers all matters pertaining to notification to soldiers of a birth, death or serious illness in his family, the furnishing of certificates of service under the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act of 1940, and the discharge of enlisted men from the Army. The War Department has decentralized the control of discharge of enlisted men to local commanders in the field, who normally take the final action upon a request for discharge without reference to the War Department. Inquiries directed to the War Department by the public regarding the above subjects should be addressed to the Adjutant General, War Department, Washington 25, D. C.

(b) Minority. Section II, AR 615-362. (1) The act of Congress approved June 30, 1921 (42 Stat. 74; 10 U. S. C. 635; M. L. 1939, sec. 231) provides for the discharge of enlisted men under the age of eighteen on the application of either of their parents or legal guardian. If the enlisted man is in the United States the application by the parent or legal guardian should be submitted to the commanding officer of the station at which the soldier is serving. The application must be accompanied by a certified photostatic copy of the soldier's original birth certificate. If the soldier is serving overseas, the application and evidence of date of birth may be submitted to The Adjutant General.

(2) The Armed Forces Voluntary Recruitment Act of 1945, approved October 6, 1945 (Public Law 190, 79th Cong.) (Bulletin No. 19, WD, Oct. 22, 1945) provides that any enlisted man voluntarily enlisted in the Regular Army without the consent of his parents or guardian, who is 18 years of age but under 21 years of age, may be discharged from that portion of his enlistment contract as extends beyond the duration of the present war and six months thereafter, provided the application of parent or guardian is submitted within six months after enlistment. If the enlisted man should become 21 years of age prior to becoming eligible for discharge, he cannot be discharged because of minority, but must serve his full term of enlistment.

(3) A Regular Army enlisted man who is 17 years of age but has not reached his 18th birthday, may be discharged upon application of parent or guardian and presentation of satisfactory evidence of his age. However, a Regular Army enlisted man who has reached his 17th birthday and enlisted with the consent of his parents or guardian, cannot be discharged because of minority.

(4) Regular Army enlisted men under 17 years of age, and inductees under 18 years of age, may be discharged upon application of parent or guardian and presentation of satisfactory evidence as to age, regardless of whether consent was given to the enlistment.

(c) Dependency or hardship. Section III, AR 615-362. (1) Dependency. When by reason of death or disability of a member of the family of an enlisted or inducted person, occurring after his enlistment or induction, members of his family become principally dependent upon him for care or support, he may, in the discretion of the Secretary of War, be discharged.

(2) Hardship. When under circumstances not involving death or disability of a member of the family of an enlisted or inducted person, where his discharge will materially affect the care or support of his family by alleviating undue hardship, he may, in the discretion of the Secretary of War, be discharged.

(3) The application for discharge because of dependency or hardship, with supporting evidence, is normally submitted by the enlisted man to his immediate commanding officer, and final action is taken by the officer in the field exercising discharge authority, if the discharge is approved. If the application is disapproved by the discharge authority in the field, the above mentioned regulation requires that the application and supporting evidence be forwarded to The Adjutant General for review and final action. After a review of all the evidence submitted with the application, The Adjutant General directs either the discharge or retention in the service of the enlisted man.

(4) Families of enlisted or inducted personnel not physically in the United States may submit request for dependency or hardship discharge to The Adjutant General, accompanied by the evidence outlined in paragraph e below.

(5) Evidence required. An application submitted for the discharge of an enlisted man because of dependency or hardship must be accompanied by affidavits from the dependents and at least two disinterested agencies or individuals having first-hand knowledge of the circumstances involved, substantiating the dependency or hardship claim. If due to death of a member of the enlisted man's family occurring after his entrance into the service, a certificate or other valid proof of death should be furnished. If due to disability of a member of the enlisted man's family occurring after his entrance into the service a physician's certificate should be furnished showing specifically when such disability occurred and the nature thereof. There should also be furnished the names, ages, occupations, and monthly income of members of the enlisted man's family, if any, living in the home or vicinity and reasons why these members cannot provide the necessary care or support of the enlisted man's family. Enlisted personnel or their dependents may request American Red Cross local chapters or other agencies for help in obtaining necessary evidence to substantiate applications for discharge.

(d) National health, safety, or interest. AR 615-365 (Convenience of the Government). Discharges in order that a soldier may return to essential civilian employment or to engage in essential agriculture can be granted in especially deserving cases without regard to length of service. The application should be submitted by the soldier to his immediate commanding officer, if the soldier is stationed in the United States, and final action is taken by the officer in the field exercising discharge authority. Applications in behalf of enlisted men serving overseas may be submitted to The Adjutant General, who will take final action. The application should fully set forth all of the pertinent facts and should be accompanied by such supporting statements or data in affidavit form as may be appropriate. The War Department believes that mass releases under the demobilization plan will take care of the great bulk of the requirements of industry, agriculture and the professions. Therefore, discharges on the basis of the national interest are limited to unusual cases.

(e) Demobilization plan. AR 615-365 (Convenience of the Government) and Readjustment Regulation 1-1. (1) Fathers. All non-volunteer, enlisted fathers will be separated by September 30, 1946, regardless of length of service.

(2) All non-volunteer, enlisted men with 20 months of service as of September 30, 1946, will be separated by that date.

(3) Beginning October 1, 1946, all non-volunteer, enlisted men with 18 months of service as of November 30, 1946, will be eligible for separation and will be separated by November 30, 1946.

(4) All non-volunteer, enlisted men who accumulate 18 months of service in any month subsequent to November will be separated by the last day of the month in which they accumulate 18 months of service.

(5) Until September 30, 1946, the same discharge criteria will apply to enlisted women as to enlisted men.

(f) Fraudulent entry into Army. Section I, AR 615-366. Enlisted personnel are discharged because of fraudulent entry into the service for the following reasons only: (1) Concealment of desertion from the armed forces of the United States or an unauthorized absence from the Army of the United States.

(2) Concealment of separation from the armed forces of the United States with form of discharge certificate other than honorable.

(3) Concealment of a criminal record, as conviction once by a civil court of a heinous crime, or sentence to a period of confinement in excess of 1 year in a prison or penitentiary.

Final action on cases of this nature is taken by the commander in the field exercising discharge authority.

(g) Notification to soldier of birth, illness, and death in family. Such requests should be addressed to The Adjutant General's Office, Enlisted Branch, Washington 25, D. C. Families desiring to notify a soldier of the birth, illness or death in the family should submit the request to the above address by telegram or letter. The soldier concerned will be notified by most expeditious manner.

(h) Requests for certificates of service under the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act. Requests should be addressed to The Adjutant General's Office, Enlisted Branch, Washington 25, D. C., should contain sufficient information to make positive identification of the individual concerned and should be accompanied by a properly executed affidavit or court order. The Army serial number under which service was performed should be furnished if available.

§ 2.75 The Army Postal Service. (a) The Army Postal Service is an administrative service, which, under the jurisdiction of The Adjutant General, exercises staff supervision and coordinates mail operations throughout the military establishment. The headquarters is located in The Adjutant General's Office, War Department, Washington, D. C.

(b) The Director, Army Postal Service, is charged with responsibility for handling or coordinating all War Department matters connected with the operation of the Army Postal Service within policy and procedural limitations established by higher authority. He directs the following functions of the Army Postal Service:

(1) The organization and staff supervision of postal service for the Army in oversea areas (including Expeditionary Force and Senders Composition Message services); and assistance to the civil postal establishment in providing postal services for Army organizations in the zone of interior.

(2) Arrangement and coordination of transportation of mail for troops located overseas.

(3) Maintenance of an inspection branch which performs technical postal inspection duties throughout the Army.

(4) Operation of the Army Courier Service and the War Department Foreign Mail Room for the transmission of official, classified material.

(5) Liaison and coordination with the Post Office Department on all matters of general policy, planning, operations, and supply as they relate to the handling of mail and financial matters in Army postal installations.

(6) Assignment of Army Post Office numbers and issuance of military mailing address instructions.

(7) Administration of activities pertaining to postal inquiries and claims.

(8) Selection for the Secretary of War and designation by the Post Office Department of Army Mail Clerks and Assistant Army Mail Clerks.

(c) The Army Postal Service causes appropriate investigation to be made of all complaints and reports of irregularities pertaining to Army mails and initiates remedial action in connection therewith. Tracers regarding undelivered mail and claims for indemnity in case of registered and insured mail are processed by the Army Postal Service and the claims are transmitted to the Post Office Department or to the Claims Division of the War Department for settlement, depending upon responsibility in the matter. Applications for duplicate money orders, to replace originals purchased at Army Post Offices and subsequently lost or destroyed, are channeled through the Army Postal Service to the Post Office Department for issuance of new money orders.

(d) Inquiries, complaints, tracers, and claims involving operations of the Army mail service should be addressed to the Director, Army Postal Service, Washington 25, D. C. If attention of military commanders in the continental U. S. or overseas is necessary, subject matter is referred to them for appropriate action by the most expeditious means practicable. When action by postmasters is concerned, referral is made to the Post Office Department for issuance of appropriate instructions or other necessary attention.

§ 2.76 United States Military Academy—(a) General. The War Department will again provide special courses of instruction for those members of the military service who hold letters of appointment to the Military Academy issued by the War Department for admission on July 1, 1947 as principals, alternates or competitors. The following information on this subject is furnished:

(1) Eligibility. Each officer, flight officer, warrant officer and enlisted man on active duty in the Army, including those overseas, is eligible to receive the special training provided he holds a letter of appointment issued by the War Department with a view to admission to the United States Military Academy on July 1, 1947, and has been found qualified on preliminary physical examination for admission to the United States Military Academy.

(2) Nature of training. The training will be conducted in two courses at Stewart Field, New York, under direction of the Superintendent, United States Military Academy, as follows:

(i) First course. An academic course designed to prepare the trainee for the entrance examination will be divided into two terms as follows: September 9, to December 21, 1946, and January 2, to March 3, 1947. As much of this course as possible will be repeated from approximately March 17 to June 16, 1947 for those candidates who become eligible for the program after the March entrance examinations have been given.

(ii) Second course. From about March 17, to about June 1, 1947, instruction will consist of physical training, military training, and academic courses, as prescribed by the Superintendent, United States Military Academy. All trainees who participate in the first course and take the March entrance examination will be continued in this second course until about June 1, 1947, unless relieved for cause at an earlier date.

(iii) Curriculum. Academic instruction will follow a special curriculum prepared by the Academic Board, United States Military Academy. In order to maintain interest, avoid repetition of work previously covered, and to meet the admission requirements of candidates concerned, the commandant of the school may prescribe alternate courses of instruction where appropriate. In view of the thorough instruction which men of this group will receive at the Military Academy, military training in this course will be confined to routine formations such as reveille, mess, retreat, occasional drills, etc. Physical training will be given four hours weekly.

(iv) Transfer to program. Each candidate on active duty in the Army within continental United States, after receiving his letter of appointment issued by the War Department will immediately be given a preliminary physical examination at his station, the results of which will be forwarded to the War Department. If the applicant concerned is declared physically qualified by the War Department instructions will then be issued authorizing his transfer to the School. Those applicants who are found physically disqualified will not be transferred. Each candidate on active duty in the Army outside continental United States will be returned to undergo the preparatory training provided, in the discretion of the theater commander concerned, he is not obviously disqualified physically. A report of preliminary physical examination will not be furnished the War Department in such case. Final determination of physical qualifications of all candidates will be made as a result of the March 4, 1947, annual entrance examination. Officers, flight officers, warrant officers and enlisted men found eligible for the training will be transferred by The Adjutant General at the proper time in accordance with the following:

(a) Officers, flight officers, warrant officers and enlisted men, other than aviation cadets, will be transferred in grade.

(b) An aviation cadet will be transferred in the enlisted grade held prior to appointment as aviation cadet.

(v) Retention of candidates. A member of the Army holding a letter of appointment to the United States Military Academy addressed to him as a principal, alternate or competitor by the War Department will not be transferred to a station outside the continental limits of the United States until notice is received from The Adjutant General cancelling his appointment or advising him that as a result of the March 4, 1947, entrance examination he failed to qualify or failed to gain admission since no vacancy exists under the terms of his appointment.

(vi) Separation from program. A candidate who is assigned to the training program and who fails to maintain minimum academic standards, whose conduct is unsatisfactory, or who for any other reason gives indication that his retention in the program is not for the best interest of the Government, will be relieved from the training. A candidate who is relieved from the program for any reason other than discharge from the Army or for admission to the United States Military Academy will normally be returned to the arm or service from which he was assigned to the program.

(vii) Personnel in other services. Members of the other services holding appointments to the United States Military Academy who are discharged for the purpose of receiving special preparatory training will be enlisted in the Army of the United States in the grade of private at any United States Army recruiting station. When reporting at an Army reception center a physical examination should be requested. If found physically qualified transfer to the School will be authorized as outlined above.

(viii) Candidates not on active duty in the Army. Members of reserve components of the Army are not eligible for special preparatory training until called to active duty. Civilian candidates who are seventeen years of age may voluntarily enlist in the Army at any Army Recruiting station. When reporting at an Army reception center a physical examination should be requested. If found physically qualified transfer to the School will be authorized as outlined above.

(ix) Army personnel appointed to other service academies. Army personnel who hold letters of appointment to one of the other service academies and who meet the physical requirements for admission thereto will be discharged upon written request to their commanding officers for the purpose of applying for enlistment within fifteen days in the service maintaining the academy to which they hold appointments. Those candidates outside the continental United States will be returned for discharge to permit enlistment in the appropriate service.

(b) Cadetships at the U. S. Military Academy allotted enlisted men of the Army of the United States. The sources of admission to the United States Military Academy from among enlisted members of the National Guard and the Regular Army have been combined for the duration of the present war and opened to all enlisted men of the Army of the United States. (iv) If serving in the Military District of Washington, to the commanding general thereof.

If selected, his name will be certified to the War Department not later than September 1, 1946 and a letter of appointment will be issued authorizing the enlisted man to undergo the competitive examination to be conducted March 4, 1947. The available vacancies at the Military Academy allotted to enlisted men will be filled by those physically qualified competitors making the highest proficient averages in the order of merit established at the above-mentioned examination without regard to the command from which designated.

(2) Qualifications necessary. The selection of candidates will be confined to enlisted men who possess all the following requirements.

(i) Citizenship. The candidate must be a citizen of the United States.

The record of the applicant's military training and any subsequent performance in campaign or battle will be carefully explored in judging his ability to lead others. Where opportunities for demonstration of such ability have been limited, consideration will be given to the judgment of the applicant's immediate superiors as to his latent capabilities and to his record as a student, and athlete or an employee prior to entering the military service.

(viii) Service. The candidate must have completed 1 full year of active enlisted service as of July 1, 1947, the date of admission to the United States Military Academy, and be in an active enlisted status on that date. (x) Physical qualifications. The candidate must meet the physical requirements for entrance to the United States Military Academy as outlined by current army regulations.

(b) Operations Branch. This branch conducts correspondence with the general public on subjects relating directly or indirectly to the military establishment, excluding matters relating to individuals in active service in the Army. This correspondence deals with requests for general information regarding the military establishment, such as matters relating to demobilization, travel of dependents, various types of complaints, status of military units, and a variety of other subjects. Inquiries so received are answered on a factual basis. In some instances they are referred to other agencies, that may be concerned, for direct reply. Such inquiries may be addressed to The Adjutant General, War Department, Washington 25, D. C.

(c) War Department Records Branch. The Old Records Section, War Department Records Branch, maintains records of military personnel from the early days of the Government up to November 1, 1912, and answers inquiries therefrom. Requests for information from such records may be addressed to The Adjutant General, War Department, Washington 25, D. C.

(d) Records Administration Center, St. Louis, Missouri. This unit administers activities pertaining to non-current records of discharged Army personnel from November 1, 1912 to date, non-current clinical records prepared in military hospitals, records of demobilized military units of World War II, certain records relating to contracts that have been closed, records relating to certain discontinued War Department projects, and records of former civilian employees of the War Department. The Records Administration Center provides information to the public from these records and furnishes material upon request in all cases, except with respect to matters that are considered to be confidential. § 2.78 Appointment in the Officers' Reserve Corps. (a) At the time of issuance of orders for relief from active duty all officers in the Army of the United States except officers of the Regular Army, active or retired, will be offered appointments in the Officers' Reserve Corps for an initial period of 5 years in the highest grade held at the time of relief from active duty subject to the following provisions:

(1) All male commissioned officers of the Army of the United States except active or retired Regular Army officers, found physically qualified for general service, limited service, or general service with waiver, who have served honorably, and who have not been separated for unsatisfactory service, are eligible for appointment with the following exceptions:

(i) Commissioned officers of the National Guard of the United States who do not hold a higher temporary grade in the Army of the United States. See paragraph (e) (3).

(ii) Commissioned officers of the Officers' Reserve Corps who do not hold a higher temporary grade in the Army of the United States. See paragraph (e) (3).

(2) Officers who are found eligible for promotion to the next higher grade under the provisions of WD Circular 140, 1946, and who are promoted in the Army of the United States, are thereby removed from the above categories (paragraph (a) (1) (i) and (ii)) and are eligible for appointment in the higher grade.

(3) Officers eligible for appointment in the Officers' Reserve Corps under the provisions of these policies who do not desire such appointment until after expiration of terminal leave may apply to the Adjutant General for appointment after the expiration of terminal leave.

(4) Officers listed in (a) (1) (i) and (ii) above will be commissioned in the Officers' Reserve Corps upon termination of active duty, that is, at the completion of terminal leave, upon application to the Adjutant General, Washington 25, D. C., Attention: Reserve Branch, for such appointment.

(b) Appointments in the Officers' Reserve Corps under these provisions will be governed by the following:

(1) Officers who hold only a temporary appointment in the Army of the United States, or temporary officers who also hold an appointment in the Officers' Reserve Corps, may be appointed or reappointed and commissioned in the Officers' Reserve Corps for a period of 5 years without vacating their temporary appointments in the Army of the United States and without depriving such officers of their terminal leaves which they might otherwise be entitled to receive.

(2) The acceptance of an appointment in the Officers' Reserve Corps by an officer of the National Guard of the United States operates automatically to vacate his appointment in the latter component. However, if the officer of the National Guard of the United States also holds a temporary appointment in the Army of the United States, the acceptance of a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps would not automatically vacate his temporary appointment in the Army of the United States without component, and such an officer should continue on active duty in his latter status (that of an AUS officer) for the purpose of receiving his terminal leave.

(3) In the instance where an officer commissioned in the National Guard of the United States or in the Officers' Reserve Corps does not hold a temporary appointment in the Army of the United States, acceptance of a new commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps prior to relief from active duty would vacate the commission in the National Guard of the United States or in the Officers' Reserve Corps and accrued leave might be lost by such appointment.

(c) The following statement of policy governing the section in which officers will be appointed under these provisions is furnished:

(1) Non-Regular Army general officers processed for separation will be informed that applications for appointment as general officer in the Officers' Reserve Corps will be made direct to The Adjutant General, Washington 25, D. C., Attention: Reserve Branch, and that the War Department will submit these names to the President of the United States for appointment in the Officers' Reserve Corps by and with the advice and consent of the Senate in the highest grade held on relief from active duty, provided the officers are declared eligible by the War Department General Officer Eligible List Board.

(2) Officers, other than general officers, will be appointed in the highest grade held on relief from active duty in a section of the Officers' Reserve Corps listed in subparagraph (3) below, under the following restrictions and conditions:

(i) Officers holding appointments in the—

(b) Chaplain's Corps,

Those who hold no appointment in any branch and whose only duty was in one of the services listed in this subparagraph will be appointed in the section with which they have served.

(ii) Officers not included in subparagraph (2) (i) above, who served with an arm or service, will be given the option of accepting appointment in the arm or service with which they had actual service or in the section, if any, in which they hold a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps or the National Guard of the United States. Officers who have served with the Army Air Forces may elect Air Corps Reserve.

(iii) Officers not included in subparagraph (2) (i) above, holding appointment in a basic arm or service, who served in branch immaterial positions such as General Staff, Inspector General's Department, Information and Education Division, Special Services Division, or in similar assignments, may elect appointment in the Staff and Administrative Reserve; in an arm or service, if any, with which they had actual service; or in the section, if any, in which they hold appointments in the Officers' Reserve Corps or the National Guard of the United States.

Any such award or determination shall be final and conclusive on all officers of the Government, except where procured by means of fraud, and subject to the right of the claimant to bring suit in the District Court for the district wherein the plaintiff is resident or wherein the act or omission complained of occurred. The acceptance by the claimant of any such award shall be final and conclusive on the claimant and shall constitute a complete release by the claimant of any claim against the United States and against the employee of the Government whose act or omission gave rise to the claim by reason of the same subject matter.

(b) The act of July 3, 1943 (57 Stat. 372; 31 U. S. C. 223b), as amended by the act of May 29, 1945 (59 Stat. 225), the act of June 28, 1946 (Public Law 466, 79th Congress), and the Federal Tort Claims Act, provides for the payment of claims, except those which fall within the purview of the Federal Tort Claims Act, arising on or after May 27, 1941, for damage to or loss or destruction to real or personal property and for reasonable medical or hospital or burial expenses actually incurred on account of personal injury or death caused by military personnel or civilian employees of the War Department or of the Army while acting in the scope of their employment or otherwise incident to non-combat activities of the War Department or of the Army, and including claims for damage to or loss or destruction of registered or insured mail while in the possession of military authorities even though resulting from criminal acts, claims for damage to or loss or destruction of personal property bailed to the Government and claims for damage to real property incident to the use and occupancy thereof under a lease, express or implied, or otherwise, and including claims of the foregoing categories arising out of civil works provided they do not exceed $1,000.

(c) Article of War 105 (sec. 1, Ch. II, act of June 4, 1920; 41 Stat. 808; 10 U. S. C. 1577; M. L. 1939, sec. 463) provides for the payment by the offender through stoppage of pay of certain claims for damage to or loss or destruction of property by persons subject to military law, provided such damage, loss or destruction is caused by riotous, violent, or disorderly conduct or acts of depredation, willful misconduct, or such reckless disregard of property rights as to carry an implication of guilty intent.

(d) The act of January 2, 1942 (55 Stat. 880; 31 U. S. C. 224d), as amended by the act of April 22, 1943 (57 Stat. 66), and the act of July 31, 1945 (59 Stat. 511) provides for the payment of claims for damage to or loss or destruction of real or personal property and for personal injury or death caused by Army forces or individual members (whether military personnel or civilian employees) thereof, or otherwise incident to non-combat activities of such forces in a foreign country, including the Philippine Islands, to public property located therein, or to privately owned property, or to the persons of inhabitants of such country.

(e) The act of May 29, 1945 (59 Stat. 225; 31 U. S. C. 222c) provides for the payment of claims arising on or after December 7, 1939 of military personnel and of civilian employees of the War Department or of the Army for damage to or loss, destruction, capture or abandonment of personal property occurring incident to their service, except such claims as come within the provisions of the Federal Tort Claims Act, supra.

§ 2.102 Central and field organization. The administration of claims activities by the War Department, under the statutes mentioned above, is the responsibility of The Judge Advocate General. The central organization is the Claims and Litigation Group of The Judge Advocate General's Office located at The Pentagon, Washington 25, D. C. In the field, administration of claims activities is the responsibility of the commanding generals of the armies and of the air matériel areas acting through their staff judge advocates with respect to personnel and installations under their respective jurisdictions. Immediate responsibility for the investigation of accidents or incidents and the processing of claims arising therefrom rests upon the commanding officer or that regiment or corresponding unit, or that higher echelon, or post, camp or station, which is most directly concerned, normally the commanding officer of the personnel involved or the post on which the accident or incident occurred. Each regiment or corresponding unit and each higher echelon or post, camp or station is required by regulation to have a claims officer appointed by order who, under the immediate direction of the judge advocate or of the commanding officer, is responsible for all claims activities of the command. The claims officer is authorized without further appointment to act as a board of one officer in any case within the provisions of AW 105, supra. The claims officer will likewise constitute the investigating officer or board of officers required by Army Regulations for the investigation of any accident or incident involving damage to or loss or destruction of property or personal injury or death, the immediate responsibility for the investigation of which rests upon the commanding officer by whom he is appointed.

§ 2.103 Delegations of authority to approve or disapprove claims. Subject to the right of appeal authority to approve or disapprove claims has been delegated by the Secretary of War, under the act of July 3, 1943, supra, to the commanding officers of the installations listed in § 2.107.

§ 2.104 Information. The public may secure information or submit claims or requests at the headquarters of any of the following officers:

(a) The commanding officer having immediate responsibility for the investigation of the accident or incident from which the claim arises.

(b) The commanding general of the army or air matériel area within which the accident or incident occured.

(c) The Chief of Claims and Litigation Group, Office of The Judge Advocate General.

(d) The commanding officer of any post, camp, station or unit in the United States, its territories or possessions.

(e) Any foreign claims commission.

§ 2.105 General course and method for the processing of claims. The investigation is conducted by a claim officer and the report of his investigation is made in triplicate, on War Department Form No. 30. (See § 201.8). If a claim has been submitted by any person or a partnership, association, corporation, or municipal or state governmental authority prior to the completion of the claims officer's report, the claim is studied in relation to the report and a recommendation is made as to whether or not the claim is allowable under the provisions of any of the statutes relating to claims. Public hearings are not required in connection with the investigation and preparation of the report which is normally based on affidavits and other written statements submitted by the claimant or secured by the claims officer. The claim is submitted on War Department Form No. 41, (Claim for Damages) in triplicate.

After completition of the report, it is submitted to the commanding officer by whom the claims officer has been appointed who notes thereon his approval or disapproval of the report. If he has delegated authority to do so, he takes administrative action to approve or disapprove the claim. If he does not have such delegated authority, the claim and claims officer's report are forwarded through military channels to the headquarters of the officer having authority to take final action on the claim. Should the claim be in excess of the sum of $1,000, except in claims coming within the provisions of the Federal Tort Claims Act, the claim and the related file are forwarded to the Office of the Judge Advocate General for consideration, and if the claim appears meritorious it may be reported by the Secretary of War to the Congress for consideration. Any settlement made by the Secretary of War or any officer having delegated authority is final and conclusive for all purposes, notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, except that under the act of July 3, 1943, or the Federal Tort Claims Act, an appeal may be taken to the Secretary of War from the disapproval of a claim, in whole or in part, by a designee of the Secretary of War, which appeal shall be taken within thirty (30) days from notice of disapproval of such a claim by filing a written notice of intention to appeal with the officer from whose determination the appeal is taken.

§ 2.106 Regulations. The following regulations have been adopted by the Secretary of War for the guidance of the Army and of the public in the administration of claims: AR 25–20, 25–25, 25–80, 25–90, 25–100, 55–500 and 100–64. (See CFR, Parts 306, 307 and 502). Changes have been published in Circular 219 WD 1946. An amendment to the act of July 3, 1943, supra, was adopted by the act of June 28, 1946 (Public Law 466, 79th Cong.) and published in sec. 1, Bul. 19, WD 1946. No regulation has yet been adopted to implement the Federal Tort Claims Act. It should be noted that because of the adoption of the Federal Tort Claims Act the above cited regulations are in the process of revision. These new regulations will be printed in the FEDERAL REGISTER when they have been approved.

The Office of Military Government, Berlin District, administers the U. S. sector of Berlin in accordance with U. S. Military Government policies. It also provides representation on the Berlin Kommandtura which is the quadripartite organization for the Government of the City of Berlin, which is responsible to the Coordinating Committee of the Allied Control Council.

The Regional Government Coordinating Office, established at Stuttgart, Germany, is the agency of OMGUS which is charged with supervision of the Laenderrat (Council of Minister Presidents of the Laender composing the U. S. Zone).

(b) Austria. The Commanding General, U. S. Forces, Austria, with Headquarters in Vienna, is the U. S. Commissioner accredited to the Allied Commission. This organization, established by the four Powers occupying Austria, acts through the Austrian Government in practically all matters. In his capacity as Commanding General, USFA, he is also Commander of the U. S. Zone, Austria and Military Governor with final authority in all operational matters. He is assisted by a Deputy U. S. Commissioner and by a political advisor with the rank of Ambassador. The fields of responsibility in which the Allied Commission has reserved the right to act directly through each of the four Commissioners as Commanders of their respective zones, are: Disarmament, the Protection and Security of Allied Forces in Austria, the Protection, care and Restitution of property belonging to the United Nations, the Disposal of German property, the Control and Evacuation of Prisoners of War and Displaced Persons, the Control of War Crimes Prosecutions and, temporarily, the Control of travel across Austrian borders.

There is an assistant to the Deputy U. S. Commissioner who has assigned to him advisers in the fields of economics and public administration.

An Executive Division is provided for the Assistant Deputy U. S. Commissioner with branches for Personnel, Reports, Operations, Supply, and Policy, and a joint Secretariat with the Secretary of Headquarters, U. S. Forces, Austria. This Division is responsible for the administration and operation of the U. S. element, Allied Commission for Austria.

The U. S. organization contains the following Divisions with functional responsibility:

(1) Labor Division. Labor supply, industrial relations, social insurance.

(2) Finance Division. Currency, fiscal policy, Austrian Financial Institutions.

(3) Economics Division. Food, agricultural, forestry, fuels, raw materials, public utilities, public works, industry, foreign trade, price control and rationing.

(4) Civil Supply Division. Supply of necessities to the civilian population, including displaced persons.

(5) Transportation Division. Water, rail, and road transportation.

(6) Reparations and Restitutions Division. Property control, reparations and restitutions, monuments, fine arts and archives.

(7) Internal Affairs Division. Public Safety, education, ecclesiastical affairs, local government and administration, public welfare, and public health.

(8) Legal Division. Military Government courts, Austrian courts, legislation and legal advice.

(9) Displaced Persons Division. Discharge of disarmed enemy personnel, care and repatriation of displaced persons.

(c) Italy. The administration of Military Government in the occupied areas of Italy, Venezia Giulia and Udine, is not a direct War Department responsibility. The Military Government of these areas, as well as the operation of the Allied Control Commission, is a combined operation in which this government participates with Great Britain. It is under the control of the Supreme Allied Commander, Mediterranean, who is President of the Allied Control Commission and Military Governor of the occupied zone. The Allied Commission is composed of British and U. S. elements, with French and Soviet representatives being limited to observation and liaison.

An Advisory Council, consisting of representatives of the United States, United Kingdom, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, France, Yugoslavia and Greece, has been cleared to assume the functions of the Allied Commission when Anglo-American control is relinquished. At the present time, the Allied Commission deals exclusively with the Italian Government which governs throughout Italy with the exception of the occupied zones of Venezia Giulia and Udine.

(d) Japan. The occupation of Japan is a combined operation under the control of a Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers (SCAP) who is assisted by a U. S. political advisor appointed by the Department of State. Policies regarding the occupation of Japan can be established by the Far Eastern Commission. In the absence of such policies, the United States can issue interim directives. The Allied Council for Japan, composed of representatives appointed by the United States, the British Commonwealth, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the Republic of China, acts in an advisory capacity.

If, regarding the implementation of policy decisions of the Far Eastern Commission on questions concerning a change in the regime of control, fundamental changes in the Japanese constitutional structure, or a change in the Japanese government as a whole, a member of the council disagrees with the Supreme Commander (or his deputy), the Supreme Commander will withhold the issuance of orders on these questions pending agreement thereon in the Far Eastern Commission.

SCAP exercises his control through the Imperial Japanese Government to which he issues his orders in the form of directives to the Central Liaison Office. His headquarters consists of a Chief of Staff, two Deputy Chiefs of Staff, and general Staff sections which function in a dual capacity, i. e. as the General Staff of the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers and for the U. S. Army Forces in the Pacific. SCAP also maintains a special staff to assist him in his functions as Military Governor, which is composed of the following sections: (1) Adjutant General; (2) Economic and Scientific Section; (3) Legal Section; (4) International Prosecution Section; (5) Public Health and Welfare; (6) Natural Resources; (7) Diplomatic; (8) Civil Information and Education; (9) General Procurement Agent; (10) Government Section, including the Korean Branch; (11) Civil Property Custodian; (12) Statistics and Reports; (13) Civil Personnel; (14) General Accounting; (15) Civil Intelligence.

SCAP controls Military Government Detachments in the field which are attached to United States tactical units. These detachments, in turn, maintain liaison with Japanese Area Liaison Officers which are under the control of the Japanese Central Liaison Office.

(e) Korea. The Military Governor of Korea south of the 38th parallel is under the command of the Commanding General, U. S. Army Forces in Korea, who is assisted by a U. S. political adviser, appointed by the Department of State. The Commanding General, USAFIK, is subordinate to the Commander of the U. S. Army Forces in the Pacific. The area of southern Korea occupied by U. S. Forces is directly governed and controlled by the Military Governor whose headquarters is at Seoul, through the following Governmental Bureaus which are directed and staffed in part by United States personnel: (1) Foreign Affairs; (2) Korean Civil Service Commission; (3) Planning; (4) Administration; (5) Property Custodian; (6) Finance; (7) Agriculture; (8) Education; (9) Public Health; (10) Commerce; (11) Mining and Industry; (12) Police; (13) Justice; (14) Transportation; (15) National Defense; (16) Public Information.

The Military Governor also directs the operations of Military Government groups in the field. These groups maintain liaison, for administrative purposes, with the 24th Corps.

§ 3.4 Military Government Ordnance No. 6. (a) There is hereby established a court designated "Military Government Court for Civil Actions".

(b) The court shall ultimately be composed of three members of judges, each shall be a member of the bar in good standing in one of the States or Territories or the District of Columbia of the United States, well grounded in law and of outstanding integrity and ability. Members of the court shall be appointed by the Deputy Military Governor for Germany for a term of not less than one year.

(c) The official seat or headquarters of the court shall be at Stuttgart, but the court may sit at such times and places within the United States Zone, the United States Sector of Berlin or Bremen Enclave as it may determine.

(d) The Deputy Military Governor shall appoint a president of said court within thirty (30) days from the promulgation of this Ordinance. The court will thereupon be authorized and constituted to function as such. Other members of the court may be appointed by the Deputy Military Governor as the business of the court may require.

(e) Cases will ordinarily be heard by one judge, assigned by the president, but the full court or two members thereof shall sit in any case when the president directs. The member or members of the court sitting in a particular case shall render decision thereon. Other members of the court not participating in the hearing or trial shall not participate in the decision or judgment.

(f) The president of the court shall appoint a clerk, a marshal and a stenographer, who will be stationed at the offices of the court in Stuttgart. Members of the court and the clerk shall not be assigned to any other functions in Military Government and shall give their full time to the business of the court. Deputy clerks, deputy marshals, consultants, interpreters and other employees may be appointed by the president of the court as the business of the court may require from time to time. The clerk and the marshal and other employees shall serve at the pleasure of the court, no tenure for such services being hereby established.

(g) The jurisdiction of the court is limited to civil actions for damages arising out of the operation of motor vehicles not owned by the United States Government.

(h) The event giving rise to a cause of action must have occurred within the territorial limits of the United States Zone, the United States Sector of Berlin or Bremen Enclave.

(i) One or more parties to the action must belong to one of the following groups:

(1) Personnel of the United States Army.

(2) Civilian United States nationals subject to military law.

(3) Civilian United States nationals not subject to military law.

(4) Visiting nationals of United Nations.

(j) Nothing in this Ordinance shall affect the right of the categories of persons designated in paragraph (i) to bring suit as plaintiffs in German courts.

(k) The court shall have the same functions and powers generally exercised by trial courts in similar causes of action in the United States, except as limited or modified in this Ordinance. A public trial shall be held at which the parties may appear in person or by counsel and may examine and cross-examine witnesses and may introduce evidence including depositions as permitted by the court in its sound discretion. Decision shall be based on the record so developed. Ancillary and ex parte matters, including motions, may be informally heard in chambers.

(l) Military personnel and personnel of Military Government, as well as others subject to the jurisdiction of the court, shall recognize and obey all process and orders of the court.

(m) Military officers and officials of Military Government shall aid in making it possible for all litigants properly to present their cases. Such officers and officials shall freely permit the interviewing of witnesses and the inspection of pertinent records by proper parties and shall facilitate the availability of parties and witnesses in causes and their attendance in court when required. The court shall grant such reasonable postponements and enter such orders in aid of a full investigation of the facts of a case as may be necessary to meet the ends of justice.

(n) There shall be no jury trials.

(o) No suit may be filed in this court after the period of six months has elapsed from the accrual of the cause of action, except that the six-months period shall not run during the time any defendant is not present within the United States Zone, the United States Sector of Berlin, or Bremen Enclave. If service of summons is not made upon the defendant within six months after suit is filed, the court may dismiss the action unless plaintiff shows to the court that failure to serve was because the defendant cannot be found or is outside its jurisdiction.

(p) The court shall not be bound by technical rules of evidence. The admission or reception of evidence rather than its rejection shall be favored. Factual determinations shall be based on evidence of rational probative force. Stipulations of fact shall be admissible.

(q) Technical rules of pleading shall not be controlling. Short simple statements of fact, allegations, and grounds of defense shall be required. Pleadings may be amended at any time with the court's approval and upon such terms as the court may require. The responsive pleading shall specifically admit or deny or explain each of the facts alleged unless the pleader is without knowledge, in which event he shall so state, such statement operating as a denial. Any allegation in a complaint, cross complaint, or intervener's petition not denied, as herein provided, in the responsive pleading shall be deemed to be admitted to be true, and may be so found by the court.

(r) The court shall have power to punish for contempt.

(s) The traffic regulations and rules of the road with respect to the operation of motor vehicles and the conduct of pedestrians in relation thereto in effect within the U. S. Zone, Berlin Sector, or Bremen Enclave shall apply to the persons in paragraph (i) of this section, in the same manner that they apply to German nationals and others.

(t) The court shall determine liability by applying, in general, the law applicable to similar cases in the United States. Liability shall be based on fault, negligent or intentional. Violation of the applicable rules of law, referred to in paragraph (s) above, shall be admissible as proof, but shall not be considered conclusive proof, of negligence. Contributory negligence may be pleaded and proved as a bar to recovery. In determining the application of the law as to liability, the court may be guided by the Restatement of the Law of Torts, as published by the American Law Institute.

(u) The following rules of procedure are hereby established:

(1) Any member of the bar in good standing of a State or Territory or the District of Columbia of the United States or any German lawyer presently qualified and authorized to practice within the United States Zone, the United States Sector of Berlin, or Bremen Enclave may represent clients in said court, although it is not required that a party be represented by counsel.

(2) There shall be one form of action to be known as a "Civil Action".

(3) A civil action is commended by filing a complaint in the office of the clerk of the court.

(4) The plaintiff, upon filing a complaint, shall deposit with the clerk of the court the sum of 250 marks, no part of which shall be in any event refunded. Upon a showing by the plaintiff that he is without means to pay fee, the court may waive all or part of it.

Witness fees, service fees, deposition fees and mileage shall be computed as prescribed by German law and, together with the sum paid as filing fee and other proper items, may be recovered as costs by the prevailing party. The clerk and marshal shall dispose of the official moneys coming into their hands as provided in section 5–309 et seq. of Military Government regulations.

(5) Upon the filing of a complaint the clerk shall issue a summons and deliver it for service to the marshal or his deputy or to a person specially appointed by the court. It shall be signed by the clerk under the authority of the court. The summons and a copy of the complaint shall be served together, in person, upon the defendant. If the defendant is not a natural person, service may be made in the manner and custom provided by German law except service by publication. Service must be obtained within the U. S. Zone, U. S. Sector of Berlin, or Bremen Enclave. Service may be accepted, waived or acknowledged in writing by filing with the clerk.

(6) The defendant's pleading, responsive to the complaint, shall be designated the answer and must be filed in the office of the clerk within twenty (20) days from the date of service of the summons. The plaintiff may file reply within twenty (20) days after service upon him of the answer.

(7) The marshal, his deputy or a person designated by the court to serve process, shall note his written certificate upon the original of the summons, subpoena or other process showing time and manner of service and file the same forthwith in the clerk's office. When a judgment becomes final the judgment creditor may file a praecipe for writ of execution with the clerk of the court. The clerk will thereupon issue such writ. The marshal shall service the same by calling upon the debtor for payment. If the debtor fails to pay the marshal shall seize and levy upon such of his property, personal or real, as he may be able to find within the jurisdiction of the court. He shall sell the same under directions of the court at public auction, making due return and accounting in the premises.

(8) Pleadings, orders and papers, other than the summons and complaint, required to be served upon an opposite party may be served by mailing in accordance with the German customs and laws. The attorney making such service by mail shall forthwith file in the clerk's office a certificate in the nature of proof of such service.

(9) In computing any period of time prescribed or allowed by these rules by order of court or by any applicable statute, the day of the act, event or default after which the designated period of time begins to run is not to be included. The last day of the period so computed is to be included unless it is a Sunday or a holiday observed by Military Government, in which event the period runs until the end of the next day which is neither a Sunday nor a holiday.

(10) All instruments, pleadings and orders of court shall be filed in the clerk's office and the same shall not become effective until such filings take place.

(11) Subpenas for the attendance of witnesses shall be issued by the clerk under the authority of the court upon the request of any party. Subpenas duces tecum shall be issued only upon order of court. Subpenas will be served on military personnel through the appropriate Commanding Officer.

(12) Depositions within the United States Zone, the United States Sector of Berlin, or Bremen Enclave shall be taken before a consul or consular agent of the United States or before some United States military or Military Government officer authorized to administer oaths who may be designated by the court.

(13) The court, upon the conclusion of a case, shall find the facts specially and separately state its conclusions of law in writing.

(14) Any member of the court may enter a judgment by default upon proper showing, or dispose of other ex parte matters.

(15) In any action in which any part of the relief sought is a judgment for a sum of money or the disposition of a sum of money or disposition of any other thing capable of delivery, a party may by leave of court deposit with the clerk of the court all or any part of such sum or thing.

(16) The clerk's and the marshal's offices with the clerk of deputy and marshal or deputy in attendance shall be open during ordinary office hours on all days except Sundays and holidays observed by Military Government. Deputy clerks and deputy marshals may be stationed in places other than in Stuttgart, as the business of the court requires.

(17) All evidence shall be taken stenographically if either party or the court requires. The party requesting a stenographer to take the testimony shall advance such fees for the stenographer as may be fixed by the court. If the court requests the services of a stenographer, each party may be required to advance one-half of the cost of such services. A typewritten transcript of the evidence and of the proceedings shall not be made unless ordered by either party or by the court. The costs of same shall be paid by the party ordering the transcript or by both parties, one-half each, if the court so orders.

(v) The court shall have broad discretion in the matter of procedure and may modify or supplement the rules contained in paragraph 21 from time to time. The Federal Rules of Civil Procedures may be followed as a guide in the premises.

(w) In the adjudication of claims of exemption from levy and sale underwrit of execution, and in attachment and garnishment proceedings, the law of the domicile of the judgement debtor shall control, provided that the allowance of claims of exemption by other than German nationals shall be subject to the sound discretion of the court.

(x) Judgments for damages shall be in German legal tender and shall have the same force and effect as valid judgments rendered by German courts of competent jurisdiction in the United States Zone.

(y) Equity jurisdiction in aid of the validity and enforcement of its judgments is hereby granted to said court.

(z) A judgment hereunder shall become final on the thirtieth day after rendition unless the aggrieved party, prior to that time, files a petition for review. In that event the court shall certify a complete record of the proceedings, including any transcript of testimony, to the Director of the Office of Military Government of the land or the Sector of Enclave in which the case was tried, who may affirm such judgment, which thereupon becomes final, or set the same aside and order a new trial.

By order of Military Government. (Approved by Lieutenant General Lucius D. Clay, Deputy Military Governor, on May 21, 1946.)

[SEAL] B. M. FITCH,
Brigadier General,
Acting The Adjutant General.

Pursuant to the provisions of section 3 of the Administrative Procedure Act of June 11, 1946 (Public Law 404—79th Congress), the following rules describing the organization of that part of the Corps of Engineers, War Department, concerned with the administration of laws for the protection and preservation of navigation and navigable waters of the United States, and rules of practice and procedure and substantive rules adopted in connection therewith, are hereby stated and published for the information of the public:

ORGANIZATION

§ 209.10 Civil functions of the War Department. In addition to its military duties, the War Department, acting through the Corps of Engineers performs extensive civil functions which include the execution, operation, maintenance, and control of river and harbor and flood control improvements authorized by law, and the administration of laws for the protection and preservation of navigation and navigable waters of the United States. Later paragraphs will describe the organization of the Corps, in Washington and in the field, and explain its jurisdiction and methods of operation.

§ 209.20 The Corps of Engineers—(a) Central organization. The civil functions of the War Department are carried out by the Corps of Engineers. The Chief of Engineers commands the Corps of Engineers and is responsible to the Secretary of War. On his staff in the Office of the Chief of Engineers, Washington 25, D. C., the Director of Civil Works is directly responsible for the civil functions described herein.

(b) Field organization. For administrative convenience and to permit decentralization of operations, the country is divided into thirteen "divisions" which are subdivided into fifty "districts". Each division is in charge of a division engineer, who supervises activities of the district engineers, who in turn are in charge of the district offices. All division and district engineers are commissioned army officers. The boundaries of districts and divisions are governed by the limits of the watersheds of principal rivers.

§ 209.30 The Supervisor of New York Harbor. The laws enacted for the preservation of the tidal waters of New York Harbor, its adjacent or tributary waters, and the waters of Long Island Sound are administered by the supervisor of New York Harbor, a line officer of the Navy, under the direction of the Secretary of War. The supervisor is charged under the laws with the duties of preventing any obstructive or injurious deposits in the waters under his jurisdiction and the prevention of any interference with safe navigation of the channels of the harbor by deep-draft vessels.

§ 209.40 The California Debris Commission—(a) Organization and jurisdiction. This Commission, consisting of three officers of the Corps of Engineers appointed by the President with the consent of the Senate, was created by the act of Congress approved March 1, 1893 (27 Stat. L., p. 507), was organized in San Francisco, Calif., on June 8, 1893, and has jurisdiction and duties extending over the drainage area of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers, comprising the great central valley of California and extending from the crest of the Sierra Nevada on the east to that of the Coast Range on the west and from Mount Shasta and the Pit River Basin on the north to the Tehachapi Mountains on the south. These rivers empty into the head of Suisun Bay, ultimately discharging into the Pacific Ocean through the connecting bays and straits and the Golden Gate.

(b) Duties. The duties prescribed by the act creating the Commission include the regulation of hydraulic mining in such a way as to permit its resumption and continuance under such restrictions as to prevent the resulting debris from being carried into navigable waters or otherwise causing damage.

§ 209.50 Jurisdiction of the Corps of Engineers. These are the principal laws for the protection and preservation of navigation and navigable waters of the United States, administered by the Corps of Engineers:

(a) Bridges and dams across waterways. Location and plans of bridges, dams, dikes, and causeways across navigable waters must be approved by the Chief of Engineers and Secretary of War prior to construction. Section 9 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1151; 33 U. S. C. 401). General Bridge Act of March 23, 1906 (34 Stat. 84; 33 U. S. C. 491). General Bridge Act of 1946 (Public Law 601; 79th Congress).

(b) Piers, dredging, etc., in waterways. Plans for wharves, piers, dolphins, booms, weirs, breakwaters, bulkheads, jetties, or other structures, and excavation or fill in navigable waters must be recommended by the Chief of Engineers and approved by the Secretary of War. Section 10 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1151; 33 U. S. C. 403).

(c) Harbor lines. Authorizes the Secretary of War to establish harbor lines, beyond which no piers, wharves, bulkheads, or other works may be extended. Section 11 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1151; 33 U. S. C. 404).

(d) Pollution control. (1) Deposit of refuse matter in navigable waters forbidden. Section 13 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1152; 33 U. S. C. 407).

(2) Deposits in the tidal waters of the harbor of New York, adjacent or tributary waters, or Long Island Sound forbidden. Act of June 29, 1888 (25 Stat. 209), as amended by section 3 of the River and Harbor Act of August 18, 1894 (28 Stat. 360), by section 8 of the Act of May 28, 1908 (35 Stat. 426), and by the Act of February 16, 1909 (35 Stat. 623) (33 U. S. C. 441–451).

(f) Obstructive bridges. (1) Bridges found to be unreasonable obstructions to navigation may be ordered altered by the Secretary of War at expense of bridge owner. Section 18 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1153; 33 U. S. C. 502).

(2) Bridges used and operated for the purpose of carrying railroad traffic, or both railroad and highway traffic, may be ordered altered by the Secretary of War and costs apportioned between the United States and the bridge owner. Act of June 21, 1940 (54 Stat. 497; 33 U. S. C. 511–523).

(g) Removal of wrecks. (1) Sunken craft or similar obstruction endangering navigation subject to removal at discretion of the Secretary of War without liability, if abandoned or in existence for longer than thirty days. Section 19 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1154; 33 U. S. C. 414).

(2) In emergency, Secretary of War may take immediate possession of and remove wrecks. Section 20 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1154; 33 U. S. C. 415).

(3) Owners of sunken vessels must mark the wreck until removed or abandoned. Section 15 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1152; 33 U. S. C. 409).

(h) Navigation regulations. It is the duty of the Secretary of War to prescribe regulations for the use, administration, and navigation of navigable waters required for the protection of life and property, or of operations of the United States in channel improvement, covering all matters not specifically delegated by law to some other executive department. Section 4 of the River and Harbor Act of August 18, 1894 (28 Stat. 362), as amended by Sections 6 and 11 of the Act of June 13, 1902 (32 Stat. 374), and by section 7 of the Act of August 8, 1917 (40 Stat. 266; 33 U. S. C. 1).

(i) Danger zone regulations. The Secretary of War is authorized to prescribe regulations for the use and navigation of waters endangered or likely to be endangered by Coast Artillery fire, or by the proving operations of Government ordnance proving grounds, and of waters occupied by submarine mines, mine fields, submarine cables, or other material and accessories pertaining to seacoast fortifications, or by any plant or facility engaged in the execution of any public project of river and harbor improvement. Sections 1–4 of Chapter XIX of the Army Appropriation Act of July 9, 1918 (40 Stat. 892; 33 U. S. C. 3).

(j) Regulations for floating of logs and rafts. The Secretary of War is authorized to prescribe rules and regulations to govern the floating of loose timber and logs, and sack rafts of timber and logs, and other methods of navigation on waterways whereon the floating of loose timber and logs and sack rafts is the principal method of navigation. Act of May 9, 1900 (31 Stat. 172; 33 U. S. C. 410).

(k) Dumping regulations. The Secretary of War is authorized to prescribe regulations to govern the transportation and dumping into any navigable water, or waters adjacent thereto, of refuse materials. Section 4 of the Act of March 3, 1905 (33 Stat. 1147; 33 U. S. C. 419).

(l) Anchorage regulations. The Secretary of War is authorized to define and establish anchorage grounds and to adopt rules and regulations in relation thereto. Section 7 of the River and Harbor Act of March 4, 1915 (38 Stat. 1053; 33 U. S. C. 471).

(m) Drawbridge regulations. It is the duty of bridge owners to operate drawbridges under such rules and regulations as the Secretary of War deems necessary for the passage of water craft. Section 5 of the Act of August 18, 1894 (28 Stat. 362), as amended by section 8 of the Act of June 13, 1902 (32 Stat. 374) (33 U. S. C. 499). Section 4 of the Bridge Act of March 23, 1906 (34 Stat. 85; 33 U. S. C. 494).

(n) Bridge tolls. Rates of toll for transit over certain toll bridges are subject to regulation by the Secretary of War. Section 4 of the Bridge Act of March 23, 1906 (34 Stat. 85; 33 U. S. C. 494). Section 17 of the Act of June 10, 1930 (46 Stat. 552; 33 U. S. C. 498a). Section 1 of the Act of June 27, 1930 (46 Stat. 821; 33 U. S. C. 498b). Act of August 21, 1935 (49 Stat. 670; 33 U. S. C. 503–507).

(o) Flood control regulations. (1) Section 3 of the Flood Control Act of June 22, 1936 (49 Stat. 1571; 33 U. S. C. 701c), as amended and supplemented, authorizes the Secretary of War to prescribe regulations to govern the maintenance and operation of completed flood control works by local interests.

(2) Section 7 of the Flood Control Act December 22, 1944 (58 Stat. 890; 33 U. S. C. 709), authorizes the Secretary of War to prescribe regulations for the use of storage allocated for flood control or navigation at reservoirs constructed wholly or in part with Federal funds provided on the basis of such purposes.

(3) Section 4 of the Flood Control Act December 22, 1944, as amended by Section 4 of the Flood Control Act of 1946, approved July 24, 1946 (Public Law 526; 79th Congress), authorizes the Secretary of War to prescribe rules and regulations to govern the public use of reservoir areas for recreational purposes.

§ 209.60 Delegations of authority. In the interests of efficient administration authority has been delegated by the Secretary of War and by the Chief of Engineers to subordinates to act in certain specific cases as described below.

(a) The Chief of Engineers—(1) Piers, dredging, etc., in waterways. The Secretary of War has authorized the issuance of War Department permits by local officers of the Engineer Department, at the option of the Chief of Engineers, for work and structures in or over navigable waters in cases which are entirely routine and which involve no difference of opinion on the part of engineer authorities, nor doubt as to the law, facts, or regulations, nor any opposition or other considerations which should be decided by higher authority.

A case is held to be entirely routine if the circumstances are such that approval of the plans would unquestionably be given were the matter presented to the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War. The mere fact that proposed work, such as dredging, for example, is extensive in scope does not necessarily remove it from the class of routine cases if no possible objection to the work can be foreseen.

Under the provisions of section 11 of the Act of March 3, 1899, the Secretary of War has authorized the Chief of Engineers to issue permits for works of a temporary or relatively non-obstructive character channelward of harbor lines approved by the Secretary of War.

(2) Removal of wrecks. The authority vested in the Secretary of War under sections 19 and 20 of the Act of March 3, 1899, concerning the removal of wrecks, has been delegated to the Chief of Engineers and also to the District Engineer in the case of emergency action under section 20.

(3) Use of Government works. The authority of the Secretary of War to grant permission for the temporary occupation or use of public works under section 14 of the Act of March 3, 1899 has been delegated to the Chief of Engineers.

(4) Supervisor of New York Harbor. The powers and duties of the Secretary of War with respect to the Supervisor of New York Harbor under the Act of June 29, 1938 are exercised through the Chief of Engineers.

(5) Bridge repairs. The Secretary of War has authorized offices of the Engineer Department to interpose no objection to the closing of bridges for limited periods to permit repairs. Periods in excess of 15 days must be acted upon by the Chief of Engineers; Division and District Engineers may act on lesser periods.

(b) Division engineers—(1) Piers, dredging, etc., in waterways. The Chief of Engineers has authorized Division Engineers to issue direct from their own offices, in the name of the Secretary of War, letters of authorization for dumping, and for the construction of wharves, piers, revetments and other forms of shore protection, and oil well and appurtenant structures in navigable waters of the United States within the limits of their divisions provided the work is clearly such as will not interfere with present or prospective commerce nor injuriously affect the regimen of the waterway nor extend channelward of the limits that may reasonably be expected to be adopted for harbor lines. Subject to the above restrictions they may authorize dumping and minor and readily removable structures such as fenders, false work for the construction of legally approved bridges, booms, dolphins, and piles, channelward of established harbor lines provided that in tidal waters the amount of tidewater displaced is of minor importance.

Division Engineers are authorized to include in permits issued under the above authority any connected work or structures for which District Engineers are herein authorized to issue permits separately.

Division Engineers are not empowered to authorize wharves, piers, revetments, or other forms of shore protection of permanent or semi-permanent character extending beyond the limitations fixed by established harbor lines, nor fishing structures, nor any structures connected with a bridge if the plans of the bridge have not been approved by the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War, nor structures at any bridge permanently altering the clear width of channel or other openings from those shown on the plans approved by the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War.

Division and District Engineers are authorized to approve plans for structures and work, of the class they are authorized to issue permits, when the application for approval is submitted after the commencement or completion of the structures or work, subject to certain conditions.

Division Engineers are authorized to revive and extend for successive periods not exceeding three years each the life of permits which have been issued by District Engineers of their division or by the Division Engineer, whether issued by general or special authority; provided that public notice is issued, that evidence satisfactory to the Division Engineer is furnished of the bona fide intention of the permittee to complete the work within a reasonable time, and that there has been no change in the attendant circumstances since the issuance of the permit sufficient to warrant the forwarding of the case to the Chief of Engineers for consideration.

Division and District Engineers are empowered to approve revised plans for works under permits issued by them.

(2) Bridge repairs. Division Engineers are authorized to interpose no objection to the closing of bridges to permit repairs for periods exceeding 48 hours but not exceeding 15 days.

(c) District Engineers—(1) Piers, dredging, etc., in waterways. District Engineers are authorized to issue direct from their own offices, in the name of the Secretary of War, letters of authorization for the following classes of work and structures in or over navigable waters of the United States within the limits of the district under their charge:

(i) Dredging.

(ii) Dredging and dumping combined, when possible interference or obstruction to navigation by the character and amount of material to be dumped is so small as to be negligible.

(iii) Dumping of material not easily transported by currents when the least low-water depth over the deposited material will be not less than 50 feet.

(iv) Minor and readily removable structures such as pipes, wires, cables, temporary false work for the construction of legally approved bridges, fenders, booms, dolphins, and piles channelward of Federal harbor lines or where no harbor lines exist, when the possible obstruction to navigation is so small as to be negligible.

This authorization shall not be construed to apply to submarine cables for which, under the provisions of act of Congress approved May 27, 1921, "Relating to the landing and operation of submarine cables in the United States," Presidential licenses are required (42 Stat. 8; 47 U. S. C. 34–39). Also this authorization shall not be construed as applying to transmission lines which form a part of a waterpower "project" as defined in section 3 (11) of the Federal Power Act.

District Engineers are not empowered under this paragraph to authorize fishing structures, nor any structures connected with a bridge if the plans of the bridge have not been approved by the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War, nor structures at any bridge altering the clear width of channel or other openings from those shown on the plans approved by the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War.

(2) Bridge repairs. District Engineers are authorized to interpose no objection to the closing of bridges to permit repairs for periods not exceeding 48 hours.

(3) Removal of wrecks. The Secretary of War has delegated authority to District Engineers under section 20 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1154; 33 U. S. C. 415), to take immediate action in the removal of sunken vessels under circumstances of emergency.

§ 209.80 Inquiries and applications. The public may secure full information on any matter coming under the jurisdiction of the Corps of Engineers or make submittals or requests by addressing the nearest District Engineer at the address listed above.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

§ 209.110 Purpose. The following paragraphs state the general course and method by which the functions of the Corps of Engineers are channeled and determined, including the nature and requirements of all procedures as well as forms and instructions. They are intended to show what the department requires and how the Department acts in a given type of case.

§ 209.120 Bridges and dams across waterways—(a) How to obtain approval of plans. To obtain the approval of the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War the builder of a bridge must file an application on a prescribed form, copies of which may be obtained from the District Engineer. The application must show the name and address of the applicant; the waterway and location of the bridge; citation to the Act of Congress or the State legislature authorizing the bridge; and be accompanied by a map of the location and plans of the bridge showing these features which affect navigation; papers to establish the identity of the supplicant.

(1) Prior authority necessary. A bridge cannot lawfully be constructed across any navigable waterway of the United States until legislative authority has been obtained and the plans have been approved by the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War. (See Section 9, River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1151; 33 U. S. C. 401), General Bridge Act of March 23, 1906 (34 Stat. 84; 33 U. S. C. 491), and General Bridge Act of 1946 (Public Law 601–79th Congress).)

(2) Legislation required. The legislative authority must be obtained from Congress if the bridge crosses an international waterway. If the navigable portions of the waterway are not within the limits of a single State, the General Bridge Act of 1946 grants authority of Congress and no special act is necessary. If the navigable portions of the waterway are within the limits of a single State, State authority is necessary.

(3) Form. The application for the approval of plans should be made on Form 92b. (See also Information Circular, Form 96a, copies of which may be obtained from the District Engineer.)

(4) Signature. In case of signature by an agent or by an official of a corporation, a duly authenticated copy of the authority for the action must accompany the application.

(5) Identification to the Department. If the applicant is a corporation, it must furnish for the information of the Department copies of the following papers, all properly authenticated: The charter or articles of incorporation; The minutes of organization; Extract from minutes showing the names of existing officers of the corporation.

(6) Identification in cases of application by State or county officers. Where State laws vest in State or county officers, such as boards of supervisors and county courts, the power to authorize the construction of bridges, they must furnish with their application certified extracts from their proceedings showing their action authorizing the proposed structure.

(7) Plans. One set of the plans furnished should be on tracing line. The location of the work and the essential features covered by the application will be outlined in red.

(8) Size of sheets. The drawings will be on sheets 8 by 10½ inches in size. The dimensions specified are to be measured in all cases from edge to edge of the sheet and include a margin of 1 inch along one of the 8-inch sides for binding purposes. As few sheets will be used as necessary to show clearly what is proposed.

(9) Special instructions. The scale will be shown graphically. The north and south line will be indicated by a meridian arrow. Soundings and elevations will be shown in feet and referred to the established Government datum plane at the locality.

The direction of currents will be indicated by an arrow, and the strength of currents, both ebb and flow, or low water and high water, will be shown close to the proposed location of the bridge, and at both ends of the waterway shown on the map of location.

The plans will show in figures the least clear height of the lowest part of the superstructure over navigation openings, with reference to the planes of mean high water and mean low water if the bridge is to cross tidal waters; if the waters are nontidal, to the planes of extreme high water, ordinary boating water, and low water; and, if records of river heights are available, to the plane above which flood waters have not remained at any time longer than five consecutive days.

If harbor lines have been established at the site of the bridge, their position will be shown on the plans. Each drawing will have a simple title, preferably in the lower right-hand corner.

(10) Structural details. Only those should be shown which are needed to illustrate the effect of the proposed structure on navigation. If the bridge is to be equipped with a draw, the latter will be shown in two positions: closed and open.

(11) To whom application should be presented. The application and the papers and plans accompanying it should be submitted to the U. S. District Engineer in charge of the waterway.

(b) Action on application. When an application is received for approval of plans for a bridge, the district engineer will verify the authority for construction of the bridge, review the application and plans as to sufficiency, ascertain the views of local authorities and other interested parties, and submit a report transmitting the application to the Chief of Engineers for departmental action, all as outlined in the following subparagraphs.

The procedure prescribed above will also be following for applications involving modification or replacement of existing bridges over navigable waters.

(1) Verification of construction authorization. District engineers will require applicants to establish their identity to insure that the applicant represents the individual, agency or corporation to whom Congress or the State has granted the authority for bridge construction. If the applicant is a corporation, there will be required a copy of its charter or articles of incorporation and of the minutes of organization; also extracts from the corporation minutes showing the names of the present officers and the acceptance by the corporation of the provisions of the act of Congress, all properly authenticated.

(2) Preliminary review of application and plans. If upon preliminary examination of the application the district engineer feels that it must inevitably be denied (as might be the case, for example, if a bridge with too little clearance were proposed to be built), he at once notifies the applicant that the desired permit cannot be granted and states his reasons. If, however, the applicant desires that his application receive the further consideration of the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary, and in all other cases in which the application is not defective on its face, the district engineer is required to give public notice that the application has been filed and proceed with the case.

(3) Notice and hearing. Public hearings are required unless the report of the district engineer convincingly demonstrates that from the circumstances no proper objection to the structure can exist. In any event a public notice must be issued to all interested parties.

The notice is a brief formal statement identifying the application, to which the hearing relates, indicates the place and time of hearing, customarily 30 days after notice) and indicates the particular issues to which the hearing will pertain. Notice is communicated to the applicant by letter and mailed to State, county, and municipal authorities and all other known interested parties. It is also posted at the post office nearest the site and public places in the vicinity.

Hearings are public and conducted in an informal manner. The district engineer, or another officer attached to his staff, presides. At the opening of the hearing the presiding officer announces (i) the purpose of the hearing, (ii) that the Department desires all interested parties to make full and frank statements of their views, (iii) that the Department will consider all evidence and arguments presented, and (iv) that later ex parte evidence and arguments are not desired unless the matter is new, material, and could not be presented at the hearing. The statutes bearing on the subject matter of the hearing and any other pertinent documents are read aloud and the discussion is then opened. The submission of written statements is invited and encouraged. Anyone desiring to do so may speak. Statements, written or oral, are not under oath, and cross-examination is not usually permitted. No fixed order has been established for the presentation of evidence or argument although proponents are generally heard first, followed by opponents with full opportunity afforded for rebuttals.

(4) District engineer's report. When the minutes of the hearing have been transcribed and the district engineer's study has been completed, the district engineer prepares his report, which is a detailed statement of his findings, conclusions, and recommendations based on information obtained at the hearing and knowledge derived from his experience and office data. His report must include: (i) Comparison of proposed bridge with existing bridges over the waterway, (ii) attitude of local authorities, (iii) summary of objections offered at public hearing, with his comments thereon, (iv) nature and extent of navigation, (v) probable effect on navigation, present and prospective, with reasons, on harbor lines and on flood heights and drift, (vi) his remarks and recommendations with any recommended special conditions to be attached to the instrument if approved, (vii) a list of the parties notified, the record of hearing and all other pertinent papers to complete the record.

The district engineer's report must include description of the commerce on the waterway past the site of the proposed bridge, the number and type of vessels, the number of vessel trips, and the principal method of handling traffic, whether in single vessels or in tows. If tows are used, the manner in which they are made up shall be stated, whether in fleets or in single vessels arranged tandem. The probable maximum length and breadth of tows during the lifetime of the bridge shall be given and the manner in which they are likely to pass the navigation opening, whether directly ahead on a line approximately parallel to the channel axis, or by flanking movement. If flanking movement is likely, the report shall also give the width of waterway required for the passage of the maximum-sized tow in the most oblique position it will probably have with respect to the channel axis.

The district engineer must state specifically whether he recommends approval of the plans. If he finds them objectionable, a detailed statement of his objections must be submitted. If the clearances which he recommends are smaller than the corresponding clearances on that portion of the waterway bearing the larger or more important traffic between the proposed location and principal connecting waterways, he must state the names and locations of the bridges in which the larger clearances are found and give in detail the reasons for his recommendations. If he considers the plans do not afford reasonable passage of flood waters in and outside of the natural stream bed, the applicant will be so advised. If the applicant declines to submit plans with adequate water passages, the case is referred to the Chief of Engineers with full information and appropriate recommendation.

If approval is recommended, a draft must be furnished of all conditions to which the instrument should be subject with the exception that conditions found in the standard bridge-approval forms (ED 92c and ED 92d), may be designated by a reference to the proper form number and need not be written out in full.

(5) Division Engineer's action. The district engineer's report is attached to the application and transmitted to the division engineer with all other documents, including the minutes of the hearing. The division engineer considers the entire file and, if he believes the report to be adequate and he concurs in its recommendations, he indicates his approval by adding an indorsement, and by forwarding the whole file to the Department.

In case the division engineer disagrees with the district engineer, or believes that additional material should be obtained, he may return the file to the district engineer with appropriate instructions, which are added as an indorsement. The district engineer adds his indorsement showing compliance with the instructions and returns the file to the division engineer.

Regardless of whether the district engineer and he have agreed, the division engineer states his recommendations, supported by reasons when necessary, in an indorsement and forwards the entire file.

(6) Final action. The file is received in the office of the Director of Civil Works where it is again considered by engineers and, if necessary, by one or more attorneys. When the Director disagrees with the reporting officers as to a matter of substance, he may return the case for reconsideration, or, when he disagrees as to a matter of procedure, he may return the case with instructions to correct the procedural defect (such as the failure to give notice, or to hold a public hearing). When the application is favorably considered by the Director he prepares a draft of endorsement and instrument of approval for the signature of the Chief of Engineers. Approval of the Corps of Engineers is signified by his signature to the endorsement and instrument and the file is forwarded to the Secretary of War.

When favorable action is taken on an application, the instrument of approval, signed by the Secretary and the Chief of Engineers, is transmitted to the district engineer to be relayed to the applicant. When unfavorable action is taken, the reasons for rejection and the modifications of plans which would induce reconsideration are stated by the chief to the division engineer, who notifies the district engineer, who in turn informs the applicant.

(c) Dams, dikes, and causeways. The requirements as to primary authority and approval by the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War of the plans and location applicable to bridges are also applicable to dams, dikes, and causeways in navigable waters of the United States. Such structures may be biult under authority of the legislature of a State across waterways the navigable portions of which lie wholly within the limits of a single State, otherwise an Act of Congress is necesary. Applications for approval of plans and location should be in the form of a letter submitted to the District Engineer in charge of the waterway. Information similar to that required in the case of bridges, together with tracings showing plans and location, should be furnished. Applications for authority to construct water power dams are subject to the provisions of the Federal Power Act, revised to August 26, 1935. Inquiries concerning the required procedure in such cases should be addressed to the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D. C.

§ 209.130 Piers, dredging, etc., in waterways.—(a) Laws relating to permits. (1) Section 10 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, prohibits the placing of any structures in or over any navigable waters of the United States, or excavating or depositing material therein, unless the work has been recommended by the Chief of Engineers and authorized by the Secretary of War. Section 14 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, provides that the Secretary of War on the recommendation of the Chief of Engineers, may grant permission for the temporary occupation or use of any sea wall, bulkhead, jetty, dike, levee, wharf, pier, or other work built by the United States. Such authorization or permission is ordinarily granted in the form of a permit.

(2) Section 1 of the River and Harbor Act of June 13, 1902, provides that any person or persons, corporations, municipal or private, desiring to improve any navigable river, or any part thereof, at their own expense and risk may do so upon the approval of the plans and specifications of said proposed improvement by the Secretary of War and the Chief of Engineers.

(3) Permits are not required for pipe, wire, or cable crossings when attached to the fixed parts of bridges if the pipe, wire, or cable does not reduce the headroom or clear width of boat passages under the bridge. Such attachments will be considered a part of the bridge, and the bridge owner will be responsible for them under his bridge franchise.

(4) Submarine cables connecting the United States with any foreign country, directly or indirectly, or connecting any portion of the United States with any other portion thereof, are subject to the provisions of an Act of Congress of May 27, 1921 (42 Stat. 8), prescribing that such cables shall not be laid or operated unless a written license therefor has been issued by the President. In every case where a cable lies in navigable water of the United States a War Department permit therefor is necessary. If, in addition, the case is one requiring a license from the President under the provisions of the Act of May 27, 1921, the War Department does not take action until the Presidential license is issued. Facilities for the transmission of electric energy between the United States and foreign countries and for the exportation and importation of natural gas to or from foreign countries are also subject to the provisions of the Federal Power Act of August 26, 1935 (49 Stat. 838), and the Natural Gas Act of June 21, 1938 (52 Stat. 821), and a Presidential permit is required (Executive Order 8202, July 13, 1939).

(5) Policies and procedures applicable to those operations in which the Corps of Engineers may be called upon to participate under the Federal Power Act are stated in Section 209.140. Licensing activities of the California Debris Commission are stated in Section 209.160.

(b) Application. (1) The application and plans will be prepared in accordance with instructions in Information Circular, Form 96a, copies of which may be obtained from the District Engineer. District Engineers will furnish applicants all proper advice and assistance in the preparation of the application and plans.

(2) The application consists of a letter requesting the permit, accompanied by maps and plans of the proposed work. The letter of application should be addressed to the District Engineer in charge of the locality in which the work lies. Such officers have general authority to issue permits for certain classes of work, and will forward to proper authority applications for permits on which they cannot themselves take final action.

(3) There is no prescribed form. The letter of application should bear the address of the applicant and the date, contain the name of waterway, location of the work, description of work, and a statement whether the work is within corporate limits of a municipality.

(4) The letter should give any explanation of the plans necessary to enable the Department to determine exactly what is proposed and to show that the structure is not likely to fail and become a danger or obstruction to navigation, or injure the navigable capacity of any of the public navigable waters. If dredging or dumping is proposed, the application should give the exact location of the work, the depth to which the proposed dredging is to be carried, the approximate amount of the material to be removed, and the definite location of the deposit of the dredged material and the depth to be left over it. Where dredging or dumping is proposed in connection with other work, a separate application for dredging is not required, but the information above specified should be included in the application.

(5) The District Engineer is required to notify the municipal authorities of any application for work lying within the corporate limits of a municipality. To save time and correspondence, every application for a permit should state the city or town within which the work lies, or should definitely state that it lies outside of the limits of any city or incorporated town, unless such fact is clearly shown by the maps and description.

(6) The letter of application, attached papers, and maps should be complete, without reference to other correspondence not attached, and should include any special authorization for the work that is prerequisite to the action of the Department, as, for example, a copy of the State permit for the work, if the laws of the State in which it is situated require the obtaining of such instruments.

(7) The letter of application must be signed by the owner or proprietor of the proposed work, or by his duly authorized agent, and not by the contractor whom it is proposed to employ on the work, except in the case of applications for permits for dredging.

(8) A copy of the letter of application should be furnished for the convenience of the District Engineer, and all attached papers should be furnished in quadruplicate. Information Circular, Form 96a, contains two examples of letters of application.

(c) Maps and plans. (1) Maps and plans showing the location, extent, and character of the proposed work are an essential part of an application for a permit. Such drawings are attached to, and form a part of, the permit issued, and must be carefully prepared in the form prescribed.

(2) As the employment of a suitable engineer or draftsman will often be necessary for the preparation of the drawings, parties desiring to do work in navigable waters are advised to consult with the district engineer, by letter or in person, in order that they may avoid the unnecessary expense of preparing plans for works for which permission must be denied in the interests of navigation, or of preparing plans that do not meet the requirements.

(3) One set of plans on tracing linen, and three sets of blueprints, or other copies are required. An exception will be made to the rule requiring a set of plans on tracing linen, when the map or drawing is a part of a printed map or plan which is sufficiently clear to permit reproduction by the photographic process; and, in ordinary applications for dredging, all four copies of the map may be blueprints, which may often be secured from the district engineer at small cost. In all cases four complete sets must be furnished.

(4) The drawings will be on sheets 8 by 10½ inches in size, measured in all cases from edge to edge of the sheet, including a margin of 1 inch along one of the 8-inch sides for binding purposes. As few sheets will be used as necessary to show clearly what is proposed.

(5) All drawings must be drawn to scale and the scale shown graphically. All maps must have the usual meridian arrow showing the north. When two maps are shown on the same sheet they should be so drawn that their meridians are parallel. It is desired that where convenient the maps be so drawn that the north be at the top of the map.

(6) On all maps of rivers, or plans showing river areas, the direction of the current will be indicated by a suitable arrow.

(7) All soundings and elevations should be shown in feet, and referred to the established Government datum plane at the locality. This plane is usually—

On the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, mean low water.

On the Pacific coast, mean lower low water.

On the Great Lakes, low water datum or mean lake level.

On rivers, low water.

(8) Further information, including the location and description of any gauge or bench marks that may be available, may be secured from the district engineer. Plans for structures in tidal waterways should contain indication of the tidal range.

(9) The instructions below provide for showing in red ink the structures proposed. This should be neatly and carefully done, so as not to obscure any details of the drawing. If desired by the applicant, the colored lines will be drawn in at the district engineer's office. In the event modification of an existing structure is contemplated only the new work should be shown in red.

(10) Each drawing should have a simple title, preferably in the lower right-hand corner, telling what the map is.

(11) A map on a small scale showing the location of the proposed work is always required, unless the other plans submitted clearly show the general location. The location map may be on a separate sheet, or may be drawn as an inset map on a corner of the sheet showing the details of structure or work. It may be traced from a Coast Survey, Lake Survey, or Geological Survey, or other general map, and should bear a note showing the number or title of such map or chart, thus: "Traced from U. S. Coast Survey Chart 273." The name of the waterway and the names of towns and prominent points should be placed on this map, and any lines of latitude or longitude should be included in the tracing and correctly numbered. The location of the proposed work should be marked in red ink on all copies of this map.

(12) Plans of the proposed work should show:

(i) For wharves, piers, bulkheads, etc. The ground plan or layout of the proposed structure showing the shore line (both high and low water line) and any existing structures in the immediate vicinity. In rivers, the plan should usually show the high and low water lines on both banks of the stream. The depth of water in the vicinity of the proposed structure should be shown by soundings.

Where practicable, the proposed work should be referenced by distance and direction to some established monument of definite mark. If harbor lines have been established in the locality, these should be accurately shown on the drawing. The outer lines of the proposed structure should be drawn in red ink on all copies.

A typical cross section of the structure, showing the type of construction and showing in figures the elevation of the deck or top above the datum plane.

(ii) For a pier, jetty, dike, etc. A longitudinal section of the structure, together with a profile of the bottom extending at least 100 feet beyond the end of the structure. The outer lines of the proposed structure should be drawn in red ink on all copies. The elevation of the deck or top above the datum plane should be shown in figures.

(iii) For pipes, cables, etc., under water. A plan, showing the shore line (both high- and low-water lines), any existing structures, cables, etc., in the immediate vicinity and in red ink on all copies, the alignment of the proposed pipe or cable. The depths in the vicinity of the crossing should be shown by soundings.

A note on the plan should state the purpose of the pipe or cable and describe it sufficiently for its identification, as other installations of the kind may already exist or be placed in the same locality in the future.

A profile, showing the bottom from bank to bank, low- and high-water lines, and, in red ink on all copies, the proposed pipe or cable. The clear depth below the datum plane to be afforded by the pipe or cable in the navigable channel should be shown in figures.

(iv) For overhead cables of all descriptions. A plan and profile as above, showing in figures the minimum clearance of the lowest part of the cable above high water and above low water and the heights at supports.

(v) For dredging. A map showing the area to be dredged, and, unless the material is to be placed on an established dumping ground, the exact locality for the disposal of the excavated material, both these areas being drawn in red ink on all copies and suitably designated by words. Present depths on and in the vicinity of both these areas should be indicated by soundings. The dumping ground may be shown on the inset map or on a separate map if necessary. If the deposit is to be behind a bulkhead, either in the waterway or on shore, the plans must be sufficiently detailed to show that the structure will be adequate to confine the material.

(vi) For dolphins, piles, etc. A map showing the location of the structures, the shore line, and existing structures in the vicinity, and soundings showing the depth of water. The proposed work will be outlined in red ink on all copies, and the elevation of the tops of the piles or dolphins with reference to high water will be shown in figures.

(13) Additional instructions covering the requirements, made necessary by special conditions in certain localities will be furnished the applicant on request addressed to the district engineer.

(14) Samples of drawings are shown in Information Circular, Form 96a. However, the form of lettering, conventional signs, etc., need not necessarily conform to these samples.

(d) Notices. (1) Unless the application is for the dredging of vessel berths and approach channels which cannot affect adversely any interests, the District Engineer will send notices thereof to all parties deemed likely to be interested, such as State or local harbor commissions, proper city authorities if the site of the proposed work is within corporate limits of any city, adjacent property owners, and owners or associations of owners of boat lines. Copies of the notice will be posted in the post offices or other public places in the vicinity of the site. The public notice is mandatory, and no permit or extension of time in which to complete work authorized by permit will be granted unless notice has been issued and a reasonable time afforded for protest, except as above provided.

(2) When application is made for a permit for new work in any way affecting air commerce, District Engineers will insure that four copies of all public notices issued are forwarded promptly to the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Copies of public notices relating to applications for permits for aerial transmission lines and approval of plans for bridges will also be sent to regional managers of the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Such notices will include a statement as to the elevation of the highest point of the towers or superstructure above the local water surface datum, and a copy of the plans of the proposed work if necessary to a clear understanding.

(3) Public notices shall be issued in connection with cableways for stream gaging purposes, gage installations, and other non-project structures constructed by the Corps of Engineers in or over navigable waters. Copies of such notices will be sent to all interested parties.

(4) Notices should state the name of the applicant, should give the location and a brief description of work for which application for approval is made, should state where the plans may be seen, and should fix a limiting date within which protests from the standpoint of navigation will be received. The period so fixed should be as brief as will afford to all having a legitimate objection a reasonable opportunity to be heard. If time is an essential element, interested parties will be given a minimum period of 3 days after their receipt of the notice in which to present protests. The period normally should not be less than 10 days after the actual mailing of the notice. A longer period will be afforded if necessary in exceptional or especially important cases. If the District Engineer deems a public hearing essential to public interests, he may hold one.

(5) Copies of the notices sent to interested parties, together with a list of parties to whom sent, will accompany all applications for permits submitted to the Chief of Engineers for approval, and will also accompany all copies of permits issued by District Engineers and Division Engineers forwarded for file.

(e) Reports on permit applications. (1) The Secretary of War has authorized the issuance of War Department permits by local offices of the Engineer Department, at the option of the Chief of Engineers, for work and structures in or over navigable waters in cases which are entirely routine and which involve no difference of opinion on the part of engineer authorities, nor doubt as to the law, facts, or regulations nor any opposition or other considerations which should be decided by higher authority.

(2) The report of a District Engineer on an application for a permit requiring action by a higher authority is indorsed upon the application to the higher authority.

(3) In cases of conflicting property rights the Department cannot undertake to adjudicate rival claims. In reporting such cases for the action of the Department, the District Engineer will state the attitude of adjacent or neighboring property owners whose interests may be affected by the work proposed, and will also state his views concerning any alleged adverse effects so far as regards the possible use of such property in connection with navigation.

(f) Permits—(1) Forms. A printed copy of Form 96, as amended to date of issue of permit, will be used ordinarily for the letter of authorization. Permits to Federal agencies will be executed on Form 96d. Subsequent approval of plans will be accomplished on Form 96c.

(2) General conditions. For the information of applicants, the general conditions of the Department standard form of permit are given below. Special conditions are added when necessary to protect navigation:

That the work shall be subject to the supervision and approval of the District Engineer, Engineer Department at Large, in charge of the locality, who may temporarily suspend the work at any time, if in his judgment, the interests of navigation so require.

That any material dredged in the prosecution of the work herein authorized shall be removed evenly, and no large refuse piles, ridges across bed of the waterway, or deep holes that may have a tendency to cause injury to navigable channels or to the banks of the waterway shall be left. If any pipe, wire, or cable hereby authorized is laid in a trench, the formation of permanent ridges across the bed of the waterway shall be avoided and the back filling shall be so done as not to increase the cost of future dredging for navigation. Any material to be deposited or dumped under this authorization, either in the waterway or on shore above high-water mark, shall be deposited or dumped at the locality shown on the drawing hereto attached, and, if so prescribed thereon, within or behind a good and substantial bulkhead or bulkheads, such as will prevent escape of the material into the waterway. If the material is to be deposited in the harbor of New York, or in its adjacent or tributary waters, or in Long Island Sound, a permit therefor must be previously obtained from the Supervisor of New York Harbor, Army Building, New York City.

That there shall be no unreasonable interference with navigation by the work herein authorized.

That if inspections or any other operations by the United States are necessary in the interests of navigation, all expenses connected therewith shall be borne by the permittee.

That no attempt shall be made by the permittee or the owner to forbid the full and free use by the public of all navigable waters at or adjacent to the work or structure.

That if future operations by the United States require an alteration in the position of the structure or work herein authorized, or if, in the opinion of the Secretary of War, it shall cause unreasonable obstruction to the free navigation of said water, the owner will be required, upon due notice from the Secretary of War, to remove or alter the structural work or obstructions caused thereby without expense to the United States, so as to render navigation reasonably free, easy, and unobstructed; and if, upon the expiration or revocation of this permit, the structure, fill, excavation, or other modification of the watercourse hereby authorized shall not be completed, the owners shall, without expense to the United States, and to such extent and in such time and manner as the Secretary of War may require, remove all or any portion of the uncompleted structure or fill and restore to its former condition the navigable capacity of the watercourse. No claim shall be made against the United States on account of any such removal or alteration.

That the United States shall in no case be liable for any damage or injury to the structure or work herein authorized which may be caused by or result from future operations undertaken by the Government for the conservation or improvement of navigation, or for other purposes, and no claim or right to compensation shall accrue from any such damage.

That if the display of lights and signals on any work hereby authorized is not otherwise provided for by law, such lights and signals as may be prescribed by the U. S. Coast Guard shall be installed and maintained by and at the expense of the owner.

That the permittee shall notify the said district engineer at what time the work will be commenced, and as far in advance of the time of commencement of work, suspension of work, if for a period of more than 1 week, resumption of work, and its completion.

That if the structure or work herein authorized is not completed on or before ------ day of ------, 19--, this permit, if not previously revoked or specifically extended, shall cease and be null and void. This condition will be completed by inserting a specific date, normally December 31 of the third year subsequent to the year of issuance. Thus the limiting date fixed in permits issued in 1946 should normally be December 31, 1949. District and Division Engineers are not authorized to fix a later date for completion, but if special reasons so require, a shorter period may be specified provided that the limit expires in all cases on the last day of a quarter, i. e., March 31, June 30, September 30, or December 31. Experience has, however, shown a tendency to prescribe insufficient time limits, thus subjecting the Department and the permittee to unnecessary annoyance and expense in accomplishing extensions. The full authorized time should usually be allowed. Work or operations of a temporary and obstructive character, however, should be limited to a period as short as is considered reasonable. This will be accomplished by including in the description on the first page of the permit for the work or operation, the restriction "to be removed (or completed) on or before the ------ day of ---------," naming the last day of a quarter, and the time limit in addition (j) of the permit form will prescribe the same date.

District and Division Engineers are authorized to insert, in proper cases, the following additional clause: "That this permit is revocable at the will of the Secretary of War."

(3) Special conditions. If conditions other than those authorized, and additional to those expressed in the standard permit form, are regarded as necessary, or if any modification of conditions of the standard form is deemed essential, the application will be forwarded for the action of the Department, in which cases the exact wording of the recommended conditions will be given with explanatory statements showing why they are proposed, and whether they are acceptable to the applicant, or if not, the grounds for his objections.

When compensatory works or the removal of temporary structures should be required of the permittee, or in other unusual cases when there is reason to anticipate that the permittee may fail to carry out parts of the work that are against his interest, an additional condition should be submitted to the Department for approval, requiring the permittee to furnish a bond insuring compliance with the permit requirements. He should be fully advised concerning the proposed condition, including the amount and conditions of the proposed bond, and also be given an opportunity to present objections before the case is forwarded for consideration by the Department. Copies of all pertinent correspondence will accompany the application when forwarded.

General approval of special conditions for use in a District or Division may be given by the Chief of Engineers on proper presentation of the need therefor.

(4) Number and disposition of copies. In addition to the signed copies of the permit two initialed copies will be prepared. The drawings showing the work will be securely attached to each copy, care being taken that none of the information on the plans is obliterated or damaged. When a permit is issued for the erection of an aerial transmission line, or when the permittee is required to pay or deposit with the District Engineer any sum of money, an additional copy will be prepared.

One signed copy of the permit will be delivered to the applicant. District and Division Engineers in transmitting approved plans to applicants will caution them that if any material changes in the location or plans of the structure or work are found necessary on account of unforeseen or altered conditions or otherwise, revised plans should be submitted promptly to the District Engineer to the end that these revised plans, if found unobjectionable from the standpoint of navigation, may receive the approval required by law before construction thereon is begun.

The second signed copy, which must be clear and legible in all its details and be identical in every respect with that issued to the applicant without added notation of any description, will be sent directly to the Chief of Engineers to form the legal record of the authorization, together with a copy of the notice sent to interested parties. The letter of transmittal will contain a statement as to whether harbor lines have been established for the locality, and if the permit was issued under special authority will give the date and E. D. file number thereof.

Whenever the permittee is required to pay or deposit with the District Engineer any sum of money for any purpose, the permit will be signed in triplicate, the third signed copy, which must be clear and legible in all its details and be identical in every respect to that issued to the permittee without added notation of any description, will be transmitted to the Chief of Engineers for forwarding to the General Accounting Office. In such cases, permits will be assigned a contract symbol number which will be placed on all copies.

One of the initialed copies of the permit will be filed in the District Office and the other in the Division Office. If the permit was issued under special authority, both copies will show the date and file number thereof. If issued by the District Engineer, the copy furnished the Division Engineer will bear a notation showing the date of mailing the record copy to the Chief of Engineers. If issued by the Division Engineer, the copy furnished the District Engineer will bear a notation showing the date of mailing or other delivery to the permittee.

(g) Work constructed without prior authority. District and Division Engineers are authorized to approve plans for structures and work of the classes for which they are authorized to issue permits, when the application for approval is submitted after the commencement or completion of the structures or work, subject to the following rules:

(1) Approval will be limited to those cases where the necessary primary authority, State or Federal as the case may be, validly exists, when the work was innocently constructed, and where the work will not unreasonably interfere with navigation.

(2) The applicant will submit the plans in the prescribed form.

(3) Notices of the application will be duly issued.

(4) The approval will be issued in the prescribed form, Form 96c.

(5) The approval will be signed and recorded as prescribed for permits.

(6) Applications for the approval of plans for structures which have been commenced or completed requiring action of higher authority will be reported on in the form prescribed for permit applications.

(7) When forwarding approval the applicant will be informed that the law contemplates prior approval and that in the future plans must be submitted in ample time for their consideration by the Department before construction is begun.

(h) Necessary primary authority. For works constructed by State or municipal agencies, the primary authority will be presumed without proof. If the law of the State requires a license for or approval of the work from a constituted State agency, a copy of such license or approval will be required and may be accepted as evidence of the primary authority. If there be no State regulation of structures in navigable waters, the necessary primary authority may be that granted in the charter of a corporation, or the authority inherent in the ownership of the land on which the structure is placed. The applicant will in such cases be required to furnish an extract from the charter, or a statement of ownership. Especial care will be taken that Federal approval is not granted when there is doubt of the right of the builder to construct and utilize the work.

(i) Aerial transmission lines. (1) When applications are received for permits for transmission lines crossing navigable waters of the United States and for easements for rights-of-way for transmission lines across, over and upon lands of the United States under the control and jurisdiction of the War Department, the District Engineer shall first determine whether the transmission line forms a part of a waterpower "project" as the term "project" is defined in section 3 (11) of the Federal Power Act. Where the proposed transmission line does not form a part of a waterpower "project" applications will be acted upon with a view to issuance of permit in accordance with the provisions of section 10 of the River and Harbor Act approved March 3, 1899, for transmission lines crossing the navigable waters of the United States, and the grant of easements under the act approved March 4, 1911, for rights-of-way for transmission lines over, across, and upon lands of the United States under the jurisdiction and control of the War Department. Where the proposed transmission line forms a part of a waterpower "project" the applicant should be advised of the law on the subject (Sec. 4 (e) Federal Power Act), and directed to present the application to the Federal Power Commission. In cases of doubt, the application should be forwarded to the Chief of Engineers with the views and recommendations of the District and Division Engineers.

(2) Whenever a permit is issued for the erection of an aerial transmission line across a navigable water of the United States, an additional copy, unsigned and uninitialed, will be prepared and forwarded to the Chief of Engineers with the signed copy.

(3) District and Division Engineers are authorized and directed to insert in letters of authorization for aerial transmission lines and similar installations over navigable waters the following condition:

That the permittee will promptly comply with any future regulations or instructions affecting the work hereby authorized if and when issued in accordance with law by any department of the Federal Government for the aid or protection of aerial navigation.

(j) Extensions of time. (1) Division Engineers are authorized to revive and extend for successive periods not exceeding three years each the life of permits which have been issued by District Engineers of their division or by the Division Engineer, whether issued by general or special authority; provided that public notice is issued, that evidence satisfactory to the Division Engineer is furnished of the bona fide intention of the permittee to complete the work within a reasonable time, and that there has been no change in the attendant circumstances since the issuance of the permit sufficient to warrant the forwarding of the case to the Chief of Engineers for consideration.

(2) The letter granting the extension will be substantially the following form:

In accordance with your written request dated ----------, the authorization granted by the Secretary of War, in letter dated ----------, from the District (Division) Engineer at ----------, to (here follow the identical wording of the description of the work in the permit) is hereby specifically extended to (give date).

The conditions to which the authorization is made subject, excepting the time limit for completion, remain in full force and effect.

If the structure or work authorized is not completed on or before the date herein specified, the authorization, if not previously revoked or specifically further extended, will cease and become null and void.

By authority of the Secretary of War.

(If any condition of the standard permit form has been amended, the condition as amended will be added to the letter of extension where not contained in the original permit or prior extension or modification thereof.)

(3) The letter will be signed in duplicate, and copies will be distributed as prescribed for permits.

(4) All applications for extensions of time not falling within the provisions of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph will be forwarded for the consideration of the Chief of Engineers, with a full statement of circumstances, and with the recommendation of the District and Division Engineers.

(k) Revision of plans. (1) District and Division Engineers are empowered to approve revised plans for works under permits issued direct from their own offices.

(2) Notices of the revised plans will be sent to all parties of interest before action thereon, unless the revision is clearly such as to have no adverse effect on navigation or other interest.

(3) The approval will be in substantially the following form:

In accordance with your written request dated ----------, the revised plans hereto attached are approved to supersede the plans for the works authorized by the Secretary of War, in letter dated ----------, from the District (Division) Engineer at ---------- to (here follow the identical wording of the description of the work in the permit).

The conditions to which the work is made subject remain in full force and effect.

By authority of the Secretary of War:

(4) The letter will be signed in duplicate and distributed as prescribed for permits.

(5) All applications for approval of revised plans not falling within the provisions of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph will be forwarded for the consideration of the Chief of Engineers, with a full statement of circumstances, and with the recommendation of the Division and District Engineers.

(l) Cancellation and revocation of permits. (1) District and Division Engineers are without authority to cancel or revoke permits but District Engineers are authorized to accept from the permittee a voluntary relinquishment of the permit. Such relinquishment should be reported through the Division Engineer to the Chief of Engineers.

(2) Whenever during the life of a permit it is found that operations or interests of the United States require an alteration in the position of the structure or work authorized by the permit, or that any operation or work thereunder causes unreasonable obstruction to free navigation, the District Engineer in charge of the locality will forward through the Division Engineer a full report on the subject, with recommendations appended as to action to be taken.

(m) Supervision of work and report. District Engineers will exercise close supervision, of all work authorized under permits and will require that the work be conducted and executed in conformity with the approved plans. Such inspections as are necessary for this purpose must be made on timely occasions before and during construction, and such notices and instructions will be given permittees to insure that they do not depart from the approved plans. District Engineers will promptly report at the expiration of the time limit of the permit or upon completion of the work if at an earlier date, whether the conditions have been observed and whether the structures or operations as completed are in accordance with the approved plans. If the work is in accordance with the approved plans, the report will be sent direct to the Chief of Engineers and a copy furnished the Division Engineer. If the work as executed is not in substantial compliance with the approved plans, report will be submitted through the Division Engineer.

(n) Departure from permit plans. If the final inspection shows a material departure from the authorized plans, the District Engineer will call upon the permittee to furnish a tracing showing the work as actually constructed and will forward it with his recommendation to the Chief of Engineers. If the departure is not sufficient to justify action by the Department a statement to that effect should be included. If the Chief of Engineers concurs, the papers will be filed and further correspondence with the permittee will not be necessary.

(o) Expenses of inspection. (1) The condition requiring that the grantee will bear all expenses for inspection, or any other operations by the United States in connection with permits granted under the provisions of Section 10 of the River and Harbor Act approved March 3, 1899, will be applied only to special or elaborate supervision deemed necessary to protect the interest of navigation and involving unusual expense.

(2) The cost of supervision of dumping of dredged material in navigable waters, requiring the exclusive time of one or more inspectors, will be collected from the permittee unless other action is specifically approved by the Chief of Engineers. General authority to collect during a fiscal year the expenses of inspection of other classes of work will be granted by the Chief of Engineers in proper cases if the usual number of permits of the class warrants such course. The initial request for such authority will show the justification for the collection, the nature of the expenses, the usual range of the amount to be collected, and the usual number of cases of the class handled during the year. Thereafter requests for the renewal of the authority should be included in the annual request for authorities.

(3) In cases not covered by general authority as provided above, specific authority will be secured in each instance before making any collection from a permittee. Division Engineers are authorized to grant such authority if the operations to be inspected will probably be completed within six months, and if no doubt or disagreement arises as to the propriety of the collection, otherwise the authority of the Chief of Engineers must be obtained. Each request for special authority will show the character of the work, the necessity for the proposed collection, and the estimated amount to be collected.

(4) When general or special authority for the collection of expenses has been granted, the District Engineer is authorized to require, in proper cases, initial and subsequent advance deposits from the permittee in amounts generally not exceeding the estimated cost of inspection during the ensuing month. In cases where deposits are not promptly made or where an additional fraction of a month will probably finish the permit work, or in other cases regarded as exceptional, larger deposits may be required. If it appears advisable to require during the life of the permit advance deposits in excess of this limitation, the case will be presented to the Chief of Engineers for approval.

(5) On the completion of the work under a permit, and the payment of expenses by the permittee without protest, the account will be closed, outstanding deposits returned to the permittee, and a final statement of the account will be furnished the Chief of Engineers through the Division Engineer. If the account is protested by the permittee, it will be referred to the Chief of Engineers for approval before closing it and before returning any deposits to the permittee.

(6) The method of procedure will be as follows: The District Engineer will assign to the work of inspection one or more qualified inspectors for such time as may be necessary to insure compliance with the conditions of the permit and observance of the laws for the protection of navigable waters. These inspectors will be treated in all respects as regular employees of the United States and will be paid by the District Engineer from any available appropriation in his charge, on regular pay rolls or service vouchers. At the end of each month the amount chargeable for the cost of inspection pertaining to the permit will be collected from the permittee and will be taken up on the account current and deposited in a designated depositary to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States, on account of reimbursement of the appropriation from which the expenses of the inspection were paid.

(7) The District Engineer will take such measures as he may deem necessary to insure the United States against loss through possible failure of the grantee to supply the necessary funds to liquidate indebtedness for services paid for by the United States in connection with the inspection and supervision of his permit. This may be accomplished by requiring the permittee to keep on deposit with the District Engineer at all times an amount equal to the estimated cost of inspection and supervision for the ensuing month, such deposit being preferably in the form of a certified check, payable to the District Engineer. Certified checks so deposited will be carried in a special deposit account (guaranty for inspection expenses) and upon completion of the work under the permit the funds will be returned to the permittee provided he has paid the actual cost of inspection, or used to reimburse the United States for such cost in case of failure to pay the bills promptly when presented.

(8) The permittee will not be required or permitted to pay the United States inspector either directly or through the District Engineer, nor will the inspector be laid off or furloughed in order that he may be employed by the permittee to supervise the permit operations.

(p) Permits for fishing structures. (1) Special regulations for the issuance of permits for fish traps in specified localities are issued by the Chief of Engineers. Cases not covered by such regulations must be submitted to the Chief of Engineers for approval.

(2) Prior to action by the Department on an application for permission to construct a fish weir, trap, or similar contrivance in any navigable waters of the United States, the applicant will be required to furnish the Department with evidence that the proper license has been granted by the State or municipal authorities in cases where the laws prescribe such requirements, or to show that there is no State law or municipal regulations relating to the subject.

(q) Lighting fishing structures. (1) Fishing structures and appliances in navigable waters of the United States will be lighted for the safety of navigation as follows:

The lights will be displayed between sunset and sunrise. They will be placed at each end of the structure, excepting where the inner end terminates in such situation that there is no practicable navigation between it and the high-water line of the adjacent coast, in which case no inner light will be displayed. The outer light will be white, and the inner light will be red. The size, capacity, and manner of maintenance of the light will be such as may be specified in the War Department permit authorizing the erection of the structure or appliance. When several structures or appliances are placed on one line with no navigable passage between them, they will be considered for lighting purposes as one structure.

(2) By authority of the Secretary of War conditions in form as follows will be included in all permits for fishing structures and appliances in navigable waters of the United States, issued by the Chief of Engineers or by District Engineers specially authorized by him to issue such permits:

That the weir, trap, or pound will be lighted between sunset and sunrise, by and at the expense of the permittee, for the safety of navigation. The lights will be displayed at each end, the outer end of the structure, and at an elevation of not less than ------ feet above high water. The outer light will be white, the inner light will be red, and both will be equal to ------ with a capacity to burn ------ days unattended. They will be subject to the inspection of the aforesaid District Engineer before use. (Additions may be made to this condition and superfluous words deleted as may be necessary to provide for lighting the particular structure.)

That there will be installed and maintained on the weir, trap, or pound, by and at the expense of the permittee, such additional lights and signals, if any, as may be prescribed by the U. S. Coast Guard, and that provision will be made for proper attendance by watchman or otherwise of all lights and signals, so that they will at all times be in effective condition.

§ 209.140 Operations of the Corps of Engineers under the Federal Power Act—(a) General. This section outlines policies and procedures applicable to those operations in which the Corps of Engineers may be called upon to participate under the Federal Power Act. Such operations include: Investigations and reports on applications for permits and licenses for development of power affecting navigable waters; supervision of investigations, construction, and operation of projects under such permits and licenses; preparation of special reports as required by the Federal Power Commission; and review of plans of dams or other structures affecting navigation. The foregoing functions are performed by the Engineer Department only upon request of the Federal Power Commission.

(b) Authority of Division and District Engineers. Section 2 of the revised Federal Power Act provides that the Federal Power Commission may request the President to detail an officer or officers from the Corps of Engineers, or other branches of the United States Army, to serve the Commission as Engineer officer or officers, or in any other capacity, in field work outside the seat of government, their duties to be prescribed by the Commission. By authority of the Secretary of War, and in accordance with the instructions issued by the President in a letter to the Secretary of War dated May 18, 1931, Division Engineers will be detailed to serve the Commission as engineer officers in field work outside the seat of government, their duties to be prescribed by the Commission, and to be performed under the supervision of the Chief of Engineers. District Engineers will be designated to carry out the field inspections and investigations under the supervision of the Division Engineers. When a Division Engineer is detailed by the Chief of Engineers to assist the Commission in either the investigation or supervision of a project he will be the accredited representative of the Commission. The actual field work will be done by the designated District Engineer who will make a report to the Division Engineer. All reports and such correspondence as would normally be forwarded to the Commission will be addressed to the Chief of Engineers.

(c) Procedure for investigations and report on applications for permits and licenses. (1) Upon assignment to the Division Engineer by the Chief of Engineers of an investigation under the Federal Power Act, the Division Engineer will submit to the Chief of Engineers an estimate of the cost and the approximate date when the investigation will be made and report submitted.

(2) If in the investigation of an application or a declaration of intention filed under the Federal Power Act the Division Engineer considers a public hearing desirable in the interests of navigation or flood control, the Chief of Engineers will be notified whereupon the matter will be brought to the attention of the Commission. No public hearing will be held unless specifically authorized by the Commission or by the Chief of Engineers. If a hearing is authorized it will be limited strictly to consideration of the purpose for which approval is granted.

(3) The report will be confined to a discussion of the topics specified in the request of the Commission unless otherwise authorized by the Chief of Engineers. Descriptions and discussions will be limited to material facts having a definite bearing on the case.

(4) If the project is on a Federal reservation or contemplates the use of a dam under the jurisdiction of the War Department the report will state, giving reasons:

(i) Whether the project will interfere or be inconsistent with the purposes for which such reservation was created or acquired and what conditions if any, should be imposed for the adequate protection and utilization of the reservation.

(ii) Whether the dam may be advantageously used by the United States for public purposes in addition to navigation and whether it should be reserved for such use.

(iii) Whether the development should be undertaken by the United States.

(5) The reports will not be released or made public except by specific authority of the Chief of Engineers, nor will copies of a report, its findings, or recommendations be furnished to the applicant, to interested parties, or to the Commission until released by the Chief of Engineers.

(6) Periodic reports of progress or investigations will be made as required in paragraph (e).

(d) Procedure for supervision of operations under permits and licenses. (1) When supervision of the operations of an applicant under a permit or a license is requested by the Federal Power Commission, the Chief of Engineers will assign responsibility for supervision to the Division Engineer. The operations to be supervised, such as investigations being conducted by a permittee, construction of a project under a license or operation of completed projects, will be as specified by the Commission.

(2) Projects will be classified as major, minor, minor part or transmission line projects as indicated in the Federal Power Act and as specified in the instructions from the Commission.

(3) Inspection during the construction of a major project will be made monthly, or as often as may be necessary for the Division Engineer to assure himself that the terms of the license are being complied with and the work is of acceptable quality and in accordance with the approved plans. The frequency of inspections of minor, minor part, and transmission line projects is left to the discretion of the Division Engineer.

(4) Periodic reports will be made on operations under permits or licenses as prescribed in paragraph (e) of this section.

(5) After a project has been completed and placed in operation, semiannual inspections will be made of major projects, and annual inspections of minor, minor part, and transmission line projects. These inspections will be continued and reports made as prescribed in paragraph (e) until discontinuance is directed by the Chief of Engineers.

(e) Periodic reports. (1) All periodic reports on Federal Power Commission projects as outlined below will be submitted by the Division Engineer, in accordance with forms issued by the Commission, direct to the Chief of Engineers, a copy being furnished the District Engineer.

(2) Monthly reports on investigations. If the investigation and report on an application for a preliminary permit or license or on a declaration of intention are not completed within the calendar month of reference of the application to the Division Engineer, monthly reports showing the progress made on the investigation and report will be submitted.

(3) Quarterly reports on supervision of investigation under permits. Reports on supervision of the investigations made by the permittee will be rendered quarterly and, unless otherwise directed, will be continued until the Division Engineer is notified that the permit has expired or an application for license has been received for investigation.

(4) Monthly reports on supervision of construction under a license. Reports on the progress of construction made by a licensee will be submitted monthly and unless otherwise directed will be continued until the initial installation covered by the license has been completed and placed in operation when reports as called for in subparagraph on "Semiannual and annual operation reports" below will be submited.

(5) Dormant projects. Projects in which no change of status has occurred since the previous report will be listed on one sheet with a statement that, "no change has occurred in the status of the following project since the latest report was submitted."

(6) Semiannual and annual operation reports. After a project has been completed as required by the license, and placed in operation, inspections will be made as called for in paragraph (d). Reports on the operation and maintenance of the project will be submitted semiannually for major projects, and annually for minor, minor part and transmission line projects. A special report will be made in case of severe flood or of interruption in operation due to failure of material or accident.

(f) Hydrometric reports. When requested by the Commission and so directed by the Chief of Engineers, the Division Engineer will supervise the stream-gaging activities of the permittee or licensee and submit an annual report covering the water year as soon after September 30 as practicable. The scope and character of hydrometric reports required of the licensee will depend on the circumstances in the individual case. The Commission prescribes within certain limits what will be required, but considerable discretion in the matter is left to the Division Engineer, with the right of appeal to the Commission in case of controversy. Where, however, questions of benefits from headwater improvements are involved or where in a comprehensive project the run-off in tributary streams will play an important part in the design and operation of project works or in the modification of designs or of plans of operation it is important that the records be full and accurate and considerable expenditure therefor may be justifiable. In important cases the hydrometric reports of licensees will include the following:

(1) Mean daily discharge of stream or streams covered by the license.

(2) Daily records of intake and tailrace gages or plants under license.

(3) Daily record of reservoir gage height.

(4) Mean daily discharge from reservoir spillways.

(5) If the stream flow during the year has been affected by the headwater improvements of another licensee, reference should be made to the fact. If there are any unusual circumstances by which the stream flow of a project on the lower reaches of a stream will be affected by the headwater improvements above, an analysis of such circumstances should be submitted with the dydrometric data.

(g) Conditions for insertion in permits and licenses. Subparagraphs (1), (2), and (3) contain the standard conditions usually inserted in a preliminary permit for a project which affects navigation. Subparagraphs (1) to (6), inclusive, are the standard conditions usually inserted in a license for a project which affects navigation, while subparagraphs (7), (8), and (9) are special conditions which may be recommended for insertion in any license as required.

(1) That whenever the United States shall desire to construct, complete, or improve navigation facilities in connection with said project, the licensee shall convey to the United States, free of cost, such of its lands and its rights-of-way and such right of passage through its dam or other structures and permit such control of pools as may be required to complete, maintain, and operate such navigation facilities.

(2) That the licensee shall furnish free of cost to the United States, power for the operation of such navigation facilities, whether constructed by the licensee or by the United States.

(3) The operation of any navigation facilities which may be constructed as a part or in connection with any dam or diversion structure built under the provisions of this license shall at all times be controlled by such reasonable rules and regulations in the interest of navigation, including the control of the level of the pool caused by such dam or diversion structure, as may be made from time to time by the Secretary of War. Such rules and regulations may include the maintenance and operation by the licensee at its own expense of such lights and signals as may be directed by the Secretary of War, and such fishways as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior.

(4) The United States specifically retains and safeguards the right to use water in such amount, to be determined by the Secretary of War, as may be necessary for the purposes of navigation and the operations of the licensee so far as they affect the use, storage, and discharge from storage of waters affected by this license, shall at all times be controlled by such reasonable rules and regulations as the Secretary of War may prescribe in the interests of navigation.

(5) Insofar as any material is dredged or excavated in the prosecution of the work herein authorized, it shall be removed and deposited so it will not interfere with navigation and to the satisfaction of the District Engineer in charge of the locality.

(6) The licensee shall allow officers and employees of the United States free and unrestricted access in, through, and across the said project and project works in the performance of their official duties.

(7) The licensee shall permit the free use by the public for navigation or recreational purposes of the reservoir formed by said dam, and shall, when not inconsistent with the operation of said project, allow the construction of wharves or landings in the interest of navigation.

(8) The licensee shall cut and remove or destroy, to the satisfaction of the representative of the Commission, all brush and trees from that zone, within and adjacent to the area to be submerged, which is included between the contour of elevation ____ feet above mean sea level and a line ____ feet horizontally from the outside of the contour of elevation ____ feet above mean sea level for the initial development, and of the contour of elevation ____ feet above mean sea level for the ultimate development, and shall remove or destroy all floatable refuse or other material within said areas to be submerged. The licensee shall also cut in such manner or so remove or destroy brush or trees within said area to be submerged that no part of such brush or trees shall project above said elevation of ____ feet.

(9) The licensee, unless otherwise directed by the Secretary of War in accordance with the rights reserved to the United States in Article 5, shall so operate its project works that the discharge in the _____ River immediately below _____ dam site shall not be less than _____ acre-feet of water in each 24-hour period except that when the flow of the river available to the project is less than ____ acre-feet in 24 hours, the discharge required shall be equivalent to such lower flow. The distribution of said discharge over any 24-hour period shall be subject to such regulations as the Secretary of War may prescribe.

§ 209.150 Harbor lines—(a) The harbor line system. (1) Section 11 of the River and Harbor Act approved March 3, 1899, authorizes the Secretary of War to cause harbor lines to be established where it is made manifest to him that establishment is essential for the preservation and protection of a harbor, and provides that compensation may be required where the extension of structures beyond established harbor lines is permitted.

(2) If only a single type of construction is permissible, a single limiting line should be defined. It will be designated a pierhead line if the type of construction is to be open-pile work and a bulkhead line if the construction is to be solid fill. If either open or solid construction is permissible, the limiting line will be designated a pierhead and bulkhead line. If solid construction is permissible adjacent to the shore, and open-pile work may be extended farther toward the channel, both bulkhead and pierhead lines will be established.

(3) Applications for the shifting of harbor lines channelward will receive very careful consideration by District and Division Engineers. The movement of bulkhead lines channelward allows the creation of additional land which may be valuable for terminal or other uses, but it diminishes the tidal prism and reduces the length of piers unless the pierhead line is moved correspondingly. The movement of pierhead lines channelward in important harbors frequently sought as a means for accommodating longer ships leads to greater congestion of shipping, increased velocity of current and more serious danger of accident. Such encroachments should not be recommended where the results will be detrimental to navigation. Temporary extensions of piers are open to the objection that they usually lead to requests for continuance of the obstruction beyond the prescribed time. Accommodations for longer ships can generally be provided by a change of landing place to a wider section of the harbor, the construction of piers oblique to the shore line, or an extension landward of the slips between piers.

(4) The selection of the system will require consideration of the following questions:

(i) Whether open-pile construction or solid fill or both, or a combination of both will be permissible.

(ii) Whether the channel faces of wharves, bulkheads, and similar structures at the locality should be vertical or inclined.

(5) Experience has shown that the establishment of a bulkhead line has been frequently followed by solid filling to the limit and by requests thereafter from riparian owners to push the limit farther toward the channel. It has also been found in some cases where the pierhead line is about a ship's length channelward of the bulkhead line that deep-draft vessels lying in the slips cut off much of the water flow causing silt deposits under the piers and in the slips thus considerably reducing the benefits expected under the plan of establishing separate limits for solid and open work.

(6) Each case must be considered on its merits and the probable commercial developments at the particular locality should be carefully studied. If they cannot be clearly foreseen, it may be advisable to make use of some experimental features with the view of adopting a fixed plan where experience indicated more conclusively what it should be. For example, it may be specified on the harbor line map that no structure will be placed between the pierhead and bulkhead lines until the special permission of the Secretary of War has been obtained; or that applications for solid construction between the bulkhead and pierhead lines will be considered; or that if slips are required in the future they will be provided by excavating shoreward of the bulkhead line. The fixing of the limits as permanently as possible is much preferred but proper concessions for shore developments and for the adequate protection at the same time of the interests of navigation without unreasonably reducing wharf frontage, may occasionally require some temporary expedient.

(7) If the channel faces of wharves and bulkheads at the locality are to be vertical and the channelward limits of extension from shore will therefore be vertical planes the establishment of a single harbor line to define the position of each plane will be sufficient. If the channel faces are to be inclined the position of the sloping limiting plane may be defined either by the establishment of two lines lying in the plane and at specified elevations, as for instance approximately at high and low water mark, or by establishing a single line at a specified elevation and prescribing that the limiting plane will pass through the line with a specified ratio or degree of slope. When the channelward limiting plane is a slope the shoreward limit where vertical walls may be erected will be defined when necessary.

(8) Harbor lines will not be established across the mouths or entrances to navigable waterways. Care will be taken to see that the terminal points on either side of a waterway to be left open are selected with the view of a future extension of harbor lines along it.

(9) When an extension or modification of a project has been recommended to Congress which will involve conflict with established harbor lines, the District Engineer will submit a report, with recommendation and map, as to abrogation or modification of the harbor line or lines affected.

(b) Establishment of harbor lines. (1) Harbor lines will be so established and marked that their exact position at any point can be determined with reasonable convenience and accuracy. Reference monuments will be selected or established at convenient intervals and whenever possible convenient ranges on the lines should be selected or established on shore.

(2) Reference monuments should be of permanent character so marked and described that they may be readily and certainly identified. They should be situated on the same side of the channel as the angle points referred to them and as close to them as practicable. It is desirable to use for reference purposes monuments of important Federal, State, or municipal surveys, boundary monuments, or lines of record, and intersections of center or side lines of streets where streets are well defined or can be located with reasonable accuracy. Wherever practicable within reasonable limits of expense the harbor line system should be referenced to the plane coordinate system of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey for the locality if such a system has been established, and connected with monuments of that Survey or the Lake Survey if such exist in the vicinity. Points on railroad tracks, wharves, or other structures likely to be shifted or changed in connection with work of reconstruction or repair will be used with caution. The bearing of reference lines should read from the reference point toward the harbor line point.

(3) All harbor lines will be straight lines unless exceptional circumstances require the use of curves. In such cases prior application for authority to use curves will be made accompanied by a statement of necessity therefor.

(4) All traverses formed by sections of the lines and reference lines will close within reasonable limits.

(5) The descriptive data will be given in such form that a surveyor can readily locate any section of the lines or any reference line with as little additional computation or investigation as practicable.

(c) Harbor line maps. (1) Each harbor line map shall be complete in itself, furnishing all description essential for the identification of monuments and reference points and for determining the position of the harbor lines on the ground. The measurements for locating the lines shall be made as direct as practicable. Where streets are well defined or where they can be located with reasonable accuracy, the distance to the harbor lines shall be given from the street intersections (centers of sides) measured along streets running toward the lines. The data shall be inscribed adjacent to the lines and monuments to which it relates and in a manner convenient for reference. The descriptive data shall be carefully checked and compared.

(2) Where the harbor line system is referenced to the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey plane coordinate grid system, the coordinates of every harbor line point, monument and reference point shall be given in tabular form on the map, and each map shall have two meridian arrows, one showing the grid north and the other the true north, with appropriate notation as to the difference in the meridians. Where the plane coordinate grid system is not used, the coordinates of every harbor line point, monument and reference point, based on true meridian, shall likewise be given in tabular form on the map and a true meridian shall be shown. Each section of the harbor line shall be described by its length and appropriate azimuth of bearing.

(3) Hydrographic data and shore facilities shall be shown in sufficient detail to present conditions clearly for the information of the Department in acting on the case.

(4) The map shall show whether the proposed lines are pierhead lines, bulkhead lines, combined pierhead and bulkhead lines, or otherwise, and shall also bear all or such portion of the following statement as may be appropriate to the particular case. The bulkhead line defines the limit of solid filling; the pierhead line the limit to which open-pile structures may be built.

(5) Harbor line tracing shall be brought up to date at sufficiently frequent intervals to protect properly the Federal investment in harbor line systems. District and Division Engineers shall take necessary measures to protect the property of the United States represented in field notes, monuments and maps relating to harbor lines in order that costly resurveys are not made necessary. In the reestablishment of any monuments careful selection of the stations will be made to insure permanency.

(d) Notification to municipal authorities. Whenever an application is received for the establishment of harbor lines or the erection of structures in or over navigable waters of the United States within the corporate limits of any city, the proper city authorities will be promptly notified in order that they may have full opportunity to be heard in case the contemplated work may interfere with any plans or works which the city has in view.

(e) Public hearing. Unless otherwise authorized harbor line applications will be made the subject of public hearings.

(f) Report of the district engineer. The report will state in detail why the establishment of harbor lines is essential to the preservation and protection of the harbor. It will also give the approximate commerce of the waterway affected, present and prospective, and such other matters as should be considered by the Department in passing upon the necessity and sufficiency of the proposed lines.

(g) Modification of harbor lines. When modification of an established harbor line becomes necessary the procedure will be as prescribed for the establishment of original lines. The report of the District Engineer on such modification will be accompanied by a copy of the approved map, showing clearly the original lines to remain in force, the portion to be superseded, and the new lines proposed. If it is not practicable to revise the approved map, the District Engineer will furnish a new map prepared in accordance with the instructions found in paragraph (c) but omitting all lines superseded.

§ 209.160 The California Debris Commission. Section 1 of the Act of Congress of March 1, 1893 (27 Stat. 507; 33 U. S. C. 661), created the California Debris Commission, consisting of three officers of the Corps of Engineers, to regulate under the supervision of the Chief of Engineers and direction of the Secretary of War, hydraulic mining in the territory drained by the Sacramento and San Joaquin River systems, California. Under section 9 of the Act (27 Stat. 508; 33 U. S. C. 669), the individual proprietor or proprietors, or in case of a corporation, its manager or agent appointed for that purpose, owning mining ground in this territory which it is desired to work by the hydraulic process, must file with the Commission a verified petition, setting forth such facts as will comply with law and the rules prescribed by the Commission. The law contains detailed instructions with regard to facts required to be shown by the petitioner and the procedure to be followed by the Commission in issuing an order directing the methods and specifying the manner in which operations shall proceed. Full information on law and procedure can be obtained from the Secretary, California Debris Commission, 1209 8th Street, Sacramento 8, California (P. O. Box 1739).

§ 209.170 Violations of laws protecting navigable waters—(a) Illegal structures or other work. (1) Section 9 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, makes it unlawful to construct any bridge, dam, dike, or causeway over or in any navigable water of the United States until the proper local authority has been obtained and until the location and plans have been approved by the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War. When plans for any structure have been so approved, it is unlawful to deviate from such plans unless the modification thereof has received the approval of the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War.

(2) Section 10 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, prohibits the creation of any obstruction not affirmatively authorized by Congress to the navigable capacity of any of the waters of the United States, and makes it unlawful to build any wharf, pier, dolphin, boom weir, breakwater, bulkhead, jetty, or other structures, outside established harbor lines or where no harbor lines have been established, or to excavate or fill, or in any manner to alter or modify the course, location, condition, or capacity of, any navigable water of te United States, unless the work has been recommended by the Chief of Engineers and authorized by the Secretary of War.

(b) Wrecks and similar obstructions. Section 15 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, makes it unlawful to tie up or anchor vessels or other craft in navigable channels in such a manner as to prevent or obstruct the passage of other vessels or craft, or to voluntarily or carelessly sink, or permit or cause to be sunk, vessels or other craft in navigable channels, or to float loose timber and logs or sack rafts of timber and logs in streams or channels actually navigated by steamboats in such manner as to obstruct, impede, or endanger navigation (an act of Congress approved May 9, 1900, authorizes the Secretary of War to prescribe regulations to govern the floating of loose timber and logs and sack rafts and other methods of navigation on any navigable river or waterway of the United States or any part thereof whereon the floating of loose timber and logs and sack rafts is the principal method of navigation). Whenever a vessel, raft, or other craft is wrecked and sunk in a navigable channel, accidentally or otherwise, it is the duty of the owner to immediately mark it with a buoy or beacon during the day and a lighted lantern at night, and to maintain such marks until the sunken craft is removed or abandoned.

(c) Injuries to Government works. Section 14 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, makes it unlawful for any person or persons to take possession of or make use of for any purpose, or build upon, alter, deface, destroy, move, injure, obstruct by fastening vessels thereto or otherwise, or in any manner whatever impair the usefulness of any sea wall, bulkhead, jetty, dike, levee, wharf, pier, or other work built by the United States, or any piece of plant, floating or otherwise, used in the construction of such work under the control of the United States, in whole or in part, for the preservation and improvement of any of its navigable waters or to prevent floods, or as boundary marks, tide gauges, surveying stations, buoys, or other established marks, nor remove for ballast or other purposes any stone or other material composing such works. (The Secretary of War may, on the recommendation of the Chief of Engineers, grant permission for the temporary occupation or use of any of the aforementioned public works when in his judgment such occupation or use will not be injurious to the public interest.

(d) Injurious deposits. (1) Section 13 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, makes it unlawful to throw, discharge, or deposit, or cause, suffer, or procure to be thrown, discharged, or deposited either from or out of any ship, barge, or other floating craft, or from the shore, wharf, manufacturing establishment, or mill, any refuse matter of any kind or description whatever other than that flowing from streets and sewers and passing therefrom in a liquid state, into any navigable water of the United States, or into any tributary of any navigable water from which the same shall float or be washed into such navigable water, or to deposit, or cause, suffer, or procure to be deposited material of any kind in any place on the bank of any navigable water, or on the bank of any tributary of any navigable water, where the same shall be liable to be washed into such navigable water, either by ordinary or high tides, or by storms or floods, or otherwise, whereby navigation shall or may be impeded or obstructed. Section 13 does not apply to the operations in connection with the improvement of navigable waters or construction of public works considered necessary and proper by the United States officers supervising such improvement or public work.

(2) An act of Congress of June 29, 1888, forbids the placing, discharging, or depositing of refuse, dirt, ashes, cinders, mud, sand, dredgings, sludge, acid, or any other matter of any kind, other than that flowing from streets, sewers, and passing therefrom in a liquid state, in the tidal waters of the harbor of New York, or its adjacent or tributary waters, or in those of Long Island Sound, within the limits which shall be prescribed by the Supervisor of New York Harbor. The provisions of this act are enforced by the Supervisor under the direction of the Secretary of War.

(e) Oil pollution. (1) Section 3 of the Oil Pollution Act, 1924, approved June 7, 1924, provides that except in case of emergency imperiling life or property, or unavoidable accident, collision, or stranding, and except as otherwise permitted by regulations prescribed by the Secretary of War, it shall be unlawful for any person to discharge, or suffer, or permit the discharge of oil by any method, means, or manner into or upon the coastal navigable waters of the United States from any vessel using oil as fuel for the generation of propulsion power, or any vessel carrying or having oil thereon in excess of that necessary for its lubricating requirements and such as may be required under the laws of the United States and the rules and regulations prescribed thereunder.

(2) The following instructions relative to enforcement of the Oil Pollution Act have been issued by the Acting Commandant of the Coast Guard to all District Coast Guard Officers. Upon the detection by the Coast Guard Captain of the Port or other officer that oil is being or has been discharged into or upon the coastal or navigable waters of the United States by any vessel a complete investigation and report will be made of the incident, which will include the names of witnesses, samples, and all other pertinent details. This report will be forwarded immediately by the District Coast Guard Officer to the District Engineer (or to the Supervisor of New York Harbor) in all cases for his decision as to subsequent prosecution procedure. If the vessel involved is of American registry, a duplicate report will be forwarded to the Office of the Chief of Marine Inspection. If the report indicates that the spill resulted from the incompetence, negligence, inattention to duty, or misconduct of any licensed or certificated personnel, the Office of the Chief of Marine Inspection will take action under the provisions of R. S. 4450 (46 U. S. C. 239) for the revocation or suspension of the license or certificate. Any action taken in this connection is to be regarded as incidental to and independent of the statutory prosecution as decided upon by the District Engineer.

(f) Penalties for Violations. (1) Section 12 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, as amended, provides that every person and every corporation that shall violate any of the provisions of sections 9 and 10 shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by fine, imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court. And further, the removal of any structures or parts of structures erected in violation of the provisions of the said Sections may be enforced by the injunction of any district court exercising jurisdiction in any district in which such structures may exist, and proper proceedings to this end may be instituted under the direction of the Attorney General.

(2) Section 16 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, provides that every person and every corporation that shall violate, or that shall knowingly aid, abet, authorize, or instigate a violation of the provisions of sections 13, 14 and 15, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine, imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court, one-half of said fine to be paid to the person or persons giving information which shall lead to conviction. Any and every master, pilot, and engineer, or person or persons acting in such capacity, respectively, on board of any boat or vessel who shall knowingly engage in towing any scow, boat, or vessel loaded with any material specified in Section 13 to any point or place of deposit or discharge in any harbor or navigable water, elsewhere than within the limits defined and permitted by the Secretary of War, or who shall willfully injure or destroy any work of the United States contemplated in section 14, or who shall willfully obstruct the channel of any waterway in the manner contemplated in section 15, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of the act, and shall upon conviction be punished as hereinbefore provided in this Section, and shall also have his license revoked or suspended for a term to be fixed by the judge before whom tried and convicted. And any boat, vessel, scow, raft, or other craft used or employed in violating any of the provisions of sections 13, 14, and 15 shall be liable for the pecuniary penalties specified in this Section, and in addition thereto for the amount of the damages done by said boat, vessel, scow, raft, or other craft, which latter sum shall be placed to the credit of the appropriation for the improvement of the harbor or waterway in which the damage occurred, and said boat, vessel, scow, raft, or other craft may be proceeded against summarily by way of libel in any district court of the United States having jurisdiction thereof.

(3) Section 4 of the Oil Pollution Act provides that any person who violates section 3 is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by fine, imprisonment, or both. And any vessel (other than a vessel owned and operated by the United States) from which oil is discharged in violation of section 3 shall be liable for the pecuniary penalty specified, and clearance of such vessel from a port of the United States may be withheld until the penalty is paid, and said penalty shall constitute a lien on such vessel which may be recovered in proceedings by libel in rem in the district court of the United States for any district within which the vessel may be. Section 5 provides that a board of local inspectors of vessels may suspend or revoke a license issued by any such board to the master or other licensed officer of any vessel found violating the provisions of section 3.

(g) Enforcement. (1) Section 17 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, provides that the Department of Justice shall conduct the legal proceedings necessary to enforce the provisions of sections 9 to 16, inclusive, of the act, and it shall be the duty of district attorneys of the United States to vigorously prosecute all offenders against the same whenever requested to do so by the Secretary of War or by any of the officials hereinafter designated, and it shall furthermore be the duty of said district attorneys to report to the Attorney General the action taken by him against offenders so reported, and a transcript of such reports shall be transmitted to the Secretary of War by the Attorney General.

(2) Section 17 further provides that for the better enforcement of the provisions of sections 9 to 16, inclusive, and to facilitate the detection and bringing to punishment of such offenders, the officers and agents of the United States in charge of river and harbor improvements, and the assistant engineers and inspectors employed under them by authority of the Secretary of War, and the United States collectors of customs and other revenue officers, shall have power and authority to swear out process and to arrest and take into custody, with or without process, any person or persons who may commit any of the acts or offenses prohibited by the aforesaid sections, or who may violate any of the provisions of the same. No person shall be arrested without process for any offense not committed in the presence of some one of the aforesaid officials. Whenever any arrest is made under the provisions of the act, the person so arrested shall be brought forthwith before a commissioner, judge, or court of the United States for examination of the offenses alleged against him, and such commissioner, judge, or court shall proceed in respect thereto as authorized by law in case of crimes against the United States. Similar provisions are contained in section 7 of the Oil Pollution Act, 1924, except that the words "officers of the Customs and Coast Guard of the United States" are substituted for the words "the United States collectors of customs and other revenue officers."

(3) It is the duty of each District Engineer to take notice of any violations of the laws for the protection of the navigable waters and the works of improvement therein that may occur in his district and to take the necessary steps to secure enforcement of the law. Whenever any violation of any of these provisions of law comes to his attention he will investigate carefully the circumstances of the case and will determine the amount of the damage for which the parties committing the violation are responsible under section 16 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899. He will then communicate directly with the parties responsible for the violation, giving them notice to remove the illegal structure or deposit or to repair the damage by their own labor and at their own expense within a reasonable time to be fixed in the notice. If they so request in writing and furnish a satisfactory bond or other guaranty he may cause the repairs to be made by employees of the United States and will then call upon the responsible parties to pay over to him the cost of the damages when finally ascertained. All sums so received will be deposited promptly to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States for recredit to the appropriation affected and will be accounted for in the District Engineer's money accounts by proper vouchers.

(4) If the parties at fault deny their responsibility, or if they refuse or neglect to remove any unlawful structure or deposit or to repair the damages within the time fixed by the notice, the matter will be reported promptly to the Chief of Engineers with such evidence as the District Engineer may be able to obtain and his recommended action under section 17 of the act of March 3, 1899. In an unusual situation requiring immediate action, the District Engineer may report the case direct to the United States Attorney for the district. The Chief of Engineers will be advised by wire of such action to be followed by a written report. If the unlawful structure or deposit is removed or the damage repaired by the parties responsible therefor in conformity with the notice, the District Engineer will report whether further action should be taken against them with a view to making them liable to the fine or imprisonment prescribed by the act as a punishment for violations of its provisions. Although the Corps of Engineers has certain police powers under this act it has been the long standing policy to secure compliance with its provisions short of legal proceedings. Accordingly every effort will be made to accomplish corrective measures prior to initiation of action leading to such proceedings. As a general rule, while minor and unintentional or accidental violations of the provisions of the act need not be reported to the Chief of Engineers, all willful or intentional violations and all cases in which the parties responsible refuse or neglect to remove the unlawful structure or deposit or to make good the damages suffered should be reported promptly to the Chief of Engineers in accordance with the above. Each report recommending prosecution should be accompanied by a full statement of the case and copies of correspondence relating thereto.

(5) The procedure in cases involving injurious deposits and oil pollution is similar to that described for other violations of law except that as the damage caused thereby cannot be readily repaired there will ordinarily be no reason for serving any notice on the parties responsible for the violations further than to bring to their attention the consequences thereof. In all cases in which a violation of law is clearly established the circumstances will be immediately reported to the District Attorney; however, it is the established policy of the Department not to recommend prosecution when the violation of law is trivial, apparently unpremeditated, and results in no material public injury. Violations of the Oil Pollution Act by vesels of American registry should be brought to the attention of the District Coast Guard Officer for possible action under the provisions of R. S. 4450.

§ 209.180 Alteration of obstructive bridges—(a) Laws relating to alteration of bridges other than railroad and combined railroad and highway bridges. (1) Section 18 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, as amended, provides that whenever the Secretary of War shall have good reason to believe that any bridge (except a bridge used and operated for the purpose of carrying railroad traffic or both railroad and highway traffic) over any of the navigable waterways of the United States is an unreasonable obstruction to navigation, it shall be his duty, first giving the parties reasonable opportunity to be heard, to give notice to the persons or corporations owning or controlling such bridge so to alter the same as to render navigation through or under it reasonably free, easy, and unobstructed; and in giving such notice he shall specify the changes recommended by the Chief of Engineers that are required to be made, and shall prescribe in each case a reasonable time in which to make them. If at the end of such time the alteration has not been made, the Secretary of War shall forthwith notify the United States district attorney for the district in which such bridge is situated, to the end that the criminal proceedings hereinafter mentioned may be taken. If the persons, corporation, or association owning or controlling any bridge shall, after receiving notice to that effect, as hereinbefore required, from the Secretary of War, and within the time prescribed by him will fully fail or refuse to remove the same or to comply with any lawful order, such persons, corporation, or association shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000, and every month such persons, corporation, or association shall remain in default in respect to the removal or alteration of such bridge shall be deemed a new offense, and subject the persons, corporation, or association so offending to the penalties above prescribed.

(2) Section 4 of the General Bridge Act of March 23, 1906, as amended, provides that if any bridge erected in accordance with provisions of that act (except a bridge used and operated for the purpose of carrying railroad traffic or both railroad and highway traffic) shall, in the opinion of the Secretary of War, at any time unreasonably obstruct navigation, it shall be his duty, after giving the parties interested reasonable opportunity to be heard, to notify the persons owning or controlling such bridge to so alter the same as to render navigation through or under it reasonably free, easy, and unobstructed, stating in such notice the changes required to be made and prescribing in each case a reasonable time in which to make such changes, and if at the end of the time so specified the changes so required have not been made, the persons owning or controlling such bridge shall be deemed guilty of a violation of the act. Any persons who shall be guilty of a violation of the act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished in any court of competent jurisdiction by a fine not exceeding $5,000, and every month such person shall remain in default shall be deemed a new offense and subject such persons to additional penalties therefor; and in addition to the penalties above described the Secretary of War may, upon refusal of the persons owning or controlling any such bridge and accessory works to comply with any lawful order, cause the removal of such bridge and accessory works at the expense of the persons owning or controlling such bridge; and the removal of any structures maintained in violation of the provisions of the order may be enforced by summary process.

(b) Law relating to alteration of railroad and combined railroad and highway bridges. The Truman-Hobbs Act of June 21, 1940, provides that whenever any lawful bridge over navigable waters of the United States, used and operated for the purpose of carrying railroad traffic, or both railroad and highway traffic, shall, in the opinion of the Secretary of War, at any time unreasonably obstruct navigation it shall be his duty, after notice to interested parties, to hold a hearing at which the bridge owner, those interested in water navigation thereunder or therethrough, those interested in either railroad or highway traffic thereover, and any other party or parties in interest shall have full opportunity to offer evidence and be heard as to whether any alteration of such bridge is needed, and if so what alterations are needed, having due regard to the necessity of free and unobstructed water navigation and to the necessities of the rail or highway traffic. If, upon such hearing the Secretary of War determines that any alterations of such bridge are necessary in order to render navigation through or under it reasonably free, easy, and unobstructed, having due regard also for the necessities of rail or highway traffic thereover, he shall so find and shall issue and cause to be served upon interested parties an order requiring such alterations of such bridge as he finds reasonably necessary for the purposes of navigation. The act further provides for the approval by the Secretary of War of general plans and specifications and contracts for the project and apportionment of the total cost thereof between the United States and the bridge owner. Any bridge owner who shall willfully fail or refuse to comply with any lawful order shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished in any court of competent jurisdiction by a fine not exceeding $5,000, and every month such bridge owner shall remain in default shall be deemed a new offense and subject such bridge owner to additional penalties therefor. In addition to the penalties above prescribed the Secretary of War may, upon the failure or refusal of any bridge owner to comply with any lawful order, cause the removal of any such bridge and accessory works at the expense of the bridge owner. Compliance with any order may be enforced by summary process.

(c) Investigation of complaints of obstructive bridges. (1) Upon receipt of a complaint that a designated bridge over a navigable waterway of the United States is an obstruction to navigation, the District Engineer will investigate to determine if in his opinion, the complaint is justified. If the District Engineer does not consider the bridge unreasonably obstructive to navigation he will so notify the complainant. If the District Engineer finds that the bridge is unreasonably obstructive or is unable to satisfy the complainant that the bridge is not obstructive, he will submit a report to the Chief of Engineers, through the Division Engineer, specifying the character of obstruction, the changes necessary to render navigation through or under the bridge reasonably free, easy and unobstructed, and his estimate of a reasonable period of time in which to make the required changes. In cases under the Truman-Hobbs Act, the estimate of time required need not be included but the best available preliminary estimate of total cost of the required changes and probable portion of cost to be borne by the United States will be stated.

(2) The Chief of Engineers will notify the reporting officers of the action desired after consideration of the report on the complaint.

(d) Hearings to be held on obstructive bridges. (1) Upon receipt of authority from the Chief of Engineers, the District Engineer will arrange for a hearing at which the owners and controllers of the bridge, the complainants, and all other known interested parties will be given reasonable opportunity to be heard.

(2) The notice of the hearing will include statements of the changes required and, except in cases under the Truman-Hobbs Act, the estimate of time considered reasonable for accomplishment of the changes.

(3) Upon conclusion of hearings, the District Engineer will submit to the Chief of Engineers, through the Division Engineer, a full report on the subject, including statements on:

(i) Whether the bridge unreasonably obstructs navigation.

(ii) Whether rafts, steamboats, or other water craft have difficulty in passing the draw opening or draw span.

(iii) The changes necessary to render navigation through or under the bridge reasonably free, easy, and unobstructed.

(iv) The reasonable time in which such changes should be made, except in the case of railroad or combined railroad and highway bridges.

(v) The character and the approximate amount of commerce affected by the obstructive features of the bridge.

(vi) Whether, in the judgment of the District Engineer, the commerce affected is sufficient to justify a requirement that the proposed changes in the bridge will be made.

(vii) An estimate of cost of alterations and proportionate share to be borne by the United States in actions relating to railroad or combined railroad and highway bridges.

(viii) A sketch on letter size paper showing the principal features of the bridge, the particular features against which complaint is made, and any other natural or artificial feature pertinent to consideration of the complaint.

(ix) A transcript of the proceedings of the hearing.

(4) The Chief of Engineers will notify the reporting officers of the action desired by the Secretary of War with respect to proposed alterations of the bridge.

(e) Notice to alter obstructive bridges. (1) Upon receipt of War Department notices directing any action by the owners or operators of a bridge, the District Engineer concerned will make prompt service of such notice on the proper parties and will submit to the Chief of Engineers through the Division Engineer a photostat copy of the notice as served together with an affidavit thereon executed by the person serving the notice and showing on whom, and when and where the service was made. Similar photostatic copies will be retained in the files of the Division and District Engineers.

(2) In cases under the Truman-Hobbs Act, the District Engineer will also quote to the bridge owner the requirements of the act of June 21, 1940, for submission of general plans and specifications. The District and Division Engineers will review the plans and specifications and will submit them with their views and recommendations to the Chief of Engineers for approval, including remarks on:

(i) Whether the plans and specifications provide for the minimum structure meeting the requirements of the notice to alter.

(ii) Whether they include items or features not necessary to meet the notice to alter but desired by the bridge owner.

(iii) Whether they provide for materials or workmanship of a higher grade than that of comparable items of features of the existing bridge, or where no counterpart, of a higher grade than provided in recommended practice of the Association of American Railroads.

(iv) Any indicated revision of the preliminary estimate of cost and apportionment.

(3) Upon receipt of approval of the plans and specifications, the District Engineer will notify the bridge owners of the approval and will invite the attention of the owners to the requirements of Sections 5 and 6 of the Act of June 21, 1940 with respect to submission of bids and guaranty of cost.

(f) Approval of award and guaranty of cost under Truman-Hobbs Act. (1) The District Engineer will forward the bids obtained by the bridge owners to the Chief of Engineers through the Division Engineer and will notify the bridge owner when award is approved. The District Engineer will then request the bridge owner to furnish guaranty of cost as required by section 6 of the act of June 21, 1940, and will submit the statement of guaranty of cost to the Chief of Engineers through the Division Engineer together with the statement of proportionate shares of cost to be borne by the United States and the owner in the following form:

Cost of alteration	$------
Cost attributable to bridge owner, viz:
Direct and special benefits	$------
Expectable savings in repair or maintenance costs	------
Costs attributable to the requirements of railroad traffic	------
Expenditure for increased carrying capacity	------
Expired service life of old bridge	------
Cost	------
Cost to be borne by the United States	------

(2) Direct and special benefits will ordinarily include such items as improved signal and fender system, prorata share of dismantling costs, any improvements included but not required in the interests of navigation. The foregoing statements will include or be accompanied by breakdown of the statements of total cost and proportionate shares and sufficient details of the features of construction to show how the apportionment was determined and to permit review and auditing of the statements by the Department.

(g) Reports on completion of alterations. District Engineers will advise the Chief of Engineers through the Division Engineer of any failure to comply with notices to alter obstructive bridges within time limits specified and will also report when alterations are satisfactorily completed.

§ 209.190 Removal of wrecks and other obstructions—(a) Laws relative to removal of wrecks and obstructions. The laws relating to removal of wrecks are contained in sections 15, 19, and 20 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, and section 1 of the act of August 16, 1937. Section 15 of the former act provides that it shall be the duty of the owner to mark the location of the wreck immediately and until removed or abandoned; sections 19 and 20 authorize removal under the direction of the Secretary of War if the owner does not take action; section 19 governs in cases where removal is not an urgent necessity; and section 20 applies to emergencies where the interests of navigation require immediate action. Section 1 of the latter act provides for action in case the owner fails to mark a wreck suitably.

(b) Reports on accidents or obstructions affecting navigation. When any major accident occurs, such as vessel collision, sinking, grounding, or bridge failure, District Engineers will keep the Chief of Engineers informed by wire of pertinent details and developments, particularly as to any interference or danger to navigation and estimated duration of obstruction.

(c) General procedure on wrecks and obstructions. (1) District Engineers receiving information of the existence of any wreck or similar obstruction in navigable waters of the United States within the limits of their districts will at once ascertain whether navigation is obstructed or endangered. If the obstruction is found to be of a character requiring removal thereof the District Engineer will promptly inform the owner of the provisions of law on the subject.

(2) Vessel owners, masters and others interested are encouraged to send to the District Engineer as prompt and accurate reports as possible of wrecks and their approximate location.

(3) If removal is commenced by the owner the District Engineer will keep himself informed of the progress of the work and will exercise sufficient supervision of the operations to insure that they cause no unreasonable interference with navigation and that the operations are diligently prosecuted as required by law. If removal by the United States is found necessary proceedings must be promptly instituted in accordance with the appropriate provisions of law. In such case if the owner has not marked the obstruction the District Engineer will immediately request the district commander of Coast Guard to see that marks are established.

(4) In the removal and disposal of sunken vessels the District Engineer will ascertain from the owner, if known, whether there is a Government interest in the vessel by way of mortgage or otherwise, and if such interest be found he will ascertain what disposition is desired by the Maritime Commission or other agency of the Government having such interest before offering the vessel for sale to the public.

(d) Marking of wrecks by owners. Whenever a vessel, raft, or other craft is wrecked and sunk in a navigable channel, accidentally or otherwise, it will be the duty of the owner of such sunken craft to mark it immediately with a buoy or beacon during the day and a lighted lantern at night, and to maintain such marks until the sunken craft is removed or abandoned, and the neglect or failure of the said owner so to do shall be unlawful (sec. 15, act of March 3, 1899, 33 U. S. C. 409).

(e) Marking of wrecks by Coast Guard. (1) District Commanders of the Coast Guard are required upon the request of District Engineers to maintain suitable warnings on abandoned wrecks until the wrecks are removed by the Engineer Department. Section 1 of the act of August 16, 1937, contains provision for the marking of any sunken vessel, boat, watercraft, raft, or similar obstruction, existing in any river, lake, harbor, sound, bay, or canal or other navigable water of the United States by the Lighthouse Service (Coast Guard), and for the distribution of cost for such marking. For regulations of the Coast Guard governing marking of wrecks see 33 CFR, 402.5.

(2) The District Engineer will notify the District Commander of the Coast Guard of the exact time when the United States assumes charge of a wreck or other menace to navigation in his district so as to enable the Coast Guard to allocate properly any expense that may be incurred by it in the marking of the wreck.

(f) Information for Coast Guard. Whenever any wreck, which has been buoyed by the Coast Guard has been so far removed or destroyed that buoys are no longer needed this fact will be reported at once by the District Engineer under whose direction the wreck was removed to the Coast Guard Commander of the district in which the wreck was located.

(g) Cooperation with Coast Guard. Regulations have been approved by the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War and by the Treasury Department with a view to cooperation between the Coast Guard and the Engineer Department in connection with the removal and destruction of derelicts, wrecks, and other obstructions to navigation.

(h) Removal of obstructions under section 19 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899. Action under this section for removal of an obstruction requires prior authority from the Chief of Engineers and may be undertaken only when navigation of navigable waters of the United States is obstructed or endangered, and if the obstruction has been in existence for a longer period than thirty days, or its abandonment by the owner can be legally established in a shorter period. The obstruction can be removed by any method deemed most advantageous.

(i) Removal of obstructions under section 20 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899. This section provides that action thereunder may be taken by any agent of the United States to whom the Secretary of War "may delegate proper authority." A delegation of such authority was made by an order issued by the Secretary of War, January 20, 1905, which as amended November 2, 1917, reads as follows:

Whenever any vessel, boat, water craft, or raft sinks, grounds or is unnecessarily delayed in any canal, lock, or other improvement controlled or owned by the United States, or in any of the navigable waters of the United States, under circumstances of emergency, the district engineer in charge of such lock, canal, improvement, or district will, under authority conferred by section 20 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stats. 1154–1155) take charge of such vessel, boat, water craft, raft, or other obstruction with a view to its immediate removal or destruction, using his best judgment, in all cases, to prevent any unnecessary injury. Any action taken under the above instructions will be reported forthwith to the Chief of Engineers for the information or action of the Secretary of War.

§ 209.200 Regulations governing navigable waters—(a) Publication of regulations. District Engineers will distribute mimeographed copies of all departmental regulations to all known interested parties as soon as their publication has been noted in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The following note will be included:

These rules and regulations, when published, have the force of law. They were published in the FEDERAL REGISTER ---------; public notices of their approval were sent to all known interested parties on ---------; they have been posted at ---------

(P. O.'s, bridges, etc.)

(b) Drawbridge operation. (1) Section 5 of the River and Harbor Act of August 18, 1894, requires the opening of draws of all drawbridges across navigable waters of the United States under such rules and regulations as in the opinion of the Secretary of War the public interests require. Section 4 of the General Bridge Act approved March 23, 1906, requires that draws of bridges affected by that act will be opened promptly upon reasonable signal.

(2) Requests for establishment of closed periods, opening upon advance notice, and other special regulations to govern operation of drawbridges will be investigated by the District Engineer and all known interested parties given an opportunity to be heard. A report will then be made detailing the requirements of land and water traffic to include all available evidence of past use of the draw-span, particularly log of openings, and a draft of recommended regulations.

(c) Anchorage grounds. (1) Section 7 of the River and Harbor Act of March 4, 1915, authorizes the Secretary of War to establish anchorage grounds for vessels in navigable waters of the United States whenever it is manifest that the maritime or commercial interests of the United States require such anchorage grounds for safe navigation and the establishment of such anchorage grounds will have been recommended by the Chief of Engineers, and to adopt suitable rules and regulations in relation thereto. Such rules and regulations are enforced by the Coast Guard under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury (or Navy when the Coast Guard is operating as a part of the Navy in time of war or when the President shall so direct), except where there is no Coast Guard vessel available in which case they may be enforced by the Chief of Engineers under the direction of the Secretary of War.

(2) District and Division Engineers will, whenever matters relating to the anchorage of vessels are under consideration, ascertain the views of the District Commander of the Coast Guard and or the proper representatives of all other departments likely to be interested, and when public hearings for the consideration of such matters are proposed, to send notice to the proper representatives of other departments likely to be interested, including the Commandant of the Naval District concerned and the medical officer in charge of the quarantine station at localities where quarantine anchorages are involved, in order that they may arrange for suitable representation at such hearings. The views of the medical officer in charge of the quarantine station relating to the proposed location and boundaries of the quarantine anchorage will be accepted insofar as practicable and consistent with the establishment of other anchorage areas. (An act of Congress approved March 3, 1901, as amended (42 U. S. C. 102), authorizes the Surgeon General, with the approval of the Federal Security Administrator, to designate and mark the boundaries of the quarantine grounds and quarantine anchorages for vessels which are reserved for use at each United States quarantine station.)

(3) Proceedings against a vessel violating the anchorage regulations are to be brought in the name of the officer of the Coast Guard assigned for the time being as Captain of the Port. When the vessel is at a port where there is no Coast Guard officer, proceedings will be instituted in the name of the District Engineer.

(d) Special anchorage areas. An act of Congress of April 22, 1940, provides that the Secretary of War may, after investigation, by rule, regulation, or order, designate such areas as he may deem proper as special anchorage areas wherein vessels not more than sixty-five feet in length, when at anchor, will not be required to carry or exhibit anchorage lights. Administrative procedure in investigating and reporting on special anchorage areas will be similar to that followed for anchorage grounds under section 7 of the River and Harbor Act of March 4, 1915. Investigations should show conclusively that the areas are well removed from the fairways and located where general navigation will not endanger or be endangered by unlighted anchored vessels.

(e) Danger zones. (1) The Secretary of War has authority to prescribe regulations for the use and navigation of any portion or area of the navigable waters of the United States or waters under the jurisdiction of the United States endangered or likely to be endangered by target practice, ordnance proving operations, bombing practice, etc., under the provisions of Chapter XIX of the Army Act of July 9, 1918, or of section 7 of the River and Harbor Act of August 8, 1917.

(2) Upon receipt of a request from any branch of the War Department or from the Navy Department for approval by the Secretary of War of regulations establishing bombing or gunnery practice areas under authority of either act, the District Engineer will act upon such a request in a manner similar to that followed in acting upon anchorage and navigation regulations. The authority to prescribe such regulations must be so exercised as not unreasonably to interfere with or restrict the food fishing industry, and whenever the establishment of a proposed restricted area may affect fishing operations the District Engineer will consult with the Area Coordinator, Office of the Coordinator of Fisheries, Department of the Interior.

(3) In the event that the use of such areas is desired only for temporary, occasional, or intermittent periods, applicants may be advised that formal approval of the Secretary of War is not required, and that proper notices for mariners should be forwarded to the United States Coast Guard, Washington, D. C., and the Hydrographic Office, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., and furnished all interested persons in such manner as the District Engineer may suggest.

(4) Two copies of all notices of applications for the establishment of danger zones and restricted areas will be forwarded to Headquarters, Army Air Forces. In addition notices of all applications relating to the establishment of aerial gunnery and bombing areas will be sent to local Army, Navy and Civil Aeronautics Administration representatives. Reports on such applications will include a specific statement of the names of such representatives to whom notice has been sent.

(f) Navigation. Section 7 of the River and Harbor Act of August 8, 1917, authorizes the Secretary of War to prescribe such regulations for the use, administration, and navigation of the navigable waters of the United States as in his judgment the public necessity may require for the protection of life and property, or for protection of operations of the United States in channel improvement, covering all matters not specifically delegated by law to some other executive department. Under this authority regulations have been prescribed to govern signals to be displayed on vessels, passing signals, speed and movement of vessels, aids to navigation, length of towlines, etc. (General Regulations), as well as the use, administration, and navigation of navigable waters in particular localities (Navigation Regulations). Whenever matters relating to the movement of vessels are under consideration, District and Division Engineers will take steps to ascertain the views of the District Commander of the Coast Guard and of the proper representatives of all other departments likely to be interested in the same manner as in the case of anchorage regulations.

(g) Seaplane restricted areas. District and Division Engineers will give appropriate consideration to applications for the establishment of restricted areas of the navigable waters of ports for use by seaplanes and their attendant craft. In connection with any application or question relating to anchorage areas or navigation regulations for the usual forms of water navigation, District and Division Engineers will consider fully the possibility of conflict with the use of the waters by seaplanes. Before action is taken in any instance in which it is likely that the interests of air commerce are involved, District Engineers will obtain the views of the Civil Aeronautics Authority and the United States Maritime Commission, through the Chief of Engineers.

(h) Dumping grounds. (1) Section 4 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1905, authorizes the Secretary of War to prescribe regulations to govern the transportation and dumping into any navigable water, or waters adjacent thereto, of dredgings and other refuse materials whenever in his judgment such regulations are required in the interest of navigation. Under this authority dumping grounds have been established in certain localities and regulations relating thereto have been prescribed.

(2) Section 13 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, contains a proviso authorizing the Secretary of War to permit the deposit of refuse matter in navigable waters, whenever in the judgment of the Chief of Engineers anchorage and navigation will not be injured thereby, within limits to be defined and under conditions to be prescribed by him, provided application is made to him prior to depositing such material. Although the Department has exercised this authority from time to time, it is considered preferable to act under section 4 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1905.

(3) Under the authority contained in an act of Congress to prevent obstructive and injurious deposits within the harbor and adjacent waters of New York City of June 29, 1888, the Supervisor of New York Harbor has established dumping areas in those waters and has prescribed regulations relating thereto. The provisions of the act are enforced by the Supervisor under the direction of the Secretary of War.

(4) In considering requests for the establishment of dumping grounds, District and Division Engineers will give careful consideration to the requirements of navigation and will take action to prevent unreasonable injury to fish and wild life.

(i) Fishing and hunting structures. Special regulations have been approved by the Secretary of War to govern the placing, under permits issued by District Engineers, of fishing and hunting structures in certain designated areas. Cases not covered by such regulations must be submitted to the Chief of Engineers for approval.

§ 209.210 Regulation of bridge tolls. (a) As a general rule the laws on the subject of tolls commit their regulation to the Secretary of War. The General Bridge Act of March 23, 1906, provides that the Secretary of War may at any time and from time to time prescribe the reasonable rates of toll for transit over any bridge constructed subject to the provisions of the act. Section 17 of an act of June 10, 1930 (46 Stat. 552; 33 U. S. C. 498a), and an act of June 27, 1930, extends this provision to bridges previously authorized by acts of Congress specifically reserving to Congress the right to regulate subsequently tolls on such bridges, and the right to alter, amend, or repeal such act, respectively.

In addition, some special Congressional bridge acts contain provisions concerning the regulation of tolls for the particular structure authorized.

(b) Complaints that existing charges are unreasonable are referred to the District Engineer for consideration and preliminary determination whether further Departmental action should be taken. If possible, complaints should be specific and state facts giving rise to an inference that existing rates are excessive. If the District Engineer's preliminary findings suggest that Departmental action may be justified, he will be instructed by the Chief of Engineers to issue a notice of hearing. The notice states simply that a hearing is to be held with respect to the reasonableness of the tolls charged on a designated bridge. At the conclusion of the hearing the District Engineer will prepare a report of the facts disclosed by the hearing and by his own investigation and, if existing rates are considered unreasonable, a schedule of rates which, in his opinion, will afford a reasonable return. If a change in existing rates is determined upon by the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War, the latter will issue an order to the owner of the bridge revising the rates accordingly.

(c) The act of August 21, 1935 (49 Stat. 670; 33 U. S. C. 503–507), authorizes the Secretary of War to regulate tolls on bridges over navigable waters of the United States which bridges are used for purposes of travel or transportation in interstate or foreign commerce, except (1) bridges subject to the provisions of the General Bridge Act of 1906, (2) bridges built under the authority of the legislature of the State across waterways the navigable portions of which lie wholly within the limits of a single State, and (3) bridges on which the tolls are prescribed by a contract entered into by or with any State or political subdivision thereof, or any municipality. The Act contains detailed information as to procedure.

§ 209.220 Flood control regulations—(a) Local protection works. On projects authorized subject to specified conditions of local cooperation, no construction is undertaken by the War Department until satisfactory assurances of the required local cooperation have been accepted by the Secretary of War and until any lands, easements, and rights-of-way required to be furnished by local interests have been made available for at least a complete unit of the project. The District Engineers notify local interests concerned of the requirements of local cooperation and request assurances by registered mail prior to the preparation of final plans and specifications. Regulations prescribed by the Secretary of War for the maintenance and operation of local flood protection works are published in 33 CFR, 208.10. When assurances satisfactory to the District Engineer are received, they are forwarded through the Division Engineer to the Chief of Engineers for consideration of the Secretary of War. The District Engineers advise local interests of the action taken by the Department. Completed projects or completed useful units thereof are normally turned over to local interests for maintenance and operation as soon as the construction and testing of equipment is completed and the project is in proper condition for the assumption of maintenance and operation by local interests. The transfer is accomplished by formal notice from the District Engineer to the local interests that the completed facilities are being turned over to them for maintenance and operation as of a specific date. During construction, District Engineers keep the local interests concerned advised as to the probable date of transfer.

(b) Use of storage allocated for flood control or navigation at reservoirs constructed wholly or in part with Federal funds. Regulations prescribed by the Secretary of War in accordance with section 7 of the Flood Control Act of December 22, 1944, are for the purpose of coordinating the operation of the flood control features of reservoirs constructed wholly or in part with Federal funds and other flood control improvements to obtain the maximum protection from floods which can reasonably be obtained with the proper operation of all flood control improvements. Proposed regulations are determined by the District Engineer in cooperation with the persons responsible for the maintenance and operation of the reservoir involved after a detailed study of the flood problems and the characteristics of the reservoir project. The proposed regulations are forwarded by the District Engineer through the Division Engineer to the Chief of Engineers for consideration of the Secretary of War. When approved by the Secretary of War, these regulations are published in 33 CFR, Part 208.

§ 209.230. Use of reservoir areas for recreation. The War Department in accordance with section 4 of the Flood Control Act of December 22, 1944, as amended by section 4 of the Flood Control Act of July 24, 1946, prepares and administers plans to obtain the maximum sustained public benefit from the use of reservoir areas under its control for recreation and other related purposes, when such use is consistent with the operation and maintenance of the reservoir project for the specific purposes of the reservoir project as authorized by law and when such use is determined not to be contrary to the public interest. The plans are prepared and administered by the District Engineers, subject to review and approval of the Division Engineers and the Chief of Engineers, in close cooperation with other Federal agencies and local interests. The views and desires of these agencies and local interests are obtained normally by conferences with the District Engineers. In many cases, public hearings are held by the District Engineers at appropriate times in the vicinity of the reservoir area at which time anyone can express his views relative to these plans for consideration of the War Department. Rules and regulations are prescribed by the Secretary of War to govern the public use of the reservoir areas in accordance with the law as a part of the general plan for recreational and related uses of the reservoir area. These rules and regulations are published in 36 CFR, Part 301. Licenses and leases are granted under the law containing conditions and provisions to govern the use of specific portions of the reservoir area. Full information concerning such matters may be obtained from the District Engineer in charge of the reservoir.

SUBSTANTIVE RULES, POLICY, AND INTERPRETATIONS

§ 209.260 Navigable waters of the United States. (a) In the administration of the laws enacted by Congress for the protection and preservation of the navigable waters of the United States, the War Department is frequently called upon to make determinations as to the navigability of waterways. It should be understood that such determinations merely represent the views of the Department since the jurisdiction of the United States can be conclusively determined only through judicial proceedings. As information, definitions as to what constitutes a navigable water of the United States based on decisions of the Supreme Court are as follows: Those rivers must be regarded as public navigable rivers in law which are navigable in fact. And they are navigable in fact when they are used, or are susceptible of being used, in their ordinary condition, as highways for commerce, over which trade and travel are or may be conducted in the customary modes of trade and travel on water. And they constitute navigable waters of the United States within the meaning of the acts of Congress, in contra-distinction from the navigable waters of the States, when they form in their ordinary condition by themselves, or by uniting with other waters, a continued highway over which commerce is or may be carried on with other States or foreign countries in the customary modes in which such commerce is conducted by water. The Daniel Ball, 10 Wall. 557.

(b) The capability of use by the public for purposes of transportation and commerce affords the true criterion of the navigability of a river, rather than the extent and manner of that use. If it be capable in its natural state of being used for purposes of commerce, no matter in what mode the commerce may be conducted, it is navigable in fact, and becomes in law a public river or highway. As Chief Justice Shaw said (21 Pickering 344), it is not every small creek in which a fishing skiff or gunning canoe can be made to float at high water which is deemed navigable, but, in order to give it the character of a navigable stream, it must be generally and commonly useful to some purpose of trade or agriculture. The Montello, 20 Wall. 430.

(c) Navigability, in the sense of the law, is not destroyed because the watercourse is interrupted by occasional natural obstructions or portages; nor need the navigation be open at all seasons of the year, or at all stages of the water. A river having actual navigable capacity in its natural state and capable of carrying commerce among the States, is within the power of Congress to preserve for purposes of future transportation, even though it be not at present used for such commerce, and be incapable of such use according to present methods, either by reason of changed conditions or because of artificial obstructions. It is not difficult to believe that many streams require only the exertion of federal control to make them again important avenues of commerce among the States. If they are to be abandoned, it is for Congress, not the courts, so to declare. Economy Light and Power Co. v. U. S., 256 U. S. 113.

(d) It is obvious that the uses to which streams may be put vary from the carriage of ocean liners to the floating out of logs; that the density of traffic varies equally widely from the busy harbors of the seacoast to the sparsely settled regions of the Western mountain. The tests as to navigability must take these variations into consideration. To appraise the evidence of navigability on the natural condition only of the waterway is erroneous. Its availability for navigation must also be considered. "Natural and ordinary" condition refers to volume of water, the gradients and the regularity of flow. A waterway, otherwise suitable for navigation, is not barred from that classification merely because artificial aids must make the highway suitable for use before commercial navigation may be undertaken. There are obvious limits to such improvements as affecting navigability. These limits are necessarily a matter of degree. There must be a balance between cost and need at a time when the improvement would be useful. Nor is it necessary that the improvements should be actually completed or even authorized. The power of Congress over commerce is not to be hampered because of the necessity for reasonable improvements to make an interstate waterway available for traffic. Improvements that may be entirely reasonable in a thickly populated, highly developed, industrial region may have been entirely too costly for the same region in the days of the pioneers. The changes in engineering practices or the coming of new industries with varying classes of freight may affect the type of the improvement. Although navigability to fix ownership of the river bed or riparian rights is determined, as of the formation of the Union in the original states or the admission to statehood of those formed later, navigability, for the purpose of the regulation of commerce, may later arise. U. S. v. Appalachian Electric Power Co., 311 U. S. 377.

§ 209.265 General regulations. Rules and regulations to govern the display of signals on, and the operation of, all craft and accessories working on wrecks, engaged in dredging, surveying, or other work of improvement, and the use and navigation of the waters in the vicinity thereof, in all harbors, rivers, and inland waters of the United States, including the Great Lakes and their connecting and tributary waters, and to govern the length of towlines upon improved and connecting channels of the Great Lakes, are published in 33 CFR, Part 201.

§ 209.270 Anchorage regulations. (a) Descriptions of established anchorage grounds and special anchorage areas and rules and regulations relating thereto, are published in 33 CFR, Part 202.

(b) Special anchorage areas. Special anchorage areas are designated by the Secretary of War under authority of the act of April 22, 1940 (54 Stat. 150; 33 U. S. C. 180, 258, 319), only when investigation shows conclusively that they are well removed from the fairways and located where general navigation will not endanger or be endangered by unlighted anchored vessels.

§ 209.275 Bridge regulations. Regulations to govern the operation of drawbridges are published in 33 CFR, Part 203.

§ 209.280 Danger zone regulations. Regulations to govern the use and administration of waters endangered or likely to be endangered by military or naval operations in target practice or otherwise, are published in 33 CFR, Part 204.

§ 209.285 Dumping grounds regulations. Regulations to govern the transportation and dumping of refuse materials into navigable waters or waters adjacent thereto, are published in 33 CFR, Part 205. Section 13 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1152; 33 U. S. C. 407), contains a proviso that the Secretary of War, whenever in the judgment of the Chief of Engineers anchorage and navigation will not be injured thereby, may permit the deposit of refuse matter in navigable waters, within limits to be defined and under conditions to be prescribed by him, provided application is made to him prior to depositing such material. Although the Department has exercised this authority in the past, its present policy is to act only under the authority contained in section 4 of the act of March 3, 1905 (33 Stat. 1147; 33 U. S. C. 419).

§ 209.290 Fishing and hunting regulations. Regulations to govern the construction and maintenance in navigable waters of structures to be used for fishing and hunting, are published in 33 CFR, Part 206.

§ 209.295 Navigation regulations. Regulations to govern the use, administration, and navigation of navigable waters generally, are published in 33 CFR, Part 207.

§ 209.300 Flood control regulations. (a) Regulations for the operation and maintenance of local flood protection works approved by the Secretary of War under the authority contained in section 3 of the Flood Control Act of June 22, 1936, as amended and supplemented, are published in 33 CFR 208.100. These regulations cover conditions normally and regularly required. Whenever the regulations are not sufficiently broad to cover the specific maintenance and operation requirements of a particular project, District Engineers will submit through the Division Engineers recommended additional regulations needed for that particular project. Such supplemental regulations will require approval of the Secretary of War and will be made applicable only to the individual project concerned. Local interests will be advised of the approved regulations for operation and maintenance of local flood protection works at the time assurances of local cooperation are requested. District Engineers will keep informed as to the extent of compliance with approved regulations for operation and maintenance through regular, periodic inspection of the projects concerned and through careful analysis of the semiannual reports which the operating and maintaining agencies are required to submit in accordance with the regulations. The District Engineer's views as to any measures required to conform to the approved regulations will be furnished to the agencies responsible. In any case where the District Engineer has been unable to arrange satisfactory compliance or where there is question or disagreement as to the measures required for compliance, a report of the circumstances, together with the recommendations of the District and Division Engineers, will be submitted to the Chief of Engineers for consideration.

(b) Regulations for the use of storage allocated for flood control or navigation at reservoirs constructed wholly or in part with Federal funds provided on the basis of such purposes, are published in 33 CFR 208.25 et seq.

(c) Rules and regulations to govern the public use of reservoir areas under the control of the War Department for recreational purposes, are published in 36 CFR, Part 301.

§ 209.305 Regulations under the Oil Pollution Act, 1924. Section 3 of the Oil Pollution Act, 1924, of June 7, 1924 (43 Stat. 605; 33 U. S. C. 433), authorizes the Secretary of War to prescribe regulations permitting the discharge of oil from vessels in such quantities, under such conditions, and at such times and places as in his opinion will not be deleterious to health or sea food, or a menace to navigation, or dangerous to persons or property engaged in commerce on such waters, and for the loading, handling, and unloading of oil. The only regulations that have been issued under this Act were prescribed July 20, 1943, to govern the discharge of water ballast under the direction of the Supervisor of New York Harbor or the Captain of the Port at other localities, and were in effect only for the duration of the war (33 CFR 207.1).

§ 209.310 Operation of drawbridges in absence of regulations. (a) Section 5 of the act of August 18, 1894 (28 Stat. 362; 33 U. S. C. 499), provides that it shall be the duty of persons owning, operating, and tending drawbridges built across navigable waters of the United States, to open, or cause to be opened, the draws of such bridges under such rules and regulations as in the opinion of the Secretary of War the public interests require. Insofar as criminal liability on the part of the bridge owner is concerned, the Department is of the opinion that, in the absence of Federal regulations, there is no Federal authority requiring the opening of any drawbridge to which the General Bridge Act of March 23, 1906, does not apply. With reference to the civil liability of the bridge owner, however, it has been held that the duty to take proper care of a bridge includes the duty to make proper provision for the passage of vessels through the draw. In constructing a bridge with a draw, and in undertaking to open and manage the draw so as to allow vessels to pass, the owner has recognized the right of vessels to pass through without any appeal to the national authority to protect that right. Having thus recognized the rights of commerce, and undertaken to provide accommodations for the passage of vessels, the owner is bound that the custodians of the bridge shall use ordinary diligence to avoid accidents to vessels going through the draw at customary hours, and in the customary manner, as one of the incidents of the care, management, and control of the bridge itself. The owner is responsible, therefor, for the want of ordinary care and diligence in his servants, and for the consequent damage.

(b) The Attorney General has held (Jan. 28, 1899; 22 Opin. 314) that the first part of section 5 of the 1894 act is merely declaratory of the legal duty of the owners or operators which attaches to the maintenance and operation of a drawbridge across navigable waters. "It is the duty of all persons operating such drawbridges to open or cause them to be opened in a reasonable manner and at a reasonable time, consistent with the uses for which drawbridges are constructed, for the passage of vessels. The repair of such draws and of the bridges with which they are connected is also necessary for their maintenance. It is reasonable that a sufficient time should be allowed for such repairs, and if they cannot be prosecuted without closing the bridge for a number of successive days, such closing cannot be considered an unreasonable interference with navigation." "It is entirely competent for the Secretary of War to make rules and regulations governing this subject, but in the absence of such rules and regulations the law is as I have above stated it."

§ 209.315 Bridge repairs. Repairs to a bridge which do not alter the clearances, type of structure, or any integral part of the substructure or superstructure or navigation conditions, but which consist only in the replacement of worn or obsolete parts, may, if the bridge is a legally approved structure, be made as routine maintenance without approval of the War Department.

§ 209.320 Assignment of bridge franchises. Authority granted by an act of Congress to construct a bridge is a franchise which cannot be assigned without the permission of Congress. The Department has no authority to approve the plans of a bridge on an application made by a party or corporation to which the franchise has been transferred without authority of Congress. When plans have been approved and the bridge has been built the franchise is regarded as passing with the title to the property, and in such case plans for the renewal, reconstruction, or repair of the bridge may be accepted from the person or corporation in actual possession or control of the property. A similar rule applies to bridges authorized by State laws.

§ 209.325 Sufficiency of State authority for bridges. An opinion of the attorney general of the State as to the sufficiency of State authority for the construction of a bridge is acceptable to the Department in doubtful cases.

§ 209.330 General policies on issuance of permits. (a) The decision as to whether a permit will be issued must rest primarily upon the effect of the proposed work on navigation. However, in cases where the structure is unobjectionable from the standpoint of navigation but when State or local authorities decline to give their consent to the work, it is not usual for the Department actually to issue a permit. This is for the reason that while the instrument merely expresses assent so far as concerns the public rights of navigation, it practically becomes of no value in the event of opposition by State or local authority and may be regarded by such authority as an act of discourtesy. In such cases the applicant is informed that the structure is unobjectionable from the standpoint of navigation and that permit would be issued were the consent of the local authority also forthcoming.

(b) In cases of conflicting property rights the Department cannot undertake to adjudicate rival claims.

(c) Where it is found that the work for which a permit is desired may interfere with a proposed flood control project, the applicant and the party or parties responsible for fulfillment of the requirements of local cooperation apprised in writing of the fact and of the possibility that a flood control project which may be constructed in the vicinity of the proposed work will necessitate its removal or reconstruction. It is pointed out to the applicant and to local interests that the Department's function in approving plans for structures in navigable waters is only to insure that structures meet the requirements of navigation and that the application for a permit will be considered on that basis; and that the United States will in no case be liable for any damage or injury to the structures or work authorized which may be caused by or result from future operations undertaken by the Government for the conservation or improvement of navigation, or for other purposes, and no claims or right to compensation will accrue from any such damage.

§ 209.335 Delegation of authority to issue permits. The Secretary of War has authorized the issuance of War Department permits by local offices of the Engineer Department, at the option of the Chief of Engineers, for work and structures in or over navigable waters in cases which are entirely routine and which involve no difference of opinion on the part of engineer authorities, nor doubt as to the law, facts, or regulations nor any opposition or other considerations which should be decided by higher authority. A case is held to be entirely routine if the circumstances are such that approval of the plans would unquestionably be given were the matter presented to the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War. The mere fact that proposed work, such as dredging, for example, is extensive in scope does not necessarily remove it from the class of routine cases if no possible objection to the work can be foreseen. Under similar circumstances applications for permits for works in navigable waters which extend from or are connected with works constructed without the authorization of the Department but presumably in ignorance of the law will be considered routine. The authority above granted is not a delegation of discretionary powers, but is considered to constitute advance approval by the Secretary of War of a class of cases leaving to the Chief of Engineers or the local engineer officer the application of such approval to particular instances as they arise. Such permits will be signed by Division or District Engineers under the words "By authority of the Secretary of War."

§ 209.340 Work constructed without prior authority. The Department will approve plans for structures and issue permits authorizing structures and other work in or over navigable waters, in cases where the application therefor is submitted after the commencement or completion of the structures or work, subject to the following rules: Approval will be limited to those cases where the necessary primary authority, State or Federal as the case may be, validly exists, when the work was innocently constructed, and where the work will not unreasonably interfere with navigation. When forwarding approval the applicant will be informed that the law contemplates prior approval and that in the future plans must be submitted in ample time for their consideration by the Department before construction is begun.

§ 209.345 Necessary primary authority. For works constructed by State or municipal agencies, the primary authority will be presumed without proof. If the law of the State requires a license for or approval of the work from a constituted State agency, a copy of such license or approval will be required and may be accepted as evidence of the primary authority. If there be no State regulation of structures in navigable waters, the necessary primary authority may be that granted in the charter of a corporation, or the authority inherent in the ownership of the land on which the structure is placed. The applicant will in such cases be required to furnish an extract from the charter, or a statement of ownership. Especial care will be taken that Federal approval is not granted when there is doubt of the right of the builder to construct and utilize the work.

§ 209.350 Limiting date in permits. A specific limiting date will be inserted in all permits, normally December 31 of the third year subsequent to the year of issuance. Thus the limiting date fixed in permits issued in 1946 should normally be December 31, 1949. District and Division Engineers are not authorized to fix a later date for completion, but if special reasons so require, a shorter period may be specified provided that the limit expires in all cases on the last day of a quarter, i. e., March 31, June 30, September 30, or December 31. Experience has, however, shown a tendency to prescribe insufficient time limits, thus subjecting the Department and the permittee to unnecessary annoyance and expense in accomplishing extensions. The full authorized time should usually be allowed. Work or operations of a temporary and obstructive character, however, should be limited to a period as short as is considered reasonable.

§ 209.355 Permit bonds. When compensatory works or the removal of temporary structures should be required of the permittee, or in other unusual cases when there is reason to anticipate that the permittee may fail to carry out parts of the work that are against his interest, an additional condition will be included in the permit requiring the permittee to furnish a bond insuring compliance with the permit requirements.

§ 209.360 Transfer of permits. Permits express merely the assent of the Federal Government so far as concerns the public rights of navigation. Although issued to a specific party, the assent is not limited to execution of the work by that party and may be availed of by the assignees or purchasers of the property affected, provided the terms of the instrument are strictly complied with.

§ 209.365 Departure from permit plans. (a) If the final inspection shows a minor departure from the authorized plans which does not materially affect navigation, the permittee will be required to furnish a tracing showing the work as actually constructed but no further action will be taken by the Department.

(b) Acceptance of permit work. It is not the practice of the Department to issue letters certifying that completed work conforms to the Department authorization. That question is a matter of fact to be determined in case of controversy by the usual rules of court procedure.

§ 209.370 Payment of expenses of inspection by permittees. As a general policy, expenses incurred by the Engineer Department in all investigations, inspections, hearings, reports, service of notice, or other action incidental to examination of plans or sites of bridges or other structures built or proposed to be built in or over navigable waters, will be paid from Federal funds in accordance with section 6 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1905 (33 Stat. 1148; 33 U. S. C. 417). A condition requiring that the grantee will bear all expenses for inspection, or any other operations by the United States in connection with permits granted by the Department will be applied only to special or elaborate supervision deemed necessary to protect the interest of navigation and involving unusual expense. The cost of supervision of dumping of dredged material in navigable waters, requiring the exclusive time of one or more inspectors, will as a general rule be collected from the permittee. In cases not covered by general authority granted by the Chief of Engineers, specific authority must be secured in each instance before making any collection from a permittee. Division Engineers may grant such authority if the operations to be inspected will probably be completed within six months, and if no doubt or disagreement arises as to the propriety of the collection, otherwise the authority of the Chief of Engineers must be obtained.

§ 209.375 Revocation and relinquishment of permits. (a) Permits may be revoked by the Secretary of War for failure on the part of the permittee to comply with any of the conditions therein, or where the structures or other work constitute an unreasonable obstruction to navigation or to operations of the United States in the interests of navigation or flood control.

(b) District Engineers may accept from the permittee a voluntary relinquishment of the permit.

§ 209.380 Establishment of harbor lines. Harbor lines should provide for the present and future needs of navigation so far as they can be foreseen. Questions of the development of water terminals, the location of existing fixed structures, and of sufficient cross section for the passage of floods will receive attention. The lines will be kept as near to the shore as the reasonable demands of navigation, present or prospective may require, since when the lines are once established and reclamation work and structures have been constructed in the rear, difficulties are likely to be encountered in moving the lines farther toward shore. Harbor lines will not be established across the mouths or entrances to navigable waterways. To avoid ambiguity and misunderstanding both by the public and in the Department the expressions "shoreward (or landward) of harbor lines" and "channelward (or riverward) of harbor lines" will be used in official correspondce to describe position relative to harbor lines and such terms as "inside" and "outside," which might be given opposite meanings, shall be avoided.

§ 209.385 Expenditure of Federal funds for work shoreward of harbor lines. (a) Section 5 of the River and Harbor Act of July 13, 1892 (27 Stat. 111; 33 U. S. C. 628), prohibits the expenditure of money appropriated for the improvement of rivers and harbors for dredging inside of harbor lines duly estabilshed.

(b) It is not the policy of the Department to expend Federal funds for the removal of wrecks or other obstructions shoreward of established harbor lines.

§ 209.390 Operations shoreward of harbor lines. The establishment of a harbor line implies consent to riparian owners to erect structures to the line without special authorization by the Secretary of War but does not imply consent to operations of every kind landward of the line. Such work as dredging for instance may seriously interfere with the regimen of the waterway and will ordinarily require the authorization of the Department to insure that operations are conducted under proper restrictions. District Engineers will therefore supervise operations landward of harbor lines sufficiently to assure themselves that all work proposed is either of the character authorized by the establishment of the line or has been properly authorized and that there is no encroachment channelward of approved limits. Where proposed structures are to touch or closely approach the harbor line the builder will be called upon to submit to the District Engineer in advance, plans of that portion of the proposed work which will be adjacent to the harbor line in order that the integrity of the line may be carefully watched and maintained. Every structure touching the harbor line or closely approaching it will be inspected on completion and its location will be recorded on an office copy of the harbor line map or note made on the map showing where such data may be found.

§ 209.395 Deposit of refuse. Section 13 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1152; 33 U. S. C. 407), prohibits the deposit in navigable waters generally of "refuse matter of any kind or description whatever other than that flowing from streets and sewers and passing therefrom in a liquid state". The jurisdiction of the War Department, derived from the Federal laws enacted for the protection and preservation of the navigable waters of the United States, is limited and directed to such control as may be necessary to protect the public right of navigation. Action under section 13 has therefore been directed by the Department principally against the discharge of those materials that are obstructive or injurious to navigation.

§ 209.400 Violations of law. Although the Corps of Engineers has certain police powers under the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, and other laws for the protection and preservation of navigable waters, it has been the long standing policy to secure compliance with their provisions short of legal proceedings. Accordingly every effort is made to accomplish corrective measures prior to initiation of action leading to such proceedings. As a general rule, no action is taken when the violation is minor, unintentional, or accidental, and the party responsible makes good the damages suffered. It is the established policy of the Department not to recommend prosecution when the violation is trivial, apparently unpremeditated, and results in no material public injury. Prosecution is recommended in all cases of willful or intentional violations and all cases in which the parties responsible refuse or neglect to remove the unlawful structure or deposit or to make good the damages suffered.

§ 209.405 Damages. With reference to the method of ascertaining the amount of damages done to a public work by a vessel, for which the vessel is liable under Section 16 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1153; 33 U. S. C. 412), a distinction is made between cases involving property that should be repaired and those involving property that should be abandoned. In the former cases the amount of the damages should be the total cost of repairs, less any salvage value and any enhanced value. In the latter cases the amount of the damages should be the fair value of the property, less any salvage value. Whether or not there has been any enhanced value (i. e., whether the fair value of the structure immediately after the repairs is greater than its fair value immediately before the damage occurred) is a matter to be determined from an actual survey of the structure and knowledge of its age and condition. Where maintenance has equalled depreciation there would probably be no enhanced value.

§ 209.410 Abandonment of wrecks. By the maritime law the owner of a vessel which is sunk without fault on his part may abandon the wreck in which case he cannot be held responsible for removing it even though it obstructs navigation. That law has not been changed by sections 15, 19, and 20 of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1152, 1154; 33 U. S. C. 409, 414, 415), which fully recognize the owner's right of abandonment. However, a person who willfully or negligently permits a vessel to sink in navigable waters of the United States may not relieve himself from all liability by merely abandoning the wreck. He may be found guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by fine, imprisonment, or both, and in addition may have his license revoked or suspended. He may also be compelled to remove the wreck as a public nuisance or to pay for its removal.

§ 209.415 Removal of wrecks. Usually removal by the United States is not undertaken if the obstruction simply affects the approaches to private wharves and is without influence upon general navigation.

§ 209.420 Removal of sunken logs. The United States acquires no property rights in sunken logs through the mere fact that they lie in navigable waters. It is permissible for the original owner to trace and reclaim them but he should do so within a reasonable time especially if they obstruct navigation. If they form obstructions to navigation and the owner fails to exercise his right to reclaim and remove them they may be removed by the Government. Logs thus removed by the Government may be sold or otherwise disposed of without liability to the original owner. When persons known to have no ownership therein or legal title thereto apply for permission to remove sunken logs it may be assumed that the privilege is desired as a matter of gainful speculation. Ordinarily they will be advised that the Department can grant them no property rights in the logs but will not object to their removing them provided removal operations are so conducted as not to injure or interfere with navigation. In cases, however, where the logs form serious obstructions to navigation and the conditions are such that the Department would be justified in removing them, there is no legal objection to permitting a private applicant to remove them under an agreement providing that they shall become the property of the applicant.

§ 209.425 Acting Chief of Engineers and Acting Division and District Engineers. When so designated, an Acting Chief of Engineers, Acting Division Engineer, or Acting District Engineer exercises all powers, duties, and responsibilities of the Chief of Engineers, Division Engineer, or District Engineer, respectively.

§ 209.430 Representation of submarine cables and pipe lines on Government charts. Joint Board Report No. 344, serial No. 213 as amended by serial No. 255, October 8, 1925, approved by the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, adopted the following policy with respect to showing the locations of submarine pipe lines and cables on charts published by the Government:

(a) Within protected waters (harbors, rivers, bays, estuaries, or other inland waterways). The location of submarine pipe lines and cables is to be indicated by shaded areas marked "Pipe-line area" or "Cable area" on Government charts issued for general use.

(b) Outside protected waters (offshore or in the open sea). As a general rule do not indicate the location of the offshore approaches of submarine pipe lines and cables on Government charts issued for general use.

(c) The Joint Board further recommends that the commandants of naval districts in cooperation with local Army commanders consider and report upon the submarine pipe line and cable situations within the waters of their districts with a view to determining these cases which will follow the policy and those for which exceptions must be made.

(d) Whenever a change is made in the position of any submarine cable or pipe line shown by shaded area on Government charts, or whenever a new cable or pipe line is laid in navigable waters at a depth where interference with navigation or fouling by anchors is probable, the District Engineer will have the changed or new location indicated on a copy of the Coast Survey Chart of the locality or on a drawing traced from such chart. Such chart or drawing will then be submitted to the local corps area and naval district commanders for their views as to whether the location should or should not be shown in accordance with the policy set forth in the Joint Board report or whether it should be excepted from the general rules laid down therein. The views of the local commanders will be forwarded to the Chief of Engineers and if they recommend publication will be accompanied by three copies of a chart or drawing showing the cable or pipe-line location by a shaded area which ordinarily should not extend more than 500 feet on each side of the location except on the very small scale charts where an area of that width would not be of sufficient prominence. The shaded area will be designated "Cable area" or "Pipe-line area," as the case may be, but no other information as to the character or ownership of the installation will appear on the chart. If it is recommended that the location be not shown on the published charts only one copy of the chart showing it need be furnished.

NOTE. Cables and pipe lines laid at sufficient depths below the beds of waterways to prevent interference with navigation or fouling by anchors need not be considered.

§ 209.435 Public access to navigation works. While the regulations prescribed by the Secretary of War for various navigation improvements usually strictly prohibit trespass on Government property, those regulations will not be construed as prohibiting access to navigation works of general public interest subject to the following criteria:

(a) The public will not be permitted in areas where their presence would subject themselves or Government operating personnel to serious accident hazards.

(b) The public will not be permitted in areas where their presence would interfere with any phases of navigation operations.

(c) The public will be given free access to all areas other than those specified under (a) and (b) above, subject only to the normal legal requirements with respect to property and personal rights.

§ 209.440 Policy on release of commercial statistics. The collection of commercial statistics pertaining to rivers, harbors, and waterways, and annual reports thereof to Congress, are required by the River and Harbor Act of June 23, 1866 (14 Stat. 70), the act of February 21, 1891 (26 Stat. 766), the River and Harbor Act of June 13, 1902 (32 Stat. 376), the River and Harbor Act of July 25, 1912 (37 Stat. 201), the River and Harbor Act of September 22, 1922 (42 Stat. 1043), and Public No. 16, February 10, 1932 (47 Stat. 42). It is the policy of the Department to hold in strict confidence any data or information which has been furnished by shippers and others upon the understanding that it will not be disclosed and will only be used in the compilation of port or waterway statistics. In case Federal or State agencies or local interests request other than general information made permissible hereunder, their attention will be called to the policy herein indicated.

§ 209.445 Certified copies of public records. It is the established policy of the Department not to furnish certified copies of the public records to private persons for use in controversies in which the United States has no real interest except upon the certificate of the tribunals before which such controversies are to be decided that such transcripts of the public records are deemed essential to the ends of justice.

§ 209.450 Distribution of maps and charts. Engineer Department maps and charts will be furnished to mariners or others not in the Government service at the cost of reproduction. Distribution of maps containing classified information is subject to the provisions of AR 380–5. Information as to maps and charts available and prices can be obtained from District and Division Engineers and the Chief of Engineers.

§ 209.455 U. S. Lake Survey Office. The U. S. Lake Survey Office performs the service of surveying and charting, for navigation purposes, the Great Lakes and connecting streams as far down the St. Lawrence River as the international boundary at St. Regis, 66 miles above Montreal. This work is confined to United States territory, except for the depiction of such Canadian waters and shores as may be essential to the integrity and usefulness of charts showing localities contiguous to the boundary and those covering a whole lake or river.

Associated with its operations on the Great Lakes, the Lake Survey publishes charts of Lake Champlain and of the natural navigable waters of the New York State canal system. It is also charged with the preparation of charts of the Lake of the Woods and Rainy Lake. The charts undergo constant revision to show changes in aids to navigation and other important features. A catalogue of the charts, outlining areas covered, scales, prices, and conditions of sale, may be had by applying to the District Engineer, U. S. Lake Survey Office, 630 Federal Building, Detroit 26, Michigan. A bulletin revised annually to supplement the information given upon the charts may also be purchased at the Lake Survey Office.

AVAILABILITY OF OPINIONS AND ORDERS AND RULES

§ 209.480 Statutory requirement. Subsection 3 (b) of the Administrative Procedure Act of June 11, 1946, requires every agency to publish or, in accordance with published rule, make available to public inspection all final opinions or orders in the adjudication of cases (except those required for good cause to be held confidential and not cited as precedents) and all rules.

§ 209.490 Final opinions and orders in adjudication of cases. Final opinions and orders in the adjudication of cases will not be published. They will be served on the parties directly affected thereby and subject thereto. Copies of such opinions and orders will be made available to public inspection in the office of the District Engineer in whose district the case arose to which they apply, and in the Office of the Chief of Engineers. Full information regarding such opinions and orders and their availability may be obtained by communicating with either of these offices. This rule does not apply to those opinions and orders required for good cause to be held confidential and not cited as precedents.

§ 209.500 Rules. Section 3 of the Administrative Procedure Act requires publication of all rules except to the extent that there is involved (1) any function of the United States requiring secrecy in the public interest or (2) any matter relating solely to the internal management of an agency, in which cases rules are not published. Except to the extent that there is involved any function of the United States requiring secrecy in the public interest, all rules, whether published or unpublished, will be made available to public inspection in all offices of District Engineers, Division Engineers, and the Chief of Engineers.

PUBLIC RECORDS

§ 209.510 Availability. Pursuant to subsection 3 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act, matters of official record, except information held confidential for good cause found and save as otherwise required by statute, will be made available to persons properly and directly concerned. If the matter is of local significance only, it will be made available in the office of the District Engineer concerned or the Office of the Chief of Engineers. If the matter is of general significance, it will be made available in all offices of District Engineers, Division Engineers, and the Chief of Engineers. Full information regarding the availability of any matter of official record may be obtained by communicating with the Office of the Chief of Engineers.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

§ 209.520 Publication. (a) Section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act requires publication of general notice of proposed rule making in the FEDERAL REGISTER (unless all persons subject thereto are named and either personally served or otherwise have actual notice thereof in accordance with law), except to the extent that there is involved (1) any military, naval, or foreign affairs function of the United States or (2) any matter relating to agency management or personnel or to public property, loans, grants, benefits, or contracts. Except where notice or hearing is required by statute, this requirement does not apply to interpretative rules, general statements of policy, rules of agency organization, procedure, or practice, or in any situation in which the agency for good cause finds (and incorporates the finding and a brief statement of the reasons therefor in the rules issued) that notice and public procedure thereon are impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest.

(b) General notice of proposed rule making published in accordance with the above will include (1) a statement of the time, place, and nature of public rule making proceedings; (2) reference to the authority under which the rule is proposed; and (3) either the terms or substance of the proposed rule or a description of the subjects and issues involved.

§ 210.2 Authority, delegations and restrictions—(a) Division Engineers. Whenever in the following regulations delegations of authority are made to, or restrictions placed upon, "Division Engineers" where appropriate any such delegation or restriction shall be interpreted to apply to the President of the Mississippi River Commission, the President of The Engineer Board, the District Engineer, Manhattan District, and also the District Engineer, Philadelphia, Pa., with respect to all marine activities under the jurisdiction of that office.

(b) District Engineers. Whenever in the following regulations delegations of authority are made to, or restrictions are placed upon, "District Engineers" where appropriate any such delegation or restriction shall be interpreted to include the Commanding Officer of the Army Map Service, the Resident Engineer of the Beach Erosion Board, the Resident Engineer of the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, and the Senior Member of the California Debris Commission.

§ 210.3 Designation of Contracting Officers—(a) Contracting Officers by virtue of position. Division Engineers and District Engineers are contracting officers by virtue of their positions.

(b) Redelegation of Contracting Officer authority. Division Engineers and District Engineers are authorized to redelegate, without power of further redelegation, any part of their contracting officer authority. Except as otherwise specifically provided in these regulations such power of redelegation shall not include the redelegation of power to approve contracts, which must be done personally by the approving officer. Division Engineers will not redelegate contracting officer authority in excess of the limitations prescribed for District Engineers in the execution of contracts without approval of higher authority.

(c) Letters of delegation. Officers and employees designated as contracting officers by Division Engineers and District Engineers will be designated as such by letter, stating the period and the limit of authority granted, and such letter will be exhibited by the officer or employee, if required, as evidence of his authority. Such designations may be made for a limited or an unlimited period of time but will delineate the contracting officer's authority by stating the monetary limit on his authority, the types of contracts to be executed, etc. Such designations may be revoked by the issuing officer or his successor.

(d) Contracts to be signed or approved in person. Contracting officers will personally sign contracts entered into by them on behalf of the Government, and approving officers will personally approve contracts executed subject to their approval, unless otherwise specifically provided herein.

(e) Designation of authorized representatives. Authorized representatives of the contracting officers will be so designated in writing and a copy of each such designation will be immediately submitted to contractors concerned.

§ 210.4 Method of contracting—(a) By advertisement. Unless authority to negotiate has been obtained from the Chief of Engineers, or unless the procurement is excepted, all purchases and contracts will be awarded pursuant to formal advertisement.

(b) By negotiation. When it is determined by the contracting officer that the conditions prescribed for formal advertising do not exist, military procurement may be accomplished by negotiation pursuant to the authority granted by the First War Powers Act, 1941, and Executive Order 9001. Prior authorization from the Chief of Engineers to so negotiate is required.

§ 210.5 Methods of inviting bids by formal advertising. Invitations for bids by either of the following methods will constitute formal advertising:

(a) By advertising in newspapers when it is determined by the contracting officer that the quantity or value of the purchase or the character of the work or service will justify the expense.

(b) By invitations for bids forwarded to dealers or contractors, and posted in public places.

§ 210.6 Method of inviting quotations where contract is to be negotiated. In negotiating contracts ordinarily quotations will be solicited from the largest practicable number of responsible contractors and awards will be consistently made to the contractor submitting the lowest bid. The award, however, will be made pursuant to negotiation and the contracting officer will select the contractor whom he has determined to be in all respects the best qualified to perform the contract in a manner that will be in the best interests of the Government. In determining the largest practicable number of contractors from whom quotations should be solicited, or in special cases in determining that quotations should not be solicited, due consideration will be given to the need for immediate delivery or performance and directives of higher authority.

§ 210.7 Invitation for bids—(a) Definitions. The term invitation for bids refers literally to the applicable form prescribed for the solicitation of bids. In its broadest sense, however, that term is used to denote the collective papers, including instructions to bidders, the invitation, bid, contract form, specifications, etc., which are necessary to bidders in the preparation and submission of bids. To avoid confusion the term invitation for bids, as used in these regulations, will refer to the bid papers collectively. The term proposal will be used synonymously with the term bid; and the terms advertising or formal advertising will be used to denote the method by which the invitation for bids is brought to the attention of prospective bidders.

(b) Time allowed. Invitations for bids will as a rule allow 30 days to intervene between the date of issue and the date of opening bids. No period of less than 10 days will be designated, except in an emergency. The existence of such emergency will be determined by the contracting officer.

§ 210.8 Bids and bidding—(a) General. Generally bids will be submitted by bidders in duplicate. In order that full benefit may be secured from advertising, it is desirable that bidders should be made to feel reasonably sure that under ordinary conditions each opening of bids will mean that award will be made to the lowest responsible bidder.

(b) Award to other than the lowest bidder. Before making or recommending award to other than the lowest responsive bidder, the contracting officer will advise all bidders in writing who have submitted bids lower than the bid the contracting officer recommends accepting, of the grounds on which recommendation for the rejection of their bids is contemplated, and will further advise them that a reasonable period, not exceeding 5 days, will be allowed in which they may file with him a written statement showing cause why their bids should not be rejected. Before making award to other than the lowest bidder approval will be obtained from the Chief of Engineers. Such cases will be addressed to the attention of the Legal Division.

(c) Excessive bids. No bid for construction will be accepted if it is more than 25% in excess of the Government's estimate without prior submission to and approval by the Chief of Engineers. The lowest bidder will be informed immediately when any such action is taken. Unless the contracting officer is satisfied that the low bid received represents a fair and reasonable price, the award will not be made.

(d) Waivers of irregularities in bids. Minor irregularities in bids may be waived or corrected when in the best interests of the Government. A statement in justification of the waiver or correction of such minor irregularities will be included in the official record file. For rules on cases of failure to furnish bid bonds see 14 Comp. Gen. 559 and 16 Comp. Gen. 493. Doubtful cases will be submitted to the Chief of Engineers, Attention: Legal Division.

§ 210.9 Awards—(a) How made. The award will be made to the lowest responsible bidder provided his bid price is fair and reasonable and its acceptance is in the best interests of the Government.

(b) Time for making. Award should be made as promptly as the circumstances will permit, and in all cases within the period of time specified in the bids.

(c) Notice of award. The successful bidder will be notified in writing of the acceptance of its bid. This notice may accompany the contract papers which are forwarded to him for execution. To avoid error or confusing the notice of award with a notice to proceed, the notice of award will be in substantially the following form:

You are hereby notified that your bid dated_____in the sum of_____ covering_____is accepted provided that this acceptance shall not obligate the Government until you have furnished acceptable performance and payment bonds (when required) and the contract is fully executed. If approval of the contract is required, the contract is not fully executed until such approval is obtained.

§ 210.10 Award of negotiated contracts—(a) Generally. Where contracts are to be negotiated, the policies and procedures prescribed in this section will be followed and no such contract will be awarded without the specific approval of the Chief of Engineers unless:

(1) Bids have been solicited (as determined by the awarding officer) from all qualified bidders who could have been reasonably expected to bid on a job of the size, character and location concerned.

(2) Bids have been received from two or more independent and reasonably qualified bidders in actual competition with each other.

(3) The award is made to the lowest qualified bidder.

(4) The contract price is not in excess of the low bid received.

In the solicitation of bids, the requirements of condition (1), above, will be construed broadly. Any solicitation, direct or otherwise, that will result in such notice of the proposed work as will afford a reasonable opportunity to all bidders of the class described in subparagraph (1) to bid, whether or not each such bidder is solicited individually, is deemed to meet these requirements. In addition to such solicitation as is necessary to meet the requirements of subparagraph (1), a copy of the invitation or the Standard Procurement Form will be posted in a suitable public place in the office of the District Engineer. While the award must be to the lowest qualified bidder, negotiations can be, and in appropriate cases should be, had with such bidder as to in all cases reach an agreement which will assure sound pricing. In construction contracts the cost breakdown estimates must be prepared with particularity and carefully considered in this connection.

(b) Special cases. In special situations, as for example, classified projects, extremely urgent projects, projects involving complex construction, experimental or developmental items, etc., it may be undesirable to place contracts in accordance with the procedures prescribed in this section. Irrespective of other delegations of authority with regard to the making of or authorizing the making of awards of contracts, no contract placed without compliance with the provisions of this section will be awarded without first having obtained authority from the Chief of Engineers. Requests for such authority will contain the following:

(1) The reasons why it is impracticable to place the contract in accordance with the procedure contemplated by this section.

(2) The pertinent items of information required.

(c) Modifications to construction contracts. Nothing in this part will be construed so as to require compliance with the procedure set forth in this section in cases where it has been determined that a particular project is to be expanded after the contract therefor is already awarded and it is impracticable to accomplish construction of such additional work by other contractors. In such cases supplemental agreements will be negotiated with the contractor holding the original contract.

§ 210.11 Authority to make awards in connection with civil works contracts. Awards in connection with civil works contracts will be made as follows:

(a) District Engineers will authorize or make awards of $50,000 or less without the approval of higher authority where (1) no protest to the specifications or to the award has been made which cannot be satisfactorily adjusted by the District Engineer, and (2) the bid is unconditional, conforms to the requirements of the specifications in all material particulars, is guaranteed as required, is reasonable, and does not exceed by more than 25 per cent the Government estimate of cost.

(b) Division Engineers will authorize awards in excess of $50,000 where (1) no protest to the award has been made which has not been satisfactorily adjusted by the District Engineer or which cannot be satisfactorily adjusted by the Division Engineer, and (2) the bid is unconditional, conforms to the requirements of the specifications in all material particulars, is guaranteed as specified, is reasonable, and does not exceed by more than 25 per cent the Government estimate of cost.

(c) The Chief of Engineers will authorize awards or other appropriate action as follows:

(1) Where an appeal is made to the Chief of Engineers from decision of the District Engineer covering a protest to the specifications or to the award, or where a protest has otherwise been made which cannot be satisfactorily adjusted by the District and Division Engineers.

(2) Where the bid is in excess of 25 per cent of the Government estimate.

(3) Where the lowest reasonable bid responsive to the specifications in all material particulars, guaranteed as specified, is recommended for rejection because the bidder is not considered responsible due to insufficient financial backing or experience and award is recommended to a higher bidder.

(4) Where a mistake in bidding is alleged by the otherwise acceptable low bidder subsequent to the opening of bids and prior to award.

§ 210.12 Approval of civil works contracts. Civil works contracts which require the approval of higher authority must contain a provision to such effect in either the contract form or the specifications to be attached thereto. The approval of higher authority shall be required or not required as follows:

(a) District engineers. District engineers may sign or authorize the signing of contracts of $50,000 or less without the approval of higher authority where the prescribed standard forms are used without changes or alterations except as authorized herein. District Engineers may sign or authorize the signing of any contract regardless of amount when award has been approved by higher authority where required.

(b) The Chief of Engineers. All contracts entered into on other than the prescribed standard forms or containing provisions not previously approved by OCE, will be prepared and signed subject to the approval of the Chief of Engineers.

(c) Emergency waiver of approval. In those cases where approval of the specifications, award, or contract is required by higher authority and an emergency exists, as a result of which the interests of the United States will not permit the necessary time for such approval, District Engineers are authorized to approve the specifications, make the award, and enter into the contract without further reference to higher authority. When action is taken in accordance with this section a statement will be included under the "Alterations" article relating to such action. Any protest to the specifications or award, however, which cannot be satisfactorily settled by the contracting officer will be submitted by teletype or otherwise for the decision of the Chief of Engineers. The emergency authority will be referred to in forwarding final abstract of bids to OCE.

§ 210.13 Award of military contracts, change orders and supplemental agreements. Division and District Engineers are authorized to award military contracts, change orders, and supplemental agreements of less than $100,000, and to authorize contracting officers under their jurisdiction to award military contracts, change orders, and supplemental agreements in individual cases of less than $100,000. Award of military contracts, change orders, and supplemental agreements of $100,000 or more require the approval of the Director, Service, Supply and Procurement, War Department General Staff, or in lieu of the approval of the award, the approval of that officer is required on the contract. Subject to the foregoing requirements the following contracts will be subject to the approval of the Chief of Engineers:

(a) All contracts not executed on standard forms.

(b) All contracts executed on standard forms where material deviation has been made.

(c) All supplemental agreements and change orders affecting a material change in the provisions of the prime contracts to which they relate.

(d) All supplemental agreements executed under authority of section 17 of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944.

(e) All patent agreements.

§ 210.14 Fixed fee construction contract negotiations—(a) Limitation on fee to contractor. If the contract to be negotiated is to be on a fixed fee basis, the amount of the fixed fee will not be greater than limitations established by the Under Secretary of War. The fixed fee in fixed fee contracts, includes all the contractor's profit, nonreimbursable services, and overhead, such as non-reimbursable services of the executives and general administrative expenses of central offices and necessary financing.

(b) Subletting of work. W. D. Contract Forms 3 and 12 (10 CFR, Supp., 81.-1303 and 81.1312) provide that when in the opinion of the contracting officer it is to the best interest of the Government, he will authorize or order the contractor to subcontract any or all items or classifications of construction work required under the contract or subsequently added thereto. Such subcontracting of construction work, or the performance thereof with the contractor's own forces, regardless of the amount and/or extent of work performed or subcontracted, all with the prior written approval or order of the contracting officer, entails no adjustment in the fixed fee.

(c) Restriction on use of fixed fee subcontract form. In accordance with the general policy of limiting the use of the fixed fee form of subcontract, the lump sum form of subcontract will be used, except when the use of the fixed fee form is deemed essential in the interest of the National Defense.

§ 210.15 Adjustment of fixed fee for subcontracting under prime fixed fee contract forms—(a) Approving subcontracting. In the administration of fixed fee contracts executed on forms other than W. D. Contract Forms 3 and 12 (10 CFR, Supps., 81.1303 and 81.1312), which contract forms (used since 1942) provide that no adjustment in the fixed fee will be made irrespective of the amount of construction work subcontracted or the amount of construction work performed by the contractor's own forces, contracting officers will not approve the subcontracting of work by a fixed fee prime or subcontractor except in those instances where it is determined that such subcontracting is in the interest of the Government either from the standpoint of time, or money, or both.

(b) Findings of fact relative to adjustment of fees because of subcontracting. In accordance with the practice consistently followed, contracting officers will in all cases where they approve the subcontracting of work by a fixed fee prime or subcontractor, except in those instances where the contracts are executed on W. D. Contract Forms 3 or 12, make a written findings of fact in each case as to whether or not the circumstances warrant an adjustment in the contractor's or subcontractor's fixed fee. Since, as a matter of law, a contract supersedes prior negotiations, the entire agreement of the parties is found in the contract. Therefore, all findings of fact should deal with what the parties intended at the time the contract was executed as stipulated therein and not with what the record of negotiations may indicate. The following factors, among others, will be considered, and the findings of fact will so indicate, in determining whether an adjustment in the fixed fee should be made:

(1) Does the contract indicate that the parties did not intend that the work be subcontracted?

(2) Is it customary in the construction industry to subcontract work of the amount and character proposed to be sublet?

(3) Was the subcontracting in the interest of the Government from the standpoint of time, or money, or both?

(4) If the parties intended that the work should not be subcontracted, were the contractor's services decreased because of such subcontracting? (The amount of such decrease in services, if any, is the test as to the amount by which the fee should be reduced.)

(c) Fee adjustment agreements. Change orders will not be issued and supplemental agreements will not be executed solely for the purpose of dealing with the question of fee adjustment, except in those cases where a conclusion has been reached in the findings of fact that an adjustment in fixed fee is necessary. In such cases, it will be accomplished by a supplemental agreement, if agreement with the contractor can be reached.

§ 210.16 The approval of the War Department Power Procurement Officer. This approval is required to electric power contracts involving 1,000 or more kilowatts and all supplemental agreements thereto.

§ 210.17 Contracts requiring approval of the Division Engineer. The following contracts will be executed subject to the approval of the Division Engineer:

(a) Contracts executed on W. D. Contract Form 14, "Rental Agreement—Government-Owned Construction or Road Maintenance Equipment."

(b) Contracts executed on Eng Form 526, 1 Apr 46, "Contract for Reconditioning Construction and Maintenance Equipment."

(c) Leases executed on Eng Form 647, 1 Apr 46, "Lease of Government-Owned Machine Tools and Equipment".

The Division Engineer is authorized to designate an officer in his office empowered to approve such contracts. This approval will be "By Direction of the Division Engineer".

§ 210.18 Notice to proceed—(a) General. When the contract specifies the time when the contractor is to proceed with the work under the contract, a notice to proceed will not be required. However, in any case where the contract requires the issuance of a notice to proceed, the notice will be forwarded by registered mail, return receipt requested, and will fix the time for the commencement of the work and also, if appropriate, will fix the time for the completion of the work. The notice to proceed will be executed, in quadruplicate, and will bear the contract number in the upper right-hand corner of the notice.

(b) Contractor's acknowledgement. When a notice to proceed is issued the contractor will acknowledge receipt thereof by signing and dating the notice in triplicate and returning all three copies to the contracting officer.

(c) Proceeding before approval of bonds. It is not necessary to delay commencement under the contract pending approval of bonds by the Judge Advocate General. Such action will be at the discretion of the contracting officer. In the event exceptions are taken to the bonds by the Judge Advocate General the contractor will immediately take steps to remove such exceptions or submit new bonds.

(d) Distribution. If a notice to proceed is required by the contract, the original thereof will be attached to the original signed number of the contract and the duplicate and triplicate numbers thereof will be attached to the duplicate and triplicate copies of the contract.

(e) Commencing performance. Contractors in no case will be required to begin performance prior to the commencement date fixed in the contract or in a notice to proceed. If they voluntarily do so they act at their own risk, if the contract is ultimately not signed (and approved when required). Contractors will not be required to commence performance until (1) the contractor has furnished performance and payment bonds, when required, and (2) the contract is signed by the contractor and the contracting officer, and approved, when approval is required.

§ 210.19 Change orders and supplemental agreements distinguished. A change order is ordinarily the proper medium for requiring changes in work under a contract containing provisions permitting such changes under specified circumstances similar to Article 2 of WD Contract Form 1 (10 CFR, Supp. 81.1301). Such orders are confined to work within the scope of the contract and since the contractor has agreed thereto in advance, they may be issued, if necessary, without his consent or his acceptance. A supplemental agreement, on the other hand, is the proper medium for adding work to a contract which is not within the scope thereof, i. e., work which the contractor has not agreed in advance to perform and which cannot be required of him without his consent or acceptance. A supplemental agreement is, therefore, in effect a new contract which being with the same contractor and for performance under substantially the same terms and conditions is, for convenience, added as a supplement to an existing contract. Regardless of the form of contract employed, the distinction as to whether a supplemental agreement or a change order is required, therefore, rests upon whether the contractor is bound by the existing contract to perform the proposed change or additional work or whether such change or additional work cannot be required of him without his consent and acceptance.

§ 210.20 Approval of change orders and supplemental agreements in connection with civil works contracts. (a) District Engineers may sign and issue, or authorize the signing and issuance of, change orders under the "Changes" article and supplemental agreements involving not to exceed $2,500, as well as all change orders, extending time for performance under the "Delays-Damages" article, without the approval of higher authority.

(b) Division Engineers may approve the signing and issuance of change orders under the "Changes" article and supplemental agreements in excess of $2,500 and not in excess of $10,000.

(c) Change orders issued under the "Changes" article and supplemental agreements involving a sum in excess of $10,000, and all change orders issued under the "Changed Conditions" article will be subject to the approval of the Chief of Engineers.

§ 210.21 Change orders to lump sum contracts—(a) Authority for. Article 3 of W. D. Contract Form 2 (Construction Contract) and Article 2 of W. D. Contract Form 1 (Supply Contract) (10 CFR 81.1302 and 81.1301), and similar provisions in other standard forms of contract, provide that contracting officers may at any time, by a written order, and without notice to the sureties, make changes in the drawings and/or specifications of the contract and within the general scope thereof. All changes in the drawings and/or specifications, however minor, must be made by a written change order. A contractor should in no case be required to perform any work in accordance with changed drawings and/or specifications prior to the receipt of a written change order, approved by higher authority where necessary. The courts have held that where a contract provides that changes must be in writing and approved by a superior officer, the contractor's acceptance of the verbal assurance of an engineer in charge that increased compensation will be allowed will not bind the Government, even though it was benefited thereby, such assurance being wholly inoperative and void (96 U. S. 689; 28 Ct. Cl. 332; 36 Ct. Cl. 138; 61 Ct. Cl. 756). No changes in the printed provisions of the standard forms of contract are authorized by change order. A change order likewise may not be employed to change any of the essential obligations of the contract, such as the time of commencement, methods of payment, refund of retained percentages, etc.

(b) Obligation of contractors under lump sum contracts. The contractor and the surety have agreed under the terms of the contract to such changes in the drawings and/or specifications as are within the general scope thereof. A written order to the contractor making a change in the drawings and/or specifications which is within the scope of the contract, approved by higher authority, when required, is binding upon the contractor whether or not it contains an adjustment of price and time, and the contractor is obligated to proceed immediately with the work as provided therein.

(c) Adjustments in price and time under lump sum contracts. If a change causes an increase or decrease in the amount due under a contract or the time required for its performance, an equitable adjustment will be made and stated in the change order. Ordinarily the adjustment of price and time will be negotiated with the contractor in advance, the amount agreed upon incorporated in the change order and the change order will be signed by the contractor to denote his acceptance thereof. If the adjustment of time and price cannot be mutually agreed upon in advance of the change order and time requires the change to be immediately made, or the work must progress to some extent before the subsurface or other conditions are sufficiently known or disclosed to permit the determination of an equitable adjustment, the change order may be issued in two parts, the initial part setting forth the details of the change and the second part, which may consist of one or more supplements, containing the equitable adjustment of price and time. The initial change order will state that a supplemental order will be issued containing the price and time adjustment and that the 10-day period within which the contractor may protest will begin upon receipt by him of the supplemental change order. If the contractor refuses to sign the supplemental change order, it will be issued with the amounts determined by the contracting officer as fair and equitable, leaving the contractor to his right of appeal as provided in the contract. In cases where the changes involve a substantial sum and considerable time will be required to determine the equitable adjustment and the contractor's financial resources are insufficient to carry him through the period necessary for the determination thereof, the initial change order may contain an amount not exceeding the contracting officer's best estimate of the adjustment, with the express stipulation that such amount is tentative for the purpose of partial payments only, and that the final adjustment will be made in the supplemental change order. All change orders or the supplements thereto must provide for an adjustment of the contract time or a statement that no extension or decrease of the contract time is involved.

(d) Claims for adjustment under change orders under lump sum contracts. Articles 2 and 3, respectively, of the supply and construction forms of contract, and similar articles of other standard forms of contract, provide that any claim for adjustment of time or price under a change order must be asserted by the contractor within 10 days from the date the change is ordered. This provision affords a remedy to the contractor if he considers the proposed change outside of the scope of the contract or if the adjustment of time and/or price stated in the change order is not acceptable to him. If the contractor objects to the adjustment of time or price, he is required to proceed with the work and to submit a claim to the contracting officer for adjustment within 10 days from the date of receipt by him of the change order. If the contractor fails to protest the proposed change and to submit his claim within the required 10 days, he forfeits his right thereafter to submit a claim for adjustment. It will be noted, however, that the contracting officer may, in his discretion, receive and consider, with the approval of the District or Division Engineer, a claim submitted after the 10-day period and before final payment under the contract has been made. Such action, however, is discretionary, and is designed to afford administrative relief in cases where the facts and circumstances are such as to render impossible or to excuse submitting the claim within the prescribed 10-day period. It will not be taken in cases where the ability of the contracting officer to determine the adjustment has been jeopardized as a result of the delay by the contractor in submitting his claim. In such cases the claim will be denied by the contracting officer.

§ 210.22 Changed conditions. In all cases where changed conditions are encountered, the procedure provided in Article 4 of W. D. Contract Form 2 (10 CFR, Supps., 81.1302), or in any similar article of other standard forms of construction contracts, will be promptly complied with. Where the contracting officer finds that the conditions do differ materially as provided in that article, he will prepare a written modification of the contract providing for an increase or decrease in cost and/or in time resulting from such conditions. Such written modifications will be prepared and disposed of in the same form and under the same procedure as change orders for changes in the contract drawings and specifications, with the exception that all such orders require the approval of the Chief of Engineers, regardless of the amounts involved.

§ 210.23 Appeals—(a) Provision for appeal. The standard contract forms provide an orderly method of taking appeals from decisions of the contracting officer.

(b) Obligation of the contractor. It is the obligation of the contractor under the "Changes" article of the supply and construction contract forms, as well as similar articles of other standard forms, and under the "Changed Conditions" article of the lump sum construction contract form to assert any claims for adjustment under those articles promptly; for while the period specified in such provisions may be extended for asserting such claims for adjustment, it should not be, if the contractor's delay has prejudiced the Government's interests by substantially decreasing the contracting officer's ability to determine the facts pertinent to the claim, and in such cases the contracting officer would be warranted in refusing to receive and consider any such claim after the specified time has expired. It is also the obligation of the contractor to proceed diligently with the work notwithstanding any disputed claims.

(c) Obligation of the contracting officer. It is the obligation of the contracting officer, upon receipt of a claim for adjustment in price or time, which has not been covered by an appropriate change order, to decide such claim promptly. If he finds the claim warranted he will promptly issue an appropriate change order. If he finds the claim not warranted, he will promptly so advise the contractor, in writing, of his decision, and at the same time advise him of his right to appeal under the "Appeals" article of the contract within the time limitation of 30 days prescribed therein. The contractor should be advised that processing his appeal through the contracting officer will expedite action thereon.

(d) Findings of fact. If the contractor appeals, the contracting officer will make thorough findings of fact and serve a copy thereof upon the contractor and invite his prompt response thereto.

(e) Decisions of the contracting officer. These must be based upon his own judgment without subordination of his judgment to that of his superior officers. Any such subordination of the contracting officer's judgment except insofar as he may be overruled by the appellate authority designated in the contract, is a breach of contract.

(f) Processing appeals. When the contractor's response to the contracting officer's findings of fact is received, the entire record, including the following documents, will be transmitted through channels to Office, Chief of Engineers, Attention: Legal Division:

(1) The contractor's request for adjustment,

(2) The contracting officer's decision,

(3) The contractor's appeal,

(4) The contracting officer's findings of fact,

(5) The contractor's response to the findings of fact, if any,

(6) In cases where the contract involved is not distributed to Office, Chief of Engineers: A complete copy of the contract record, including an authenticated copy of the contract, modifications thereto, specifications, and pertinent drawings,

(7) All intermediate correspondence pertinent to the appeal,

(8) The results of the conference, and if no such conference were held, the reasons therefor,

(9) A statement as to the funds available for payment, if appeal is sustained in whole or in part.

In any case where the contractor fails to respond within fifteen days, or such longer period as the contracting officer may grant, to the contracting officer's findings of fact, the record will be transmitted without such response.

(g) Final settlement. Final settlement under any contract will not be made pending the determination of disputes or appeals. Unless the retention of a substantial sum to make adjustments is required, only a nominal sum will be retained pending final decision.

(h) Time for appeal. The standard disputes article provides for appeal of contractor from adverse decisions of the contracting officer within thirty days from the mailing of any such decision. There is no authority for the extension of such thirty-day period. However, if the contracting officer changes his decision a new thirty-day period within which to appeal is created.

(i) The Corps of Engineers Claims and Appeals Board. There is quoted below in pertinent part memorandum of August 9, 1946, from the Chief of Engineers to the Chief, Legal Division, CCE, relating to the establishment and functions of The Corps of Engineers Claims and Appeals Board:

1. There is hereby constituted in the Legal Division of this office a board to be known as "The Corps of Engineers Claims and Appeals Board." The Board will consist of three members, one of whom will be chairman of the Board. The Chief of the Legal Division by virtue of his office will serve as chairman of the Board. There will also be a recorder. The chairman of the Board will recommend appointees for membership on the Board and for recorder. Appointments will be made by the Chief of Engineers. If the chairman of the Board at any time determines that additional members of the Board are necessary in order to process appeals with reasonable dispatch, he may from time to time recommend for appointment such additional members of the Board as he may deem necessary, and will make recommendations for the filling of any vacancies on the Board and in the office of the recorder.

2. The Board created by paragraph 1 of this memorandum is hereby designated as the duly authorized representative of the Chief of Engineers to hear, consider, and decide as fully and finally as the Chief of Engineers might do, appeals to the Chief of Engineers under contracts which contain provisions authorizing the Chief of Engineers to designate a board as his duly authorized representative to determine appeals.

3. Except in the case under paragraph 2 above, the chairman of the Corps of Engineers Claims and Appeals Board is hereby designated as the duly authorized representative of the Chief of Engineers to hear, consider, and decide as fully and finally as the Chief of Engineers might do, appeals from the decisions of contracting officers under contracts requiring the decision of appeals by the Chief of Engineers or his duly authorized representative.

4. In appeals under paragraph 3 above, the Board hereby constituted shall nevertheless hear, consider, and report its views on such appeals to the chairman of the Corps of Engineers Claims and Appeals Board as the authorized representative of the Chief of Engineers. If, however, such representative shall not be in accord with the views of the Board, he will promptly submit the case for final determination upon the record to the Chief of Engineers.

5. Should additional members be appointed to the Board, the chairman thereof, from time to time, may divide the Board into Divisions of two or more members and assign members to each Division. A majority of the members of the Board or of a Division thereof shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of the business of the Board or of a Division, respectively. The decision of the majority of the members of the Board or of a Division shall be deemed to be the decision of the Board or of a Division, as the case may be; provided, however, that in any appeal heard and considered by a Division, the decision of the Division shall become the decision of the Board, unless within ten days after such decision, the chairman of the Board directs that the decision of the Division be reviewed by the Board. If a majority of the members of a Division is unable to agree upon a decision, the proceedings shall be referred to the Board for a decision. In any appeal before the Board in which the chairman of the Board has not participated, the decision of the Board shall be reviewed by the chairman of the Board. If a majority of the members of the Board is unable to agree upon a decision, or the chairman of the Board, upon his review of a decision made by the Board in a case where he has not participated, is unable to agree therewith, the chairman of the Board will promptly submit the appeal to the Chief of Engineers for his decision upon the record. A vacancy in the Board or in any Division thereof shall not impair the powers nor affect the duties of the Board or Division nor of the remaining members of the Board or Division, respectively. The authority and procedure provided for herein shall apply whether the Board shall be acting as a designated representative of the Chief of Engineers under paragraph 2 above, or in an advisory capacity under paragraph 4 hereof.

6. The Board shall have all powers necessary and incident to the proper performance of its duties, and with the approval of the Chief of Engineers, shall adopt its own methods of procedure and rules and regulations for its conduct and for the preparation and presentation of appeals.

7. The office of the Board shall be in the Office of the Chief of Engineers, but hearings may also be held in such other places as the Board may determine to be expedient or necessary for the proper performance of its duties.

8. In the consideration and disposition of appeals to the Chief of Engineers pertaining to disputes arising under, out of, incident to, by virtue of, or as a result of any engineer contract it is desired that the Corps of Engineers Claims and Appeals Board and the chairman thereof, as the representative of the Chief of Engineers for the disposition of appeals observe the following additional instructions:

a. Exercise such delegable authority and discretion as the Chief of Engineers himself might exercise either through contractual power or otherwise in the consideration and disposition of appeals, to ratify or approve the acts of subordinates and to waive any contract requirement which the Chief of Engineers himself legally might waive, whenever in the discretion of the Board or the chairman thereof, as the case may be, such action is deemed necessary or desirable to arrive at a just and equitable adjustment or disposition of the dispute involved in the appeal.

b. Consider and administratively pass on appeals not specifically or impliedly authorized by the contract where the ruling appealed from is not thereby made final and conclusive, and the appeal is taken within the time fixed in the contract for appeals.

c. Find and administratively determine the facts out of which a claim by a contractor arises for damages against the Government for breach of contract, without expressing opinion on the question of the Government's liability for damages.

(j) Rules of the Corps of Engineers Claims and Appeals Board. The following rules are promulgated by the Corps of Engineers Claims and Appeals Board, Office of the Chief of Engineers, for the guidance of contractors having contracts with the Corps of Engineers, and others concerned.

Rule 1: Appeals, how taken. An appeal from the decision of a contracting officer must be in writing, addressed to the appellate authority named in the contract and filed with the officer from whose decision the appeal is taken, within the time allowed by the contract. The contracting officer will thereupon prepare findings of fact, copy to be furnished to the contractor. The contractor will then be permitted to file a brief or submit comment on such findings.

Form, size and number of papers filed. Appeals, notices, motions, applications, stipulations, briefs, depositions, and other papers, if typewritten, filed with the Board shall be typewritten on one side of the paper only, with margin of 1½ inches on the left of the page, and, as far as practicable, shall be upon paper 8½ x 11 inches in size. The papers shall be fastened on the left side without covers or backs. Four copies of each of such papers, whether typewritten or not, except stipulations and depositions, shall be filed.

Number to be assigned to proceedings. The recorder shall assign a number to each appeal coming before the Board, which number will be placed on all papers in the case.

Rule 2: Form of appeals. Each appeal shall state the particular provisions of the contract out of which the dispute arises; the exact nature of the dispute and the ruling of the contracting officer or authorized representative from which the appeal is taken, together with a statement of specific facts claimed by the appellant to sustain his appeal.

Rule 3: Time of filing to be endorsed. When the appeal has been received by the contracting officer, he will endorse thereon the date of filing and forward the appeal through channels to the Corps of Engineers Claims and Appeals Board, Office, Chief of Engineers, Washington, D. C.

Rule 4: Notice of hearings. The appellant shall be given at least 10 days' notice of the time and place of hearing. Continuances will not be granted except upon written request and for good cause.

Rule 5: Place of hearing. Ordinarily the place of hearing will be in the Office, Chief of Engineers, Washington, D. C. If the appellant desires that a hearing be held at a place other than Washington, D. C., he shall, at the time of taking his appeal, or within a reasonable time thereafter, but before service of notice of hearing, make a written request therefor, stating the place preferred for the hearing, and stating fully the reason for such request. The representative of the Government handling the case may, within 10 days after an appeal has been filed in the office of the Board, file with the Board a written request for hearing at a place other than the office of the Board and shall in such request state fully the reasons therefor. If the appellant does not request a hearing at a place other than at the office of the Board, the Board may, nevertheless, on its own motion hold a hearing at another place.

Rule 6: Absence of parties or counsel. The unexcused absence of appellant or his counsel at the time and place set for the hearing of any proceeding will not be the occasion for delay, but the hearing will proceed and the case will be regarded as submitted on the part of the absent party.

Rule 7: Applications for rehearing. Rehearing, further hearing or reconsideration of a decision may be had, if in the judgment of the Board sufficient reason therefor appears.

(k) Procedure to eliminate excessive number of claims and appeals. Final payment and settlement of contracts in numerous cases have been and are being delayed because of claims or appeals by contractors from decisions of contracting officers. The number of such claims and appeals must be held to a minimum. This objective can be accomplished by contracting officers and the Legal Division giving careful consideration to such claims and appeals before forwarding them for determination by higher authority. Adherence to the procedure outlined in this section will reduce the number of appeals appreciably, particularly if the contracting officer upon receipt of the contractor's response to the contracting officer's findings of fact gives further consideration to the contractor's contentions, and the findings of fact are again reviewed in the light thereof.

To more effectively accomplish the objective stated above, the Chiefs of the Legal Branches in each Division (or if he is unable to do so, the Chief of the Legal Branch in the District Office, if he has not already done so) will carefully review the facts and circumstances involved in each such claim or appeal and will arrange a conference and fully discuss the claim or appeal personally with the contractor (preferably not with a representative of the contractor) prior to forwarding such claim or appeal to higher authority for decision.

Claims or appeals which are found to be meritorious after such conference will be referred back to the contracting officer for reconsideration pointing out the basis upon which it is deemed that such claim or appeal is meritorious. Claims or appeals which are determined to be clearly unfounded upon such discussion with the contractor will in most cases be withdrawn by the contractor, thereby saving both time and expense not only to the Government but to the contractor as well. Such claims or appeals should be withdrawn in writing by the contractor. Such discussions will eliminate any misunderstandings or personal differences between the contractor and the contracting officer and clearly define the issues involved. All claims or appeals thereafter forwarded for decision by higher authority will contain in the file a record of the results of such conference. The action required herein should not in any way be exercised to deprive claimants of their right to prosecute appeals which they feel are just and warranted.

§ 210.24 Final payment. Final payments will not be made until after all disputes, claims, and appeals have been finally disposed of and all administrative action is completed as required by the contract. Where a considerable amount is due the contractor and all items under the contract have been adjusted with the exception of certain claims or appeals, payment will be made to the contractor of substantially all of the amount due, retaining for final settlement only such amount as may be necessary to make any final adjustment and to keep the contract open pending the final disposition of such disputes, claims, or appeals.

§ 210.25 Releases—(a) Final payment release. No release will be required from a contractor upon final payment in the absence of mandatory provisions in the contract requiring such release. Standard forms of lump sum contracts, except contracts executed on W. D. Contract Form 16 (10 CFR, Supps., 81.1316), do not contain such mandatory provisions. Fixed fee contract forms contain a mandatory provision for a limited release and upon final payment thereunder such a release will be obtained.

(b) Special release of fixed fee under fixed fee contracts. Until final written agreement or release in full settlement of an architect-engineer's or construction contractor's fixed fee in connection with War Department contracts is obtained no subsequent negotiated lump sum or fixed fee contract for architect-engineer services or construction will be awarded to such architect-engineer or contractor.

(1) Such releases or authenticated copies thereof will be filed with all contracts to which they relate. A sufficient number of executed or authenticated copies will be prepared and forwarded to the Chief of Engineers to permit of the filing of one with each of the contracts affected. It is also the responsibility of the person negotiating the contract to forward an authenticated copy of the release to each contracting officer administering a contract affected thereby. In cases where a release relating to a contract of another technical service is obtained, a copy of the release will be transmitted thereto through the Chief of Engineers.

(2) If the subsequent work or services is initiated by a letter order, the release will be obtained before the letter order is tendered.

(3) The release is required of a joint venture contractor irrespective of the fact that the contractor entering into a subsequent negotiated lump sum or fixed fee architect-engineer or construction contract is only one of the joint ventures under an existing fixed fee architect-engineer or construction contract with the War Department.

(4) In the case of a joint venture contractor either a form releasing all the joint venturers constituting the joint venture, or a form, "Release of Claim for Additional Fee to Extent Only of Interest of A Joint Venturer", may be used, inserting in the latter the name and interest of the joint venturer. Whether the form of release used is the one which releases all the joint venturers or is the one limited to the interest of a joint venturer, it must nevertheless be executed by all the joint venturers who constitute the joint venture contractor.

§ 210.26 Acceptance of work under construction and architect-engineer contracts—(a) Fixed fee. If fixed fee contracts are completed, and not terminated for the convenience of the Government or terminated because of default, a final acceptance of the work will be made in writing, as required by the contract terms. In connection with construction contracts the notice will not be issued until all the work of the prime contractor and subcontractors has been completed and properly inspected. The same is true in connection with fixed fee architect-engineer contracts. It will be noted that the architect-engineer is required to prepare record drawings and correct drawings and specifications to show the construction as actually accomplished, as well as assist in the preparation of the completion report for the project.

(b) Lump sum. In the interest of good administration notice of final completion and acceptance, after proper inspection of the work under lump sum construction contract, should be expeditiously given in writing by the contracting officer to the contractor.

§ 210.27 Liquidated damages—(a) Negotiated contracts. Provisions for liquidated damages will not be included in negotiated supply, construction or other military contracts or in specifications made a part thereof. Parties negotiating for contracts shall be informed that liquidated damages will not be provided for in such contracts.

(b) Contracts awarded pursuant to formal advertising. With respect to supply and construction contracts awarded pursuant to formal advertising where it is important to have the work or services performed or deliveries made on or before a certain date or as soon as possible, an appropriate liquidated damages provision may be incorporated in the specifications or in the contract. When liquidated damages are stipulated in connection with any such purchase or contract they shall be sufficiently high to protect the Government against all damage or loss which can reasonably be anticipated, but in no event shall they be fixed so high as to constitute a penalty.

§ 210.28 Termination for default—(a) Notice of termination to contractor and surety. In all cases where the contractor has defaulted in the performance of his contract or, in construction contracts where the contracting officer is satisfied that the contractor cannot complete the work within the time required, and he has determined that the delay is not due to any of the excusable causes set forth in the contract, and that it is in the best interest of the Government to terminate the contractor's right to proceed, he will promptly report the case to the Chief of Engineers, Attention: Legal Division, giving a brief description of the contract, the name of the contractor, and a statement of the reasons for placing the contractor in default, together with the contracting officer's recommendations. Upon approval by the Chief of Engineers of the proposed action to place the contractor in default, the contracting officer will promptly notify the contractor in writing that its right to proceed is terminated. Such notice will definitely state that the contractor's right to proceed is thereby terminated, with the reasons therefor, and that the Government will hold the contractor and the surety, if any, responsible for any excess costs or damages incurred in the completion of the contract. At the same time, written notice of the action taken will be given to surety, if any, with the request that it advise within a reasonable number of days whether it desires to take over and complete the work. [See U. S. v. American Surety Company (322 U. S. 96)]

(b) Rights of sureties. The surety may assist a failing contractor or be given the right to complete the contract either prior or subsequent to a formal termination of the contractor's right to proceed. If the surety takes over the work prior to the formal termination of the contractor's right to proceed, payments are required to be made to the contractor. If the surety takes over the work after the contractor's right to proceed has been formally terminated, it may do so without formality, in which event payments are required to be made in the name of the contractor. If the surety desires to receive payments as provided under the terms of the contract in its own name, a supplemental agreement must be entered into between the contractor, the contracting officer, and the surety, which may provide that the surety will take over and complete the work remaining to be performed under the contract in accordance with the provisions thereof, that the surety shall receive payment of earned estimates for the work performed by it and that, in the event the surety sustains a loss in the completion of the work, it shall receive payment to the extent thereof from retained amounts due the contractor, if any, after all claims of the Government against the contractor have been satisfied. In no event shall retained percentages be paid to the surety until the job is completed and accepted and it has been ascertained that the surety has sustained a loss. If the completion of the contract is delayed beyond the time fixed for completion in cases where the contractor's right to proceed has been formally terminated, the contractor and surety will be charged with the excess costs incurred by the Government resulting from such delay. Such excess costs may include such items as inspection, superintendence, etc., over and above what would have been incurred had the contract been completed on time.

(c) Completion of defaulted contracts—(1) Supply contracts. Where the contractor's right to proceed under a supply contract awarded pursuant to formal advertising has been terminated and the surety, if any, does not elect to proceed with the completion thereof, the contracting officer will proceed to complete the contract by purchase in the open market, by award to the next low bidder when the latter is willing to renew his bid, or by readvertisement, whichever procedure is most appropriate under the circumstances. Where a supply contract has been negotiated and the surety, if any, does not proceed with the completion thereof, the contracting officer will proceed to complete the contract by negotiating with other parties therefor.

(2) Construction contracts. Where the contractor's right to proceed under a construction contract awarded pursuant to formal advertising has been terminated and the surety declines to proceed with the work after the termination of the contractor's right to proceed, the contracting officer will proceed without delay to complete the contract by Government plant and hired labor or by readvertisement. In negotiated construction contracts, where the surety does not proceed with the work, the contracting officer will, subject to regulations relating to Government plant and hired labor, proceed without delay to complete the contract by Government plant and hired labor or by negotiation with another contractor.

(3) Excess costs of completion of defaulted contracts. The work or procurement of supplies, whether readvertised or negotiated, must be on the same terms, conditions and specifications as the original contract. After completion of the work or the procurement of supplies, whether by Government plant or hired labor, by negotiated contract, by open market purchase, or by contract awarded pursuant to formal advertising, the excess cost incurred, if any, will be deducted from any amounts due the contractor in the final payment under the contract, and if the amount due the contractor is insufficient therefor, demand will be made immediately upon both the contractor and the surety for the payment thereof. If payment is not made within a reasonable time, a complete report of all the facts and circumstances will be prepared and forwarded to the Chief of Engineers, Attention: Legal Division, for such further action as the interests of the Government may require. The correspondence transmitting the report will indicate the appropriate allotment symbol and the title involved.

(d) Assessment of liquidated damages. In contracts where liquidated damages are prescribed and the contracting officer elects to permit the contractor to complete his contract and pay liquidated damages, amounts will be deducted from payments as the work progresses for all delays except excusable delays for which extensions of time have been granted. In computing delivery time and delays in delivery for the assessment of liquidated damages, intervening Sundays and holidays should be counted except that delivery will not be required on a Sunday or a holiday.

§ 210.29 Waiver or extension of time limitations affecting contractors. Division and District Engineers are designated as authorized representatives of the Secretary of War for the purpose of approving requests for equitable adjustments received and considered by the contracting officer after the ten-day limitation contained in Article 2, W. D. Contract Form 1, and in Article 3, W. D. Contract Form 2; and for the purpose of taking corresponding action under similar provisions of other forms of contract, Provided, That no such approval shall be given after the final settlement date of the contract. (The final settlement date is to be distinguished from the date of completion of the work.) Provided further, That no officer designated above may act as the authorized representative of the Secretary of War under this authority in connection with any contract under which he is the contracting officer.

§ 210.30 Contracts for public utilities services. Except in cases where the Government's interests require that contracts for public utilities services, such as electricity, gas, and water, be limited to a specified term, contracts for furnishing public utilities services, including telephone services, will be entered into at stipulated rates "until further notice". (See 15 Comp. Gen. 920). All tariffs and schedules applicable to contracts for utility services will be frequently reviewed with a view to obtaining the most economical rate schedule.

§ 210.31 Acceptance of matériel deviating from specifications. All contracting officers are authorized to modify contracts when they deem it to be necessary to accomplish the acceptance of matériel which deviate from specifications where such deviation does not affect the serviceability of the matériel. Where matériel is accepted under these conditions, an appropriate reduction in price is to be made.

§ 210.32 Guarantee provisions in contracts. Provisions purporting to guarantee construction work generally or particular items of construction work will not be made part of construction contracts or specifications. Such prohibition will not apply to contracts, or portions thereof, for the procurement or installation of machinery and equipment for which guarantees are customarily furnished in the trade or for machinery and equipment of special design where the interest of the Government clearly requires such guarantees.

BID, PERFORMANCE AND PAYMENT BONDS

§ 210.51 Bid Bonds—(a) When required. Bid bonds will be furnished in connection with contracts to be placed as a result of formal advertising, when the invitation to bidders specifies that the contracts are to be supported by performance and/or payment bonds. Bid bonds will not be required in connection with any negotiated contract.

(b) Securities in lieu of corporate or individual sureties. United States bonds or notes may be accepted in lieu of corporate or individual sureties. Certified checks or currency may be accepted in lieu of corporate or individual sureties. Under decisions of the Comptroller General a certified check or currency may not be required exclusively, nor may a bid supported by adequate bid bond or other surety be disregarded because the form of surety was not then specifically required. A certified check or currency received from a bidder will be held at the bidder's risk. If the contract cannot be awarded within 48 hours after the bids are opened the check or currency will be turned over to a disbursing officer, who will receipt therefor and deposit the check or currency in a special deposit account. No check or currency of an unsuccessful bidder will be held by the contracting officer longer than 24 hours after award has been made.

(c) Form, execution and disposal of bid bonds. Bid bonds will be executed in duplicate on Standard Form 24 (U. S. Government Standard Form of Bid Bond—Construction or supply) (41 CFR, 12.24) in full compliance with the instructions thereon. The original number will be attached to the original number of the bid and the duplicate number thereof will be attached to the duplicate number of the bid.

(d) Amount of penalty. The amount of the penalty in a bid bond will be fixed by the contracting officer and ordinarily will be not less than one-fifth of the full amount of the bid nor more than the full amount thereof.

(e) Annual bid bond for supplies. In lieu of a bid bond to accompany each bid for the furnishing of supplies a bidder may file an annual bid bond (U. S. Government Standard Form 34) (41 CFR, 12.34) to cover all bids submitted to the Corps of Engineers during the fiscal year. This form of bond does not provide for a definite penal sum, it cannot be amended to provide for a limited penalty, and must be executed by a person having unlimited authority. In order that it may cover all bids submitted to all officers of the Corps of Engineers the second paragraph should be filled in as follows: "Officers of the Corps of Engineers, War Department." Annual bid bonds will be forwarded to the Legal Division, Office, Chief of Engineers. After approval by the Judge Advocate General the principal will be notified accordingly.

§ 210.52 Performance and payment bonds—(a) Performance bonds. Contracting officers are authorized in their discretion to require or waive performance bonds for supply contracts, and for construction contracts when the amount is $2,000 or less, with the exception that a performance bond will be required with every contract for the removal of a wreck (see sec. 19, act of 3 March 1899), and except that a bond may not be waived when it has been stated in an invitation for bids that a performance bond will be required. Care should be taken to require bonds whenever they are deemed necessary to protect the public interest. Ordinarily no bond will be required on supply contracts. A performance bond is required with all construction contracts in excess of $2,000. The penal sum of the performance bond will ordinarily be equal to the penal sum of the payment bond.

(b) Payment bonds. A payment bond is required with all construction contracts in excess of $2,000. The penal sum of payment bonds will be as follows:

(1) When the contract price is $1,000,000 or less, 50 percent of the contract price;

(2) When the contract price is in excess of $1,000,000 but not more than $5,000,000, 40 percent of the contract price;

(3) When the contract price is more than $5,000,000, $2,500,000.

(c) Execution of performance and payment bonds. Performance bonds with individual sureties or one corporate surety will be executed in duplicate on Standard Form No. 25 (Standard Government Form of Performance Bond—Construction or Supply) and payment bonds with similar sureties or surety will be executed in duplicate on Standard Form No. 25–A (Standard Government Form of Payment Bond—Construction) in full compliance with the instructions on the forms.

(d) Performance bonds with two or more corporate sureties. Performance bonds with two or more corporate sureties for construction contracts, where it is desired to limit the liability of the several corporate sureties, will be executed on Performance Bond Form No. 25–B.

(e) Payment bonds under construction contracts with two or more corporate sureties. Payment bonds under construction contracts with two or more corporate sureties, where it is desired to limit the liability of the several corporate sureties, will be executed on Payment Bond Form No. 25–C.

(f) Payment and performance bonds securing change orders and supplemental agreements to contracts already bonded. Additional performance or payment bonds will not be required in connection with change orders or supplemental agreements to contracts already bonded unless, in the opinion of the District or Division Engineer, the increase in the amount of the contract price by reason of such modification is of sufficient amount to warrant obtaining additional bonds under the circumstances. Ordinarily additional bonds will not be required. In instances where such additional bonds are required, the condition thereof shall describe the obligations secured thereby as being the original contract as well as any previous modification thereof and the change order or supplemental agreement involved.

(g) Consents of surety to contract modifications. The contracting officer will obtain consents of surety, where required. However, where the number of sureties involved or the difficulty in obtaining consent renders such action impracticable the Expediter Plan may be utilized; but in every such case the contracting officer will state, in the letter transmitting the contract modification for distribution, that the Expediter Plan is being used and the reason therefor. The consent of surety to supplemental agreements, regardless of amount, and to change orders over $25,000 will be obtained.

§ 210.53 Bond penalty in definite sum. Where surety bonds, either for performance or payment, are to be required on any contract, the penalty of the bond as stated on the face thereof will always be stated as a definite sum and there will be no reference in the bond to the percentage basis upon which it may have been computed, or will there be any reference therein to the requirements of the invitation, specification, contract, or other contract papers.

LABOR

§ 210.61 State labor laws. It is the policy of the War Department to require its contractors to comply with all State labor laws, even though they are operating a facility owned by the War Department and located on a military reservation. In cases where the State law requires the contractor to pay the costs of inspection, these charges will be considered to be proper elements of cost under fixed fee War Department contracts.

§ 210.62 Repatriation of employees. There are international agreements between the United States and some foreign countries to the effect that the United States will, at its expense, effect repatriation of all employees recruited in the United States for work in those countries upon termination of the employment of such persons or the completion of the projects. A like policy as to repatriation is desirable even in the absence of such agreements. In case of contractor's employees, the contractor is primarily responsible for effecting repatriation and the contracting officer will make certain that he carries out this responsibility. Proper procedures and control will be effected in order to assure that when employment is terminated, the employees actually returns to the United States, and the Government is not burdened with paying the transportation and traveling expenses twice. It may be found desirable for the transportation tickets to be furnished to the employee in lieu of advancing funds to him for the purchase thereof. Also, it may be found desirable in appropriate cases for representatives of the contractor, or the contracting officer, to see personally that the employee boards the conveyance for the purpose of returning to the United States.

§ 210.63 Leave accrued to employees of fixed fee contractors, lump sum payment at time of separation.—(a) Policy. Paragraph 10, Appendix "C" to WD Contract Forms 3, 4, and 12, (10 CFR, Supps. 81.1303, 81.1304, 81.1312), was made a part of contract documents during the latter part of 1942 in accord with non-manual employees' leave practices and policies prescribed by the Chief of Engineers from the outset of the emergency. Those contract clauses provide that leave may be granted by the contractor with the approval of the contracting officer "at such time or times as may be deemed in the best interests of the Government", that such leave will accrue at the rate of two days per month in lieu of any sick or vacation allowance, and that it will be with pay on a reimbursable basis. Those contract clauses also provide that, "Leave may be granted during the course of employment or at the completion of employment", and that those employees "who resign, or are involuntarily separated for causes not due to their misconduct, shall be entitled to leave to and including date of separation". The procedures and the policies heretofore followed, and upon which the present contract provisions are based, rest upon the conclusions of the War Department that the granting of the right to the accrual of leave is necessary and proper in the performance of the work; and, moreover, that expenses incurred in connection therewith on a reimbursable basis by fixed fee contractors are in the interests of the Government. Likewise, granting the contracting officer the authority to control the time and extent of such leave during the prosecution of a project and to make lump sum payments at the termination or completion of employment is in the interests of the Government. The provisions quoted above provide for making lump sum payments to employees for accrued leave at the "completion of employment". To carry employees on the payroll after their services actually have ceased would not be consistent with "completion of employment" and was and is considered to be impractical in most cases.

(b) Procedure. Except where it would be impractical so to do or where, because of past practices of an architect-engineer, architect-engineer-manager, or construction contractor, hardship would result to it, payment in a lump sum will hereafter be made to all non-manual employees of fixed fee contractors for all accrued leave standing to their credit at the time their services are completed or terminated. (See MS. Comp. Gen., B–42474, 10 August 1944.) The same practice will be followed with respect to such a deceased employee with accrued leave remaining to his credit at the time of death. The lump sum representing accrued leave may be paid to the legal representative of the estate of the deceased or, if his estate is not being administered, such sum may be paid to his widow or other next of kin when the contractor, with the approval of the contracting officer, is satisfied that such action is appropriate. (See 20 Comp. Gen. 859.) Since the fixed fee employee leave practices and policies prescribed by using services to be followed by their "Operator" contractors who may also be performing construction work vary in some instances from those discussed herein because of peculiar contract provisions, this paragraph will not be considered as applicable to leave problems arising under such "operating" contracts crossigned by contracting officers of the Corps of Engineers.

§ 210.64 Labor difficulties and work stoppages—(a) Action to be taken. While the contractor has full responsibility for the handling of labor difficulties and work stoppages, the labor advisers of the Division and District Engineers may assist in settlement of disputes on lump sum contracts and must make every effort to prevent or settle labor difficulties and work stoppages on fixed-fee work. Establishment of close relations with the contractor and with labor and contractor organizations in the area and prompt action when labor difficulties first threaten will reduce stoppages to the minimum. However, great care must be exercised not to obligate the Government beyond what is compatible with law and regulations and not to intimidate either contractor or labor. In the attempt to prevent labor trouble, labor advisers should not permit any compromise of established principles and in all labor disputes should envisage future as well as immediate effects of decisions. Contractors may be advised to make use of all the facilities for conciliation and arbitration available in the industry or locality, including the U. S. Conciliation Service, the National Labor Relations Board, state and local labor services and arbitration machinery established by collective bargaining agreements or by contractor organizations. The Division Engineer may utilize the services of the Office of the Chief of Engineers in adjusting labor difficulties or work stoppages. In any case involving contact with the headquarters of other Government agencies and of contractor and labor organizations, the Division Engineer must channel his request through the Chief of Engineers.

(b) Jurisdictional disputes. Neither the contracting officer nor any labor adviser will take part in the adjustment of jurisdictional disputes between unions. In a dispute over work jurisdiction between unions within the Building and Construction Trades Department, AFL, the contractor should be advised to refer the question to the local Building Trades Council for settlement in accordance with Building Trades Department procedure, which usually results in a jurisdictional decision of the Department for th eparticular case and project. Attempt should be made to settle disputes over work jurisdiction or union representation between other organized labor groups by agreement of the local, regional or national union leaders concerned or by the facilities offered by the U. S. Conciliation Service and the National Labor Relations Board.

Labor activities—(a) "Union" contractors. The War Department's contracting policy requires award of lump sum contracts to the lowest responsible bidder, irrespective of his labor policies. If, however, a contractor or subcontractor has signed a labor agreement with any labor group, he will be expected to comply in full with its terms on War Department work, so long as they do not conflict with Federal law or regulation.

(b) Representatives of labor organizations. Accredited representatives of labor unions or other organizations may carry on legitimate and normal business dealings with the contractor or contracting officer and will not, because of their position, be denied access to a project or plant.

§ 210.65 Labor supply—(a) Source of supply. The contractor will be expected to exhaust every source of labor supply, including his own following, unions and Federal and State employment services, before the contracting officer will assist in manning a job.

(b) Recruiting. When acute labor shortage or the need of highly specialized personnel requires importation of workers from considerable distances, the contractor usually pays transportation and travel expenses of laborers and mechanics, which may or may not be collected back from the employees involved. Payroll deductions for the purpose of collecting back a contractor's advance to an employee for travel expense do not require approval of the Department of Labor under the Copeland Act.

§ 210.66 Construction contracts, classes of employees. Because of the differences in coverage of labor laws, construction employees are usually divided into two groups, "laborers and mechanics" and "non-manual employees."

(a) Laborers and mechanics. The Davis-Bacon Act applies only to construction laborers and trades craftsmen, including their helpers and apprentices, but not their craft supervisers, such as foremen and subforemen, or custodial employees, like watchmen, guards and janitors.

(b) Non-manual employees. Non-manual employees include all classifications not laborers and mechanics, that is, all supervisory, engineering, clerical, administrative and custodial personnel. Craft supervisors, such as subforemen, foremen, pushers, assistant general foremen and general foremen, are usually paid on the basis of an established differential over the rate of the craft they supervise and receive the same overtime conditions.

§ 210.67 Wage predetermination of the Department of Labor—(a) Requests for determinations. When construction is contemplated in an area for which no current determination is applicable, the District Engineer will forward a request for a determination to the Chief of Engineers through channels.

(b) Review of current determinations. In each locality where new work is authorized or contemplated, the District Engineer will review the latest determination for conformity with local prevailing rates and adjustments authorized by the Wage Stabilization Agency which in the case of construction is the Wage Adjustment Board. Any determination or modification more than 30 days old should be reviewed. Where it is found that an authorized wage adjustment has not been included in the latest determination, request for its inclusion will be teletyped to the Chief of Engineers. If classifications and rates in a determination are inaccurate or inadequate, the Division Engineer or his designated representative will submit a report indicating the need for correction.

§ 210.68 Classification of mechanics, laborers and apprentices—(a) Apprentices. An employee of the contractor classified as an "apprentice" shall be a person not less in age than the applicable legal limit, who, through a demonstrable arrangement with his employer, is employed, worked, and paid as a learner, and is given the opportunity while working to learn progressively each pertinent phase of the entire trade or occupation. The ratio of the number of apprentices to that of journeymen shall not exceed the recognized practice in the locality.

(b) Misclassification of mechanics and laborers. In the event a misclassification of mechanics or laborers is found on a project, the contractor will be notified immediately of the corrective measures required and funds will be withheld from the contractor in an amount equal to the estimated corrective payments required. Such funds shall be held until evidence satisfactory to the contracting officer is received showing that corrective payments have been made to the mechanics or laborers involved.

(c) Classification disputes, reports. In the event a dispute as to classification arises, including disputes over new classifications which cannot be equitably settled by the contracting officer, a complete report shall be made to the Chief of Engineers for further action.

§ 210.69 Additional classifications. Classifications and wage rates not established by the Department of Labor in a wage predetermination may be established by mutual agreement of the contractor and the organization of men involved and approved by the District Engineer in accordance with the following procedure:

(a) The authorized representatives of the contractor and of the labor involved will come to agreement on classification and rate and sign the appropriate form.

(b) The resident engineer will witness the request, thus indicating that the representatives of labor and the contractor are acceptable to him.

(c) The District Engineer in approving the classification and rate will make sure that the classification is really necessary and is not merely another term for a classification already in the contract, the classification and rate are actually used in the area, and the rate conforms to the wage schedule in the contract.

(d) The contractor will be required to post all additional classifications and rates authorized in a conspicuous place on the project site accessible to all employees in the same way as Davis-Bacon rates.

(e) Disputes over classifications and rates which cannot be settled by mutual agreement will be referred to the Chief of Engineers.

CLAIMS AND LITIGATION

§ 210.81 Claims under fixed-fee contracts—(a) General. All fixed-fee contractors and subcontractors shall be advised of the contents of the following paragraphs:

(1) Reimbursement to cover losses or expenses resulting from claims against them incident to the work will not be authorized without the written approval of the contracting officer, or his authorized representative.

(2) The contracting officer will not authorize reimbursement unless the contractor involved has promptly notified him in writing of said claim.

(3) It is important that claims covering state or local taxes against fixed fee contractors be handled before the contract work is completed or as soon thereafter as practicable. Timely inquiries should be made of the contractor relative to pending tax claims and to questions relating to reimbursement of the contractor. When doubt exists as to the validity of any such tax or as to whether the payment of such taxes would be reimbursable under the terms of the contract, the matter should be referred to the Office, Chief of Engineers, Attention, Legal Division, accompanied by a complete statement of facts, supporting documents, assessments, and such other evidence as may be necessary for the proper determination of the claim.

(b) Claims procedure. As to claims (except claims arising under the Fair Labor Standards Act) which have not gone to suit, the contracting officer may certify for payment any expenditures that are clearly reimbursable under the terms of the contract. However, when unusual legal questions are presented, a complete report covering the facts, and recommendations thereon, together with all related correspondence, documents, etc., will be forwarded promptly to the Chief of Engineers, Attention: Legal Division, in duplicate and action in connection therewith deferred pending receipt of instructions. Such report will include the following:

(1) The names and addresses of the parties involved.

(2) Identification and a brief description of the prime contract involved.

(3) Identification and a brief description of any subcontract, equipment rental agreement or collateral agreement between the parties involved, together with a copy of such agreement.

(4) A complete statement of facts upon which the claim is predicated.

(5) A complete statement of any facts or circumstances which might effect liability of the Government to the contractor, or which the Government might employ in defending litigation on behalf of the contractor.

(6) A list of the names and addresses of possible witnesses.

§ 210.82 Assignment of claims. Except as permitted by the "Assignment of Claims Act of 1940" all transfers and assignments made of any claim upon the United States, or of any part or share thereof, or any interest therein, whether absolute or conditional, and whatever may be the consideration therefor, and all powers of attorney, orders, or other authorities for receiving payment of any such claim, or any part or share thereof, are, under section 3477, Revised Statutes, as amended, null and void, unless freely made and executed in the presence of at least two attesting witnesses, after the issuance of a warrant for the payment thereof. However, transfers of claims by operation of law (i. e., as when a receiver is appointed for the claimant, or when a personal representative is appointed for a deceased claimant, or where there is a merger or change of name of a corporate claimant) do not come within the prohibition of section 3477, Revised Statutes. An attempt by a partnership or individual to authorize other parties or persons to receive or receipt for moneys due said partnership or individual, is an assignment prohibited by the statute; however, the legal designation, by an incorporated company, of an officer or agent to receive and receipt, in the name of said company, for moneys due the company is not an assignment of the claim but merely the proper method of covering payment to the company. Notwithstanding the restrictions contained in this paragraph, subrogation will be recognized in connection with those claims for damages to private property which are based upon negligence, but no others.

§ 210.83 Information to war contractors. Contracting officers and their authorized representatives are authorized and directed to advise, aid and assist war contractors, pursuant to section 20 (f) of the "Contract Settlement Act of 1944", the Act of 1 July 1944 (Public Law 395, 78th Congress).

§ 210.84 Releases of claims in favor of the Government. In claims in favor of the Government the approval of The Judge Advocate General for the execution of a general release need not be obtained in those cases where the proceeds of any collections in full for property damage are properly to be deposited to the credit of a civil appropriation, provided any such release does not contain an indemnity provision. No such general release will be executed in any such case involving payment of a sum in excess of $1,000 without the approval of the Chief of Engineers.

§ 210.85 Litigation procedure under CPFF contracts—(a) General. As to all lawsuits against fixed fee contractors the defendant will, immediately upon receiving suit papers in any action filed against him, furnish a copy of all such papers to the contracting officer; this procedure is in addition to the requirements of any insurance policy which may be in force. Immediate teletype, radiogram or telephone notification thereof, as indicated in subparagraph (3) below, will be given immediately by the contracting officer to the Litigation Division, Office of The Judge Advocate General, and a copy of such report to Office, Chief of Engineers, Attention Legal Division, in order that a determination may be made as to whether the Government will intervene or defend the suit on behalf of the contractor.

(1) The Government will not undertake to represent every contractor involved in litigation, but will defend only in those cases where the Government appears to have an interest in the outcome of the litigation, such as when a judgment against the contractor may be a reimbursable item. Pending a determination of the Government's interest, the contractor should appear in person in court and request a continuance of the Action, unless there is clearly sufficient time for the local United States Attorney to be instructed and for him to file an answer to the action.

(2) Upon a determination that the Government does have an interest in the lawsuit, The Judge Advocate General will arrange for the protection of that interest by the local United States Attorney and will advise the contracting officer accordingly. If a determination is made that the United States does not have an interest in the outcome of the litigation, or that the local United States Attorney will not be authorized to handle the case, the contracting officer will be so advised and instructions given in order that the contractor may be informed accordingly. In cases where the services of a local United States Attorney are unavailable or, for some other reason, his appearance in the case is deemed inappropriate, retention of private counsel to defend the suit may be authorized by The Judge Advocate General.

(3) In order that the Government may have sufficient time in which to make necessary determinations as to defense of the suit and issue appropriate instructions, the notification by the defendant to the War Department representative of the existence of a suit should be given within twenty-four hours after the institution thereof. The report by the War Department representative will be made regardless of whether the contractor has given the above-required notice.

(4) The contracting officer will furnish the contractor with blank forms of the Agreement for Representation as the need arises. The contractor will be advised that if such agreement is executed in advance of authorization to the local United States Attorney to defend the action, it will not be effective and binding on the contractor until the Government has acted thereon and such authorization issued by the Attorney General.

(5) The Government will not undertake defense of any suit on behalf of the contractor until the Agreement for Representation is executed, and a copy thereof is received by the local United States Attorney. The contractor should be advised that the agreement does not require him to waive any rights he may have under his contract with the Government. One copy of the Agreement will be furnished direct to the U. S. Attorney; three copies will be forwarded to The Judge Advocate General, Litigation Division, through, Office, Chief of Engineers, Legal Division.

(6) Except where absolutely necessary, the filing of pleadings will await the action of the local United States Attorney, however, the contractor must assume the responsibility for procuring such orders for additional time to plead in the action as are necessary to prevent a default being entered against the contractor.

(7) Upon termination or proposed settlement of suits, a report thereof will be submitted to the Chief of Engineers, together with a recommendation as to reimbursement.

(b) Litigation policy. When the United States Attorney undertakes defense of the suit he will be, in the usual case, from that time on in full charge of such case; the contracting officer and the contractor will promptly consult the local United States Attorney upon notice from the office of the Chief of Engineers of the latter's instructions and will cooperate with him in all ways possible.

(1) If a private attorney, previously retained by the contractor, remains in the case, his activity will thereafter be governed by the wishes of the United States Attorney.

(2) The contractor should not retain private counsel as to law suits the Government undertakes to defend. Fees of attorneys retained before the Government is given an opportunity to defend, or retained in the contractor's employment after the United States Attorney undertakes defense, will not be reimbursable items.

(3) Whenever the employment of an attorney at a monthly salary on the contractor's regular pay roll is authorized, his salary will not be affected by his participation in such law suits, nor may it be increased by any fee for his services in the case insofar as reimbursement is concerned.

(4) Attorneys on the staffs of the District, or Division Engineers may, upon the request of a United States Attorney, cooperate with such officer in obtaining evidence or factual data for the defense of a suit. Such assistance will not extend to participation in the trial of the case.

(5) Contracting officers will not communicate with the local United States Attorney in connection with a suit filed against the contractor, nor will they advise the contractor to do so, until they have been so notified, as contemplated by these instructions.

(c) Suits covered by insurance. Whenever any leval action is fully covered by insurance and the insurance company agrees to accept full responsibility for the defense of the action and for the payment of any judgment that may be rendered against the defendant, neither notice nor report of such action will be made to the Judge Advocate General nor, in such cases, will any detailed report be made to the Chief of Engineers, the following information will be furnished to Office, Chief of Engineers, Attention: Legal Division, title of the action, name of the insurer, and a statement to the effect that the insurer has agreed to accept full responsibility for the defense of the action and the payment of any judgment against the defendant.

(d) Settlement of lawsuits. United States Attorneys have in the usual case, in suits they are authorized to defend, the authority to settle on behalf of the Government, but, as a matter of practice, such settlements are usually effected only after receiving the recommendations of the War Department. As to all claims which have gone to suit, no settlement is ordinarily consummated by United States Attorneys without the recommendation of the War Department through the Judge Advocate General. It is the practice of the Judge Advocate General to consult the chief of the technical service primarily concerned before making a recommendation on a question involving a proposed setlement. Requests for the consummation of settlements will be made by contracting officers through channels to the Chief of Engineers and will be accompanied by a full report containing the recommendations of the contracting officer.

(e) Reimbursement of expenditures arising from litigation. Authorization to settle does not imply that reimbursement in the full amount will be made; in some cases consent will be given with reservations as to reimbursement. Settlements will be considered for reimbursement under the paragraph of the contract which refers to "losses and expenses • • • (including settlements) • • • certified by the contracting officer to be just and reasonable." Settlement, as referred to in that paragraph does not contemplate that every agreement made will be considered just and reasonable. On the contrary, the line of demarcation in such cases is fairly clear; if the amount owing is definite, no reimbursement will be made for any amount in excess thereof which may be agreed to by the parties; reimbursement in full of a settlement will only be allowed when the full amount is clearly owing, or when a reasonable doubt exists as the amount owing and the amount of the settlement is found to be just and reasonable. The preceding sentence presupposes that the item in question is the proper subject of reimbursement under the contract. Expenses, attorney's fee, court costs, judgments, and settlements prior to judgments, or otherwise, will be considered by the Chief of Engineers, and if found to be appropriate, reimbursement will be authorized. Such expenses, incurred as to litigation the Government refuses to defend, will be considered for reimbursement only upon a definite showing that such reimbursement is proper.

(f) Certificate of contracting officer relating to reimbursement for settlement of claims and litigation. Upon approval of an amount paid under a settlement, and proof of payment by the contractor, reimbursement may be made, and the voucher therefor will be supported by a release from the claimant of all claims against the United States and the contractor in the matter involved. Such amount will be covered by a separate voucher, on which the appropriate officer will certify as follows:

I certify that the above amount represents a settlement made with the written consent of the contracting officer and represents a loss or expense actually sustained by the contractor in connection with work under Contract No. ---------, not compensated by insurance or otherwise, reimbursable under Article ..., paragraph ..., of said contract, and that the same is found to be just and reasonable. For the contracting officer.

(g) Termination of contracts. In connection with termination and final settlement of CPFF contracts, caution is to be exercised in the execution of any release or settlement agreement, in view of lawsuits against the contractor. The contractor's unliquidated liability as to any litigation arising in connection with his contract, pending at that time or which might be instituted in the future, should be reserved by a general exception for an unstated amount in any release he executes in favor of the government, and such liability should be excluded from that which the government might assume under a settlement agreement. Any other course of action is considered to be potentially detrimental to the government's interests in the conduct of the litigation, regardless of whether defense of same be handled by private counsel (such as when the Fair Labor Standards Act is involved) or by government counsel.

§ 210.86 Investigation procedure involving litigated and unlitigated claims under the Fair Labor Standards Act—(a) Policy. Any claim by present or former employees of fixed fee contractors for additional compensation alleged to be due under the Fair Labor Standards Act will be carefully investigated by the office of the Division or District Engineer. However, care will be exercised in the process of such investigation not to take any action which would convey any information or aid or assistance to the claimants or cause additional claims to be made against the Government. Furthermore, such claims not in litigation which appear to have been abandoned will not be investigated. Reports in triplicate covering such investigation will be submitted to the Chief of Engineers, Attention: Legal Division.

(b) Change in duties of claimant. A workweek will be the basis upon which claimant's activities are investigated. If his activities varied from week to week or if he was reclassified during the course of his employment, the pertinent information required above will be furnished with respect to each change in duties.

(c) Investigation of claims. In the preparation of the report, there should be an investigation of the records of the contractor and an interrogation of such of its supervisory or executive personnel as may be necessary. Interviewing claimants and fellow employees should not be necessary when the facts can otherwise be thoroughly developed; however, it may be necessary in some situations to interview claimants and their fellow employees; for example, if a question should arise concerning the amount of time devoted by the claimant to the performance of non-exempt work. It is imperative that accurate information be furnished as to the duties actually performed by a claimant, irrespective of his payroll title or the contractor's description of the claimant's duties under such payroll title.

(d) Tax deductions. (1) Upon settlement, by compromise or otherwise, of a claim (litigated or non-litigated) for overtime compensation under the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 an amount sufficient to defray Federal income and Social Security taxes, computed at current rates, will be withheld by the contractor from the amount of the settlement. Such deductions will be made, however, only from that portion of the settlement figure which represents compensation for wages earned; no deduction will be made from any portion of the settlement figure which represents payment of liquidated damages. The foregoing is in accordance with a ruling of The Bureau of Internal Revenue. (See I. T. 3742, Internal Revenue Bulletin No. 11, 1945, page 5.)

(2) The above deductions also will be made in cases where a claimant is claiming under assignments from one or more employees. In such event deductions will be calculated for each claim, taking into consideration the withholding exemptions, if any, filed with the contractor by the individual assignors.

(3) Claimants and their attorneys will be informed of the necessity of making the above deductions when settlement negotiations are commenced in order that such settlements will not be jeopardized through failure of the claimants or their attorneys, in the first instance, to understand that taxes must be withheld from the sums that have been agreed upon.

§ 210.87 Litigation procedure involving the Fair Labor Standards Act—(a) Policy. It is now the basic policy of the War Department not to provide Government counsel to fixed fee contractors for the defense of litigation involving the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938. Subject to certain exceptions hereinafter mentioned, litigation of this type is to be defended by private counsel to be selected by the contractor. Reference is made to the Revised Interdepartmental Agreement entered into by the interested Government agencies under date 1 November 1945.

(b) Action to be taken upon filing of suit. Immediately upon notification by the contractor of the filing of a suit involving the Fair Labor Standards Act, the contracting officer, in every case, will instruct the contractor to employ private counsel and will furnish the contractor with a copy of the Revised Interdepartmental Agreement, calling the attention of the contractor to the restrictions upon the plenary control of the litigation by private counsel set forth in paragraph 4 of the Revised Agreement and to the right of the United States Attorney at any time to intervene or be substituted as attorney for the contractor in the suit in the event such action is determined to be in the best interests of the Government. The contracting officer will also give the Litigation Division, Office of The Judge Advocate General, notice of the filing of the suit by teletype and will forward a copy of such teletype to Office, Chief of Engineers, Attention: Legal Division. If available the name and address of private counsel selected to defend the litigation will be included in this teletype, otherwise such name and address will be forwarded to The Judge Advocate General by air mail (with copy to OCE) as promptly as possible.

(c) Recommendation that the Government assume defense. If, because of the uniqueness or complexity of the issues involved in the case, the inadequacy of counsel selected by the contractor or other justifiable reason, the contracting officer is of the opinion that the interests of the Government will not be adequately protected by private counsel, the contracting officer (subsequent to instructing the contractor to employ private counsel) shall forward his recommendations with respect thereto, through channels, to the Chief of Engineers, Attention: Legal Division. Consideration will thereupon be given to the advisability of requesting the Department of Justice to intervene in the case pursuant to paragraph 6 of the Revised Interdepartmental Agreement.

(d) Cooperation with private counsel and United States Attorneys. It is expected that close cooperation, to the fullest extent consistent with available personnel, will be extended by District Engineers to private counsel with respect to the investigation of these claims and the compilation of pay roll and other data which private counsel might request. Similar cooperation will be extended to United States Attorneys in connection with cases being defended by the Department of Justice.

(e) Settlement of suits defended by private counsel. Attention is directed to paragraph 4 of the Revised Interdepartmental Agreement. When a settlement offer is received or proposed by private counsel, the concurrence of the local United States Attorney first shall be secured by private counsel. Thereupon, the settlement offer shall be submitted by private counsel to the contracting officer with his recommendation with respect thereto. Request for the consummation of such settlement thereupon will be made through channels to the Chief of Engineers, Attention: Legal Division, and will be accompanied by a full report containing the recommendations of the contracting officer.

(f) Attorneys' fees of private counsel. Provided that fees of private counsel are otherwise reimbursable under the terms of the fixed fee contract, reimbursement will be made to the contractor for reasonable fees of private counsel, together with costs and other necessary incidental expenses incurred in defending litigation of this type. Upon submission to the contracting officer of a request for reimbursement of such fees, costs and incidental expenses, said request will be transmitted through channels to the Chief of Engineers, Attention: Legal Division, and will be accompanied by a full report containing the recommendations of the contracting officer; the local United States Attorney should be consulted with respect thereto prior to submission to the Chief of Engineers.

(g) Agreement for Government representation. It will not be necessary to secure from the contractor a signed Agreement for Representation unless and until the Department of Justice should determine that it will intervene in the case.

§ 210.88 Settlement of litigated and unlitigated claims under the Fair Labor Standards Act—(a) General. Claims under the Fair Labor Standards Act not in litigation, when made by a present or former employee of a CPFF contractor or by the employee's attorney, that are submitted to the contractor or the contracting officer, will be fully investigated and promptly reported to the Chief of Engineers, Attention: Legal Division for consideration of payment. Such claims on which suit has been filed will be similarly reported so that consideration may be given to settlement before trial.

(b) The "Schulte" Case. (1) Attention is directed to the recent Supreme Court of the United States decision in the case of D. A. Schulte, Inc., vs. Salvatore Gangi et al., (14 Law Wk. 4339), decided 29 April 1946. In that decision the court ruled that a "bona fide settlement of a bona fide dispute over the coverage of the Act" may not be made for any amount less than the full sum specified in the Act; that is, the settlement figure must include the full wage payment plus the item of 100% liquidated damages. Bona fide disputes as to "coverage" will also include the question as to whether the employee is subject to the executive-administrative-professional exemption. The court infers that since these coverage questions involve an interpretation of the Act, they are questions of law, and that because of public policy there is no "consideration" to the employee for waiver of his legal right to receive full wages plus liquidated damages as to all back-pay owed him under the act. The fact that both employer and employee are honestly uncertain as to whether there has been a violation of the Act (as to whether he is "covered"), and the fact that any violation of the act by the employer was innocent and unintentional, are unimportant.

(2) From a practical standpoint, this means that in all future settlements with such claimants a full payment for liquidated damages must be made, and that as to past settlements where all of the wage item or liquidated damage item was not paid a suit will properly lie for the deficit.

(c) Manner of investigation. Because of the far-reaching effect of this decision, settlement of these claims and suits will be consummated with far more care than in the past, and more claimants than formerly will be forced to litigate their claims before payment will be made. Nevertheless, a strong effort will be made in every case to find a sound and legal basis for settlement, hence, these matters will be promptly reported.

(d) Compromise settlements. (1) Under the "Schulte" decision there are still several bases which appear to offer legally sound methods for compromise (payment of less than claimed); these would arise where any factual matter is honestly in dispute, such as: (i) Dispute as to the rate of pay (permitting compromise payment at the rate alleged by the contractor or at an intermediate rate), (ii) Dispute as to the number of hours of overtime actually worked (permitting compromise payment for the hours alleged by the contractor or for an intermediate number of hours), (iii) Dispute as to the character of work actually performed (permitting compromise payment to cover certain work-weeks but not others. (iv) Dispute as to facts which would bring an employee within the executive-administrative-professional exemption (permitting compromise payment to cover certain work-weeks but not others). (v) Dispute as to any other factual matter which would permit a compromise payment of less than is claimed.

(2) All payments of amounts due as wages (but not liquidated damages) under the act will be reduced in the normal manner for income and social security tax, etc.

(3) Though the wage payment item may vary in amount because of factual disputes as discussed above, once this item is fixed, the settlement payment must include an equal amount as liquidated damages. To preclude the reasserting of claims thus settled, it is imperative that the release obtained recite fully and specifically all points involved, including a detailed description of the employee's duties, any variance in such duties as to certain work-weeks, the facts admitted by both parties, the facts in dispute and the compromise agreement as to such dispute, the amount agreed upon as the wage payment, and the fact that an equal amount as liquidated damages is being paid. Under no circumstances will the release recite any dispute or doubt as to "coverage", or the applicability of the executive-administrative-professional exemption; as to disputes such as described in subparagraph (1) (iii) and (iv), of this paragraph, the release will recite that on the facts of the case as to certain job-duties both parties agree that there is "coverage" but as to other specified job-duties both parties agree that there is no "coverage". If the claimant is represented by an attorney, the release should be signed by both.

(4) For all cases involving an administrative claim where payment thereof is made, a release as outlined in subparagraph b above will be obtained. For all cases in litigation (whether upon examination at the institution of suit, or upon proposed settlement pending trial) where a settlement payment thereof is made, a stipulation of facts will be drawn and filed with the court, and will include full recitals in the manner described for releases in subparagraph b above. This stipulation of fact will form the basis for the judgment of the court. In both types of cases where the contracting officer recommends payment (or considers it likely that the Chief of Engineers will decide in favor of payment), on the basis of compromise settlement or otherwise, he will forward with his report a draft of the release or stipulation (as the case may be) proposed to be executed in the event of payment.

(5) Because no part of the liquidated damages may be refused the claimant under this decision of the court, and because attorney's fees are only required under the act to be paid in litigated cases, the following policy will be followed: (i) Under administrative claims, no amount will be paid in addition to the wage payment plus the liquidated damage payment. (ii) In litigated cases, an attorney fee will be paid, and when necessary to induce settlement, reasonable costs will be paid; the attorney fee should be small, preferably no more than 10 or 15 percent of the settlement figure, since the legal services rendered claimant are comparatively nominal before trial; such additional payments will be itemized in the stipulation and in the judgment.

(e) Full payment of amount claimed. In the case of claims where it is decided that there is full agreement on all material facts as between the contractor and the employee, that the employee was during all periods claimed-for "covered" by the act, and that therefore full payment of his claim as filed should be made, the release or stipulation obtained will nevertheless contain full recitals as outlined above, to preclude the future presentation of an enlarged claim.

(f) Re-opening of past settlements. Cases of past settlement on administrative claims that are reasserted for additional payment of liquidated damages require discreet handling on the part of the contracting officer and the contractor and their staffs, so that this type of claim will not be unduly encouraged, and the field offices will not thereby be unnecessarily "flooded" with such claims, many of which might be spurious. Nevertheless, the decision in the "Schulte" case is directed specifically at this type of matter, so that bona fide demands of this category must be honored, except as to those prior settlements which were actually consummated on the basis of a dispute of fact. Careful analysis will be made of such cases before reporting same to the Chief of Engineers so that it may be established what items made up the prior settlement payment; in other words, it must be determined what amount represented the wage payment, so that any additional amount that was paid to induce settlement can be taken as a credit against present payment of the 100% liquidated damages item. In such matters, the report will include a statement as to the local Statute of Limitations.

(g) Clearance with U. S. Attorney. As to claims in litigation, the propriety of settlement, the terms thereof, and the draft of the stipulation of facts, will be cleared with the local U. S. Attorney. Because each release or stipulation will have unique application to the claim it covers, the use of standardized forms therefor is discouraged.

Brigadier General,

SUBPART A—ACQUISITION OF TITLE TO LANDS AND INTERESTS THEREIN BY PURCHASE, CONDEMNATION, TRANSFER FROM OTHER GOVERNMENT AGENCIES AND LEASE

§ 211.1 Authorization of project—(a) Civil works projects. Generally, river and harbor improvements, and projects for flood control and allied purposes are initiated by an Act of Congress authorizing or directing the Secretary of War to cause preliminary examinations and surveys to be made at specified localities. On the basis of such preliminary examination of surveys, a particular plan of flood control or river and harbor improvement is prepared by the Corps of Engineers, and the plan is submitted to Congress in the form of a report. If Congress approves the plan, appropriate legislation is enacted, authorizing the prosecution of a particular project and authorizing the appropriation of funds therefor. Federal participation in the acquisition of land or interests therein required for authorized projects is governed by the general provisions contained in Flood Control or River and Harbor Acts or by specific provisions contained in the recommendations of the Department upon which the authorization of the project is based.

(1) River and harbor projects. As a general rule, local interests are required to furnish free of cost to the United States all lands, easements and rights-of-way required for navigation improvements, such as the widening and deepening of existing waterways, rock and soil removal, and the construction of dikes, bulkheads, jetties and revetment works. River and Harbor improvements also include construction of artificial waterways, the widening of such waterways and the construction of locks and dams. The United States acquires the necessary lands, easements and rights-of-way for these improvements at its expense.

(2) Flood control projects. For local flood protection projects, except channel improvement or channel rectification projects authorized by the Flood Control Acts of 1936, 1937 and 1938, local interests must provide without cost to the United States all lands, easements, and rights-of-way necessary for the construction of the project, hold and save the United States free from damages due to the construction works and maintain and operate all the works after completion in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary of War. Channel improvements and channel rectification projects authorized by the Acts of 1936, 1937 and 1938, are built entirely at Federal expense and no local cooperation is required. Exceptions to these rules are provided by law in the case of certain specific projects. Dam and Reservoir projects are constructed entirely at the expense of the United States and are maintained and operated with the use of Federal funds. No local cooperation is required for dam and reservoir projects unless specifically prescribed by special provision of law.

(b) Military projects. Lands or interests therein required for military projects are acquired pursuant to authority contained in the Act of Congress approved 2 July 1917, as amended, (50 U. S. C. 171), or under authority contained in specific Acts of Congress. Funds are generally made available for the acquisition of such lands in the War Department Fiscal Year Appropriation Act. Upon selection of a particular site by the using service, the Division Engineer is directed to prepare a Real Estate Planning Report, setting forth briefly all pertinent facts and present market value of the land proposed for acquisition. The Real Estate Planning Report is submitted to the Chief of Engineers, Washington, D. C., for review and submission to higher echelons for determination of a military necessity to acquire the land or interests therein.

§ 211.2 Approval of project—(a) Civil Works Projects. Upon allocation of funds for the commencement of work at an authorized project, the Division Engineer concerned is directed to prepare a Real Estate Planning Report covering the required lands, which report is transmitted to the Chief of Engineers for review and approval. Upon such approval, the Division Engineer is authorized to proceed with the acquisition by negotiation and, in the event an option satisfactory to both the landowner and the Government cannot be secured, then to recommend the acquisition by the filing of condemnation proceedings.

(b) Military projects. When the Under Secretary of War determines that a military necessity exists for the acquisition of land, the Chief of Engineers is directed to proceed with the acquisition thereof. Upon issuance of the directive, the Chief of Engineers authorizes the Division Engineer concerned to proceed with the acquisition of the desired interests by negotiation and in the event an option satisfactory to both the landowner and the Government cannot be secured, then to recommend the acquisition by filing of condemnation proceedings.

§ 211.3 Acquisition of land—(a) General. Where it has been determined to acquire a property in fee or other interests therein, it is the policy of the War Department to secure title to the interest to be acquired by direct negotiations wherever possible. Circumstances frequently require, however, that acquisition be accomplished by the filing of condemnation proceedings. There are, in general, four classes of cases where condemnation should be recommended:

(1) Where possession is required for construction or other purposes before an option or lease can be negotiated and accepted, or a right of entry obtained, particularly where a necessity exists for immediate use of the land.

(2) Where an option or lease satisfactory to the Department cannot be negotiated.

(3) Where title defects, which render title unacceptable for purchase or lease, cannot be eliminated at a reasonable cost or within a reasonable period of time.

(4) Where an owner who has executed an option or lease fails or refuses to carry out the terms thereof.

(b) Purchase. As indicated in paragraph (a) of this section, it is the policy of the War Department to secure title to lands or the desired interest by direct negotiation; and also to protect the interest of both landowner and tenant insofar as possible. In negotiating for an option the tenant is considered a proper party to the transaction and every effort is made to obtain the consent of the landowner and the tenant to the price to be paid the tenant for his leasehold interest. Where this arrangement is made, payment for the tenant's interest can be made to him at the time of closing of the purchase transaction. As set forth herein each tract of land to be acquired by the War Department is appraised by qualified appraisers for the purpose of determining the present market value of the fee simple title or such interest to be acquired by the War Department. When authority is granted for the acquisition, the Division Engineer concerned is authorized to negotiate an option in an amount not to exceed the approved appraised value. Options will not be negotiated containing reservations or exceptions by landowners or subject to outstanding rights in third parties, which may interfere with the use of the land for the purpose for which it is being acquired. In no case will an option be negotiated in which a vendor excepts or reserves the right to repurchase the property, or undertakes to convey subject to such rights in a third party. Generally, landowners or tenants are authorized to reserve or except from the sale, crops, timber, buildings and improvements, with the right to remove same within a specified period, provided such buildings, etc., are not required for the use of the War Department and such reservations and exceptions meet the approval of the Division Engineer concerned. Land is acquired subject to public highways, roads, railroads, pipelines and other utilities, and if it be determined that they interfere with the Government's use of the property, will be relocated or extinguished by contract between the Government and State, county or utility company involved. When an option satisfactory to both the landowner and the Government is obtained, the option is accepted by the Division Engineer concerned and the landowner notified of such acceptance. In any case where the option deviates from the standard approved forms or contains unusual conditions or the consideration recited therein is in an amount in excess of the approved appraised value, the option must be transmitted to the Office of the Chief of Engineers for consideration prior to acceptance thereof by the Division Engineer. Upon acceptance of an option, title evidence in form approved by the Attorney General of the United States is procured by the Division Engineer, as the expense of the Government, and in all cases, with the exception of easements costing not in excess of $100, must be transmitted to the Attorney General of the United States for his title opinion in accordance with the provisions of section 355, Revised statutes of the United States (40 U. S. C. 255). In the event the Attorney General's opinion indicates that the landowner can convey a valid title to the United States, the Division Engineer concerned takes necessary action to perfect the title in accordance with the opinion of the Attorney General and thereafter records the executed deed from the landowner to the United States together with such other curative instruments deemed necessary. At the time of closing all liens and incumbrances must be satisfied of record by the landowner or the amount or amounts necessary to satisfy such liens or incumbrances be deducted from the purchase price check. The cost of recording the deed from the landowner to the United States is borne by the Government, however, any instrument releasing or discharging mortgages, deeds of trust, judgments, mechanics liens or similar instruments of record, must be paid by the vendor, unless the option or contract to purchase expressly provides to the contrary. The deed to the United States should be a general warranty deed, except in the case of conveyances by states, municipal corporations, fiduciaries, and other persons acting solely in a representative capacity. The deed should conform to the requirements of the "Regulations for the Preparation of Title Evidence in Land Acquisitions by the United States", issued by the Department of Justice on January 1, 1946. The deed to the United States should have affixed sufficient documentary revenue stamps and be paid for by the landowner and properly cancelled at the time of the recording of the deed. At the time of the execution of the option or subsequent thereto, the landowner will be required to sign Standard Form 1024 "Public Voucher for Purchase and Services other than Personal", in order that the Division Engineer may obtain the purchase price check in the amount of the consideration recited in the accepted option contract. When the title to the land is satisfactory in all respects and the deed from the landowner to the Government has been recorded, the closing attorney of the Office of the Division Engineer is authorized to deliver the purchase price check to the landowner and obtain receipt therefor. After recordation of the deed, the Division Engineer has the title evidence extended to a date subsequent to the recordation of the deed from the landowner to the United States indicating that title to the land is vested in the United States of record and thereafter transmits all title papers to the Attorney General of the United States for further review and rendition of a final title opinion indicating that a valid title to the land under consideration is vested in the United States. The final opinion of the Attorney General and related title papers are transmitted to the Secretary of War and permanently filed in the office of the Judge Advocate General. If at any time in the course of acquisition by direct purchase, it becomes apparent that acquisition by direct purchase will involve substantial delay or cannot be accomplished, action is taken to acquire the land by condemnation as outlined in paragraph (c) of this section.

(c) Acquisition by condemnation—(1) Filing of a condemnation petition. After funds have been allocated for the acquisition of land for a Civil Works project or where the Under Secretary of War has determined that a military necessity exists for the acquisition of land for a military project, and there is a need for obtaining possession of the Project area or certain segments thereof so that construction may not be delayed, condemnation proceedings must frequently be instituted for the purpose of obtaining legal possession of the lands before tract ownership data, tract surveys, and tract appraisals can be made and before it can be ascertained whether the owners are willing to sell or lease the lands to the United States. Under such circumstances, the Secretary of War requests the Attorney General to file a condemnation petition and procure an order from the Court granting to the United States the right of immediate possession. As soon as the condemnation petition is filed with the Court, representatives of the Division Engineer make every effort to acquire the land by direct negotiations. Where a satisfactory option contract is obtained and accepted by the United States or where a satisfactory lease is obtained and approved by the War Department covering all or part of the land included in the condemnation proceeding, the War Department requests the Department of Justice to dismiss from the proceeding the tracts of land which are purchased or leased.

(2) Applicability of declaration of taking act. The Declaration of Taking Act (40 U. S. C. A. secs. 258a-d) makes provision for the filing of a declaration of taking in conjunction with condemnation proceedings and provides that title to the interest in the land included in the declaration of taking vests in the United States immediately upon the filing of the declaration of taking with the Court and the deposit of the Government's estimate of compensation named in the declaration of taking in the registry of the Court. Therefore, title to a tract of land or lesser interest therein will vest in the United States if the declaration of taking which describes the land is filed with the Court in conjunction with the condemnation proceeding and the Government's estimate of the value of the land is deposited with the Court. It is the policy of the War Department to promptly file declarations of taking on tracts of land included in the condemnation proceeding and deposit the Government's estimate of the value of the land with the Court where (i) an option or a lease satisfactory to the Government cannot be negotiated with the landowner (ii) where title defects, which render title unacceptable to the Government, cannot be eliminated at a reasonable cost or within a reasonable period of time and (iii) where a landowner has executed an option or lease and fails or refuses to carry out the terms thereof. The Government's estimate of compensation which is deposited in the registry of the Court at the time the declaration of taking is filed with the Court is commensurate with the value of the land as established by War Department appraisals.

(a) Payment of money on deposit with court to landowner. Under the provisions of the Declaration of Taking Act the Court may enter orders directing payment of the money on deposit with the Court or a part thereof to the former owner of the land or other persons having an interest therein. The local Department of Justice representative in the Federal Judicial District where the land is located will assist landowners in drawing up the necessary papers so that all or part of the money can be withdrawn from the Court, after he has examined the title evidence covering the land, and will assist in procuring a disbursement check from the Clerk of the Court after payment has been ordered by the Court. Such payment to a landowner is without prejudice to his right to seek a higher value for his land in the trial of the case before the Court.

(b) Conduct of negotiations with landowners after filing of declarations of taking. Since the prosecution of the condemnation proceeding is within the jurisdiction of the Department of Justice, negotiations for settlement of the price to be paid for the land and other matters in connection with the acquisition of the land is the responsibility of the local representative of the Department of Justice in the Federal Judicial District where the land is located. Therefore, when a landowner is notified by the Department of Justice that a declaration of taking has been filed with the Court which includes his land, he should communicate with the local representative of the Department of Justice in connection with settlement or trial of the case or other matters relating thereto. In many instances representatives of the Division Engineers negotiate for settlement or other matters relating to the proceeding under the direction of the Justice Department field representative. In the event a price to be paid for the land is agreed upon as a result of negotiations between a landowner and representatives of the Department of Justice and the Division Engineer, the settlement is presented to the Justice Department in Washington for approval. After obtaining the recommendation of the Chief of Engineers in Washington, the Department of Justice issues instructions to its local representative relative to his authority to settle the case. Other matters in regard to prosecution of the proceeding are handled in the same manner.

(d) Transfer of land. Frequently it is necessary for the War Department to utilize lands under the jurisdiction of other Government agencies. In such event the Under Secretary of War determines that a military necessity exists for the use of such land by obtaining a permanent transfer, or a use permit, under such conditions as may be agreed upon between the War Department and the controlling Government agency. When a directive has been issued for the transfer or use of such lands, the Secretary of War makes written request upon the head of the Government agency concerned requesting the use of the desired lands. Where a transfer is desired, such transfer is effected under applicable legislative authority or in the absence of such authority, a permit is obtained pending enactment of specific legislation by the Congress. In the case of public domain under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior, such land is generally withdrawn and set aside for the use of the War Department by Executive Order or a Public Land Order. In cases where only the temporary use of the land is desired, a use permit is usually obtained from the controlling Government agency.

(e) Leases. (1) Request for acquisition by lease will be initiated only by the Commander of the Army Ground Forces, Army Air Forces and such subordinate commands as he may designate; commander of an army area; commander of overseas department and commands; the chief of an administrative or technical service, and such other persons as the Chief of Engineers may designate.

(2) Except as hereinafter provided all leases and similar instruments must be approved by the Chief of Engineers or his authorized representative. The Chief of Engineers or his duly authorized representative, has authority to execute and approve all leases and similar instruments for the acquisition of temporary use for military purposes, of interest in real estate within the continental limits of the United States, except (i) any single lease or other instrument involving an estimated annual rental of more than $50,000, (ii) cases which are controversial, unusual, or which appear inconsistent with War Department policies, which leases must receive the approval of the Under Secretary of War.

(3) The following classes of leases are authorized to be made by local commanders without approval by higher authority, when funds are available and the rental consideration conforms to the prevailing rate in the locality concerned.

(i) Leases for hire of camp sites, buildings and grounds for troops; office and storage space for small detachments; garage space; and space for recruiting stations; provided the premises are to be occupied not longer than 3 months, and the rental for the entire period of occupancy is $500 or less; or

(ii) Commanding generals of defense commands within the continental limits of the United States, through their rents and claims boards or other units designated by them, are authorized to negotiate leases and agreements involving rentals not in excess of $500 per annum where immedate possession or expeditious action is necessary to acquire the use of premises for the activities of their commands, and are charged with the processing of all instruments, including renewals, terminations, and payments of all rentals thereunder. Leases and renewals will conform with applicable laws, regulations, and provisions of the Real Estate Manual of the Chief of Engineers.

(iii) The Division Engineer will appoint representatives of his real estate and repairs and utilities branches to serve with each rents and claims board or unit in cases where he deems such representation desirable. Monthly reports of all leases, renewals, and terminations, showing location, lessor, purpose, annual rental, and terms, will be furnished in duplicate to the division engineer, one copy of which will be forwarded to the Chief of Engineers. In all instances where requests involve an annual rental in excess of $500, such requests will be forwarded to the appropriate division engineer for consideration and necessary action.

SUBPART B—REAL ESTATE APPRAISALS

§ 211.11 Policies and standards. (a) The general policies and appraisal standards hereinafter outlined will govern all appraisal work undertaken in connection with all Real Estate transactions.

(b) In acquiring real estate, or any interest therein, it is the policy of the War Department impartially to protect the interest of all concerned. To pursue this policy, a detailed appraisal report (s) reflecting a sound estimate of the market value of each property will be made by competent appraisers selected because of adequate experience and demonstrated good judgment in estimating market value of the particular property type involved. When appraisals have been made considerably in advance of the date of possession they will be carefully reviewed and brought up to date in order to reflect current market conditions. It is, however, incumbent upon the appraiser to recognize the general market value trends and carefully to consider the value of the property if offered for sale over a reasonable period of time.

(c) Where an entire ownership is being acquired the owner is entitled to the market value thereof at the time of taking. Where only a portion of an ownership is being acquired the owner is entitled to the market value thereof plus an amount equivalent to any diminution in market value of the remaining ownership directly resulting because of separate ownership and control of the severed parcels.

(d) It is the policy of the Corps of Engineers to engage the services of competent local appraisers and consultants to participate in the appraisal of lands to be acquired at the expense of the United States for Civil Works Projects. Reference is made to Chapter X, Orders and Regulations, wherein provisions are made for employment of such assistance.

(e) The appraiser must bear in mind that he may be called upon, in condemnation proceedings or otherwise, to establish the validity and competence of his estimates. He must therefore familiarize himself with and be guided by basic rules of trial evidence so that his testimony will be admissible and of probative value. Since, as a witness, he must be prepared to offer convincing testimony his report should contain an analysis of all factual data upon which his estimates are based.

(f) Local representatives of the Department of Justice are available for consultation in matters pertaining to acquisitions and their advice will be followed as to legal principles involved in valuation problems.

(g) Appraised valuations and the supporting appraisal reports are confidential departmental information and the appraiser must not divulge his findings and opinions to anyone except authorized officials of the Government.

(h) The material contained in this Section is not presented for the purpose of limiting the scope of appraisal investigations nor to bias the independent judgment or value estimates of appraisers engaged by the War Department, but rather to encourage uniformity of thought in approaching the solution of the many appraisal problems that are constantly arising in the field of real property valuation and to point out the necessity for the appraiser to include in his appraisal report adequate supporting data and other factual information used in the development of his market value estimate in order to permit an intelligent review of the appraisals which serve as the basis for compensation for the taking of private properties for public use.

§ 211.12 Market value—(a) Considerations affecting market value. The criterion for just compensation is the fair market value of the property at time of taking. "Fair Market Value" is defined as the amount in cash, or on terms reasonably equivalent to cash, for which in all probability the property would be sold by an owner willing but not obliged to sell to a purchaser who desires but is not obliged to buy. In ascertaining that figure, consideration should be given to all matters that might be brought forward and reasonably given substantial weight in bargaining by persons of ordinary prudence. (Department of Justice Circular No. 3534; Bulletin No. 14, June 23, 1942.)

(b) Cost vs. value. (1) Cost has been defined as the amount of money required to produce some commodity or structure such as an apartment house or office building. The value of such a property is the amount of money it may command in the open market in competition with other similar properties if exposed to sale. The two amounts may often be at wide variance. This market phenomenon exists because any well informed purchaser would not be likely to pay more for a property than the price at which he could either construct a similar one or acquire another equally as satisfying to his personal needs or investment requirement with equal safety to his capital outlay. Where a building is designed to produce a stream of income, matters for primary consideration are the measure of profit that can reasonably be expected over the estimated remaining useful life of the buildings, the measure of risk to capital investment and the present worth of the residual value of the site when the remaining useful life of the building has expired.

(2) The appraiser should bear in mind that his purpose is to estimate the market value of the property as a whole and that a summation of the depreciated replacement cost of the building and other elements on a cost basis are merely one method of approach to the appraisal problem and at best this cost study represents the maximum range of possible values.

(c) The market value problem. The proper approach to an appraisal problem is generally determined by the type, character, and most profitable use to which the property is adaptable, the purpose of the appraisal and the terms and conditions under which the proposed acquisition is to be made. These factors also tend to indicate the kind, type, and amount of data to be assembled, verified and analyzed before the appraiser is in position effectively to plan the appraisal process as a foundation to his market value estimate. It is from these considerations that the appraiser is enabled to adopt an orderly process of appraisal and it is essential that he be fully informed as the purpose of his appraisal and all terms and conditions of the proposed acquisition prior to undertaking the assignment.

§ 211.13 Appraisal methods—(a) Importance of the function. (1) The measure of success or failure in any real estate transaction is inseparably bound up in the matter of price. The heart of the real estate business is therefore the price estimate or appraisal and this is a function that tends to place the real estate transaction on a higher and more difficult plane than those concerned with dealing in expendable commodities where the field of exact duplication is practically unlimited and supply or production is fully capable of seasonal control to meet demand.

(2) The importance of sound appraisals for the War Department cannot be over-emphasized, not only because the Courts have established basic rules governing exercise of the power of eminent domain, but because of the governmental obligation to serve the general public and to protect the common welfare in such manner as to meet the acid test of severe criticism of methods employed in estimating compensation for the taking of private property for public use.

(b) An appraisal is an "estimate." The market value of a parcel of real estate is not a matter for exact determination and the appraiser does not "establish" the value. An appraisal is an "estimate" based upon and supported by a study of all factors, physical, economic and social, influencing the present and future benefits to be derived from the ownership of the property appraised.

(c) The comparative method. (1) The comparative method of appraisal is the most direct approach to the market value estimate. It contemplates a translation of market implications and in common with other appraisal processes is concerned with the Principle of Substitution which, when reduced to the term "monetary consideration" is simply a price at which an equally desirable similar property can be had.

(2) This method is preferred above all others. It is the simplest, most frequently used, and best understood of all valuation concepts. Under ideal circumstances, this method of appraisal comes nearest to reducing the appraisal problem to the point of least approximation.

(3) This process contemplates the compilation and analysis of all evidences of value with recent actual sales of similar properties a predominating comparative influence when all the terms, circumstances, and conditions under which such transfers were made are known to the appraiser.

(4) Obviously the comparative method of appraisal can be employed only when there is sufficient reasonably current market data available to serve as comparative basic evidence of the soundness of the reasoning developed from the market value implications drawn from the market prices of comparable properties.

(d) The income method (economic approach). (1) Many types of real property are designed primarily to produce a stream of income in the form of rent. Foremost in this investment field are retail shops, office buildings, hotels, apartment houses and various types of housing developments. The income method of appraisal is of particular significance in approaching the market value of all properties in the Rental Field.

(2) The market value of an income producing property is ordinarily governed by the profit it will produce the owner and a prospective purchaser is primarily concerned with: (i) the quantity and quality of net profit; (ii) the period of time over which that profit can be expected (remaining profitable life of the improvements); and (iii) the safety of his capital investment.

(3) The keynote of the income approach lies in the sound development of a proper capitalization rate, to apply to the income produced by the property. The principle weakness in this method of appraisal lies in the margin of error that is ever present in the rate selection after the income stream has been properly estimated and stabilized.

(4) The appraiser is first concerned with establishing a sound basis for stabilizing the expected earnings of the property over the estimated remaining life of the improvements and care must be exercised to discount rentals or other property income that may appear to be at temporary levels. Once the stream estimate is satisfactorily stabilized, the value of that income is estimated by employing a capitalization process which must be consistent with the hazards involved. The risk to the capital investment is commensurate with the liquidation possibilities or salability of the property, the probable ratio of vacancies, cost of maintenance, and all other charges payable by the land owner or any other factors having to do with depletion of capital investment. The capitalization process then becomes a comparative calculation based upon the relative merits of available competitive forms of investment. The capitalization rate employed must produce a result which is sufficiently attractive to induce a capital investment in the property by an informed prospective purchaser.

(e) The cost data method. (1) The cost approach to the market value estimate is based upon the theory that a parcel of improved real property will command a price on the open market equal to the summation of the market value of the site, assuming it to be vacant, plus the present depreciated cost to reproduce the improvements on the land. The process is often referred to in appraisal parlance as the summation method and the reproduction less depreciation method. The result is often referred to as "physical value."

(2) This method involves an estimate of the market value of the land, without reference to the buildings thereon, by the comparative or market data method followed by estimate of the cost to construct identical improvements less the estimated depreciation. The result is then added to the land value to complete the process.

(3) The margin for error in the use of this method is aptly illustrated by comparison of actual costs to construct identical buildings on sites having different soil conditions where the difference in the cost of excavation and foundation footings may run into many thousands of dollars, with no appreciable difference at all in the cost of the usable building areas.

(4) It is therefore seen that the cost estimate approach to market value cannot be divorced entirely from other methods of appraisal, not only because the method contemplates the land estimate from the market data approach but because all cost estimates are ordinarily developed by comparison with the cost of other similar structures. This fact is further demonstrated by comparison with the variance of cost estimates made by competing contractors for the same construction job. These facts serve to emphasize the necessity for the competent appraiser to keep himself fully informed as to the trend of material and labor costs, architects fees, and current costs of financing the construction job during the period of construction.

(5) The cost method of appraisal tends to fix an upper limit on the market value estimate. The method is of real importance in those cases where the buildings on the lands appraised are ideally suited to the most profitable use of the land and the method is never more reliable than the appraiser's treatment of the depreciation problem.

(6) In estimating building costs it is necessary to reduce the building volume to an appropriate price unit or units. Acceptable results may be had in some instances of employing the square foot method, particularly in certain building types, where the ceiling heights are uniform. However, where the construction is more complicated, the cubic foot method should invariably be followed as it tends to reduce the margin of possible error in the estimate.

(7) The cost approach to market value plays a very important part in the appraisal of many types of property, but it can never be utilized independently of other methods except under the ideal condition where the buildings are 100% suited to the highest and best use to which the land is adaptable and there is no market data available indicating to the contrary.

(f) Correlation of the methods. (1) The above discussions relating to appraisal methods or processes merely serve to point out the necessity for the appraiser to consider the appraisal problem from all possible angles prior to formulating his final market value estimate and to suggest that the appraiser's function is not satisfactorily completed until he has carefully weighed the respective merits of the various value implications to be derived from comparisons with market prices and other data relating to similar property against the cost of replacement and against the capitalization value of the income possibilities of the property appraised.

(2) In those cases where there is a marked spread between values indicated by market data, income, and cost, the appraiser is cautioned to check his figures for accuracy and apply the acid test of reasonableness. The income method particularly suggests a recheck of the soundness of the capitalization rate, the cost method suggests a recheck of the depreciation factor, and the market data method suggests further verification and analysis of the basic data, particularly as to the terms and conditions under which key transactions have occurred.

(3) It is from these considerations that the appraiser's final estimate of market value becomes of real importance and if the appraisal report is prepared accordingly, it should serve as documentary evidence to satisfactorily fortify the actions of those who must act upon the appraiser's judgment.

§ 211.14 Special considerations—(a) Depreciation—(1) General. Depreciation is a broad term employed to express decline or loss based on cost or value of a tangible asset. The real estate appraiser, in his search for market value, is concerned with establishing a sound basis of depreciation treatment insofar as it affects the market value of a property as a whole and his concern with depreciated cost is merely incidental in arriving at his final estimate of market value. Depreciation is usually capable of expression in terms of money and its encroachment on the market value of real property may result from any one or all of its component factors.

(2) Physical deterioration. Physical deterioration is a form of depreciation which occurs within the property itself. It is a factor that is constantly at work on all man made structures. It occurs from wear and tear in use, decay, exposure to climatic elements and to structural defects. Most all recognized authorities are in full accord as to both cause and effect of this form of depreciation. Depreciation from this cause may be substantially cured or its encroachment indefinitely postponed by maintenance, repair or replacement.

(3) Functional obsolescence. Functional obsolenscence is also a form of depreciation occurring in the structure itself, due to antiquated design, appearance, poor arrangement of floor plan, room sizes, ceiling heights, and lack of operational desirability. A structure suffering from functional obsolescence is often classified as an under or over improvement. Since this form of depreciation occurs within the building itself, it may to some degree be cured by additional capital expenditure for modernization where the basic building plan and the structural condition permit.

(4) Economic obsolescence. Economic obsolescence is a basic factor for estimating market value which contemplates a downward price level adjustment that is not concerned with the physical condition of real property improvements. It has to do not only with the value of the particular property itself but with all unfavorable economic influences on the value of competing properties. It occurs primarily from a reduction in adaptability to a lower use. Among other causes it may arise from changes in legislation, the encroachment of noxious enterprises or inharmonious neighbors, shifting business centers and decline in opportunities for gainful employment, etc. Depreciation caused by legislation is aptly illustrated by the decline in value of property adapted to the liquor industry when the manufacture and sale of that commodity was prohibited, or what would probably happen to the market value of a profitably operated race track if the pari-mutuel betting system became outlawed.

(5) Depreciation rates. The appraisal function embraces estimates of the relative degree to which accrued depreciation has affected the market value of comparable competing properties and also to estimate the remaining useful life of improvements or future rate of depreciation. Since both physical deterioration and functional obsolescence may be cured or offset by adoption of an adequate policy of maintenance, repair and modernization, it follows that age alone is a poor guide in estimating accrued depreciation or in providing a basis for the estimate of future profitable life.

Both accrued and remainder depreciation rates can be reliably estimated only from observation, past experience and the exercise of sound judgment resulting from an exhaustive survey of the premises with consideration to operating policies pertaining to maintenance, repair and replacements and other pertinent evidence. Straight line depreciation rates or useful life tables based upon average standards of construction and the passage of time are, at best, rule of thumb guides which are to be used with caution as they may lead to serious miscalculations. The Bureau of Internal Revenue of the United States Treasury has available for distribution a publication designated as Bulletin "F", which contains such valuable information on the subject of average depreciation rates and average useful lives of buildings and building equipment for practically all types of property in general use. This publication is suggested for consideration but not prescribed for use in any particular case.

(b) Severance damage. Severance damage occurs only when there is a taking of a part of a common ownership and as a direct result of that taking the market value of the portion of the ownership not taken is diminished. Severance damage can accrue only where there exists identity of ownership, unity of use and physical contiguity.

Severance damage is not properly a part of the market value of that portion of the ownership to be acquired; hence the necessity for reporting such damage as a separate item. The measure of that damage can be computed only after the fair market value of the entire ownership, the portion taken, and the remainder are estimated. In order to insure uniformity in reporting severance damage, the following example will be used for general guidance.

SEVERANCE DAMAGE

The parcel taken comprises 214 acres of a farm unit of 420 acres with buildings appropriate to the operation of the whole.
Value before taking 420 acres		$42,000
Value of portion taken, 214 acres	$16,000
Value of remainder, 206 acres	22,000
420 acres	38,000	38,000
The severance damage		4,000

Discussion. Adequate explanation of the damage is of paramount importance. Full details as to how the taking operates to lessen the market value of the remaining portion should be reported.

Where the appraiser cannot satisfactorily demonstrate the operation of the damage element, the probability of actual damage is questionable.

Some causes of severance damage are:

(1) Reduction in the highest and best use of remainder.

(2) Resulting insufficiency of remainder physically to support the normal operation.

(3) Distortion in plottage or shape which handicaps normal use.

(4) Loss of access to transportation facilities, roads, streets, rails, and water.

(5) Fencing the residual land along the taking line, if essential cost to owner.

Severance damage contemplates a physical, actual, and immediate interference with the normal highest and best use of that portion of the ownership not to be acquired.

The appraiser will indicate on the tract map submitted with each appraisal involving severance damage the actual boundary lines of the entire ownership. The map should also show the principal physical features which give rise to the severance damage.

(c) Rental value. Appraisals to establish fair rental values will be made in accordance with acceptable standards of appraisal applicable to the particular type of property and in accordance with general appraisal policies and procedure heretofore prescribed as relating to all appraisal work.

The fair rental value of a property is the amount which in a competitive market a well-informed and willing lessee would pay and which a well-informed and willing lessor would accept for the temporary use and enjoyment of the property.

Where temporary use of an entire building or other independent unit of an ownership is proposed, the appraisal will ordinarily report both the market value of the fee title and the fair annual rental value.

Where appraisals are required to establish rental value of a minor portion of a building, it will not be necessary to estimate the fee value of the entire property. A sound rental value can ordinarily be estimated by comparison with established rentals in subject property and in adjacent similar properties in the community. However, care should be exercised to insure the reasonableness of the reported rental value and the appraiser's report must include sufficient data as to current rentals adequately to support the rental estimate.

Where the premises to be acquired are occupied by tenants under leases which cannot be terminated at will by the landlord, the appraiser's report will set forth in detail the terms of the existing leases and will show the value of the tenants interest. The value of the tenant's interest is the fair rental value of the part of the property occupied by the tenant for the unexpired term of the lease, or for the term condemned, whichever is shorter, less the rent which the tenant is obligated to pay under the existing lease.

The appraisal report will contain adequate facts and discussions relating to the following:

Land description, showing street frontages and lot depths.

Adequate description of improvements and furnishings, including type of construction, total floor space, floor load for storage space, number of rentable rooms, or income-producing space, nonproductive or public space, total cubic content, and reproduction cost of improvements less depreciation.

Assessed valuation and lawful ratio to market value.

Analysis and discussions of current rentals of similar properties and rental history of the property appraised.

Discussion of the appraisal process and rental rates applicable to the terms of the proposed lease, particularly as to any differential in the rate of return applicable to customary long term rentals.

Statement showing distribution of appraised annual rental as allocated to fixed charges and fair rate of return on land, buildings, and any furnishings or equipment that are included in the proposed taking.

Appraisals to estimate the rental value of hotels, clubs, hospitals, and other highly specialized properties will include full information on the income capacity of the property under average competent management and under accepted standards of operation for the particular type of property involved. The appraisal reports will among other things, contain an analysis and discussion of the following items:

Financial history of property including indebtedness, the actual past income or earnings of the property based upon audit reports for past five years or longer, and any unaudited current months of the fiscal year. In the absence of audits, corporate statements may be furnished if properly certified.

Discussion of the past operation and management methods with comments relative to any excessive or insufficient charges appearing in the financial statements obtained.

Appraiser's estimate of the stabilized income of the property.

Appraiser's estimate of profits available for typical lessee-operator.

Recommendations of the appraiser as to the relative merits of acquiring fee title to the property as against acquiring a leasehold interest.

Appraisals to estimate the rental value of farms and other types of rural properties will report the present market value of the fee title, the fair annual rental value, and any direct damage to growing crops, standing timber, or improvements to be removed or destroyed. The damage will be reported separately from the rental value in order to permit the reflection of the damage in the primary rental term.

In the absence of any agreement of contract, a lessor is not bound to furnish any utilities or building services of any kind and such services may not be acquired under the power of eminent domain. It is therefore necessary for the appraiser to include in his report as separate items the estimated cost of all customary services that may be required to permit the suitable and convenient use and occupancy of the property.

The rental value will be estimated without regard to value of improvements to be removed or destroyed as compensation for these items are to be included in the rental for the primary term.

The salvage value of improvements to be removed or destroyed must be reported in order to permit deductions in that amount where the lessors elect and are permitted to reserve the right to salvage such improvements.

Prior to undertaking an assignment to estimate rental value the appraiser must be furnished complete information as to all required terms and conditions of the proposed lease.

(d) Easements (general). An easement is a property right of specified use and enjoyment falling short of fee ownership. It therefore follows that the value of an easement ordinarily is less than the market value of fee title to the property (exclusive of severance).

For the purpose of War Department easement appraisals, the measure of compensation for the taking of an easement is the amount by which the market value of the ownership is diminished by the imposition of the easement.

Where an easement is to be acquired at more than nominal cost a detailed appraisal of the market value of the easement will be prepared. When the easement materially affects the value of an entire ownership the appraisal will show the value of the entire ownership before and after the imposition of the easement.

(e) Flowage easements. The appraisal of flowage easements will not be undertaken until the flood frequency surveys have been completed and approved by proper authority. The flood frequency data will be made available to the appraisers with the definite understanding that they are to be accepted as one of the controlling factors in estimating the market value of the easements. The appraiser's certificate should be qualified to include the assumption that the frequency data is correct and that he has no responsibility therefor.

The market value of fee simple title to each property over which a flowage easement is required will first be appraised in the usual manner. This estimate will be followed by appraisal of the market value of the property after imposition of the easement. The market value of the easement is then computed on the basis of the amount the market value of fee title is reduced by imposition of the easement. The appraiser will give full consideration to all factors having a bearing on the reduction in value of the parcel on which the easement is to be imposed. Each appraisal report will include complete information as to estimated flood frequency pertaining to each parcel appraised.

A tract map showing each contour level of varying flood frequency will be made a part of each appraisal report. This map should facilitate review of the appraisals and serve as an aid to the negotiator in his contacts with the landowners.

(f) Appraisal of minerals. In all cases, the value of the subsurface will be included in the appraisal report in such manner that negotiations may be readily conducted to acquire or extinguish subsurface rights if they are outstanding in third parties or if it develops that the vendors desire to reserve them. Unless the person who is appraising the surface has had training and experience in appraising minerals, the subsurface appraisal should be made separately by an appraiser qualified to perform this service. Since the removal of certain minerals may destroy the usefulness of the surface, care should be exercised to avoid duplication of value.

(g) Appraisal of growing crops. Crop appraisals will not ordinarily be necessary except in those cases where the District Engineer has determined that possession of the crop land is necessary prior to the normal harvest period. Where the District Engineer has determined that the land owner or his tenant can not be permitted to harvest the crops they will be appraised as separate property items.

The crop appraisal will identify the crops by type, number of acres, estimated yield per acre, taking into account all hazards, the unit value, gross market value at maturity based upon current local prices for the commodities less cost of bringing to maturity, harvest and delivering to available markets. The expected harvest period will be reported together with other pertinent information in order to indicate an approximate date when the crop land may be available for construction purposes.

(h) Appraisal of timber. Where the land being appraised has only young trees or timber not of merchantable size, the value thereof will be included with the value of the land. If the timber is of merchantable size it will be appraised as such and classified in the appraisal according to: species, type, range of size, quantity, unit value, and total value. A discussion of logging, haulage, and market conditions should be given. The total value of timber should reflect the amount by which the timber enhances the market value of the naked land.

(i) Photographs to accompany appraisal reports. Photographs of important buildings and unusual land conditions are an integral part of each appraisal report. It is especially important to include interior views to show actual condition of the premises when deferred maintenance is notable or when considerable alterations are contemplated in temporary takings.

§ 211.15 The appraisal report. The appraisal report is an important document which serves as a material aid in negotiations and as an indispensable factor in justifying expenditure of large sums of public money. It is therefore essential that its contents reveal that the appraiser has made an adequate study and analysis of the appraisal problem and has considered all available, pertinent and reliable data and that he has used sound and logical reasoning in developing his value conclusions.

It is not practical to prescribe the use of a standardized appraisal report form that could be considered adequate to portray all of the factors having to do with the market value of the numerous and varied types of property that may be contemplated for acquisition. Appraisal Report, ENG Form 241, was designed merely as an outline to be used as a guide to encourage uniformity in presenting in logical sequence, minimum essential data necessary to identify the property, indicate the scope of the appraisal problem and disclose the principal reasoning processes and supporting data to sustain the appraiser's conclusions. The appraisal report, ENG Form 241, is not, in itself, considered adequate for general use. It should be supplemented to adequately cover the particular problem.

The report will be appropriately indexed and so arranged as to convince the reader that a thorough investigation has been made and that the value conclusion has been based upon sound interpretations of adequate and reliable market data.

As a minimum standard of acceptability, each appraisal report will contain adequate coverage of the following items:

Identity of property appraised.
Certificate of valuation.
Date of valuation.
Estate appraised.
All assumptions and limitations.
Statement of disinterest.
Personal inspection.
Detailed description of physical characteristics and conditions.
General history of the property and its environment.
Adaptability, including most profitable use.
Supporting data.
Comparable transactions and listings.
Income.
Trend of values.
Summary of controlling factors of value.
The reasoning process.
Maps, photographs, etc.

§ 211.16 Appraisal review. Prior to submission to the Chief of Engineers for final approval all appraisals will be carefully reviewed for compliance with the foregoing standards of appraisal and determination that the indicated valuations are acceptable to the Office of the Division Engineer. The comments of the reviewing official will be submitted with the appraisal reports.

Where the appraisal review brings to light any question concerning compensable items or other legal principles the advice and counsel of local representatives of the Department of Justice will be obtained and appropriate action taken thereon.

§ 211.17 Expert appraisal service. Appraisals will be made by experienced personnel qualified to support their conclusions in the event of investigation or court proceedings. Appraisals will not be made under conditions unfavorable to a complete inspection of the property and which may prevent or interfere with the procurement of all necessary factual data from which a complete analysis of all factors of value can be made. Care will be exercised to assign appraisers qualified to appraise in the particular area and familiar with the property involved.

Local appraisers may be engaged to act as consultants and to make independent tract appraisals of individual ownerships. In order, however, to operate as economically and efficiently as possible complete appraisal data will be obtained and tentative valuation levels set by appraisers regularly attached to the staff of the Division Engineer prior to actual work by the local appraisers. This data will be furnished to the local appraisers with request for detailed field reviews of each ownership. The local appraisers will then prepare a special written review report disclosing their findings and opinions. Differences of opinion as to market value should be carefully considered by comparison with all available market data and the final figures should be established in the light of the advice and judgment of the local experts.

MILITARY INSTALLATIONS

§ 211.21 Rights which may be granted by Secretary of War. (a) The Secretary of War is authorized to provide for the operation and maintenance of certain plants, buildings, facilities, utilities, and appurtenances thereto and, when he deems it necessary in the interest of the National Defense, to lease, or otherwise dispose of any such plants, buildings, facilities, utilities, appurtenances thereto, and land, under such terms and conditions as he may deem advisable and without regard to the provisions of section 321 of the act of June 30, 1932 (47 Stat. 412), which requires the consideration to be in money only. (See secs. 1 and 5, act of July 2, 1940 (54 Stat. 712; M. L., 1939, Supp. I, sec. 2216), and sec. 13, act June 5, 1942 (56 Stat. 314).) These provisions are applicable to property acquired subsequent to the date of and for the purposes enumerated in the act July 2, 1940. The provisions remain in effect for the period of the present war and six months thereafter, or until such earlier time as the Congress by concurrent resolution or the President by proclamation may designate.

(b) Leases. The Secretary of War is authorized, when in his opinion it will be for the public good, to lease for a period not exceeding five years, and revocable at any time, such property of the United States under his control, exclusive of mineral and phosphate lands, as may not for the time be required for public use. (See act July 28, 1892 (27 Stat. 321), as amended by sec. 1 act of May 29, 1928 (45 Stat. 988; 40 U. S. C. 303; M. L., 1939, sec. 997).)

(c) Roads across military reservations. The Secretary of War may permit the extension of State, county, or territorial roads across military reservations. (See act 5 July 1884 (23 Stat. 104; 10 U. S. C. 1348; M. L., 1939, sec. 999).)

(d) Poles and wires. The Secretary of War may grant easements for rights-of-way, for periods not exceeding 50 years, for poles and lines for the transmission and distribution of electrical power, and for poles and lines for telephone and telegraph purposes, over lands under his jurisdiction, upon a finding that the same is not incompatible with the public interest. (See act 4 March 1911 (36 Stat. 1253; 43 U. S. C. 961; M. L., 1939, sec. 993).)

(e) Pipe lines. The Secretary of War may grant easements for rights-of-way for gas, water, and sewer pipe lines across lands under his control provided that such grants will be in the public interest and will not substantially injure the interest of the United States in the property affected thereby. (See act 17 May 1926 (44 Stat. 562; 10 U. S. C. 1351; M. L. 1939, sec. 994).)

(f) Ferries, bridges, livestock. The Secretary of War may permit the landing of ferries and erection of bridges on, and the driving of livestock across military reservations. (See act 5 July 1884 (23 Stat. 104; 10 U. S. C. 1348; M. L., 1939, sec. 999).)

(g) Archaeological excavations. The Secretary of War may grant permits for the examination of ruins, the excavation of archaeological sites, and the gathering of objects of antiquity upon War Department lands, to institutions which are deemed properly qualified to conduct such examination, excavation, or gathering, subject to prescribed rules and regulations. Such examinations, excavations, and gatherings must be undertaken for the benefit of reputable museums, universities, colleges, or other recognized scientific or educational institutions, with a view to increasing the knowledge of such objects, and the gatherings shall be made for permanent preservation in public museums. (See act 8 June 1906 (34 Stat. 255; 16 U. S. C. 432; M. L., 1939, sec. 1041).)

(h) American National Red Cross. The Secretary of War may grant revocable licenses permitting the erection and maintenance on military reservations by the American National Red Cross of buildings suitable for the storage of supplies for the aid of the civilian population in case of serious national disaster, or the occupation for that purpose of buildings erected by the United States. (See sec. 127a, act 3 June 1916, as amended by act 4 June 1920 (41 Stat. 785; 10 U. S. C. 1347; M. L. 1939, sec. 1000).)

(i) Young Men's Christian Association. The Secretary of War may grant revocable licenses permitting the erection and maintenance on military reservations by the Young Men's Christian Association of such buildings as their work for the promotion of the social, physical, intellectual, and moral welfare of the garrisons may require. (See act 31 May 1902 (32 Stat. 282; 10 U. S. C. 1346; M. L., 1939, sec. 1001))

(j) Temporary buildings. The Secretary of War may grant, by revocable license or lease, permission to erect or construct temporary buildings, other than public, on military reservations. The conditions for occupancy will be clearly set forth in the lease or license. Exceptions may be made with respect to unimportant and temporary structures incident to the work of contractors on Government jobs.

§ 211.22 Rights which may be granted by Secretary of the Interior. (a) Subject to the approval of the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Interior may grant rights-of-way through military reservations for:

(1) Electrical lines for telephone and telegraph purposes and for the transmission of current, other than that generated by water power, for power purposes,

(2) Canals, ditches, pipes and pipe lines, flumes, tunnels, or other water conduits, for purposes other than the production of water power.

(3) Water plants, dams, and reservoirs used to promote irrigation, mining or quarrying; for the manufacturing or cutting of timber or lumber; or for the supplying of water for domestic, public, or other beneficial uses. (See act of February 15, 1901 (31 Stat. 790; 43 U. S. C. 959; M. L., 1939, sec. 998).)

(b) Subject to like approval, rights may also be similarly granted to canal or ditch companies to take material, earth, and stone necessary for the construction of a canal or ditch, for which a right-of-way has been granted, from public lands adjacent to the line of such canal or ditch. (See act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1101, as amended by the acts of March 4, 1917 (39 Stat. 1197), and May 28, 1926 (44 Stat. 668; 43 U. S. C. 946).)

§ 211.23 Rights which may be granted by Secretary of Agriculture. (a) National forests on certain military reservations were created by executive orders pursuant to the provisions of section 9 of the act approved June 7, 1924 (43 Stat. 655; 16 U. S. C. 471), which provides for administration by the Secretary of Agriculture under such rules and regulations and in accordance with such general plans as may be jointly approved by the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of War, for the occupation and protection of such lands and for the sale of products therefrom, subject to the unhampered use by the War Department for purpose of national defense and without affecting or restricting the authority over such lands for such purposes now vested in the Secretary of War. (See sec. 9, act of June 7, 1924 (43 Stat. 655; 16 U. S. C. 471, 505; M. L., 1939, secs. 992 and 995).)

(b) The use of portions of reservations may be authorized for rights of way or sources of material for constructing and maintaining Federal-aid projects, if determined reasonably necessary by the Secretary of Agriculture (now Public Roads Administration, Federal Works Agency), and if not objected to by the Secretary of War. (See act of November 9, 1921 (42 Stat. 216; 23 U. S. C. 18; M. L., 1939, sec. 1013a).)

§ 211.24 Rights which may be granted by Federal Power Commission. The Federal Power Commission, subject to the approval of the Secretary of War, may grant licenses for waterpower projects upon, or partly upon, a military reservation, including dams, reservoirs, conduits, transmission lines, and other project works. (See act of June 10, 1920 (41 Stat. 1063), sec. 202, Title II, act of August 26, 1935 (49 Stat. 840; 16 U. S. C. 797; M. L. 1939, sec. 1866).)

§ 211.25 Rights which may be granted by the Chief of Engineers. (a) The Chief of Engineers is authorized to lease or otherwise provide for temporary use, in part or in whole, of standby industrial installations and of inactive command installations. A command installation is any unit of real estate under the administration and control of the War Department primarily used or useful for activities of the Army other than the production of matériel, munitions, or supplies. Temporary use of such standby and inactive installations may be made provided:

(1) Such installation has been classified as inactive or standby;

(2) Such use will not interfere with the approved status;

(3) The using service concurs in such action. Provisions for such temporary use will be made in accordance with existing laws and regulations, provided the annual consideration involved in any one lease or other instrument is not in excess of $50,000 and that the lease or contract price is not less than the appraised rental value, established rate, or other prevailing standard of value: Provided further, That the lease or contract term shall not exceed a period of 5 years and shall be revocable at any time by the Secretary of War. In all other instances leases will not be executed without prior approval of the Under Secretary of War.

(b) Temporary use of surplus installations. The Chief of Engineers is authorized to lease or otherwise provide for temporary use, in whole or in part, of surplus installations in accordance with applicable regulations of and instructions from the War Assets Administration.

§ 211.26 Rights which may be granted by division engineers. (a) Authority has been delegated by the Secretary of War to division engineers to grant licenses for bus and taxicab service on military reservations upon the recommendation of commanding officers. In the case of an installation under the command of an army Commander, his approval will be obtained by the division engineer. In the case of an installation utilized by and under the direct command of the Army Air Forces, the written approval of the Commanding General of the specific Army air forces command or defense area having jurisdiction over the installation will be obtained by the division engineer. The following policies are published for guidance in granting such licenses:

(1) One or more revocable licenses for such operation may be granted by the division engineer, based upon the free competitive proposals of all reputable available companies or individuals.

(2) None but duly licensed agencies will be permitted to operate in or upon military reservations.

(3) No distinction will be drawn between taxicab and bus transportation.

(4) No taxicab or bus company will be operated as a concessionaire of an Army exchange.

(5) Unless strictly confined to military personnel or civilians employed or resident at a War Department installation as passengers, an exchange is not authorized to operate a taxicab transportation facility nor to compete in any manner with civilian enterprise in such activity.

(6) The operation of a bus transportation facility by an Army exchange will be in accordance with current War Department instructions governing the furnishing of local transportation.

(7) The revocable license will contain no reference to the Army exchange and will not obligate the exchange to any duties or liabilities. The Army exchange has no connection therewith, and the licensee may not obligate itself to the exchange in any manner under the license.

(b) Division engineers have been delegated authority to lease in whole or in part, in active or standby military real estate situated within the boundaries of their respective divisions, provided that:

(1) Such use will not interfere with the approved status, and the using service of the War Department concurs in such action.

(2) The annual consideration involved in any one lease is not in excess of $2,500.

(3) The lease price is not less than the appraised rental value.

(4) The lease will not exceed a period of five years, and will be revocable at will at any time by the Secretary of War.

(5) Form of lease ENG Form 1367 (RE 1108.12) is used without deviation.

(c) Division engineers have been delegated authority to lease military lands within the boundaries of their respective divisions for agricultural and grazing purposes, provided that:

(1) The using service of the War Department approves of such action.

(2) The lease price is substantially in accordance with the prevailing cash rental prices at the time for comparable land in the locality.

(3) Form of lease ENG Form 286 is used. It is the policy to lease to farmers with sufficient equipment, labor and resources to cultivate the acreage leased. When practicable, former owners from whom the Government acquired the property are afforded first opportunity to acquire such leases at a fair market rental. Otherwise, leases are granted under the competitive bid method.

(d) Division engineers have been delegated authority to grant leases to State, County, or Municipal Governments, and agencies thereof, for the use of facilities on active and inactive reservations, except industrial plants for temporary housing for itinerant farm laborers, Provided That:

(1) Applications clearly indicate that an emergency need exists for the facilities applied for to furnish temporary shelter for persons employed in food production.

(2) Necessary approval is obtained from the agency of the War Department having jurisdiction over the property.

(3) The facilities are not desired by the Federal Public Housing Authority for temporary housing of veterans.

(4) The consent of the Government's lessor is obtained when a lease involves land in which the United States has only a leasehold interest.

(5) The lease price is not less than the appraised rental rate.

(6) The annual consideration involved in any one lease is not in excess of $2,500.

(7) The term of the lease will not exceed a period of one year and the lease is revocable at will by the Chief of Engineers.

(e) Division engineers are authorized to grant revocable licenses to State or local governments to maintain and operate the landing area and airport facilities included within any surplus airport property. Also, to grant revocable licenses for the landing area and airport facilities to be used for the landing, take-off, servicing and operation of duly licensed aircraft. All applications for such purposes must be submitted to and approved by the War Assets Administration before any action is taken by the division engineer.

§ 211.27 Rights which may be granted by commanding officers. The following licenses and permits may be granted locally without reference to higher authority:

(a) Contracting officers, with the approval of post commanders, are authorized to permit the extension of public utilities upon military reservations as a part of the contract for furnishing to the Government, electricity, water, and gas, where such extension is necessary solely to serve the reservation and not in part to serve private consumers outside the reservation. The location for such extensions will be coordinated with the division engineer in order to conform with present and future post layouts. Contracts for the sale of surplus utilities as provided in AR 100–90 may include similar authority for the contractor to install and maintain such facilities on the reservation as are necessary in connection with the sale of such utilities. Applications for extension of commercial telephone installations on military reservations are governed by AR 105–30.

(b) Commanding officers are authorized to permit the erection of temporary buildings for use incident to a contract for construction work on military reservations, for the period of the contract and with provision for removal and restoration of the premises upon expiration of the contract; provided that, in the interest of the United States, any building suitable for military use may, in lieu of removal, be relinquished to the United States.

(c) Applications for emergency utilization of air navigation facilities such as landing fields, hangars, etc., by civil aircraft are governed by the provisions of AR 95–50, 95–55, and 210–10.

(d) Applications for exchange concessions are governed by the provisions of AR 210–65.

(e) Applications to hunt, trap, and fish on military reservations are governed by the provisions of AR 210–80.

(f) Licenses of a minor character which, in the absence of permission would amount to a trespass, may be granted orally or in writing by post commanders incident to post administration, as, for example, permits to merchants to enter the reservation to make deliveries.

§ 211.28 Limitations on rights which may be granted—(a) Consideration. (1) Unless otherwise provided by law, leases of buildings and properties of the United States shall be for a money consideration only, and there shall not be included in the lease, any provision for the alteration, repair, or improvement of such buildings or properties as a part of the consideration for the rental to be paid for the use and occupation of the same. See sec. 321, act June 30, 1932 (47 Stat. 412; 40 U. S. C. 303b). But leases made under the authority contained in act July 2, 1940 (54 Stat. 712) are not subject to this restriction.

(2) The consideration provided for in leases must be adequate.

(b) Competitive conditions. It is the policy of the War Department to recommend the granting of leases to the highest responsible bidder, after advertising for bids, unless competition is impracticable.

(c) Private use. It is the policy of the War Department not to permit the use of public quarters by organizations or societies other than those of a purely military character, nor to permit private uses of military reservations or parts thereof to the exclusion of the general public, nor to grant licenses or other instruments for the establishment at military posts of activities, the revocation of which may prove embarrassing to the War Department.

§ 211.29 Rights which cannot be granted without specific statutory authority. Except when specifically authorized by Congress, the Secretary of War is without authority to grant an interest in real estate of the United States for any of the following purposes:

(a) Mining.

(b) Quarrying of rock, sand, or gravel, or sale thereof.

(c) Permanent rights-of-way for railroad purposes.

(d) Sinking of oil wells, or sale of oil or other minerals.

(e) Construction by private interests of permanent structures on military reservations. Temporary permission in exceptional cases may be granted for structures on military reservations pending the enactment of statutory authority therefor. (See 35 Op. Atty. Gen. 485)

§ 211.30 Applications for leases, easements, licenses, and permits—(a) Determination of availability. Applications for use of military property by lease, easement, license, or permit should be made to the division engineer of the division within the boundaries of which the real estate is located. The division engineer will then clear with the using agency of the War Department for determination as to whether the proposed use will interfere with military activities or with the status of the installation.

CIVIL WORKS PROJECTS

§ 211.41 Rights which may be granted by the Secretary of War in River and Harbor and Flood Control property—(a) Leases. (1) The Secretary of War is authorized, when in his discretion it will be for the public good, to lease, for a period not exceeding five years and revocable at any time, such property of the United States under his control, exclusive of mineral and phosphate lands, as may not for the time be required for public use. (Act of July 28, 1892, 27 Stat. 321, 40 U. S. C. 303).

(2) The Chief of Engineers, under the supervision of the Secretary of War, is authorized to construct, maintain, and operate public park and recreational facilities in reservoir areas under the control of the War Department and to permit the construction, maintenance, and operation of such facilities. The Secretary of War is authorized to grant leases of lands, including structures or facilities thereon, in reservoir areas for such periods and upon such terms as he may deem reasonable; Provided, That leases to nonprofit organizations may be granted at reduced or nominal rentals in recognition of the public service to be rendered in utilizing the leased premises: Provided further, That preference shall be given to Federal, State, or local governmental agencies, and licenses may be granted without monetary considerations to such agencies for the use of all or any portion of a reservoir area, when the Secretary of War determines such action to be in the public interest, and for such periods of time and upon such conditions as he may find advisable. The water areas of all such reservoirs shall be open to public use generally, without charge, for boating, swimming, bathing, fishing, and other recreational purposes, and ready access to and exit from such water areas along the shores of such reservoirs shall be maintained for general public use, when such use is determined by the Secretary of War not to be contrary to the public interest, all under such rules and regulations as the Secretary of War may deem necessary. No use of any area to which this section applies shall be permitted which is inconsistent with the laws for the protection of fish and game of the State in which such area is situated. All moneys received for leases or privileges shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States as miscellaneous receipts. (Sec. 4 of the Act of December 22, 1944, 58 Stat. 337, 889, as amended by sec. 4 of the Act of 24 July 1946, Pub. Law 526, 79th Cong.)

(b) Easements. The Secretary of War is authorized to grant easements for rights of way across real estate acquired for civil purposes as follows:

(1) Poles and wires. The Secretary of War may grant easements for rights of way, for periods not exceeding 50 years, for poles and lines for the transmission and distribution of electrical power, and for poles and lines for telephone and telegraph purposes, over lands under his jurisdiction, upon a finding that the same is not incompatible with the public interest (See act 4 March 1911 (36 Stat. 1253; 43 U. S. C. 961)). Form of easement is ENG Form 1360.

(2) Pipe lines. The Secretary of War may grant easements for rights of way for gas, water, and sewer pipe lines across lands under his control provided that such grants will be in the public interest and will not substantially injure the interest of the United States in the property affected thereby (See act 17 May 1926 (44 Stat. 562; 10 U. S. C. 1351)). Form of easement is ENG Form 1361.

(3) Roads and streets. The Secretary of War is authorized and empowered, under such terms and conditions as are deemed advisable by him, to grant easements for rights of way for public roads and streets on and across lands acquired by the United States for river and harbor and flood control improvements including, whenever necessary, the privilege of occupying so much of said lands as may be necessary for the piers, abutments, and other portions of a bridge structure: Provided, That such rights of way shall be granted only upon a finding by the Secretary of War that the same will be in the public interest and will not substantially injure the interest of the United States in the property affected thereby (See sec. 10, act of 20 June 1938 (52 Stat. 808; 33 U. S. C. 558c)). Form of easement is ENG Form 1363.

(4) Other easements. The Secretary of War is authorized and empowered, under such terms and conditions as are deemed advisable by him, to grant easements for rights-of-way over, across, in, and upon acquired lands under his jurisdiction and control, and public lands permanently withdrawn or reserved for the use of the War Department, to any State, political subdivision thereof, or municipality, or to any individual, partnership, or corporation of any State, Territory, or possession of the United States, for:

(i) Railroad tracks;

(ii) Oil pipe lines;

(iii) Substations for electric power transmission lines, telephone lines, and telegraph lines, and pumping stations for gas, water, sewer, and oil pipe lines;

(iv) Canals;

(v) Ditches;

(vi) Flumes;

(vii) Tunnels;

(viii) Dams and reservoirs in connection with fish and wildlife programs, fish hatcheries, and other fish-cultural improvements;

(ix) Roads and streets;

(x) Any other purpose or purposes deemed advisable by the Secretary of War;

Provided, That:

(a) Such rights-of-way shall be granted only upon a finding by the Secretary of War that the same will not be incompatible with the public interest.

(b) Such rights-of-way shall not include any more land than is reasonably necessary for the purpose for which granted.

(c) All or any part of such rights-of-way may be annulled and forfeited by the Secretary of War for failure to comply with the terms and conditions of the grant or for nonuse for a period of two consecutive years or abandonment of rights granted.

(See Pub. Law 526 79th Cong. approved 24 July 1946)

§ 211.42 Rights which may be granted by division engineers—(a) Authority of division engineers. The President of the Mississippi River Commission and division engineers or their real estate officers are authorized to lease, in the name of and by authority of the Secretary of War, lands of the United States and improvements thereon, acquired or being acquired for reservoirs for navigation and flood control, upon the terms and conditions set forth in "Lease of United States Property in_____ Reservoir Area", ENG Form 1366, subject to the prior approval of the Chief of Engineers. By authority of the Under Secretary of War dated 8 September 1942, the authorities formerly granted to District Engineers to enter into and execute such leases were transferred to the Division Engineers and the President of the Mississippi River Commission, or their Real Estate Officers. District Engineers are not authorized to enter into and execute such leases. Recommendations of District Engineers will be considered in making the leases and District Engineers will administer the provisions of the leases, including the collection and deposit of payments.

§ 211.43 Limitations on rights which may be granted—(a) Advertising. It is the policy to grant leases to the highest responsible bidders after advertising, where competition is practicable. Advertising shall consist of the circularization of notices among former owners of the land involving owners of adjacent lands, and others known to be interested, and by the posting of notices in public places, and publication of notices in newspapers where such publication is deemed advisable. Exceptions have been made to this policy in favor of former owners in granting leases for agricultural and grazing purposes in reservoir areas.

(b) Money consideration in leases. The leasing of buildings and properties of the United States shall be for a money consideration only, and there shall not be included in any lease granted pursuant to the authority of the act of 28 July 1892 any provision for the alteration, repair or improvement of such buildings or properties as a part of the consideration for the rental to be paid for the use and occupation of the same. (See sec. 321, act of 30 June 1932 (47 Stat. 412; 40 U. S. C. 303b)). The money consideration should be adequate, i. e., it should not be nominal but should be commensurate with the benefits to be derived by the lessee and it should compare favorably with other rentals in the locality.

(c) Consideration in easements and licenses. In order to fully protect the interests of the United States, the Secretary of War will not, without substantial compensation grant to non-governmental agencies, for the purpose or private property valuable rights in Government property. A fair charge will be made for such privileges, the amount to be determined by all the circumstances surrounding the case, including an estimate as to what private interest in the vicinity would charge for a similar privilege.

§ 211.44 Applications for leases, easements, licenses, and permits. Applications for use of Civil Works property should be made to the division engineer of the division within the boundaries of which the real estate is located. The division engineer or the President of the Mississippi River Commission shall then determine as to whether the property will be required for public use during the period of the contemplated grant and whether the requested grant will interfere with any operations of the United States.

SUBPART D—DISPOSAL OF WAR DEPARTMENT REAL ESTATE

DISPOSAL OF MILITARY REAL ESTATE, EXCEPT INDUSTRIAL INSTALLATIONS

§ 211.61 General—(a) Scope. The policies and procedures set forth herein are applicable to the disposition of real estate appertaining to military installations or portions thereof within the continental United States, except industrial installations. Policies and procedures governing the disposition of real estate appertaining to industrial installations are contained in §§ 211.71 and 211.72.

(b) Authority. The War Department has no power to dispose of real estate or other property of the United States unless authorized by Congress. (Constitution Art. 4, sec. 3, cl. 2 and 10 U. S. C. 1354); "Disposal" as used herein relates to permanent grants of real estate or components thereof, as distinguished from temporary grants. The authority of the Secretary of War under the acts stated below (with the exception of the authority conferred by Public Law 377, 79th Congress, 2nd Session) is limited by the Surplus Property Act of 1944 (58 Stat. 765; 50 U. S. C. App. Supp. 1611) as amended by Public Law 181, 79th Congress, 1st Session (59 Stat. 533) and Public Law 375, 79th Congress, 2nd Session.

(1) The Act of Congress approved July 2, 1940 (Public Law 703, 76th Congress) (54 Stat. 712) as amended by section 7, Act of June 30, 1941 (55 Stat. 366) and section 13, Act of July 5, 1942 (Public 580, 77th Congress), authorizes the Secretary of War, when he deems it necessary in the interest of national defense, to lease, sell, or otherwise dispose of plants, buildings, facilities, utilities, appurtenances thereto and land, constructed or acquired with funds appropriated in or subsequent to the fiscal year 1941, for the development, manufacture, maintenance and storage of military equipment, munitions and supplies, or for shelter. The provisions of this Act remain in force until six months after the termination of the war or until such earlier time as the Congress, by concurrent resolution, or the President, by proclamation, may designate.

(2) The Second War Powers Act of March 27, 1942 (Public Law 507, 77th Congress), as extended by the Act of December 20, 1944 (Public Law 509, 78th Congress, Second Session), authorizes the Secretary of War to acquire real property, temporary use thereof, or other interests therein, together with any personal property located thereon or used therewith, that shall be deemed necessary for military or other war purposes, and to dispose of such property or interests therein, by sale, lease, or otherwise, in accordance with section 1 (b) of the Act of July 2, 1940 (54 Stat. 712). Authority contained in this act, as extended, to dispose of such property or interests therein, by sale, lease or otherwise, was extended by Public Law 270, 79th Congress, until June 30, 1946, and by Public Law 475, 79th Congress, Second Session, until March 31, 1947, or until such earlier time as the Congress, by concurrent resolution, or the President, by proclamation, may designate.

(3) Pursuant to the authority contained in Revised Statutes 1241 (10 U. S. C. 1261; M. L., 1939, sec. 2017) and regulations issued pursuant to the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended, buildings or improvements (whether temporary or permanent) other than fortification elements, located on active or inactive installations, may be salvaged, relocated, dismantled, transferred, or sold by the Chief of Engineers or his duly authorized representative, provided the structures come within one of the following classifications:

(i) Buildings or improvements which are damaged or which are unsuitable for the public service.

(ii) Temporary buildings or improvements which cannot be kept in repair at a reasonable cost.

(iii) Buildings or improvements which are dangerous to life, or likely to damage adjoining structures, or have become hazards or nuisances.

(iv) Buildings or improvements which occupy or interfere with sites needed for new construction or for other military purposes.

(v) Buildings or improvements which interfere with the efficient operation of the installation.

(vi) Buildings or improvements which are needed for use at other sites or for salvage of materials for use by the War Department.

(vii) Buildings or improvements which are surplus to the requirements of the installation.

Existing authorities for transfer of real estate without reimbursement are as follows:

(i) "The Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944" (Public Law 346, 78th Congress, Second Session) authorizes the transfer, without reimbursement of appropriations, of facilities, supplies, equipment, or material necessary and proper for authorized care for veterans. The word "facilities", as used in this act, has been construed to include buildings and grounds.

(ii) Public Law 292 (79th Congress, First Session) approved December 31, 1945, authorizes the transfer of structures or facilities (including lands, improvements, equipment, materials, or furnishings) which are no longer required for use by the War Department and which, in the determination of the National Housing Administrator, can be utilized to provide temporary housing for distressed families of servicemen, for veterans and their families, or for single veterans attending educational institutions, without reimbursements, for such use.

(5) Upon determination by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics that use of any lands owned or controlled by the United States is reasonably necessary to carry out a project under Public Law 377, 79th Congress, 2nd Session, followed by a request by the Administrator to the Secretary of War where lands under the control of the War Department are involved, that such property interest therein as he may deem necessary be conveyed to the public agency sponsoring the project or owning or controlling the airport, the Secretary of War, after determination that the requested conveyance is not inconsistent with the needs of the War Department, is authorized and directed, with the approval of the President and the Attorney General of the United States to effect the conveyance on the condition that the property interest conveyed shall automatically revert to the United States in the event that the lands are not developed, or cease to be used, for airport purposes. (Public Law 377—79th Congress, 2nd Session.)

§ 211.62 Salvage, relocation, dismantling, transfer, or sale of buildings and improvements. (a) At installations which are not surplus to the needs of the War Department, buildings and improvements, except fortification elements, which are determined to be within one or more of the classifications set forth in § 211.61 (b) (3) above are reported by the responsible officer to the Division Engineer, through military channels. The Chief of Engineers or his duly authorized representative is authorized to enter into contracts for the sale of such timber incident to such removal when the timber is not required for military use.

(b) Timber required for Government use. The Chief of Engineers or his duly authorized representative is authorized to harvest timber when required for Government use.

(c) Sale of Timber. Except as authorized in paragraph (a) of this section, timber may be disposed by sale only upon approval of the Chief of Engineers. Application for approval will be made by the division engineer within whose territorial limits the reservation lies. Authority for the sale of timber will be requested and such sales will be authorized when it is in the interest of national defense and when timber has reached maturity and good husbandry and forestry practices dictate that it should be harvested.

§ 211.65 Custody of and Accountability for Surplus Installations. (a) When an installation or a portion thereof, has been determined to be surplus in accordance with the procedures outlined in WD Cir 89, 1945, the Chief of Engineers under the direction of the Director of Service, Supply and Procurement, WDGS, will take over custody of and accountability for such property from the using service.

(4) Transfer custody of and accountability for surplus real estate to other agencies of the Government or to disposal agencies in accordance with procedure prescribed by the Chief of Engineers.

§ 211.66 Cancellation of leases, disposal of improvements and restoration of premises. Leases, licenses and other evidence of authority, express or implied, for the use and occupancy of privately-owned real estate for military purposes will, when real estate obtained thereby is determined to be surplus to the requirements of the War Department in accordance with the procedure outlined in WD Cir 89, 1945, and if not required by other departments or agencies of the Government to which such leases or licenses may be transferred, be cancelled by the Chief of Engineers or his duly authorized representatives in accordance with the terms thereof. Prior to the effective date of termination or expiration of leases or licenses, Government-owned improvements placed in or upon real estate used and occupied under authority thereof and not required for continuance in service at other installations, will be disposed of in accordance with procedure prescribed by the Chief of Engineers in conformity with applicable regulations issued pursuant to the Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended. Liability for restoration will be discharged in accordance with contractual commitments therefor and in conformity with procedure prescribed by the Chief of Engineers.

§ 211.67 Return of lands to Government agencies. Surplus real estate obtained by the War Department by transfer from other governmental departments or agencies on a temporary basis or set aside from the public domain for use of the War Department will be returned to the jurisdiction of the proper governmental department or agency, unless the lands so acquired have been substantially improved by the War Department, in which case action will be taken in accordance with § 211.69. The Chief of Engineers, or his duly authorized representative, is authorized to execute and deliver necessary papers effecting the relinquishment of permits from, and the re-transfer of real estate to, other Government departments or agencies.

§ 211.68 Transfer of real estate to other Government agencies. Real estate or components thereof properly classified as surplus, may be transferred to other departments or agencies of the Government in accordance with the authorities and limitations thereon cited in § 211.61.

(b) The Judge Advocate General has held that any real property, military or civil, which is surplus or no longer needed for the purpose for which acquired, is subject to the regulations issued by the agency administering the Surplus Property Act of 1944, unless specifically excepted by that agency. That agency generally excepts property acquired for civil works purposes, under authority contained in section 34 (a) of the Surplus Property Act of 1944. In such cases the sale is conducted by the Corps of Engineers under the statutory authority set out in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Acceptance of bids or offers. The highest bid or offer equal to or greater than the appraised value may be accepted by the Division Engineer. Where the high bid is less than the appraised value, the Division Engineer will report the facts to the Chief of Engineers, with his recommendations as to acceptance or rejection of the bids. In either event, an abstract of bids will accompany the Division Engineer's report to the Chief of Engineers.

§ 211.82 Sale or salvage of buildings, improvements, or crops—(a) Authority of law. When any property (except land) which has been heretofore or may be hereafter purchased or acquired for the improvement of rivers and harbors is no longer needed, or is no longer serviceable, it may be sold in such manner as the Secretary of War may direct and the proceeds credited to the appropriation for the work for which it was purchased or acquired. (Section 5, act of June 13, 1902 (32 Stat. 373).)

(b) Sales are conducted by the Division Engineers.

(c) Removal of Buildings, Improvements, or Crops other than by Sale:

S. C. A. 558b) as extended by sec. 3 of the Act of August 11, 1939 (53 Stat. 1414, 33 U. S. C. A. b-1).

§ 211.87 Approval by the Office of the Chief of Engineers. In any case in which it may be necessary or advisable in the execution of an authorized project to exchange real property of the Government to real property required for such project, the Chief of Engineers receives a directive from the Secretary of War, and effects the exchange through his Division Engineers.

SUBPART E—REAL ESTATE CLAIMS

§ 211.91 Definition: The term "real estate claims" refers to those demands for payment submitted by individuals, partnerships, associations or corporations, including states, territories, and political subdivisions thereof, for rent, damages, utilities, out-of-pocket expenses and other payments, arising under the terms and conditions, whether express or implied, of leases or other contracts for the use and occupancy of real estate by the War Department or the Army, including right of entry permits, options to purchase, and other instruments sufficient to support a contractual relationship between the United States and the property owner, or arising from the use and occupancy of real estate by the War Department or the Army with the express or implied consent of the owner thereof in the absence of any formal lease or other contract therefor.

§ 211.92 Statutory provisions: (a) All claims and demands whatever against the Government, unless there is some special authority for the settlement thereof by the department concerned, shall be settled and adjusted in the General Accounting Office (see R. S., sec. 236, as amended by Act of 10 June 1921; 42 Stat. 24; 31 U. S. C. 71).

(b) Meritorious Claims Act. When there is filed in the General Accounting Office a claim or demand against the United States that may not lawfully be adjusted by the use of an appropriation theretofore made, but which claim or demand in the judgment of the Comptroller General of the United States contains such elements of legal liability or equity as to be deserving of the consideration of the Congress, he shall submit the same to the Congress by a special report containing the material facts and his recommendations thereon. (Act of 10 April 1928; c. 334, 45 Stat. 413; 31 U. S. C. 236).

(c) Domestic Claims Act. The Act of 3 July 1943 (57 Stat. 372; 31 U. S. C. 223b, 223c) provides for the payment of claims arising on or after 27 May 1941, for damage to or loss or destruction of property, real or personal, caused by military personnel or civilian employees of the War Department or of the Army while acting within the scope of their employment or otherwise incident to non-combat activities of the War Department or of the Army, including claims for damages to real property incident to the use and occupation thereof, whether under a lease, express or implied, or otherwise, and including claims of the foregoing categories arising out of civil works, provided they do not exceed $1000. The act further provides that the damage to or loss or destruction of property shall not have been caused in whole or in part by any negligence or wrongful act on the part of the claimant, his agent or employee; that no claim shall be settled under the Act unless presented in writing within one year after the incident out of which such claim arises shall have occurred except that if the incident occurs in time of war, or if war intervenes within one year after its occurrence, any claim may, on good cause shown, be presented within one year after peace is established. The Secretary of War is authorized to report such claims as exceed $1,000 to Congress for its consideration.

§ 211.93 Scope and application of Army Regulations. (a) AR (Army Regulations) 25-25 has been issued in furtherance of the Act of 3 July 1943. These regulations, in keeping with the terms of the Act, apply to claims for damages only. Par. 7 of AR 25-25 provides that claims for damages to real property incident to the use and occupancy thereof by the Government under a lease express or implied, or otherwise, are payable under these regulations even though legally enforceable against the Government as contract claims. However if deemed preferable in the best interest of the Government claims payable under paragraph 7 may be processed to the General Accounting Office for direct settlement under sec. 236, Revised Statutes. Claims for rent of real property are not payable under AR 25-25.

(b) Ar 100-64 has been issued in furtherance of Section 236, Revised Statutes, as amended by the Act of 10 June 1921; 42 Stat. 24, 31 U. S. C. 71. These regulations provide exclusive authority for the consideration and settlement of claims for rent and other payments of an express or implied contractual nature, and optional authority with AR 25-25 for settlement of damages, in excess of $1,000,000 arising out of the use and occupancy of real estate by the War Department or the Army under an agreement expressed or implied. AR 100-64 applies to all claims for rent regardless of amount and for other payments of a contractual nature, for example, claims for electricity, heat, light, water, and other out-of-pocket expenses, repairs, etc., where such expenses are not included in the lease as a part of the rental consideration.

§ 211.94 Authority of Division Engineers to settle claims. (a) The Under Secretary of War has delegated authority to Division Engineers, within the geographical limits of their respective jurisdictions, to approve or disapprove, in amounts not exceeding $1,000.00, any claim within the purview of the Act of 3 July 1943, as amended. Insofar as Real Estate Claims are concerned this delegation of authority applies only to claims for damages incident to the use and occupancy of real property by the War Department or the Army.

(b) The Division Engineers have no authority to settle and make payment for claims subject to the provisions of AR 100–64. For the disposition of claims under these regulations see below under "Procedure."

§ 211.95 Action by claimant; claimant. Real Estate Claims may be presented by the owner of the property or his duly authorized agent or legal representative. The word "owner," as so used, includes lessees, mortgagors, and conditional vendees, but does not include mortgagees, conditional vendors, and others having title for purposes of security only. The claim, if filed by an agent or legal representative, should show the title of the person signing and be accompanied by evidence of the appointment of such person as agent, executor, administrator, guardian, or other fiduciary.

§ 211.96 Place of filing claim. All real estate claims should be submitted to the United States Division Engineer in whose jurisdiction the claim arises. See § 210.1 of this chapter for a list of the United States Division Engineer offices.

§ 211.97 Form of claim. Claims should be submitted by presenting in triplicate a signed statement, giving the claimant's address, setting forth the amount of the claim, and, so far as possible, the detailed facts and circumstances giving rise to the claim, indicating and describing the property involved, the date or dates, and the nature and extent of the damage, loss or destruction claimed, and the agency or branch of the War Department or Army using the property. Upon receipt of such a claim the Division Engineer will, where practicable or necessary, furnish the claimant with War Department forms for a more formal presentation of his claim including instructions as to their use.

§ 211.98 Evidence to be submitted by claimant. (a) All claims must be substantiated by competent evidence. If the claim is for rent or other payment the claimant should furnish evidence as to the value of the property, income from the property if previously rented, or rental value of similar property in the vicinity. If the property is under a formal lease to the Government, the claimant should identify the lease and state the covenants of the lease upon which he predicates his claim. Where the claim is for damage to the property which has been or can be economically repaired the claimant should submit in triplicate an itemized signed statement or estimate of the cost of repairs and copies of itemized receipts, evidencing payment for any expenditures made in relation to the property for which reimbursement is claimed.

(b) In support of claims for damage to crops the claimant should submit a statement showing the number of acres, or other unit measure, of the crops damaged, the normal yield per unit, the gross amount which would have been realized from normal yield, and an estimate of the further cost of cultivation, harvesting and marketing; if the crop is one which need not be planted each year, the diminution in value of the land beyond the damage to the current year's crop should also be stated. All such statements or estimates should, if possible, be by disinterested competent witnesses, preferably responsible dealers of the type of property damaged.

§ 211.99 Real estate claims officers. In each Division Office the Division Engineer has appointed a Claims Officer or Assistant Claims Officers who have the duty and responsibility under the direction of the Division Real Estate Officer, to investigate all real estate claims. The activities and responsibilities of these Claims Officers are described more fully below under "Procedure."

§ 211.100 Procedure. Upon the receipt of any real estate claim it is submitted to a Claims Officer who investigates the matter and secures all evidence necessary for a full consideration of the claim and upon which a determination can be made as to the liability of the Government. For this purpose the Claims Officer is authorized and charged with the duty of securing sufficient evidence to establish with certainty the following general points:

(a) The nature of the claim.

(b) The interest of the claimant in the property and the interest that others may have in the property.

(c) Date and circumstances under which occupation of premises occurred and date of vacation. If under a lease, the lease number and date of lease.

(d) Inspection of the premises and determination of the amount of damages.

(e) If claim is for rental without formal lease or agreement, data as to the market and rental value of the property.

(f) Any other pertinent evidence the particular facts of the case require.

The above obligations of the Claims Officer does not relieve the claimant from the burden of proving his claim and it is the duty and obligation of the claimant to furnish such evidence within his particular knowledge as the Claims Officer may require.

Upon completion of his investigation the Claims Officer prepares a report setting forth completely but briefly the nature and amount of the claim, all pertinent facts necessary to determine the rights and liabilities of the claimant and the Government, and the Claims Officer's conclusions and recommendations as to allowance or disallowance of the claim in whole or in part and reasons therefor, including citations to any laws, statutes or other decisions which it is believed will substantiate his recommendation.

§ 211.101 Disposition of claims. (a) Real Estate claims for damages not exceeding $1000.00 may be settled by the Division Engineer. If the Division Engineer allows the claim in toto it is transmitted to the local Disbursing Officer who transmits a check to claimant in payment of the claim. Where the claim is disallowed by the Division Engineer in whole or in part, the claimant is so advised and in the event that he is unwilling to accept the decision of the Division Engineer, he may appeal within 30 days after receipt of such notice, through the Division Engineer's office, to the Secretary of War. This appeal should state in full reasons for not accepting the Division Engineer's award.

(b) Claims for rent, utilities and other payments and for damages in excess of $1000.00 are transmitted by the Division Engineer, with his recommendations, to the Office, Chief of Engineers, Washington D. C. Prior to this transmittal the claimant is advised of the award recommended by the Division Engineer, and that such award is subject to approval or disapproval by higher authorities. If the amount so recommended is less than the amount claimed, the Division Engineer obtains, if possible, a statement from the claimant as to whether he will accept the award, if approved by higher authority, in full satisfaction and final payment of his claim, and, if not, his reasons for not accepting. Upon receipt of these claims in the Office, Chief of Engineers, the entire assembly is reviewed by the Real Estate Claims Board. Upon completion of this review, the claim, together with the Real Estate Board's report and recommendations, is transmitted to the Claims Division, General Accounting Office, in accordance with the provisions of section 236 Revised Statutes, as amended, for final administrative consideration and settlement.

Subpart F—Federal Jurisdiction Over War Department Real Estate

§ 211.111 General considerations in the acquiring of Federal jurisdiction—(a) Authority. By directive dated 29 October 1941 the Secretary of War authorized the securing of jurisdiction (preferably exclusive) over all military reservations and industrial facilities acquired by the United States by purchase or lease. However, the policy has been adopted that the using service of such reservation or facility shall determine whether it shall be placed under Federal jurisdiction.

(b) Laws Governing the Acquisition of Federal Jurisdiction—(1) Constitution of the United States. By Article I, Section 8, Clause 17, of the Constitution, Congress has the power to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases in the District of Columbia and to exercise like authority over all land acquired by the United States with the consent of the legislature of the state in which the land is located for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dockyards, and other needful buildings.

(2) Section 355, Revised Statutes of the United States. Under this section as amended by the Acts of Congress approved 1 February 1940 (54 Stat. 19) and 9 October 1940 (54 Stat. 1083; 40 U. S. C. 255), jurisdiction over lands acquired by the War Department does not vest until the Secretary of War has indicated acceptance of such jurisdiction by filing a notice of acceptance with the governor of the state or in such other manner as may be prescribed by the laws of the state where the land is situated.

(3) State laws. The laws of the various states indicate the type of jurisdiction ceded or to be ceded, and prescribe the requirements, if any, to be complied with prior to the vesting of jurisdiction in the United States.

§ 211.112 Functions in acquiring Federal jurisdiction—(a) The division engineer. Upon receipt of the recommendation of the using service that Federal jurisdiction be acquired over a military reservation or industrial facility, the Office of The Division Engineer concerned shall prepare such maps and descriptions of the lands involved as may be required and forward them to the Office of The Chief of Engineers with any further information called for by the laws of the state where the lands are located.

(b) Chief of Engineers. All letters and other papers required to procure cessions of jurisdiction and all notices of acceptance shall be prepared in the Office of The Chief of Engineers.

§ 211.113 Method of acquiring Federal jurisdiction. Jurisdiction is acquired in accordance with the laws of the various states.

(a) The general laws of thirty-five states contain cessions of jurisdiction to the United States over lands within such states acquired for military and certain other purposes. The laws of the states listed immediately below cede jurisdiction to the Federal Government without requiring the submission of information regarding the lands involved.

(1) Arizona
(2) Arkansas
(3) Colorado
(4) Connecticut
(5) Delaware (less than 100 acres)
(6) Georgia
(7) Idaho
(8) Illinois
(9) Iowa
(10) Kansas
(11) Kentucky
(12) Louisiana
(13) Maine
(14) Michigan
(15) Mississippi
(16) Nebraska
(17) New Jersey
(18) New Mexico
(19) North Carolina
(20) North Dakota
(21) Ohio
(22) Oklahoma
(23) Oregon
(24) Rhode Island
(25) South Carolina
(26) Washington
(27) West Virginia
(28) Wyoming

However, the laws of other states, listed immediately below, contain provisions which must be complied with.

(i) In California and Montana a map and metes and bounds description shall be filed in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the land is situated.

(ii) In Indiana a map and metes and bounds description shall be filed with the governor.

(iii) In New Hampshire a map and metes and bounds description shall be filed with the New Hampshire Secretary of State.

(iv) In South Dakota a map of the land shall be filed in the office of the South Dakota Secretary of State.

(v) In Vermont a map and metes and bounds description shall be filed in the town clerk's office of the town where the land is located.

(vi) In Wisconsin a map, metes and bounds description and proof of recordation in the proper county of all title papers to the land involved shall be furnished the Governor.

(b) In the remaining states, it is necessary to procure a cession of jurisdiction:

(1) By deed of cession to be executed by the proper state officials. This procedure is required to be followed by the laws of Alabama, Florida, Minnesota, New York, Texas, Utah and Virginia. The laws of some of these states require the furnishing of certain papers and information regarding the land over which a cession of jurisdiction is desired.

(i) In Alabama and Minnesota, evidence of title in the United States shall be furnished.

(ii) In Florida and Texas, a metes and bounds description with evidence of recordation in the proper county of all title papers shall be furnished.

(iii) In New York, an agent authorized under the hand and seal of the Secretary of War shall file in the office of the Secretary of State of New York a map of the land drawn with pen and India ink upon tracing cloth, a metes and bounds description, and a certificate of the United States Attorney General as to the possession of and title to the

(2) By the enactment of special legislation. Since there are no general laws pertaining to Federal jurisdiction in the States of Maryland, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nevada, Pennsylvania and Tennessee and as to reservations comprising more than one hundred acres in the State of Delaware, the enactment of special legislation by such states is required to obtain a cession of jurisdiction to the United States.

(c) Acceptance of jurisdiction. The jurisdiction ceded by the state laws, by deeds of cession and by the enactment of special legislation shall be accepted in accordance with section 355, Revised Statutes, as amended, in order to establish Federal jurisdiction. This is accomplished by a letter from the Secretary of War addressed to the governor of the state concerned or by an indorsement on the deed of cession giving notice of such acceptance.

§ 211.114 Retrocession of jurisdiction. The jurisdiction of the United States over lands does not revert to the state so long as the land continues to be owned and held by the United States for any of the purposes authorized in the state act of cession. However, where the United States completely and permanently terminates the use of the land for military purposes, such as by transferring it from the War Department to another department of the Government to be used permanently for a purpose not covered by the state act ceding jurisdiction, it is considered that the military reservation has been abandoned for the purpose for which acquired and that the jurisdiction of the United States ceases and revests in the state (Op. JAG SPJGR 1944/13247, December 20, 1944).

DIRECTIVE TO THE CIVILIAN PRODUCTION ADMINISTRATION ON PREMIUM PAYMENTS REGULATION 3[1]

MERCHANT GYPSUM LINER

Pursuant to the authority vested in me by the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946, the Civilian Production Administration is hereby authorized and directed to act as my representative in performing the following functions in accordance with the regulation:

(1) Determine the total tonnage required to meet the capacity of the gypsum board industry to absorb merchant gypsum liner.

(2) In accordance with the provisions and standards set forth in the regulation:

(a) Recommend to the OHE a production goal to be assigned to each company.

(b) Receive applications from companies not assigned production goals or desiring larger goals and, on the basis of facts submitted, together with any additional information available, approve or disapprove such applications in whole or in part. Where there are unusual circumstances, CPA may, in its judgment, recommend action on such cases to the Housing Expediter.

(c) Subsequent to the distribution of production goals, where it appears that a company will be unable to meet its goal, determine whether its inability is due to circumstances beyond its control, and, where such a determination is made, the CPA may cancel or modify and may reassign such production goal in whole or in part. Where there are unusual circumstances, CPA may, in its judgment, recommend action on such cases to the Housing Expediter.

(d) Receive copies of agreements transferring assigned production goals between companies and notify the RFC, in triplicate, and the OHE of the parties to such agreements.

(e) Receive applications for permission to make up deficits during the next succeeding month and, on the basis of facts submitted, together with any additional information available, approve or deny such applications.

(3) With respect to claims for payment filed with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation pursuant to Regulation 3, Paragraph (h) (1), copies of which will be forwarded to CPA, review each claim on the basis of the facts submitted therein, together with any additional information which may be available to CPA:

(a) Where it appears to CPA that immediate investigation or audit of any such claim is required, CPA will take such action and will, where it appears necessary, notify RFC, in triplicate, at the time that further payments should be withheld by RFC pending the result of such investigation or audit. In all cases in which CPA concludes that the amount of the claim should be modified, CPA shall make such change in the amount of the claim and shall notify the RFC, in triplicate, and the OHE of any such modification.

(b) Where the CPA finds no basis for immediate investigation or withholding payment, CPA shall notify RFC, in triplicate, of the findings within 30 days of the date that the claim was received by CPA.

(4) With respect to all goals assigned and claims for payment:

(a) Perform such investigations and post-audits in the field as may appear to be feasible and necessary with respect to all producers of merchant gypsum liner who participate in the premium payments plan, modifying previous determinations on goals and claims where such determinations are inconsistent with the findings of investigations and post-audits. Such investigations and post-audits shall follow procedures approved by the OHE, shall include questionable cases prior to approval or invalidation, and shall cover each participating producer in the first six months of the plan. A copy of each audit report shall be sent to the OHE. The CPA shall notify the RFC, in triplicate, and the OHE of actions taken as a result of the findings of investigations and post-audits.

(b) Consider complaints by applicants, hold hearings whenever necessary and notify the RFC, in triplicate, of the decisions, sending copies thereof to the OHE. In the event the applicant is still dissatisfied with such decisions, he may appeal to the OHE Appeals Board.

(c) Make such special investigations or audits as may be requested by OHE.

(5) Notify the RFC, in triplicate, and the OHE of all actions taken in accordance with Paragraphs (1) and (2) above.

(6) Prepare and transmit to the OHE such regular and special reports of operations under the Regulations and this Directive as may be requested by the OHE.

(7) Take all other steps necessary to carry out the responsibilities of the CPA under the Regulation.

CONVECTORS

Pursuant to the authority vested in me by the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946, the Civilian Production Administration is hereby authorized and directed to act as my representative in performing the following functions in accordance with the regulation:

(1) With respect to applications for quotas filed with CPA pursuant to paragraph (c) (1) (iii) of the regulation, on the basis of the facts set forth in the application and on any additional information available to it, CPA will recommend to the Office of the Housing Expediter a figure to be used as the quota to be assigned the applicant. Such applications, with the recommended quotas, shall be submitted by CPA to OHE for approval. CPA will forward the approved quota to the applicant and send three signed copies to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

(2) With respect to applications for quota and claims for payment filed pursuant to regulation 5, (paragraph (c) (1) (i), (ii) and (iv) as to applications for quota, and paragraph (f) as to claims for payment), review each application and claim on the basis of the facts submitted therein, together with any additional information which may be available to CPA:

(a) Assign a quota to each producer, sending a copy of the completed quota form to the applicant, a copy to the OHE, and three completed copies to RFC.

(b) Where it appears to CPA that immediate investigation or audit of any such application or claim is required, CPA will take such action and will notify RFC, in triplicate, where it appears necessary, that further payments should be withheld by RFC pending the result of such investigation or audit. In all cases in which CPA concludes that the quota should be changed or the amount of the claim modified, CPA shall make such change in the quota or in the amount of the claim and shall notify the RFC (in triplicate) and the OHE of any such modification of a quota or of a claim. CPA shall notify the producer direct of any change in a quota.

(c) Where the CPA finds no basis for immediate investigation or withholding of payment, CPA shall notify RFC, in triplicate of the findings within 30 days of the date that the application or claim was received by CPA, and send a copy of such notification to OHE.

(3) With respect to applications for waiver of the requirement to carry over to the succeeding production period any deficit in production under an established quota (paragraph (c) (3) of the regulation) review and, on the basis of facts submitted together with any other additional information available, approve or disapprove such applications in whole or in part, notifying the applicant and the RFC (in triplicate) of the determinations of the CPA, and sending copies of such determinations to OHE.

(4) With respect to all applications for quota and claims for payment:

(a) Perform such investigations and post-audits in the field as may appear to be feasible and necessary with respect to all producers of convectors who participate in the premium payments plan, modifying previous determinations on quotas and claims or, in the case of special quotas, recommending modification to the OHE, where such determinations are inconsistent with the findings of investigations and post-audits. Such investigations and post-audits shall follow procedures approved by the OHE, shall include questionable cases prior to approval or invalidation, and shall be so scheduled as to cover all participating producers by the end of the sixth month of the plan. A copy of each audit report shall be sent to the OHE. The CPA shall notify the RFC (in triplicate) and the OHE of actions taken as a result of the findings of investigations and post-audits.

(b) Consider complaints by applicants, hold hearings whenever necessary, and notify the RFC (in triplicate) of the decisions, sending copies thereof to the OHE. In the event the applicant is still dissatisfied with such decisions, he may appeal to the OHE Appeals Board.

(c) Make such special investigations or audits as may be requested by the OHE.

(5) With respect to a multiple-plant producer:

(a) Establish a combined quota upon determination by the CPA, in accordance with paragraph (c) (2) of the regulation, that shipments have been shifted among such plants of a producer so as to increase the producer's total claims without a corresponding increase in total output.

(b) Notify the RFC (in triplicate), the OHE, and the producer of the determination made by CPA and the company quota established.

(6) Prepare and transmit to the OHE such regular and special reports of operations under the regulation and this directive as may be requested by the OHE.

(7) Take all other steps necessary to carry out the responsibilities of CPA under the regulation.

or products required in the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program.

§ 753.10 NHA General Order 13–1A. Scheduling HH Priority Authorizations and Channeling Materials to Low and Moderately Priced Rental and Sales Housing, approved June 26, 1946, effective July 1, 1946, §§ 753.10–753.21.

§ 753.11 Purpose. The purpose of these §§ 753.11 to 753.21, inclusive, is to schedule the issuance of priority authorizations for the construction of new conventional dwelling units and conversions and the erection of prefabricated houses in conformance with the total goal of the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program and the anticipated supply of building materials for such construction and to channel the maximum amount of materials to the lowest rental and lowest sales price privately constructed housing consistent with sound standards of construction, design and livability and with necessary current replacement costs. The provisions of these §§ 753.11 to 753.21, inclusive, do not apply to temporary dwelling units, trailers and public housing projects, the production and distribution of which are controlled through other regulations or to farm housing.

§ 753.12 Establishment and distribution of monthly authorization quotas. (a) Monthly authorization quotas will be established by the National Housing Agency for each FHA State or District office and transmitted to them at the beginning of each month for four months in advance through the Washington office of the FHA. These monthly authorization quotas will be derived from a national production schedule calculated on the basis of current materials availability to meet the total goal within the two-year period of the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program and will be allocated on the basis of relative housing needs of each FHA office area.

Monthly authorization quotas will be adjusted by the National Housing Agency to provide the scheduled number of housing starts each month by allowing for time lag between authorizations and starts and for the number of authorizations which will not result in housing starts (attrition). Seasonal differences in the nationwide construction pattern will be accounted for in calculating the monthly authorization quota.

(b) Each FHA Director shall distribute his monthly authorization quota to the various localities within his office area with the advice and assistance of the Regional Expediter, giving due consideration to local goals established by Mayor's Emergency Housing Committees and reported to the FHA Director by the Regional Expediter.

§ 753.13 Limitation of priority authorizations. (a) No FHA Director may issue priority authorizations for new permanent dwelling units together with conversions during a particular month in excess of the current monthly authorization quota (and supplementary authorization quota, if any) for his State or District office.

(b) On the first day of each month each FHA Director shall report to the Washington office of the FHA the number of dwelling units authorized in the previous month together with the number of dwelling units included in outstanding acceptable applications for priority authorizations as of the end of the month. The Washington office of the FHA shall tabulate the number of priority authorizations available from areas which failed to exhaust their authorization quota for the previous month. Any such unused portions of monthly authorization quotas shall be distributed by the Washington office of the FHA as supplementary authorization quotas to those State and District offices having unfilled applications for authorization.

(c) Supplementary authorization quotas will be valid only for the month during which they are issued. They shall be initially divided into four sub-quotas in accordance with the provisions of § 753.15 (a) and added to the current monthly sub-quotas.

§ 753.14 Establishment of "dividing lines". (a) Based on the "HH Minimum Property Requirements" of Regulation 80–3, and local current cost data, the FHA shall calculate for each State or District area the cost of producing a minimum acceptable two-bedroom house taking into account reasonable allowance for builders' overhead, profit and land costs, and shall establish such cost as the "dividing line" for the purpose of priorities authorizations for houses for sale.

(b) Based on the "HH Minimum Property Requirements" of Regulation 80-3 and local current cost data, the FHA shall calculate for each State or District area the rental necessary to provide minimum acceptable two-bedroom rental units and shall establish such rental as the "dividing line" for the purpose of priorities authorizations for rental units.

(c) Where substantial variations in construction costs exist within an FHA office area, the FHA shall establish separate "dividing lines" for individual localities. Where construction costs are relatively uniform over the FHA office area, the FHA may calculate a single "dividing line" applicable to the entire area.

(d) "Dividing lines" shall be established for each FHA office area prior to the beginning of the third quarter of 1946. After being initially established they shall be reviewed bi-monthly and revised in accordance with changes in district and locality construction costs.

(e) "Dividing lines" and revisions thereof shall be reported immediately by the FHA to the National Housing Administrator.

§ 753.15 Division of monthly authorization quotas into sub-quotas. (a) The monthly authorization quota for each FHA State or District office shall be initially divided into four sub-quotas as follows:

(2) 37½ percent of the dwelling units in the monthly authorization quota is to be allocated to a sub-quota for sales housing priced at or below the "dividing line."

(3) 12½ percent of the dwelling units in the monthly authorization quota is to be allocated to a sub-quota for rental housing priced above the "dividing line." This sub-quota represents the maximum number of rental units priced above the "dividing line" which may be authorized, except as dwelling units are subtracted from any unused portion of sales housing priced above the "dividing line" in accordance with § 753.15 (b) (3).

(4) 37½ percent of the dwelling units in the monthly authorization quota is to be allocated to a sub-quota for sales housing above the "dividing line." This sub-quota represents the maximum number of sales units priced above the "dividing line" which may be authorized.

(b) Subject to the provisions of § 753.13 (a) authorizations shall be issued and charges made against the sub-quotas as follows:

(1) Once the sub-quota for rental housing priced at or below the "dividing line" has been exhausted, the FHA Director shall continue to issue authorizations for such dwelling units and for each such authorization shall subtract an equal number of units from one of the other three sub-quotas which has not been fully committed, subtracting first from the sales sub-quota priced above the "dividing line," then from the rental sub-quota priced above the "dividing line" and finally from the sales sub-quota priced at or below the "dividing line."

(3) Once the sub-quota for rental housing priced above the "dividing line" has been exhausted, the FHA Director shall continue to issue authorizations for such dwelling units and for each such authorization shall subtract an equal number of units from the sub-quota of sales housing priced above the "dividing line".

(c) Any priorities authorizations issued under this order must also be issued in accordance with the priorities criteria and price provisions of Priorities Regulation 33 and NHA General Orders. A maximum shelter rent in excess of $80 per month or a maximum sales price in excess of $10,000 may not be authorized except in accordance with those regulations and orders.

§ 753.16 Preference processing of applications. (a) Applications received in excess of authorizations which may be issued under available quotas shall be accumulated and may be processed but not authorized.

(b) Applications so accumulated and processed shall be authorized at the beginning of the following month in the following order of preference:

(1) Applications submitted by veterans for construction of homes for their own occupancy (such authorizations shall be charged as sales units to the appropriate sub-quota according to the proposed sales price established in accordance with NHA Regulation 80–1).

(2) Applications for rental housing priced at or below the "dividing line".

(3) Applications for sales housing priced at or below the "dividing line."

(c) These authorizations shall be charged to the quota according to the provisions of § 753.15, and the total authorizations shall not exceed the established monthly quota. Authorizations against supplementary quotas shall be made in accordance with the above scale of preference from any remaining accumulated applications.

§ 753.17 Advance commitments to authorize prioritics assistance. (a) Where a proposed housing project is of such magnitude as to require a schedule of starts extending over a period greater than 90 days, the FHA Director may make commitments to issue authorizations for priorities assistance from subsequent monthly authorization quotas. No such commitments shall be made for dwelling units priced above the rental or sales "dividing line" as established in § 753.14.

(b) In making such commitments the FHA Director shall consider the application for the entire housing project on its merits according to the regular criteria for priorities authorization. The application must be accompanied by a proposed monthly production schedule, showing the number of units the applicant intends to start during each month the project will be under construction. Commitments to authorize priorities assistance may be made in accordance with the proposed production schedule, but commitments to authorize out of future quotas may not be made against authorization quotas for more than four months in advance, and the total advance commitments against the quota for any one month may not exceed 50 percent of the total quota for that month.

(c) Such commitments shall be fulfilled by the issuance of priorities authorizations at the beginning of the month to which they apply provided the applicant demonstrates at that time that he is substantially maintaining in terms of actual housing starts the monthly production schedule originally agreed upon.

(d) Such commitments may be granted only for housing projects which are determined by the FHA Director to constitute single integrated building operations in terms of site, financing and construction scheduling.

(e) Commitments to authorize out of any future monthly quota shall be recorded as a charge against that month's quota. At the beginning of that month such priorities may be authorized without reference to the scale of preference in § 753.16.

§ 753.18 Public announcement of monthly authorization quotas and "dividing lines". (a) On the first day of each month each FHA Director shall announce publicly the amount of the monthly authorization quota for that month. If a later supplementary quota is received, its amount shall be immediately announced to the public. Initial "dividing lines" and all changes shall be announced publicly. Such announcements shall be made in a manner designed to secure the widest possible circulation of the information.

(b) Public records of monthly authorization quotas and "dividing lines" shall be maintained in the State or District office and made available for public inspection during regular working hours. Each State or District FHA office shall also keep a list of approved applications for priorities assistance and authorization, showing the names of the applicants, the number of dwelling units and the approved sales prices and rentals where applicable, which shall be made available for public inspection during regular working hours. Upon request, copies of each monthly authorization quota, supplementary monthly authorization quota, and "dividing lines" shall be furnished to the local Mayor's Emergency Housing Committees.

§ 753.19 Encouragement of housing construction for veterans of minority racial groups. (a) FHA Directors shall encourage local builders to construct home both for sale and for rent to veterans of minority racial groups giving consideration to the proportionate population of such groups and to their economic ability to purchase or rent.

§ 753.20 Assistance by Locality Housing Expediters. (a) Locality Housing Expediters shall render every possible assistance to FHA Directors and to local committees in carrying out the provisions of this order.

§ 753.21 Effective date. (a) This order supersedes NHA General Order 13–1, dated April 18, 1946, and NHA General Order 13–11, dated June 1, 1946.

§ 753.38 Guarantee market instructions, NHA Form 14–47. NHA Form 14–47 "Market Guarantee Instructions" which, when filled out and submitted to NHA, constitutes an application for a market guarantee, may be obtained by members of the public by written request to the Office of the Special Adviser on Financial Aids to Production, National Housing Agency, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 753.39 Purpose. The function of Form 14–47 is to obtain information upon which the Housing Expediter, through the Special Adviser, can determine whether or not to enter into a market guarantee with a prefabricator or manufacturer of a new type building material. Form 14–47 calls for the submission of technical data and information as to the production ability and financial status of the applicant.

§ 753.40 Additional information required. Form 14–47 advises applicants to submit their answers to the questions in triplicate. With respect to applicants who are prefabricators, the form requests the submission of various types of drawings, plans, specifications and related technical data. Before doing so, RPC may negotiate with the manufacturer other terms of the contract, e. g. termination and storage provisions, etc.

SUBPART E—EXPERIMENTAL HOUSING GUIDE

§ 753.42 Purpose. The Technical Branch, National Housing Agency, desires to encourage the development of new materials and new methods of construction that will be of real value to the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program. This guide is to assist persons, who have new materials or new methods that in the opinion of the Technical Branch show promise of value to VEHP, to construct housing of an experimental nature which is restricted by CPA Order VHP–1 and Priorities Regulation 33, as amended, 11 F. R. 601. It defines the term "Experimental Housing" and explains where permission for construction is required, the criteria and experimental tests to be considered, the restrictions on use of materials, and the application procedure.

§ 753.43 Definition. For the purpose of this guide, the term "Experimental Housing" means any full size model of a house or of any major assembly of the structural, mechanical or electrical parts of a dwelling which must be constructed for the purpose of conducting tests to determine (a) Construction methods including shop assembly and field erection, or (b) Physical properties of parts, sections or assemblies.

Experimental housing does not include Sample Houses, Demonstration Houses or assemblies, the purpose of which is solely to promote sales or create consumer demand.

§ 753.44 When permission is required. Due to CPA Conservation Order VHP–1 as amended, 11 F. R. 3190, permission is required. Due to CPA Conservation Order VHP–1 as amended, 11 F. R. 3190 permission must be obtained before starting construction of experimental housing, if the cost of the unit to be started in any calendar or fiscal year exceeds (a) $400 for a house or other structure on residential property designed for occupancy by five families or less. Any residence for 5 or less families is considered a house (see CPA Order VHP–1, paragraph (d) (2) on how to figure cost.

§ 753.45 Criteria. In order to receive favorable consideration as "Experimental Housing" the application must show clearly that: (a) A substantial part of the project consists of one or more of the following departures from conventional construction:

(1) A new method or manner of using available material or equipment. (This may involve the adaptation to housing of materials or methods which are new to dwelling construction even though they may be used frequently for other types of construction or for other purposes).

(2) The use of new materials or of new equipment.

(3) A new method of dwelling construction designed to conserve the use of materials or substantially reduce cost of living to the occupant.

(b) It is necessary to make tests under house conditions to obtain necessary information on construction methods, or physical properties.

(c) Not more than one house or assembly is to be built.

(d) The applicant agrees that if the project is approved and constructed:

(1) The house or assembly will not be sold until after it has served the experimental purposes for which it was built.

(2) The house or assembly will not be sold except under the terms provided in Priorities Regulation 33.

(3) Should the house be occupied by a member of the builders' staff for the purpose of carrying on thermal conductivity, vapor resistance, or other observations, copies of the reports of such observations shall be sent to the Technical Branch, NHA.

§ 753.46 Tests. Since permission to construct "Experimental Housing" can be given only when it is necessary to make tests under housing conditions (see criteria paragraph 4b above) a general statement of justification for the needs of constructing the Experimental House must be attached to each copy of the application. For each test, this statement should set forth the purpose, scope, method and proposed time schedule. It should include (but need not be limited to) any of the following information which applies to the project.

(a) Construction methods. A description of the principal problems of construction on which information is required, an explanation of the information to be obtained, how it is to be obtained, when, by whom, and how it will be used, and the reason(s) why it cannot be obtained without constructing the project.

NOTE: Tests of construction methods in experimental housing are those made to determine the type and amount of labor, materials, equipment, machinery and tools, required to fabricate and erect the house or its parts according to the engineering design in the hope of devising better methods than those used for the typical housing with which the experimental housing will compete when reproduced on a commercial basis.

(b) Physical properties. A list of the physical properties that are to be determined by the experiment showing for each, what tests are to be made, by whom, and when. The following list indicates the type of properties which may not be readily determined by the usual methods of analysis or by experience records under similar conditions and which might require tests to obtain accurate information:

(1) Strength. Resistance to live and dead loads including compressive, transverse, racking, impact, and abrasive effects of forces encountered in dwellings.

(2) Weather resistance. Resistance to penetration and absorption of water and to decay, corrosion, abrasion, change of appearance or other damage upon exposure to rain, snow, ice, wind, sunlight or other atmospheric conditions.

(3) Durability. Resistance to damage or change of appearance when exposed to water and other liquids, gases, heat, cold, burns, light, cleaning agents, and dirt encountered in residential use and occupancy.

(4) Vapor resistance. Resistance to absorption, transmission and condensation of water vapor and to damage resulting therefrom, when exposed to the temperature and vapor pressure differentials encountered in dwellings.

(5) Heat transfer. Resistance to or capacity for transmission, absorption, reflection and emissivity of heat.

(6) Infiltration and ventilation.

(7) Fire resistance.

(8) Vermin resistance.

(9) Light transmission.

(10) Sound transmission.

§ 753.47 General note. Authorization to construct "Experimental Housing" will not be granted for the purpose of running tests solely on Consumer Acceptance. However, where the experiment is justified by demonstrating the need for tests on (1) construction methods, or (2) physical properties, further tests on consumer acceptance may be made.

§ 753.48 Restrictions on use of materials. Unless exceptions are granted by the National Housing Agency, authorization to construct experimental housing is limited by the restrictions on use of materials of Priorities Regulation 33 and VHP–1, which provide cost and other limitations.

If it is necessary to depart from these restrictions, the applicant should address a separate letter (original and four copies) to the National Housing Agency, Technical Branch, Washington 25, D. C. The original and two copies should accompany (not attached) the application, and one copy should be attached to each of the copies of the application. Each exception should be fully described and justified.

In special cases where the extent of departure from material restrictions of PR 33 and VHP 1 cannot be determined at the time of forwarding the original application, consideration will be given to a subsequent request by letter (original and four copies) addressed to the National Housing Agency, Technical Branch, NHA, Washington 25, D. C. The applicant should understand that authorization to construct experimental housing does not imply that exceptions to the restrictions on the use of materials will always be granted.

§ 753.49 Application procedure—(a) Form. Application for permission to construct experimental housing (See § 753.44. When Permission is Required), should be made on Form CPA 4386 "Application for Residential Construction under Priorities Regulation 33 as Amended" as enclosed herewith. This Form shall be used whether the experimental house is to be prefabricated, or built on the site.

(b) Filing. Submit original and two copies of the application direct to the Technical Branch, National Housing Agency, Washington 25, D. C. Do not file copies with the Civilion Production Administration since instructions on Form CPA 4386 concerning filing do not apply to "Experimental Housing."

(c) Instructions. Complete sections I and V only of the Application Form CPA 4386 and omit sections II, III, and IV. Follow the instructions given on the form with these exceptions: Under Item 5 section I:

Insert "Experimental Housing" in street address block. If request is made for departure from the restrictions on use of materials as described in Item 6 of this Guide, also insert "See attached letter requesting exceptions from VHP–1 and PR 33" in same block.

NOTE: If construction grades of plywood such as: ¼" Wallboard, 3/8" Wallboard, ¼" SOIS, 5/16" Sheathing, 3/8" Sheathing, ½" Sheathing and 5/8" Sheathing all of moisture resistant grade; and ¼" SOIS and 3/8" SOIS of waterproof grade are required, these are to be listed in amount and location in structure on a sheet attached to Form 4386.

(d) Project description. Insert description of project on attached sheets. A complete set of the sheets should be attached to each copy of the application. In the attachments show clearly by drawings, outline specifications or descriptions, sufficient information to define clearly the method or use of materials, or equipment that constitute departure from conventional construction and detail all the information indicated by Items 4 and 5 of this Guide concerning Criteria and Tests.

§ 753.50 Approval. Approval of the application on Form 4386 by the NHA Technical Branch constitutes permission for construction in accordance with Order VHP–1 and PR 33. It covers only the buildings, structures, roads, installations, parts, sections or units specifically approved.

Departure from the requirements of PR 33 cannot be made unless specifically approved by letter to the applicant from the National Housing Agency following the procedure set forth in Item 6 of this Guide regarding Restrictions on Use of Materials.

§ 753.51 Additional information. For additional information write to the Technical Branch, Office of the Administrator, National Housing Agency, Washington 25, D. C.

SUBPART F—PREMIUM PAYMENTS

§ 753.52 Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946. Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946 authorizes the payment of premiums where temporarily necessary to stimulate the production of materials for the veterans' emergency housing program and for the construction, maintenance and repair essential to the national well being. The Act permits payment of premiums only on additional production not otherwise attainable.

§ 753.53 Regulations. A separate regulation is issued under the Act for each material for which the Housing Expediter determined that a premium payment plan is necessary to increase the supply of the material and to stimulate additional production with greater rapidity, economy and certainty than other available methods.

§ 753.54 Quotas. Each individual regulation describes how quotas are established (production not in excess of quota is deemed attainable without payment of premiums) and the methods, procedures and conditions under which such payments may be obtained. In conformity with the Act each regulation is designed to avoid either economic dislocations or adverse effects upon established business.

§ 753.53 Information. The places at which the public may secure information or make submittals or requests are as follows:

(3) Approved inspectors, approved architects, approved engineers and approved reconditioning contractors. Approved reconditioning inspectors, architects, engineers and contractors, whether an individual, partnership, or corporation, shall be appointed or their services terminated upon the approval of the Regional Manager, subject to the veto of the General Manager. Each applicant for fee assignments must execute an approved application form (CFR Title 24, Chapter IV and Supps., § 402.17–3.) See also § 402.17–4, fees for reconditioning, architectural and engineering services; special reconditioning assignments, mechanical tests of plumbing, heating, lighting, etc., § 402.17-7; and securing bids for reconditioning § 402.17-9; award of reconditioning, § 402.17-10; reconditioning extras and credits; partial payments to contractors, § 402.17-12; contractor's and materialmen's lien releases, § 402.17-14; public liability, and workmen's compensation insurance, § 402.-17-16.

(4) Approved appraisers. Property appraisals are required under many Corporation procedures and for many purposes. When required, such appraisals are made by staff employees or by approved fee appraisers. Appraisal fees to be paid fee appraisers are fixed by the General Manager under CFR Title 24, Chapter IV, § 402.16-4.

(5) Brokers as approved fee appraisers. Approved property appraisers, who are contract sales or management brokers, are ineligible to receive assignments for appraisals of Corporation-owned properties. Approved property appraisers who are approved sales brokers may submit appraisal reports under the authority and procedure set forth in CFR Title 24, Chapter IV and supps. Section 402.16-6.

(6) Corporation organization or representative citizen as broker. Under CFR Title 24, Chapter IV, Section 402.23-5, the General Manager may set up a Corporation organization in any area or locality to perform the functions of contract sales and management brokers, and in areas where the services of a satisfactory broker are not available, the Regional Manager may arrange for a representative citizen of the community to perform the duties and functions usually performed by contract management and sales brokers.

§ 400.13 Public information, submittals and requests. Submittals and requests for public information of a general nature should be made to the General Manager, Home Owners' Loan Corporation, 2 Park Avenue, New York, 16, N. Y. Requests for information concerning a particular case or the operations of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in a particular State or Territory should be addressed to the appropriate Regional Manager or to the General Manager if the inquiry relates to a case or to operations in a State or Territory under his immediate direction. It is preferred that such submittals and requests be made by correspondence.

While certain matters require the filing of applications and other forms to expedite their completion, the original submittals and requests may be initiated by letter. Submittals and requests for information relative to the purchase or rental of a Corporation-owned property may be directed to the Contract Sales Broker or to the Contract Management Broker with whom the property has been listed. Such requests may be made personally, by telephone, or by letter.

Requests for information of a strictly legal nature should be submitted to the appropriate Regional Counsel, to the Associate General Counsel, 2 Park Avenue, New York 16, N. Y., or to the General Counsel, Washington 25, D. C.

(a) Availability of final opinions, orders and rules. The Home Owners' Loan Corporation does not issue any opinions or orders in the adjudication of cases in the judicial or quasi-judicial manner contemplated under Section 3 (b) of the Administrative Procedure Act.

(b) Availability of official records. The types of official records of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation are:

(1) Bonds, investment securities, mortgagors' notes and bonds, mortgages, and other security instruments.

(2) General Administrative correspondence, reports and records.

(3) Case files containing detailed information with respect to the individual loans and sales made by the Corporation, and to properties acquired by the Corporation.

The appropriate records of any case will be divulged only to persons properly and directly concerned and having a legitimate interest therein. If necessary and proper photostatic or typed copies may be furnished at cost.

Records relating solely to the internal management of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, and such other records as may be held confidential for good cause, will not be divulged.

SUBPART B-1—LOAN SERVICE PROCEDURES AND INSURANCE

§ 400.202 Procedures governing loan accounts, security properties and Corporation-owned properties. The operations, functions, and activities of the Corporation are broadly classified into two categories; the one, covering the work associated with the servicing of loan accounts; the other, with the management of Corporation-owned properties. The first category covers the more important and most frequently used loan service procedures; the second subdivision includes the more prominent property management procedures.

§ 400.202a Procedures governing servicing treatment of loan accounts and security properties. Many of the loan service operations, functions and activities of the Corporation have been reduced to well defined, simplified procedures. All of these loan service operations, functions and activities are so controlled that even in unusual cases or circumstances, persons dealing with the Corporation are able to receive speedy, efficient and complete service from the proper Regional Office.

(a) Loan service policies and objectives of Corporation. The objectives of the Corporation's servicing program are to protect the Corporation's investments in the securities it holds in its portfolio; to maintain the maximum possible number of loan accounts in good standing; to deal speedily, effectively and sympathetically with those who are, or become, in default; to secure the facts in each case and promptly take such action as the circumstances may warrant. This policy of the Corporation is set forth in greater detail in §§ 402.01; 402.01-2; 402.01-3; 402.01-5; 402.01-6; 402.02-1 and 402.02.20 of this chapter. The procedures and Corporation policies governing the following enumerated operations will be found in the parts of the Code of Federal Regulations referred to after each titled procedure.

(b) Need for and requirements of procedures. It would be impossible to enumerate every action that might be taken by the Corporation with respect to the loan accounts carried in its portfolio and equally impossible to adopt a procedure controlling the processing of every such action. Planned procedures have been designed for the processing of actions where either the nature of the transaction or the quantity of particular actions being processed have suggested a need for routine channelling and centralized determination. These procedures lack severe formality and technical requirements and are extended as need, circumstance or occasion require to cover almost every possible type or kind of loan account action. No home owner need suffer even inconvenience because of the lack of an established designated procedure to cover a particular action, for through the medium of a simple communication, officers of the Corporation, within their vested authority, are able to direct any kind of action respecting a loan account, so long as the best interests of the Corporation are neither jeopardized or sacrificed. Some loan service activities have an effect only on the loan account, such as extensions and amortizations, and the maintenance of tax and insurance accounts, while others have a mixed effect both on the loan account and on the security property, such as partial releases and division of security and indebtedness.

§ 400.204 Extensions and amortizations. The Home Owners' Loan Act (Public Law 43, 73rd Congress, H. R. 5240; approved June 13, 1933) was amended to allow the Home Owners' Loan Corporation to extend the period of amortization of home loans from fifteen to twenty-five years (Public Law 381, 76th Congress, S. 628, approved August 11, 1939). The Corporation, through its respective Regional Managers, with the advice of the Regional Counsel, pursuant to the authority granted under the foregoing amendment to the original act, where the circumstances of the home owner, condition of the security, and best interests of the Corporation justify it, may grant extensions for the payment of any amount, including principal, interest and advances, or the unpaid balance of the account, and change the payment plan contained in the loan or sales instrument, whether the account is delinquent or not, and in connection with any such transaction, may accept an extension or other agreement, or new obligation and security instrument and execute any such instrument or cause the same to be executed by a duly authorized officer of the Corporation as provided for under 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.04-2. The procedure and Corporation policy applicable to the processing of such extensions and amortizations are recorded in 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.04-1; 402.04-2; 402.04-3; 402.04-6; 402.04-7; 402.04-11; 402.13-1.

(a) Legal procedure and policy applicable to extension agreements. Extension agreements shall be executed under the control and general supervision of the General Counsel, who is authorized to issue all necessary instructions relating thereto and to permit or approve such deviations in and from approved forms or procedure promulgated hereunder as he may deem proper with respect to specific cases or particular localities. (See 24 CFR, and Supps., 406.08.)

§ 400.205 Tax and insurance accounts; procedure and purpose. In some instances, tax and insurance accounts are established through the provisions of the note, bond, mortgage, deed of trust, mortgage deed, or other security or sales instrument. In other cases, the account is established by separate and distinct agreement entered into between the Corporation and the home owner either at the time of the execution of the security or sale instrument or subsequent thereto, either as a separate transaction or in connection with some other loan service operation, such as the negotiation and execution of an extension agreement, wherein the establishment of such an account, if not in existence is required. (See 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.04-2.) For the procedure controlling this Corporation operation, expression of Corporation policy concerning the same and the tenor and intent of the agreements establishing such tax and insurance accounts, see 24 CFR and Supps., 402.51-1; 402.05-4; 402.05-7; 402.05-9. The procedure is designed to place within the control of the Corporation the payment of taxes as they become payable, or at other times deemed by the Corporation to be in the best interest of the home owner and the Corporation and to procure such insurance as the Corporation requires at such times as will assure constant and adequate insurance coverage within the requirements of Corporation regulations and the home owners' obligation under the provisions of the security instruments. Where such accounts are maintained the home owner is required to pay to the Corporation each month at the same time as the regular monthly payment of principal and interest is made, an amount calculated by the Corporation to be equivalent to one-twelfth of the estimated annual tax and usually one thirty-sixth of a three-year insurance premium. This monthly payment is subject to adjustments as annual taxes increase or decrease and as the insurance rates change. In most cases, if payments are made regularly by the home owner, the account will contain sufficient funds to enable the Corporation to make all required tax and insurance disbursements with money accumulated by the home owner. Should the amount accumulated be insufficient to pay a tax item or items or to purchase required insurance, the Corporation may advance the necessary funds and bill the account accordingly. Balances thus accumulated in excess of actual requirements may, in the discretion of the Corporation, be applied to the loan account. The monthly billing notice sent to the home owner contains the current and unpaid accrual for taxes and insurance and sets forth the credit balance or deficit in the account.

(a) Establishing tax and insurance account for insurance. The procedure followed in establishing and adjusting the monthly accrual for insurance is set forth under 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.15-100.

(1) Insurance expiration notices. Expiration Notice Form 536 is forwarded to the home owner under the circumstances set forth in 24 CFR, and supps., 402.15-11.

(2) Direct insurance coverage furnished by home owner in tax and insurance account cases. Direct coverage submitted by home owners having a tax and insurance account must be acceptable to the Corporation as required under 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.15-12f. (See also § 400.17-1.) For suspension or adjustment of tax and insurance accruals in such cases see § 402.15-12g. For procedure reestablishing insurance accruals, see § 402.15-15-14b. No funds accumulated in the tax and insurance accounts shall be disbursed to pay any agent or insurance company for policies ordered by the home owner direct unless approved by the General Manager. (See § 402.15-18.) For procedure governing financed premium on direct policies, see § 402.15-12e.

(3) Insurance ordered by Corporation on security properties. The Corporation's procedure relative to the ordering of insurance in cases where a tax and insurance account is being maintained, may be found in 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.15-14. See also §§ 402.15-18 and 402.15-14a, covering minimum premium cases.

(b) Establishment of tax and insurance accounts in sales on terms of Corporation-owned properties. Tax and insurance accounts are provided for under the terms of the agreement for sale used in sales on terms. The procedure followed is designed to start the account with a sufficient sum to enable the Corporation to pay taxes and insurance as they become payable with the home owners's deposited funds rather than with Corporation advances. What is called a "lump sum" payment may be required at closing to start the account with an adequate amount for the accomplishment of that purpose. The pertinent procedure is set forth in 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.48-7c.

§ 400.206 Foreclosure affecting security properties. After all efforts to collect the debt owing the Corporation have been made, as is provided by the rules and regulations, and all efforts to assist the home owner have been exhausted and it becomes necessary to protect the taxpayers, the Regional Manager may authorize foreclosure or the acceptance of a deed in lieu thereof. When deeds in lieu of foreclosure are accepted from home owners in settlement of the indebtedness owing to the Corporation, no sum shall be paid to the owner of the property but as a part of the consideration for such deed, an owner may be permitted to continue in possession of the premises for a limited time within the discretion of the Regional Manager under advice of the Regional Counsel. A foreclosure may be suspended or withdrawn, the loan may be extended or reamortized or new security instruments may be accepted, under the authority of applicable regulations. The Corporation's foreclosure procedure may be found in 24 CFR, and Supps. 402.06-1; 402.-06-4; 402.06-6; 402.06-7; 402.06-9; 402.-06-12; 402.06-13. The Corporation's foreclosure procedure is necessarily supplemented by the actual foreclosure suit, or sale, usually conducted by approved foreclosure attorneys, all of which such proceedings are conducted under the terms of the mortgage contract or other security instrument and within the legal authority of the jurisdiction wherein the property is located.

(a) Legal procedure in foreclosure cases. Legal proceedings seeking the liquidation of a loan account by foreclosure, or the acceptance of a deed in lieu thereof, are conducted under the supervision and control of the General Counsel by staff or approved fee attorneys. The purpose of foreclosure proceedings conducted by the Corporation is not only to effect a sale of the security property but also to liquidate, if possible, the outstanding unpaid indebtedness due the Corporation. In all foreclosure proceedings determination is made by the Corporation whether any action is to be taken to obtain a deficiency judgment against persons liable to the Corporation on the notes, bonds or other obligations. Determination is also made by the Corporation whether a deficiency judgment is to be collected in full or settled, adjusted, compromised, or charged off in whole or in part as a bad debt. The legal procedure and pertinent portions of Corporation policy relative to foreclosures, deficiency judgments and related matter will be found in 24 CFR, and Supps., 406.05a to 406.05d, both inclusive; 406.05i, 406.05j, 406.05l, 406.05–6. For the treatment of claims arising in connection with foreclosure cases which affect oil burners, refrigerators, kitchen ranges, or similar chattels, and the authority of the Regional Counsel, with the approval of the Regional Manager to settle, adjust, or compromise such claims, see § 402.20–8.

(1) Deeds in lieu of foreclosure. Deeds in lieu of foreclosure may be accepted from owners of mortgaged properties in settlement of the indebtedness owing to the Corporation. In connection with such acceptance, each Regional Manager is authorized, in his discretion and with the approval of the Regional Counsel, to expend funds to satisfy, remove, release, or acquire intervening liens or rights. The procedure and policy governing the acquisition of title by deed in lieu of foreclosure, as well as the settlement, purchase or other disposition of intervening liens or rights and related matters, will be found in 24 CFR, and Supps., 406.05j, 406.05l; 406.05–9; 406.05–11.

(b) Insurance in foreclosure cases. The pendency of foreclosure proceedings necessitates an examination of the sufficiency of the insurance existing in each case. The procedure governing such review or examination and authorizing the Corporation to take such action as will provide required protection to the Corporation, will be found in 24 CFR and Supps., 402.15–14c; 402.15–15; 402.15–16; 402.15–17; 402.15–23; 402.15–25.

(1) Insured losses on properties under foreclosure. Insured losses on properties in process of foreclosure shall be handled as the Regional Manager, with the advice of the Regional Counsel, may direct. The Corporation may participate in this loss adjustment and the Regional Counsel shall advise with respect to the Corporation's right to make entry on the premises. (See 24 CFR and Supps., 402.15–40).

(c) Continuation of tax and insurance account during foreclosure or acquisition proceedings. During foreclosure or acquisition, however accomplished, regular monthly accruals will be continued subject to the direction of the Regional Counsel or the Loans and Properties Division. (See 24 CFR and Supps., 402.05–9.)

(d) Inspection of property during foreclosure or other acquisition proceeding; emergency repairs. Authority for the making of emergency repairs for the protection of the property against vandalism and the elements, will be found in 24 CFR and Supps., 402.07–3. After listing with the broker the responsibility for the protection of the property and the making of such repairs is the responsibility of the Contract Management Broker (§ 402.18–1); for his authority and limitations thereon see § 402.18–2; Legal Department approval must be obtained under § 402.18–3; to the extent applicable the procedure for repairing Corporation-owned properties must be followed (See § 402.18–4 and for repair and reconditioning of acquired properties see §§ 402.17–3; 402.17–4; 402.17–7; 402.17–9; 402.17–10 to 12 both inclusive; 402.17–16; 402.17–17; 402.21–4; 402.24–2; 402.24–3; 402.24–3a; 402.24–4; 402.24–5); for repairs during receivership whether requested by the Corporation or the Receiver see §§ 402.18–5; 402.18–6.

§ 400.207 Inspection of security properties. The Corporation's procedures permit the periodic inspection of security properties and in the event any property is determined to be vacant, unoccupied or abandoned, the concerned Regional Manager may take reasonable action to protect the property from vandalism and the elements. The pertinent procedure relative to this loan servicing activity may be found in 24 CFR 402.07–3.

(a) Vacancy or increased hazard endorsements to be affixed to insurance policies. Necessary or appropriate endorsements of insurance policies shall be obtained upon receipt by the Corporation of notification of vacancy, unoccupancy, tenancy occupancy, change of owenrship or other changes and such further action taken as is required under 24 CFR and Supps., 402.15–24 and 402.15–26.

(b) Inspection and repair of properties during foreclosure or other method of acquisition. During the period of acquisition and after listing the property with the Contract Management Broker it is his responsibility to protect the property against vandalism and the elements. For the procedure to be followed during such acquisition proceeding see 24 CFR and Supps., 402.18–1; 402.18–2; 402.18–3; 402.18–4.

§ 400.208. Repairs and reconditioning of security properties. The Regional Manager may authorize advances for the account of home owners to accomplish reconditioning of any nature whatsoever, including advances for reconditioning which has been partially or fully performed by home owners, not in conformity with established regulations, Provided, Such reconditioning is determined to be in the best interests of the Corporation in order to protect its security, to facilitate the collection of the indebtedness owing to the Corporation, or to promote the orderly liquidation of the assets of the Corporation; and may incur and approve the amount and payment of fees and expenses in connection with such advances, provided that the prior approval of the General Manager shall be obtained:

(a) When advances are made to protect the orderly liquidation of the assets of the Corporation; or

(b) The amount to be authorized, exclusive of legal and inspection fees, exceeds $1,000.00.

Generally, such reconditioning advances require the execution of a new security instrument, sometimes supplemental to the original security instrument and other times in the form of a new mortgage. The many ramifications of this operation require a complementary adequate procedure, which procedure is recorded in 24 CFR, 402.08–1 to 402.08–9, both inclusive; and 402.08–11.

(1) Repair, reconditioning or restoration of property after fire or other insured casualty. Under 24 CFR and Supps., 402.15–38 insurance loss proceeds may be applied by the Corporation to the payment of the repair or reconditioning of the property or the restoration thereof and the necessary work may be performed by the home owner or under his supervision, or it may be performed under the Corporation's procedure set forth in § 400.15–7 to the extent the same is applicable. If the loss proceeds are insufficient to pay for the full cost of restoration a reconditioning advance may be made to supplement insurance loss proceeds. (See 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.15–39).

(2) Emergency or necessary repairs to protect property after damage by fire or other casualty during acquisition proceedings. Emergency or necessary repairs to restore damage caused by fire or other insured casualty may be undertaken during acquisition proceedings, but the Corporation's right to collect the loss under such policies as may exist should not be impaired. (See 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.18–2 and for the procedure in making such repairs § 402.18–1 to 402.18–6 both inclusive.

§ 400.209 Changes in ownership of security properties. Where an officer or employee of the Corporation desires to purchase any property on which the Corporation holds a sales or loan instrument, the Corporation regards its interest therein of sufficient importance to inquire into the transaction to determine that the sale is voluntary on the part of the home owner. The Corporation's procedure concerning such sales will be found in 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.09–3 and function of Home Office Property Committee, § 402.21–3. In cases where the home owner or other obligor has died the Regional Manager may direct that a claim be filed against the estate of the deceased. The procedure covering this Corporation operation will be found in 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.09–06. All changes in the ownership of security properties should be reported to the concerned Regional Manager of the Corporation by either the former or new home owner. Such reports may be in letter form and should include a copy of the deed of conveyance or an abstract thereof. Transfers in ownership of security properties should be reported to the Corporation immediately after such transfer takes place primarily because in many States under the provisions of the loan instruments the Corporation may require the new owner to execute a collateral bond or other evidence of the assumption of the indebtedness by the transferee, in default of which the Corporation may declare the debt or the balance thereof due immediately.

(a) Continuation of tax and insurance account after transfer. Tax and insurance accounts will continue in effect after the transfer of ownership unless the Regional Manager with the advice of the Regional Counsel directs otherwise. (See § 402.05–09.)

(b) Filing of claims against estate of deceased borrowers. In cases where the home owner or other obligor has died, the Regional Manager may direct that a claim be filed against the estate. Such claim shall be filed where the Regional Counsel advises that it is necessary to protect the Corporation. (For the foregoing procedure and procedure governing the treatment of loan accounts where the borrower or other obligor has died, see § 402.09–06.)

§ 400.210 Changes in liens or properties securing indebtedness. The Corporation's policies and procedures are sufficiently flexible to permit the Corporation to take any action with respect to changes in liens or properties securing indebtedness not inconsistent with the Corporation's best interests and not in conflict with the terms of the loan instruments or the law of the jurisdiction wherein the property is located and to permit the use of any funds coming into the Corporation's possession for purposes other than application to the loan account, as set forth under 24 CFR and Supps., §§ 402.11–1 and 403.08–8 and § 400.211. Specific illustration of procedures covering particular transactions are herein enumerated, but the procedures available are appropriate for use in most other types of changes in liens or properties securing indebtedness. All of the following references are located under Title 24, Chapter IV of the Code of Federal Regulations and the Supplements thereto:

(a) Partial releases: Sections 402.10–3; 402.10–4; 402.10–5.

(b) Waivers, or subordination on consent to easement: Section 402.10–7.

(c) Division of Security and Indebtedness: Sections 402.10–9; 402.10–11.

(d) Substitution of Security: Sections 402.10–12; 402.10–13; 402.10–14.

(e) Consents to alterations, improvements, removal or demolition of security property: Sections 402.10–15; bond required, 402.10–16.

(f) Consents to improvements by other Federal Agencies: Sections 402.10–17.

(g) Conversion of instalment contracts into mortgage accounts: Section 402.10–18.

§ 400.211 Miscellaneous credits. Within well-defined limitations as set forth in 24 CFR and Supps., 402.11–1 and 403.08–8, to which reference is here made the Regional Manager sometimes with the advice of the Regional Counsel is authorized to permit the payment of taxes, assessments, other governmental levies and charges, ground rents, attorney's fees, insurance adjuster's fees, appraisal fees and the cost of reconditioning from, or make such other disposition as he deems proper of, funds received by the home owner, or by the Corporation as mortgagee or assignee, in connection with any of the transactions discussed or contemplated under § 400.210 of this procedural resume or any other transaction which otherwise reduces or diminishes the security held by the Corporation or the property sold by it, except repayments, before directing that the net amount received by the Corporation be applied to the appropriate account, as provided in 24 CFR, and Supps., Part 403.

§ 400.213 Junior liens. When the interest of the Corporation is affected by the claims of a junior lienholder, the Regional Manager may authorize (a) the suspension of servicing for a reasonable period of time; (b) the granting of an extension for payment of the Corporation's indebtedness, and (c) the foreclosure of the Corporation's mortgage or other security instrument within the authority prescribed and under the limitations imposed under 24 CFR, and Supps. 402.13–1.

§ 400.214 Tax-procedure. The Corporation's tax records are maintained and tax payments are prepared by the Tax Section of the Loans and Properties Division. In cases where a tax and insurance account is being maintained in connection with a loan account, taxes are vouchered for payment by the Tax Section. In other cases the Section maintains an adequate record of taxes and for the purpose of maintaining such records on a current basis may obtain tax receipts from home owners, or obtain evidence of payment from tax officials, or such other independent sources of information as have been approved for use by the General Manager, or within his authority, by the Regional Manager. Whether the actual payment of taxes is accomplished by the Corporation through the medium of a tax and insurance account or paid directly by the home owner, or by a tax advance made by the Corporation, the obligation of keeping the property free and clear from liens or sales resulting from default in making such tax payment is that of the home owner.

(a) Obtaining tax information; tax searches. Information regarding the payment of taxes, assessments or other governmental levies or charges, as may be necessary to maintain approved records and to protect the Corporation from loss, shall be obtained annually unless otherwise directed by the General Manager, by search of the public records, information received from tax collectors, examination of tax receipts, or other evidence of payment furnished by home owners or other persons paying such items, or by such other method as the General Manager may determine.. The foregoing authority and the procedure under which Regional Managers are authorized and directed to make the same effective may be found in 24 CFR and Supps. 402.14–3.

(b) Authority of Regional Manager to direct payment of taxes. The Regional Manager is authorized to direct the payment of any taxes, assessment, ground rents, or other levies or charges, or the repayment to effect redemption or recovery from any levy, sale, loss or forfeiture resulting from the non-payment thereof. Under prescribed circumstances the Regional Manager, with the approval of the General Manager, and the advice of the General Counsel, may direct the purchase of bonds or other evidence of indebtedness and to direct the transfer or surrender of same in payment of taxes, assessments, or other levies or charges. (See 24 CFR and Supps., 402.14–4.)

(c) Payment of taxes in partial release transactions. The Regional Manager has the authority in partial release transactions to direct the payment of taxes prorated to the portion of the property retained under the Corporation's security, as a tax advance. (See 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.10–5.)

(d) Tax and insurance accounts. For details concerning such accounts, see this digest Section 400.214 (d) et seq. and reference therein to 24 CFR and Supps., chapter IV.

(e) Repayment of tax advances. If any tax or other advance is made under the provisions of 24 CFR and Supps. 402.14–4 (see § 400.214 (b)), the same shall be payable to the Corporation on demand, otherwise directed. The procedure covering such advances and their repayment either on demand or over an amortized period will be found in 24 CFR and Supps., 402.14–7.

(f) Advances for stock or rights in improvement companies. Under the procedure set forth in 24 CFR and Supps., 402.14–8, the Regional Manager, with the advice of the Regional Counsel, may make advances for stock on rights in ditch, water, artesian well or local improvement companies.

(g) Consents to moratoria or assessments. The Regional Manager, with the advice of the Regional Counsel, may grant consents to home owners to enable them to comply with the necessary requirements to obtain the benefit of moratoria established or declared by proper legislative authority or legal action, relating to taxes, assessments, or other governmental levies or charges. (See 24 CFR. and Supps., 402.14–12.)

§ 400.215 Insurance covering security properties and corporation-owned properties. All properties owned by the Corporation or securing indebtedness to the Corporation, must be insured against loss by fire and, in certain localities, against loss by windstorm or other hazards as provided in the Consolidated Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and published in part under 24 CFR and Supps., §§ 402.15–1; 402.15–3 to 402.15–7, both inclusive; 402.15–10 to 402.15–18, both inclusive; 402.15–20; 402.15–23 to 402.15–26, both inclusive; 402.15–28; 402.15–30 to 402.15–32, both inclusive; 402.15–34; 402.15–35; 402.15–37 to 402.15–41, both inclusive; 402.15–43; and 402.15–44. While substantiad portions of the Corporation's policies and procedures have equal application to security properties and to Corporation-owned properties, many of the policies and procedures are limited in their application to security properties alone. All matters concerning insurance are administered, however, by the Loans and Properties Division of the Corporation under the authority and procedures prescribed in the Consolidated Manual of the Corporation. Certain insurance procedures having particular application to other Corporation operations have been referred to under the procedures provided for such operations.

(a) Acceptable and not acceptable policies. The Regional Manager may accept insurance policies furnished by home owners on properties securing indebtedness to the Corporation or sold by the Corporation on sales contract when home owners comply with the provisions of 24 CFR and Supps., § 402.15–3. (See also §§ 402.15–12 and 402.15–12a.) Policies having a three-fourths value clause, or other restrictive clause limiting the amount of the collectible insurance to an amount less than Corporation requirements, are not acceptable (§ 402.15–12c). For Corporation procedure when less than acceptable insurance is furnished, see § 402.15–12d. For disposition of renewal policies, see § 402.15–12i.

(b) Insurance required by the Corporation. The amount and kinds of insurance required differs according to the hazards that exist in particular localities throughout the area of the Corporation's operations. These insurance requirements, with respect to Corporation-owned properties, properties sold on sales contract and properties securing liens, are recorded under 24 CFR, 402.15–4; as to windstorm and other insurance requirements, including hail insurance and explosion insurance (§ 401.15–5); as to extended coverage insurance (§§ 402.15–5 and 402.15–6).

(h) Insurance ordered by Corporation on security properties. The Corporation will undertake the ordering of insurance acceptable to the Corporation under the circumstances and procedure set forth in 24 CFR and Supps., 402.15–14. The same section applies to cases wherein a tax and insurance account is being maintained. (See § 400.205 (b).)

(i) Minimum premium cases. When the minimum premium imposed by insurance regualtions will purchase more insurance than the Corporation requires, insurance in an amount or term sufficient to absorb the minimum premium will be procured provided the value of the improvements so warrants. (See 24 CFR and Supps., 402.15–14a.)

(j) Insurance in foreclosure cases. The pendency of proceedings seeking the liquidation of an indebtedness due the Corporation by foreclosure or otherwise, necessitates an examination of the sufficiency of the insurance existing in each case. The procedure governing such review or examination and authorizing the Corporation to take such action as will provide required protection to the Corporation, will be found in 24 CFR and Supps., 402.15–14c; 402.15–16; 402.15–23; 402.15–25. (See also § 400.206 (b); idem).

(m) Vacancy or increased hazard endorsement. Under the provisions of 24 CFR and Supps., 402.15–24, the Corporation shall, whenever the property situation changes by vacancy, partial release or other changes, or by increased hazard, notice of such change shall be given the insurance carrier and such endorsements, as required, shall be obtained and attached to the insurance policy, and such other action shall be taken as the procedure requires. The cost of any endorsements shall be charged to the proper account under § 402.15–25. (See § 402.207.)

(n) Lost or misplaced policies. Replacing policies shall be obtained under the requirements of 24 CFR and Supps., 402.15–26, and under the same section, if the original policy is found, it shall be returned to the issuing agent.

(o) Disposition of insurance when loan is paid in full. Upon receipt of notice that a home owner intends to pay the loan in full, determination shall be made as to what must be done with respect to the Corporation's interest in existing insurance, and upon payment in full of the loan, the policies shall be disposed of and such other action taken as is required by 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.15–28.

(p) Fee attorneys and appraisers acting as insurance agents. Under 24 CFR and Supps., 402.15–30, fee attorneys and appraisers are allowed to rewrite policies of insurance which they have previously written on risks which are covered by loans from the Corporation. They are, under the same section, prohibited from writing insurance on risks covered by loans of the Corporation which have not been heretofore written by them and from making memoranda or notes of expiration of any kind for future solicitation.

(q) Authority of Regional Manager to adjust insurance losses; proofs of loss. The Regional Manager is authorized to adjust and settle all insurance losses sustained on any property owned by the Corporation or securing indebtedness held by the Corporation, except that, in the event an amicable settlement cannot be reached, the matter shall be referred to the General Manager for appropriate action. (See 24 CFR and Supps., 402.15–31). The Regional Manager may direct the disposition of insurance loss funds, may execute proof of loss and any other forms in security property and Corporation-owned cases (§ 402.15–31); "Loss" and "amount of loss" mean the amount paid by the carrier for the damage (§ 402.15–32); owner must make emergency repairs to avoid further loss, but if home owner cannot do so, Regional Manager may give immediate approval to the performance of such work (§ 402.15–34); in home owner cases the making of adjustment with the insurance carrier is the owner's obligation but the Regional Manager may cooperate or order cooperation; adjusters and attorneys fees may not be paid from loss proceeds except where permitted under § 402.11-1. (See § 402.15–34); for Corporation's interest and procedure in loss proceeds of $100 or less in security property cases see § 402.15–37; where loss proceeds in such cases are over $100, see § 402.15–38; for procedure in losses or properties owned or under foreclosure, see §§ 400.15–6; 402.15–40.

(v) Insurance furnished at time of sale of owned property. Acceptable insurance must be furnished to the Corporation at the time of sale closing. If insurance furnished is not acceptable, Corporation may proceed to obtain same as set forth under 24 CFR and Supps., 402.15–12h.

(w) Establishing tax and insurance accounts for insurance. The procedure followed by the Corporation in establishing a tax and insurance account for insurance is set forth in 24 CFR and Supps., 402.15–10; the home owner may provide direct insurance coverage when such accounts are maintained within the provisions and under the limitations of § 402.15–12f; tax and insurance accruals may be suspended if direct coverage is acceptable to the Corporation under § 402.15–12g, and such accruals may be reestablished under § 402.15–14b; but home owner must pay premium if direct coverage is obtained, unless the General Manager approves payment of such premium by the Corporation. Cases beyond the authority of the Regional Manager must be submitted, under the same regulations, to the General Manager for direction.

§ 400.232 Payment in full of loan balance. A home owner may pay a loan balance in full at any time. Such payment in full should be made on the basis of a statement of the account prepared by the Corporation for that purpose. Statements will be furnished upon the request of the home owner, or some person on his behalf, directed to the Regional Manager, and payment may be made by certified check, cashier's check, money order or in cash.

When a loan has been paid in full within Corporation regulations and procedure, an appropriate satisfaction, release or other instrument may be executed as provided in 24 CFR and Supps., 403.01–9, for disposition of insurance when loan is paid in full (See § 402.15–28); for handling of remittances identified as paid in full refer to § 403.16–1; for procedure when amount paid is more or less than amount required (See § § 403.16–4; 403.16–5); settlement may be handled through an escrow agent, acceptable to the Corporation if debtor does not desire to transmit payment before receipt of discharge, satisfaction or release (See § 403.16–11); paid in full, remittances are processed as regular payments under § 403.06–48.

(a) Payment by Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds. Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds may be tendered as payment of all or part of the indebtedness due the Corporation and they will be accepted, processed and credited as provided in § § 403.06–63 and 404.04–4.

SUBPART B—PROPERTY MANAGEMENT PROCEDURES

§ 400.216 Scope of Corporation's property management procedure. The procedures governing the Corporation's Loan Service activity are so coordinated with the procedure established for its property management operations that conflict between them is avoided and at the same time each security property is maintained at all times within the control and operation of either the loan service procedures or the Corporation's property management activity and its applicable procedures. When determination is made that the best interests of the Corporation may be served by foreclosure or other means of liquidating the indebtedness due the Corporation, the security property passes from the loan service status to property management supervision. This property management supervision is carried on simultaneous with the legal action by foreclosure, by suit or publication or the acceptance of a deed in lieu of foreclosure, which action or actions are conducted independently by the Regional Counsel or by approved attorneys under his supervision. Dependent upon the Corporation's contractual or statutory right ,the Regional Counsel, upon the recommendation of the Regional Manager, undertakes all necessary legal actions to secure for the Corporation the full and complete enjoyment of its legal rights, such as compelling the attornment or vacation of recalcitrant tenants or owners in possession, the payment of rent and kindred actions. While the Corporation has discontinued its servicing activity, it stands available for the further servicing of the loan account at the request of the home owner, and is prepared during the period of acquisition to consider, through its Regional Managers, any reasonable plan of rehabilitation that will save the home for the owner and at the same time not jeopardize the best interests of the Corporation.

As in the Corporation's loan service activities, procedures have not and cannot be designed to control every action taken, so it is true with respect to the Corporation's property management activities. The simple expedient of a letter addressed to the Regional Manager will initiate action in any matter. The Contract Management Broker is a valuable source of information or action concerning usual management and tenancy matters and resort to his office is suggested. Sales of Corporation-owned properties are initiated in the office of the Contract Sales Broker, who is often the same individual or organization; who or which is the Contract Management Broker. Offers to purchase may be submitted or information concerning the purchase of a particular Corporation-owned property can be obtained from the Contract Sales Broker or an approved sales broker rather than from the Corporation directly.

§ 400.218 Inspection and care of foreclosed properties prior to acquisition. The primary interest of the Corporation, with respect to the repair of security properties during acquisition, is limited to the repair of the damage caused by vandals or the elements. The responsibility for the avoiding of such damage or for keeping it at a minimum, and the Regional Managers and brokers limited authority to order the making of such repairs, and the procedure to be followed i making them, will be found under 24 CFR, 402.18–1; 402.18–2; 402.18–3; 402.18–4; 402.18–5; 402.18–6.

§ 400.220 Analysis of properties owned; miscellaneous procedures. Based on a complete review and study of appraisals, inspections, Legal Department advices and recommendations, brokers reports, reconditioning reports and recommendations and other pertinent data, Corporation determinations are made, after acquisition, concerning the best manner in which the property can be used or employed to serve the best interests of the Corporation. The authority vested in the Regional Manager and/or the General Manager, sometimes with the approval and frequently with the advice of the Regional Counsel and/or General Counsel, is co-extensive with the problems of property ownership and the need to dispose of such problems in the Corporation's best interests. The Corporation, through this vested authority, can accomplish any requirement or need of the property, whether the problem be one of management, rental, sale, reconditioning, rehabilitation, conversion, demolition, alteration, removal of legal impediments or any other kind. No formal procedure can be designed to cover the proceeding of these numerous miscellaneous actions, resort in most instances being had to the mechanical routing of inter-office procedures, the ultimate result of which, after the obtaining of all requisite departmental rulings, advices and opinions, is the determination of the Regional or General Manager or other proper officer to take a definite action or to refrain from consummating a proposed action. Some miscellaneous procedures of the types herein discussed are the following:

(a) Settlement of claims for items of equipment. The Regional Counsel, with the approval of the Regional Manager, may settle, compromise or acquire, any lien or interest in an oil burner, refrigerator, kitchen range, or other similar chattel when he determines that such settlement, compromise or adjustment is in the Corporation's best interest as prescribed under 24 CFR 402.20–8.

(b) Granting easements, rights of way and other property interests on owned property. The Regional Property Committee shall review, and with the advice of the Regional Counsel, determine what action should be taken by the Corporation with respect to any request for the dedication, grant or consent to the use of any portion of a Corporation-owned property to a public use; for the release of restrictions, reservation, easement, condition, right or right of way or for the release, relinquishment or waiver of any present or prospective action, cause or demand arising out of the use of or ownership by the Corporation of any such property. The authority of the Regional Property Committee is limited as prescribed in the pertinent procedure which may be found in 24 CFR 402.20–9.

(c) Consent to public improvements. The Regional Manager, with the advice of the Regional Counsel, may consent to the making of public improvements and may bind the Corporation to pay its proper portion or part of the cost of sidewalks, street improvements, or other local improvements benefitting property in foreclosure or owned by the Corporation, or for neighborhood improvement, and may, on behalf of the Corporation, join in and sign petitions for such improvements. See 24 CFR and Supps. 402.20–11.

(d) Acquisition of parcels of real property. The Regional Manager, subject to the approval of the General Manager, and with the advice of the Regional Counsel, may do all things necessary to the acquisition of parcels of real property, adjacent, contiguous or related to properties owned by the Corporation, when such acquisition is in the best interests of the Corporation in the liquidation of its owned properties under the procedure set forth in 24 CFR and Supps., 402.20–12.

§ 400.224 Reconditioning and maintenance of owned properties. The Regional Manager may authorize repairs, reconditioning, rehabilitation, modernization and maintenance repairs on properties owned by the Corporation, and may incur and approve charges or expenses therefor, under the authority of and subject to the limitations of 24 CFR and Supps., 402.24–2; 402.24–3; 402.24–3a; 402.24–4; 402.24–5; 402.24–6; 402.24–7; 402.24–9; 402.24–10.

(a) Rental procedure; broker's authority. Applications for the rental of Corporation-owned properties or properties in certain states of which the Corporation is otherwise in possession, may be made to the contract management broker by letter or personal visitation. The broker has the authority to negotiate month-to-month tenancies and to execute on behalf of the Corporation, rental agreements therefor. (See § 402.26–16)

(e) Authority to execute waivers of liens to remove fixtures. 24 CFR, and Supps., 402.26–18, specifically authorizes the Regional Manager to execute waivers of lien or consents to the removal of any fixtures which tenants may be purchasing on a deferred payment plan and specifically prohibits the execution of such waivers or consents by contract management brokers.

Subpart B–5—Legal Procedures

§ 400.601 Legal department authority and procedure. The General Counsel is vested with full and complete authority to administer the affairs of the Legal Department and to perform or have performed all its functions. (24 CFR, 1.01). To a great extent, professional nature of the work performed does not permit the adoption of mechanical or routine procedures, except such as are intra-office within the Corporation and inter-office between the Department and its approved fee attorneys.

The broad field of the Corporation's activity necessitates legal appearances and frequently contest before Federal tribunals and practically all of the civil courts and many Boards, Bodies and Commissions throughout the several states. Where the work to be performed can be undertaken more expeditiously and otherwise in the best interests of the Corporation the services of approved attorneys may be engaged. The work of the Legal Department associated with the Corporation's loan service and property management activities, such as title examinations and certification, foreclosures, evictions, ejectments, deficiency judgment, rent suits, sales and similar legal actions, is to a large extent performed by approved attorneys maintaining offices in the vicinity of the property affected, under the general supervision of the Regional Counsel. Some litigation work, including claims, torts (involving person and property), eminent domain, contract actions and similar matters are handled by staff personnel. All of the Corporation's administrative legal work is performed by staff personnel under the supervision of the General Counsel, the Associate General Counsel or an Assistant General Counsel.

Many of the Corporation's legal procedures are designed, fundamentally, to carry into legal effect the recommendations, determinations and decisions made pursuant to proper authority under operations and procedures of the Loans and Properties Division. In such cases, the Legal Department procedures are integral parts of the procedures applicable to the treatment of loan service and property management matters, and where such affinity exists, the Legal Department procedure has, for the purposes of this digest, been given consideration under the appropriate loan service or property management procedure. Legal Department procedures discussed in succeeding paragraphs, are either sufficiently broad to apply to all or many Corporation procedures, or they are of such legal significance and application that they should not be treated in connection with any other procedure.

(a) Legal department expense. The General Counsel, and with limited authority, the Regional Counsel, is authorized to incur any fees or expenses incident to the performance of any duty or function of the Legal Department and approve the amount and payment thereof. (See 24 CFR, and Supps., 406.01c; 406.01d; 406.02a; 406.02–1; 406.02–3; 406.01–4a; 406.02–4b; 406.02–4d.)

§ 400.603 Claims and litigation. The General Counsel is vested with authority to institute or defend suits (24 CFR and Supps., 406.03a) to settle or adjust any claim or matter affecting the Corporation, with the approval of the General Manager (§ 406.03); to settle or adjust any claim or defend any suit against an employee appointed by a court to act as a fiduciary (§ 406.03d); to enforce judgments held by the Corporation pursuant to determinations made by the General Manager relative to such enforcement (§ 406.03c). Similar but limited authority may be exercised by the Regional Manager, with the advice of the Regional Counsel (§ 406.03e). The Regional Counsel may prosecute suits for eviction or collection of rents; and settle, adjust or compromise such claims with the concurrence of the Regional Manager. Under limitations, the Regional Counsel may institute or cause to be instituted suits or proceedings involving the reduction of taxes or levies, or the assessed valuation of properties under the supervision of the Loans and Properties Division (§ 406.03–3). For Regional Counsel's authority to take emergency action in certain cases see § 406.03–4. Regional Counsel may take necessary action to correct errors or defects in security; and with the approval of the General Counsel may institute suits for such purposes (§ 406.03–5). With limited authority the Regional Counsel may take necessary action to clear liens and objections affecting Corporation-owned property, including liens or claims affecting chattels used in connection with any Corporation-owned property (§ 406.03–6). Subject to limitations the Regional Counsel, with the approval of the Regional Manager, may settle claims other than claims based upon personal injury and defalcation (§ 406.03–6a). The Regional Manager, with the approval of Regional Counsel, may permit the appointment of qualified employees of the Corporation, as receivers, administrators, guardians or in other fiduciary capacities (§ 406.03–9).

§ 400.604 Bonds, pleadings, or other instruments in legal proceedings. The General Counsel, or the Regional Counsel within his jurisdiction may direct the execution of an appropriate bond, or any pleading, or other instrument, by the Corporation in the course of any statutory or judicial proceeding or other matter affecting the Corporation. (See 24 CFR and Supps., 406.04a.)

(a) Execution of instruments of indemnity or assurance to third parties. The General Manager with the approval of the General Counsel, may execute any agreement, bond of indemnity, letter of assurance or other writing incident to the consummation of a sale of Corporation-owned property or any other matter affecting the Corporation. Like authority with limitations may be exercised by the Regional Manager with the approval of the Regional Counsel. (24 CFR and Supps., 406.04b).

(b) Indemnity to the Corporation. Bonds and other instruments of indemnification may be accepted and cancelled by the Corporation. (See 24 CFR and Supps. 406.04c).

(c) Surety bonds. Surety bonds payable to the Corporation may be accepted by the Corporation in accordance with the provisions of 24 CFR and Supps., 406.04–1.

(d) Indemnity to purchaser, abstract or title company or other third party in sales transactions. Letters of assurance, bonds of indemnity, or other instrument may be delivered in sales transactions in order to consummate the sale where the title is imperfect or irregular under the provisions of 24 CFR and Supps., 406.04–2.

§ 400.606 Eminent domain. The General Counsel with the approval of the General Manager, is authorized to accept or decline any offer of award or settlement made in condemnation cases affecting security properties or Corporation-owned properties and to direct the distribution or application of the proceeds of such proceedings. Like authority with limitations may be exercised also by the Regional Counsel with the approval of the Regional Manager (24 CFR and Supps., 406.06 and 406.06–3).

§ 400.606–1 Extensions and amortizations. See Extension and amortization procedure in the digest (§ 400.204).

SUBPART D—FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION PROCEDURE

The procedures outlined in this subpart D, are to be read in connection with and as supplemental to the procedures required by the substantive Administrative Rules and Regulations issued by the Commissioner under Titles I and II of the National Housing Act. Administrative Regulations under Title I are found in Parts 501 and 502, Chapter V; Administrative Rules and Regulations under section 203 of Title II, in Parts 521 and 522, Chapter V; and Administrative Rules and Regulations under section 207 of Title II, in Parts 532 and 533, Chapter V, Code of Federal Regulations.

§ 500.31 Approval of financial institutions. To obtain approval as a lending institution under Title I or as a mortgagee under Titles II and VI of the National Housing Act, the following procedures are to be observed:

(a) Approval of lending institutions (Title I, National Housing Act). (1) Any lending institution may submit its application for determination of its qualifications to the satisfaction of the Commissioner.

(2) The applicant will use Form FH 21, Title I "Contract of Insurance Application", obtained from the nearest FHA insuring office and when completely executed, one copy should be submitted to the insuring office for transmission to the FHA, Washington, D. C. The application is designed to identify the particular lending institution; its legal existence; supervision, if any, by acceptable Federal or State regulatory or supervisory departments; indicate the geographical or trading area of the applicant contemplated for the handling of Title I loans, and the existence or proposed establishment of adequate facilities and ability properly to conduct its credit and collection aspects in that territory; a statement of the type and nature of Title I business applicant proposes to follow; an analysis of loans made in the past fiscal year, as to type, volume, maturity, rate of interest and nature of underlying security; banking references and established bank credit facilities.

(3) The application must be accompanied by:

(i) Copy of applicant's latest financial statement as furnished under requirements of a governmental supervisory agency having jurisdiction or if not under acceptable governmental supervision an independent detailed audit of its books made by an accountant satisfactory to the Commissioner.

(ii) A detailed statement of existing credit and collection procedures in use by applicant together with a statement of the method and scope of its proposed Title I lending activities.

(4) Commissioner determination. The completed application and exhibits are passed upon at FHA, Washington, D. C., by the Assistant Commissioner, Title I. Determination is based on a showing to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of acceptable qualifications as to legal permanency of the organization; sound and adequate financial conditions (in cases of limited net worth available lines of credit for specific financing of Title I loans); acceptability of supervision, principal activity being vested in lending funds or investing in mortgages, consumer instalment notes, or similar advances of credit; experience and integrity of management; ability to pass on borrower's credit and to effect collections; ability to make dealer investigations and spot checks on improvements effected with Title I property improvement loans.

(5) Evidence of approval. A letter of approval and general instructions are mailed direct from Washington, accompanied by the Contract of Insurance, in duplicate, authorizing applicant to operate under Title I and insuring its loans which are made in accordance with the regulations. The duplicate is executed by an authorized official of the applicant, returned direct to Washington and constitutes acceptance of the contract. If the application is rejected, a letter of rejection is mailed directly from Washington to the applicant.

(6) Appeals and reconsideration. Appeal from a rejection or request for the Commissioner's reconsideration is submitted by letter to the local FHA office for transmission to Washington Headquarters, stating in detail the facts on which appeal or reconsideration request is based. Result of the appeal or reconsideration is communicated directly to applicant from Washington headquarters.

C., and when fully executed, the originals submitted to the nearest insuring office for transmittal to FHA, Washington, D. C. The application is designed to identify the particular lending institution, its corporate existence, supervision, if any, locations of branches, character of business, affiliations with other government agencies, resume of past mortgage business transacted and proposed FHA business, the method by which FHA loans will be serviced and certain other conditions for continued approval.

(3) The application must be accompanied by:

(iii) Letter or letters from banks giving lines of credit available for mortgage origination

(iv) A short statement from the applicant indicating the experience of the principals in the mortgage origination and servicing fields.

Result of the appeal or reconsideration is communicated direct to applicant from Washington headquarters.

(c) Approval of mortgagee as a loan correspondent. (1) Any approved mortgagee which lends on, or invests in, mortgages on a national scale and is subject to the inspection and supervision of a governmental agency may request the Commissioner's approval as a loan correspondent mortgagee of any institution or other permanent organization. FHA Forms 2001c, 2001b and 2001d are used. These forms may be obtained in duplicate from the nearest FHA insuring office or from the FHA, Washington, D. C. (4) Evidence of approval. A letter of approval and general instructions are mailed direct from Washington. A certificate of approval will be mailed in due course. This certificate is suitable for framing and display. If the applicant is rejected, a letter of rejection is mailed direct from Washington to the applicant.

Result of the appeal or reconsideration is communicated direct to applicant from Washington headquarters.

(d) Approval of mortgagees under sections 207 and 608 of the National Housing Act. (1) Any institution approved under sections 203 or 603 of the National Housing Act may submit applications under sections 207 and 608 of the act. Other institutions, organizations, agencies, or entities may become the mortgagee under a mortgage insured under sections 207 or 608 of the National Housing Act for a particular transaction, provided they can demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Commissioner their ability to make and service the mortgage loan. Requests for approval as mortgagee for particular transactions may be made by letter to the Insuring Office having jurisdiction.

§ 500.32 Title I Insurance—(a) General. (1) Under section 2 of Title I of the National Housing Act, the Commissioner is authorized to insure qualified lending institutions against losses on account of loans or purchases made for eligible purposes as specified in the act. Such loans are classified by regulation as Class 1, Class 2 and Class 3 loans. In the case of Class 1 and Class 2 loans (covering modernization and improvements of existing structures, and new structures for commercial and agricultural use) the entire transaction is the responsibility of the lending institution holding a contract of insurance. The applicant-borrower submits an application on Form FH1 to the lending institution. This form provides for submission of facts as to the nature of improvements or repairs, status of ownership of the property to be improved and credit data. The determination as to the eligibility of such loan for insurance, the approval of the borrower's credit and all other details of the transaction are handled by the lending institution, without prior examination or approval of the transaction by the Federal Housing Administration, except as specifically required by the regulations.

(2) In the case of Class 3 loans, which are limited to loans made for the purpose of financing new residential construction under the provisions of Title I of the Act, the application to the lending institution is submitted on Form FH51, and a certificate of property eligibility must be obtained from the local FHA office before the loan is made. Such certificate is furnished on Form FH54 (Property Eligibility Statement), based upon information as to the location of the land and proposed construction furnished by the lending institution on Form FH52 (Application for Property Approval), and Form FH53 (Property Description), which forms are accompanied by the institution's estimate of the value of the property, and its check in the amount required by the Regulations in effect. Class 3 transactions are otherwise handled in a manner similar to Class 1 and Class 2 loans, the approval of the borrower's credit and other details of the transaction being handled by the lending institution.

(3) Prospective borrowers may obtain a list of the qualified lending institutions in the particular area by writing to the Federal Housing Administration insuring office in the locality, or to the central office in Washington, D. C. Application forms and other forms prescribed for use in connection with Title I loans are available at the lending institutions, whose supplies of such forms are replenished upon request to the insuring office in the locality, or the central office in Washington, D. C.

(b) Disbursements. Disbursement of the proceeds of Class 1 and 2 loans may be made by the lending institution either (1) direct to the borrower or (2) to one other than the borrower or the borrower and another jointly, in which event a "Borrower's Completion Certificate" (FH-2) and a "Dealer's Completion Certificate" (FH-3) properly executed are required.

(c) Reports by the lending institution. After the loan is made, or the note is purchased from a dealer, the lending institution submits individual reports, setting forth the details including (name of borrower, location of property, amount of loan advanced, finance charges, date of note and terms of payment) of each transaction to the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C., on Form FH-4. On the basis of the information contained in such report, the Federal Housing Administration computes the insurance premium which will be due and payable by the lending institution, and records the transaction on its official records.

(d) Refinancing. Loans reported for insurance may be refinanced and the refinancing loans are reported for insurance, provided they meet the requirements of the applicable regulations, and do not exceed the maximum amounts and maturity prescribed by the regulations and act. The details of the refinancing transaction are handled by the lending institution in the same manner as the making of a new loan, and is similarly reported for insurance on Form FH-5.

(e) Insurance reserve. For each institution holding a contract of insurance, there is established by the Federal Housing Administration a general insurance reserve equal to the percentage prescribed by the National Housing Act and applicable regulations of the aggregate amount advanced on all eligible loans reported for insurance. The transfer of the insurance reserve between such institutions is permissible as prescribed in the regulations and involves the transfer of the notes to the purchasing institution. Each institution involved submits a report of the transaction to the Federal Housing Administration, Washingon, D. C., on Form FH-6, identifying the loan, the transferee and reserve transferred.

(f) Claim for payment under insurance contract. Claims for reimbursement for loss on an eligible Class 1 or Class 2 loan may be made by the lending institution after the borrower's default, provided demand has been made for the full unpaid balance of the note. Such claim is submitted to the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C., on Form FHE7, which must be accompanied by (1) the lending institution's complete credit and collection file pertaining to the transaction; and (2) the note and any security held/or judgment taken, duly assigned to the United States of America, as provided by the regulations. Claims for reimbursement for loss on Class 3 transactions are made after foreclosure of the mortgage held by the lending institution and conveyance of title to the property to the Commissioner, or, with the Commissioner's approval of the sale of the property by the lending institution, the property may be sold and claim filed for the deficiency, if any. An audit of each claim is made by the Federal Housing Administration for the purpose of determining compliance with the provisions of the National Housing Act and the applicable regulations. Payment of the loss sustained is then made by United States Treasury check. If the claim is disapproved the lending institution is notified of the basis of such disapproval, with return to it of all related papers and documents. The lender may obtain reconsideration of disapproval of a claim by making written request addressed to the Comptroller, Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C.

(b) Commissioner's determination—(1) Underwriting analysis. Upon the receipt of the mortgagee's application for insurance at the FHA insuring office, an underwriting analysis of the proposed loan is made by the technical staff. This includes all procedures and analyses after the recordation of the application until a rating is given to the proposed mortgage transaction and underwriting recommendation is made to the Director. Underwriting processing includes architectural analysis, cost estimation, valuation and mortgage credit analysis, rating the risks involved and the making of compliance inspections. Requirements and standards pertaining to real estate, are published in separate publications covering the following subjects. Subdivision Standards including Minimum Street Improvement Requirements; Minimum Property Requirements for Properties of One or Two Living Units; Minimum Property Requirements for Properties of Three or more Living Units; Minimum Requirements for Individual Water Supply and Sewage Disposal Systems, and may be obtained from any FHA insuring office or from the Central Office, Washington, D. C.

(2) Commitment for insurance. Upon determination that the mortgagor and the property offered as security conforms with the standards and requirements prescribed by the Commissioner, a commitment for insurance is issued to the applicant mortgagee setting forth the terms and conditions under which the loan will be endorsed for insurance.

In those cases in which the commitment requires compliance inspections, the mortgagee will submit, at the proper time, Request for Compliance Inspection, FHA Form 2289. These forms may be obtained from the insuring office which issues the commitment. Compliance inspections are made for the benefit of the FHA to determine the acceptability of the construction under the FHA standards and requirements.

Request for increase in amount may be filed with the insuring office having jurisdiction, but will require the issuance of a new commitment.

(4) Endorsement for insurance. Upon the return of the original commitment properly executed, together with the documents specified therein, the original credit instrument is endorsed for insurance by the execution of the endorsement panel, in the name of the Commissioner by an authorized agent. The original credit instrument is then returned to the mortgagee.

(5) Amendment after insurance—(i) Consent to substitution of mortgagor. A mortgagee desiring to release the present mortgagor from liability and accept a new mortgagor may request the Commissioner's consent. The request is made on FHA Form 2210 and is filed with the FHA insuring office having jurisdiction and accompnaied by Mortgagor's Statement on FHA Form 2004. After analysis and if acceptable the Commissioner gives his consent by executing and returning Form 2210 to the mortgagee.

Notice of the transfer, executed by the transferor and transferee, must be filed with the central office on Form 2080, copies of which can be obtained from any insuring office or the central office.

Application for debentures is then filed on FHA Form 2205, copies of which are sent to the mortgagee from the office of the General Counsel, Washington, D. C., accompanied by full instructions. This form provides for submission of data required by the Act and Regulations in order to compute the amount of payment under the insurance contract.

(16) Assurance of installation and completion of offsite facilities. The Commissioner may require an escrow deposit with the mortgagee or with an acceptable trustee or an escrow agent designated by the mortgagee of such cash as may be necessary for the completion of offsite facilities, such as public utilities, streets, sidewalks, curbs, gutters and landscaping offsite. In lieu of the requirements of a cash escrow, other forms of assurance of installation and completion of offsite facilities, will be acceptable.

(20) Hazard insurance requirements. The mortgagee must be advised at the time of the endorsement of the credit instrument of the requirement for hazard insurance. The Commissioner's requirement for types and amounts of hazard insurance to be maintained upon the project will be as set forth in FHA Form 2447 and the accompanying Form 2445, which forms will be furnished by the Commissioner. The Administrative Regulations provide for maintenance of such insurance by the mortgagee in the event of failure of the mortgagor to maintain such insurance. Simultaneously with the initial endorsement of the credit instrument, in cases where mortgage proceeds are to be advanced during the course of construction, the Commissioner will notify the mortgagee of hazard insurance requirements by completing Form 2447, Hazard Insurance Requirements, and delivering it to the mortgagee.

(e) Construction period. During the course of construction the Commissioner will require compliance with the following instructions:

(1) Construction fund of mortgagor held by mortgagee. In accordance with the terms of the commitment the mortgagor may have been required at closing to deposit with the mortgagee funds necessary to defray the cash cost of construction in excess of the mortgage proceeds. The mortgagee is required to certify that it will advance to the mortgagor for construction purposes such funds prior to making any advance of mortgage proceeds.

(2) Application for insurance of advance of mortgage proceeds, Form 2403. This form must be completed and executed by the mortgagor, the mortgagee, the architect and the contractor when requesting insurance of advancement on account of construction cost.

(3) Requests for changes in the drawings and specifications. Such requests must be in writing, signed by the mortgagee and the mortgagor and shall be conditioned upon the approval of the Commissioner, which approval may be subject to such conditions and qualifications as the Commissioner, at his discretion may prescribe, it being understood that the Commissioner at all times has the right to require compliance with the original drawings and specifications.

(4) Working capital deposit required at closing. This deposit is primarily for the purpose of assuring monthly accruals with the mortgagee during the construction period for the second mortgage insurance premium, real estate taxes due in the year following completion of construction, and the total premiums for permanent hazard insurance for one year in order that all such items may be paid by the mortgagee when due, all as required by the terms of the mortgage. The balance of such deposit is for the purpose of defraying opening expenses of the project for occupancy.

(5) Disbursements for carrying charges, etc. The building loan agreement provides for advances of mortgage funds from the mortgagee to the mortgagor to cover carrying charges, financing expenses, etc. The amount allocated to each item shall be as set forth during processing. The mortgagee will not be permitted to re-allocate these items without consent of the Commissioner.

(6) Notification regarding chattels. In accordance with the provisions of the mortgagee's certificate, the mortgagee will require a chattel mortgage or similar instrument, if necessary, upon any property purchased with mortgage proceeds not clearly subject to the lien of the insured mortgage under the laws of the jurisdiction. This chattel mortgage will include a list of the movable property, such as stoves, refrigerators, water heaters, and furniture and fixtures in the nature of venetian blinds, etc., purchased with mortgage proceeds.

(7) Permission to occupy. The mortgagor's certificate specifies that occupancy will not be permitted prior to consent thereto by the Commissioner. Prior to granting such approval the mortgagor will be required to submit satisfactory evidence that the public authorities with jurisdiction have granted such occupancy permits as may be necessary.

(8) Rental schedule. So long as the maximum rents are regulated throughout the United States and its possessions by any agency of the United States Government expressly established for purposes of controlling maximum rents, other than the Federal Housing Commissioner, the approval of rent schedules by this Administration will not be required. Maximum rentals established by such agency or agencies of the United States will be accepted by this Administration as the approved rental schedule. Upon the expiration of the authority of any such agency of the United States to regulate and fix maximum rentals, the then existing schedule in force with respect to the project, shall be the approved rental schedule. Upon the expiration of such authority, provision with regard to ~~the~~ approval of the rental schedule is included in the Model Form of Certificate of Incorporation.

(f) Commitment to insure upon completion, Form 2453. The procedure which follows the issuance of this type of commitment involves no change whatever in the procedure in receiving the Application for Mortgage Insurance. However, prior to the issuance of a commitment to insure upon completion, it will be necessary to submit final drawings and specifications whereas in the case where a commitment is issued to insure construction advances, that commitment is issued on preliminary drawings and specifications. Where it is desired to insure the mortgage upon completion of construction a formal closing does not occur as the drawings and specifications are approved prior to the issuance of commitment and the insurance contract is not executed until the completion of construction.

(1) Assignment of construction inspector. Where the construction advances are not insured a construction inspector is assigned during the construction period and the sponsor is required to submit an inspection fee, which will be an amount equal to ½ of 1% of the mortgage to be insured. This fee is not required where the construction advances are insured although an inspector is also assigned in that instance.

(2) Reduced procedure under Form 2453. Commitment to Insure Upon Completion. Since the mortgage will not be insured until completion of construction, the necessity for a construction contract, building loan agreement and architect's contract will be eliminated so far as this Administration is concerned. It will not be necessary to examine the mortgage and security instrument prior to the beginning of construction. The mortgagor's certificate and the mortgagee's certificate have been eliminated as such and combined into Form 2455. Request for Endorsement of the Credit Instrument, Certificate of Mortgagor and Mortgagee.

(g) Financial records. The mortgagor corporation is required to maintain its books and accounts in accordance with a uniform system of accounts prescribed by the Commissioner.

(h) Default procedure. In the event the mortgage, which has been insured by the Commissioner, goes into default under the meaning of the Act the following procedure will be effected. The mortgagee will notify the Commissioner of such default within 30 days from the date which the mortgage is considered in default. No form of notice of default has been prescribed.

(i) Claim for payment under insurance contract. In the event the default is not cured, the mortgagee obtains payment by either assigning the mortgage to the Commissioner or instituting and completing foreclosure and conveying title to the property to the Commissioner. The requirements in specific cases would be for determination under Part 533 of this chapter.

(1) Where the mortgagee has elected to assign the mortgage it shall file Forms 29590, Application for Debentures and Certificate of Claim, and 29588, Assignment. The assignment must take place within 60 days from date of default or at such later date as agreed upon by the Commissioner. Subsequent to audit by the Commissioner, debentures will be issued in an amount determined in accordance with the insurance contract.

(2) Where the mortgagee has elected to foreclose the mortgage and convey title to the Commissioner, it shall file Forms 29383. Application for Debentures and Certificate of Claim, and 29367, Assignment of Claim. Within 30 days from the date the mortgagee acquires title it must convey title and possession of the property to the Commissioner. Subsequent to audit by the Commissioner, debentures will be issued in an amount determined in accordance with the insurance contract.

(3) Upon receipt of notice of intention to foreclose or acquire title by means other than foreclosure, or to assign the mortgage to the Commissioner, the Commissioner will supply the mortgagee with the necessary forms and instructions as to their use.

§ 500.35 Property management—(a) Appointment of brokers. Wherever practicable the management, sale and rental of acquired properties is handled by a broker, selected by the Commissioner upon the recommendation of the Director of the insuring office having jurisdiction of the area in which the property is located. If the total compensation to be paid will exceed $1,000.00 the contract is entered into only after formal bid procedure in accordance with the Section 3709 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

(b) Sale and rental of acquired properties. All offers to purchase Commissioner owned properties should be made to the appointed broker, if any, or to the Director of the insuring office of the area in which the property is located. All rentals of such property are likewise handled by the appointed broker or the Director. Information as to property held for sale or rent may be obtained from the insuring office having jurisdiction of the area in which the property or prospective purchaser or tenant is located.

(1) Bulk sales. Certain groups of properties, usually of the rental housing type, may be offered for sale in bulk. Prices and terms are determined by the Assistant Commissioner, Rental Housing and Property Management and the public notified by press notices placed in newspapers in general circulation in the community in which the property is located. Any interested purchaser may negotiate for the purchase by contacting the FHA insuring office or the central office, Washington, D. C.

§ 500.36 Special underwriting determinations—(a) Shop fabricated or special methods of construction. Shop fabricated or special methods of construction proposed for use in houses offered as security for mortgages to be insured under provisions of the National Housing Act are analyzed and investigated to determine whether the method will provide a structurally sound finished dwelling which will be durable over a long term of years. Since most methods of prefabrication make visual field inspection of the structural elements difficult, it is necessary to pre-determine whether the method will provide a structurally sound and durable structure. Factors considered include qualifications of the proponent, method of distribution, facilities for shop fabrication, control over erection and assembly operations at the site and the likelihood of the need for unusual maintenance of the completed construction. Based on these investigations, rulings defining the conditions of acceptability of such methods for mortgage insurance purposes are issued by the Underwriting Division, Washington, D. C.

It is emphasized that rulings are issued to FHA field offices primarily as guides concerning the special structural elements involved in proposed methods of construction. Final determination of acceptability for mortgage insurance purposes is made by the local Insuring Office on the basis of each proposed property as a whole. This determination includes other important considerations such as architectural design, location, valuation, thermal characteristics and sustained market acceptance.

Conventional methods of construction and any portion of shop fabricated or special methods which are considered conventional are not covered by rulings but are governed by applicable Minimum Construction Requirements established for the locality where such construction is to be erected. Compliance with local planning requirements is also required. These requirements include such items as: room arrangement and size, natural light and ventilation, storage and closets, etc.

(1) Data to be submitted—(i) Organization. Comprehensive information concerning the proposed method of marketing, extent of intended distribution, shop facilities and qualifications of the organization sponsoring the product, and proposed controls over field erection.

(ii) Drawings and description. Drawings should be drawn to scale and fully dimensioned. Together with the description, they shall indicate accurately, clearly and completely the materials and methods of construction. Drawings should indicate clearly the distinction between portions of the structure covered by the shop fabricated or special method and those portions which are conventional, and should include the following:

(b) Detail drawings providing the type of information following:

(1) Vertical section through exterior wall from footing to roof both at eaves and gable.

(2) Horizontal section through exterior wall.

(6) Details of head, sill and jambs of door and window openings.

(iii) Technical data. (a) Laboratory test reports when available which demonstrate structural properties, and any characteristics considered significant of the shop fabricated or special method.

(b) Computations covering structural properties which are subject to formula analysis.

(2) Submission of Data. Data may be submitted in either of two ways as follows:

(i) To a Local Federal Housing Administration Insuring Office. This procedure is preferred and whenever possible proponents are urged to consult the local Federal Housing Administration office regarding compliance with their Minimum Property Requirements, architectural appeal and sustained market acceptance, especially to the extent that these considerations may be affected by the special methods of materials.

The local office will transmit all data to the Underwriting Division, Washington, D. C., together with an opinion of the qualifications and fabricating facilities of the proponent, and pertinent comments on any features of the method which may affect acceptability of properties offered as security for insured mortgages within the jurisdiction of the office.

(ii) To the Underwriting Division, Federal Housing Administration, Washington 25, D. C. Data submitted to Washington should be as complete as possible, covering all items mentioned in Section A of this circular and so facilitate determination of acceptability and obviate unnecessary correspondence.

Since the proponent and the Underwriting Division in this instance are both deprived of the benefit of comments by the local Federal Housing Administration office, greater care in the preparation of data is necessary to adequately convey the desired information.

(3) Investigation and analysis. Investigation of the proposed method includes consideration of structural soundness and durability; rigidity; resistance to normal use; resistance to the elements; thermal conductivity; expansion and contraction; protection against corrosion, decay and insect attack.

Other factors considered are qualifications of the proponent, method of distribution, facilities for shop fabrication, control over erection operations at the site and maintenance of the completed house. If the proposed method is to be used for multi-family dwellings, fire resistance and sound insulation are also investigated.

If analysis of drawings, description and technical data indicates a satisfactory structural design, the proponent usually is requested to erect a complete demonstration house without benefit of mortgage insurance. Observation of shop fabrication and erection and assembly of a demonstration house provides essential information for determining acceptability of the proposed method for mortgage insurance purposes. Experience indicates that such demonstration may reveal need for minor corrections and often suggests modifications to be effected before going into extensive production.

(4) Determination of acceptability. Based upon analysis of the structural design and final determination of its acceptability for mortgage insurance purposes, a ruling is issued to FHA field offices for their guidance. The ruling is intended to facilitate processing of cases involving the subject method, and remains in force until revoked or superseded by a revised or new ruling. A revised ruling is required in all cases where changes or revisions from an existing ruling are desired by the proponent.

(b) Acceptability of individual materials. Rulings are not issued to manufacturers of individual materials or products. Acceptance is determined by the Federal Housing Administration field offices on the basis of contemplated use, appropriateness and performance of such materials or products. In determining the acceptability of materials or products, the Federal Housing Administration field offices are guided by applicable standards such as Federal Specifications; Specifications of the American Society for Testing Materials; Commercial and Trade Standards which have been approved by the Division of Trade Standards of the Bureau of Standards, U. S. Department of Commerce; Standards of the American Standards Association; Specifications of the American Institute of Steel Construction; Building Regulations for Reinforced Concrete of the American Concrete Institute; Requirements of the Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.

The use of materials in connection with conventional construction is conditional upon compliance with the Minimum Construction Requirements established for the particular Insuring Office and by general considerations of sustained marketability in relation to each particular property. In instances where the use of a material or product is not covered by Federal Housing Administration requirements, experience records, test data and other pertinent information, should be made available to assist in determining acceptability. The Federal Housing Administration does not maintain a list of "approved" materials nor does it endorse any.

Manufacturers of materials are encouraged to furnish complete information concerning their products, with particular regard to the specific uses recommended by them and proper methods of installation.

Based upon information furnished by manufacturers and upon relevant technical reports and test data available from various governmental and other research agencies, advice is given to local insuring offices requesting the information as an aid to them in their determination of acceptability for use in the area under their jurisdiction and particularly with regard to compliance with Federal Housing Administration Minimum Construction Requirements and standards such as the above.

SUBPART E—STATEMENTS OF POLICY AND INTERPRETATION

§ 500.100 Title I Insurance—(a) Periodic payment dates. The date fixed by the insured institution for the first and subsequent payments should be made agreeable to the borrower and correspond whenever possible with the date on which he receives his income.

(b) Financing charges. The maximum financing charge allowed by the Regulations is intended to cover all expenses that may be incurred by the institution in placing the transaction on its books, except the following expenses that may be incurred in taking security for the loan: recording or filing fees, documentary stamp taxes, title examination charges and hazard insurance premiums. These costs may not be included in the face amount of the note nor paid out of the proceeds of the loan but they may be paid by the borrower as a separate item.

Although the standard formula for determining the charge to the borrower contemplates a monthly instalment note, it is intended that the same resulting ratio shall apply in the case of a note on which there is only one payment (or any number more or less than 12) per year, as in the case of a farmer or a producer of livestock who is making payments in accordance with the dates on which his income is received. An interest-bearing note, at the lowest rate compatible with the locality and credit conditions, should be used where a note calls for seasonal payments.

(c) Late charges. Late charges represent a penalty for not paying an instalment on its due date and is reimbursement to the institution for work involved in following the borrower for delinquent payments. They have no connection with the financing charge, which is determined at the time the loan is granted, on the basis that the note will be paid in accordance with its terms. The collection of late charges shall not be considered in computing the maximum amount which the insured institution may charge the borrower for discount, interest or fees.

If the borrower makes a payment to be applied to his regular instalment it is not permissible for the institution to deduct late charges that have been billed unless the borrower specifies such deduction. However, if in the absence of specific instructions from the borrower the institution advises the borrower in writing that a portion of his payment will be applied to late charges and the borrower expresses no objection, such application shall be considered permissible insofar as the FHA Regulations are concerned. Evidence supporting the application of late charges collected must be included in the file when a claim for loss is made. The Federal Housing Administration does not reimburse the institution for uncollected late charges.

It is not intended that late charges shall take the place of interest on the principal after the maturity of the whole obligation. Thus, a provision for such interest after maturity will not conflict with the limitation set forth in the Regulations which refers only to interest or late charges taken on a specific instalment for failure to make that payment on its due date.

(d) Credit investigation and analysis. The lending institution in considering the credit of the applicant should bear in mind that available insurance coverage does not relieve it of the responsibility of exercising the care that a reasonable and prudent lender would pursue if the loan were not being offered for insurance.

The applicant must furnish the lending institution with an executed Credit Application on a form approved or provided by the Commissioner. The lending institution should obtain sufficient supplementary information to satisfy itself that the applicant represents a reasonable credit risk. If in the judgment of the lending institution it is deemed necessary, an individual credit report from a reputable credit reporting agency should be obtained plus such other information as is considered desirable. On the basis of all information before the lending institution it must then pass upon the reasonableness of the credit risk.

Consideration should be given to the applicant's ability to pay, as determined by the assurance of a steady and sufficient income that will allow, after the payment of ordinary living and operating expenses plus other obligations, sufficient overage to make payments on his Title I loan. The applicant must further demonstrate that he has a reputation for meeting promptly his obligations and that he is capable of managing his own personal and business affairs.

(e) Eligible improvements. The following statement of basic policy may be supplemented by a specific ruling as to any item about which there may be doubt on the part of the lending institution, upon application to the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C. Requests for rulings should be supported, if possible, by descriptive or illustrated literature.

(1) Existing structures; Class 1 loans. The structure to be improved must exist as a completed building that is occupied or used, was formerly occupied or used or has been made ready for occupancy or use.

No part of a loan may be used to finance the cost of completing an unfinished structure. This does not exclude a loan for the repair of a previously complete structure which has been damaged but not substantially destroyed by deterioration, flood, fire, or other casualty; nor the construction of an attached garage, or other attached building in connection with a completed house or other existing buildings, such as homes, apartment houses, hotels, office buildings, hospitals, orphanages, colleges, churches, and manufacturing and industrial plants.

Eligible expenditures include those for structural alterations, repairs, or additions upon the structure itself, or in connection therewith.

The enlargement of the size of the structure, a new stairway, new flooring, roof, etc., including plumbing, wiring, and heating systems, which in themselves are alterations and improvements, are eligible expenditures.

Improvements in connection with the existing structure may also include such changes in the status of the ground on which the building stands as grading and landscaping, private sidewalks, private curbs, fences, or driveways. Likewise the installation of a septic tank or cesspool, the drilling of a well together with necessary pumping equipment and piping, although removed from the structure but in connection with the structure, are eligible.

A loan to convert one type of building into a different type will be eligible provided a substantial part of the original building is left standing. For instance, a loan for the conversion of a single-family dwelling into an apartment would be eligible if the walls and other main structural elements are left standing. A new stairway, new windows, rooms, porch, etc., may be added, and partitions changed.

A loan to demolish a structure or to move a structure off the premises would not be eligible except where such demolition or moving is for the purpose of improving an existing structure remaining on the property.

Loans to finance the cost of insulating an existing structure, putting on a new roof, installing a new bathroom, adding closets, repairing the floors, walls, or ceiling are eligible.

Heating systems, including stokers, oil burners, coal, gas, and electric furnaces, and plumbing and wiring when a permanent part of the realty are eligible. Equipment and machinery, including refrigerators, washing machines, ironers, stoves, dish washers, and similar items used in the home, and presses, drills, lathes and other similar items of machinery and equipment used in a commercial or industrial establishment and not a part of the realty are not eligible.

The purchase and installation of an elevator, or a built-in air conditioning system, which becomes a structural part of the building, is eligible.

Bearing in mind that loans for eligible repairs, alterations and improvements must be upon existing structures or in connection therewith, the following principles are applicable:

(i) The repair, improvement, or addition must be physically attached to and a part of the structure or in connection therewith.

(ii) Improvements and additions which are removable or by their character necessarily temporary, are not eligible. Items which are of a nature generally considered as trade fixtures or equipment for commercial or industrial use are not eligible.

(iii) A loan for the improvement of a structure to make such structure adaptable to the installation of ineligible equipment and machinery is insurable but a loan for the purchase of such ineligible equipment and machinery is not insurable. For example, a loan to strengthen the foundation walls and the floors of a structure to hold safely heavy machinery that may be installed would be eligible but a loan for the purchase of the machinery would not be eligible.

(iv) An ineligible item does not become eligible merely because it is attached to the realty.

(2) New structures; Class 2 loans. Examples of new structures eligible for a Class 2 loan which may be erected on improved or unimproved real property are barns, garages, service buildings, wayside stands, gasoline stations, tourist cabins, and industrial or commercial buildings.

A Class 2 loan may not include the cost of trade equipment used in the operation of the business that will occupy the structure. The loan may include the cost of heating or lighting systems and similar items which are eligible for Class 1 improvement loans. For example, a loan not in excess of $3,000 may be used to erect a commercial building, including a heating system, but no portion of the proceeds may be used to buy and equip the structure with trade fixtures.

The proceeds of a Class 2 loan must be used to finance the building of a new structure that will be ready for occupancy or use upon completion. It is not permissible to purchase an existing structure nor to apply the proceeds to complete a structure that is partially built.

More than one new structure may be built on a single piece of property but the principal amount of any one loan may not exceed the maximum of $3,000 for any one piece of property. For example, if a borrower wishes to erect a new barn to cost $1,500 and three separate service buildings to cost $500 each, a loan for the full $3,000 would be eligible.

No portion of a Class 2 loan may be used for demolishing existing structures to make room for a new structure. However, the erection of a new structure on an old foundation would be eligible.

(f) Dealer relationship—(1) Dealer review. The dealer's background and previous record should be thoroughly investigated through financial and trade channels, local Better Business Bureaus, competitors and credit reporting agencies. If the dealer has been doing business with another institution, inquiry should be made as to the reason for changing his connection. Also thorough consideration should be given to the dealer's ability to perform the work satisfactorily.

The regulations require that the institution shall establish to its satisfaction that the dealer is reliable, financially responsible and qualified to perform satisfactorily the work to be financed. If the dealer has had previous relationship with the institution, a brief analysis of such experience may be sufficient to establish an opinion. If the institution has had no previous experience with the dealer it is suggested that the dealer submit a statement setting forth such information as the following: (i) Length of time in present business, (ii) names of officers or principals, (iii) sales area, (iv) products sold with descriptive literature and price lists, (v) method of selling, (vi) service guarantee, if any, (vii) names of financial institutions that have financed the dealer's paper in the past.

It should be clearly understood by the dealer that he will be held responsible for the acts of his salesmen. He should be cautioned in the hiring of new salesmen. Oftentimes unethical salesmen traveling from city to city will attach themselves to a dealer and develop sales by misrepresentation and false promises. Dealers should be encouraged to obtain a personal history from each salesman and make a thorough check of his antecedents.

(2) Inspection of work. A direct and constant control should be maintained by adhering strictly to a policy of verifying periodically the transactions originated by each dealer. Such verifications, sometimes called "spot checkings" or "commodity checks" are made by the lending institution, by a telephone call or preferably by a personal call. A number of questions may be asked the borrower to determine whether the work stated on the borrower's Credit Application was completed satisfactorily, whether the borrower was promised or given any cash, whether any unreasonable guarantees were given as to the workmanship or the product, whether the borrower was told that his house would be a "Model" and he would receive a commission on all sales generated in the neighborhood, and whether there was a clear understanding as to the cost of the job and the terms of financing. If a personal call is made, the representative should formulate an opinion as to the workmanship on the job, look for ineligible items, and estimate whether the cost of the improvement was in keeping with the value of the property.

(3) Dealer record. The financial institution should maintain a separate record of each dealer. Not only will this record contain the original investigation by the lender as well as his approval, but will also show the number of credit applications submitted by the dealer, the number approved and rejected, the number of claims and a summary of spot checks, service complaints and items of special interest.

(g) Collections. An insured lending institution is expected to pursue an aggressive policy in handling the collections of Title I loans. This policy may include the mailing of form notices, dictated correspondence, telephone calls and personal contact. Lending institutions should consider the advisability of instituting legal action in the case of recalcitrant borrowers who have the ability to pay and the facts and circumstances warrant such action.

In furtherance of a collection program, lending institutions should consider refinancing loans over a longer term with smaller monthly payments where borrowers due to illness, unemployment or other legitimate reasons are unable to meet the schedule of payments called for by their note. If refinancing is not practicable, lending institutions may request an extension of the six-months' allowable claim period for the purpose of carrying the account delinquent for a longer time, in order to work out a satisfactory plan of liquidation.

§ 500.101 Mortgage insurance, section 2030—(a) Approval as a mortgagee under section 203 of the National Housing Act (§§ 521.1 to 521.8, of this chapter).

(1) Sound capital funds. "Sound capital funds" as used in § 521.4 (e) of this chapter, has been interpreted to mean net worth. The acceptability of the assets constituting net worth will be determined by the Commissioner.

(2) "Trading area". The Commissioner reserves the right to determine the extent of the area in which an institution could properly originate and service insured loans.

(3) Sponsorship of a loan correspondent mortgagee is limited to two principals.

(4) To qualify as a loan correspondent under § 521.4 (e) (2) of this chapter, an institution must have a minimum net worth of $5,000 comprised of assets determined by the Commissioner to be sound.

(b) Interpretations of specific terms as used in the act and administrative rules. (1) "Occupant", as used in § 521.15 (a) of this chapter means one who has acquired property primarily for use as a home and not primarily for sale or rent and who has evidenced the carrying out of such purpose by appropriate physical acts of possession.

(2) "Occupied", as contained in § 521.15 (a) (2) of this chapter, means actual possession for residential purposes by the owner, tenant or any other person.

(3) "Approved for mortgage insurance". The term "approved for insurance" as used in § 521.15 (a) (1) (2) of this chapter, means the issuance of either a conditional or a firm commitment.

(4) "Accepted for insurance". The term "accepted for insurance", as used in § 521.15 (a) (1) (2) of this chapter, means the issuance of a firm commitment.

(5) "Sold", interpretation of, as used in § 521.15 (a) (2) of this chapter. A property has been "sold" within the meaning of this section if a deed has been executed and delivered to the purchaser, or if there is in force any binding contract of sale other than a contract conditioned upon the obtaining of an insured loan in the amount applied for. Thus, if the contract by its terms is dependent upon the obtaining of the insured loan, the property will not be regarded as "sold" until such condition has been fulfilled or until the deed has been delivered to the purchaser. If, in connection with such conditional contracts, a deed is executed and placed in escrow, care should be taken to see that the date of such deed is subsequent to the issuance of the final firm commitment. Otherwise, it may be necessary to furnish proof of the date of actual delivery to rebut any presumption from the recorded deed that sale took place before acceptance for insurance.

(6) "Beginning of construction", as used in § 521.15 (a) (1) of this chapter, means the pouring of footings or any work beyond the stage of excavation.

Under the meaning and interpretation of these subsections, land preparation, land clearance, grading, filling, excavation for basement, footings, piers or foundations, erection of temporary forms, the installation of piling under proposed subsurface footings, the installation of sewer, gas and water pipes, electric or other service lines from the street to the dwelling, the existence on the property of accessory buildings such as garage or sheds which are not occupied or designed as dwelling units, and which are not a part of the main structure, are not included within the meaning of this term.

(c) Limitations on maximum insurable mortgage amounts under Title II, section 203—(1) Refinancing transactions. When a proposed mortgage loan involves a property already owned by the mortgagor, the maximum insurable mortgage is the amount required to cover any existing indebtedness in connection with the property plus the cost of repairs, alterations, additions to the property, and the costs of obtaining the loan, or 70% of the FHA valuation of the property, whichever is the greater.

(2) Loans to finance single-family properties to be sold by the mortgagor. In instances where operative builders are not able to obtain adequate and economical construction financing of single-family dwellings on the basis of FHA conditional commitments, or where it is apparent that economies would result in lowering the costs at which properties could be made available to the purchasers, firm commitments may be recommended subject to the limitations and controls described below. They will be permitted only in connection with sound, readily salable properties, sponsored by builders of ability and sound financial standing. They will be in amounts which will leave the builder with sufficient investment in the properties to assure his active interest in finding acceptable purchasers so that all or almost all of the cases, when closed for insurance, may be expected to be acceptable owner-occupancy mortgagors. One upper limit is the operative builder's estimate of any allowance for general overhead and profit. The amount of each firm commitment recommended, in any event, shall not exceed $7,200, and shall be limited to 80% of the FHA valuation up to and including the value of $6,000 plus 60% of that portion of the FHA valuation, if any, in excess of $6,000 up to and including the value of $10,000.

If a substantial proportion of cases involving any particular operative builder are closed for insurance without the prior substitution of purchasers who are approved as mortgagors, no additional firm commitments involving that builder will be recommended until there is a satisfactory market absorption of his properties by purchasers who are substituted as mortgagors on the insured mortgage. It is not intended that firm commitments will be recommended if it is anticipated that the builder will use his credit primarily for the purpose of selling properties on an equity accumulation plan.

(3) Loans to finance properties to be rented. In cases involving ownership of property of this type, the mortgage amount, and amortization period, shall be such that the debt service (mortgage principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premium) does not exceed 83% of the estimated net income from the property. An additional upper limit on the loan amount is the mortgagor's estimate of the necessary cost of producing the completed property (exclusive of any allowance for general overhead and profit).

(4) Loans secured by leasehold estates. In cases involving loans secured by leasehold estates the maximum amount of insurable loan is calculated by multiplying the valuation of the property in fee simple by the maximum ratio of loan to value (80% or 90% as the case may be) and then deducting the valuation of the leased fee. By administrative policy the leases must contain an option to the lessee, his successors or assigns, to purchase the fee simple title, but the parties may by agreement provide for the deferment of the right to exercise such option for a period of 5 years from the date of the mortgage. Certain exceptions are permitted upon approval of the Commissioner.

(5) Mortgage pattern limitations, Title II, section 203. The ratio of the term of the mortgage to the economic life of the building is limited to 75% of the estimated remaining economic life of the building.

The maximum ratio of total payment to rental value in dwellings typically marketable to purchasers for owner-occupancy is 110% and in dwellings typically marketable to purchasers seeking rental income, the maximum ratio of monthly debt service to monthly net income is 83%.

§ 500.102 Mortgage insurance, section 207—(a) Incomplete onsite items. It is desrable, prior to approval of a final advance of mortgage proceeds, that all construction onsite be 100% complete. However, circumstances may make it desirable that approval of a final advance be given prior to 100% completion of onsite construction.

It is the policy of the Commissioner where only minor items of onsite construction are incomplete to approve the final advance when the aggregate estimate of cost of completion of such items does not exceed 1% of the principal amount of the mortgage. With respect to all such items, except landscaping, the amount held in escrow for completion must equal twice the estimated cost of completion.

(b) Assurance of installation of offsite facilities. The Commissioner may require an escrow deposit with the mortgagee of such cash as may be required for the completion of offsite public utilities and streets. As a matter of policy, the Commissioner has determined that in lieu of the cash escrow the following forms of assurances will be acceptable.

(1) Assurances from public authorities or public utility companies that the required offsite facilities will be installed and completed without cost to the mortgagor.

(2) A contract between the principal sponsor or sponsors and a contractor for installation and completion of offsite facilities without cost to the mortgagor.

(c) Date of completion of construction. The date of completion of construction has been interpreted as the date upon which the mortgagor makes final payment to the contractor. The interpretation of the date of completion is important in that it has a bearing on the guarantee against latent defects, faulty workmanship, and material which runs one year from the date of completion.

(d) Compensation. The prior written approval of the Commissioner is required on all compensation paid to (1) officers, directors or stockholders, and (2) any person or corporation for supervisory or managerial, and (3) any employee of the corporation, if the compensation exceeds $2,000 per annum.

(1) Compensation to any employee in excess of $2,000 per annum must be for necessary services and at such rate as is fair and reasonable in the locality for similar services.

(e) Inspections. After the completion of construction of a rental housing project, inspections of properties will be made only upon the specific request of the Commissioner, except that special inspections may be made in connection with substantial hazard insurance losses.

(f) Amortization rate. The mortgage provides for monthly payments on the first day of each month by the mortgagor to the mortgagee on account of interest and principal. Such monthly payments may be on a level annuity or declining annuity basis. Where the payments are on a level annuity basis, the Commissioner has determined that the payment to principal shall be 2% per annum of the outstanding balance. Whereas, in the case of declining annuity, principal payments must be at a constant rate of not less than 3% per annum of the original face amount of the mortgage.

(g) Room count. For purposes of uniformity, the Commissioner has established the following method of interpreting the count of rooms in a living unit.

(1) Living and bedrooms shall count as one whole room each.

(2) Kitchens, the area of which is not less than 60 square feet, shall count as one room each, provided they are separated from all other rooms by a complete partition with a door.

(3) Kitchens less than 60 square feet, but not less than 50 square feet in area, which are separated from other rooms by a complete partition with a door, shall count as one-half room.

(4) Strip kitchens, located in a room, a recess off the room, or in a closet space with door shall not be assigned any room count.

(5) Dining alcoves, not less than 45 square feet in area, separated from the kitchen by a partition and a door and having outside light and ventilation shall count as one-half room.

(6) Dining rooms not less than 110 square feet in area shall count as one room each.

(7) Bathrooms shall not be included in the room count, nor interior foyers whether intended for dining or not.

(h) Expiration of commitment. In case a commitment to insure construction advances is issued the mortgagee will have 120 days within which to accept the commitment. If the commitment has not been accepted within that time, it will expire. Where a commitment to insure upon completion has been issued, construction must start within 30 days; and the number of months in which the commitment will expire is 12 months in case the mortgage does not exceed $200,000 and 24 months when the mortgage is in excess of $200,000.

(i) No revision in the commitment to insure upon completion without prior approval. Where a commitment to insure upon completion has been issued and executed by the mortgagee and mortgagor, no revision of the terms and conditions of the commitment and no increase in the principal amount of the mortgage to be insured will be permitted without prior approval of the Commissioner.

(j) Establishment of rental rates for new construction. In establishing the monthly rental rate for new construction, it will be as agreed upon between the Office of Price Administration and the Commissioner.

(k) Beginning of construction. The Commissioner will not issue a commitment to insure where construction has commenced prior to issuance of a commitment. Beginning of construction is interpreted as that period prior to pouring of footings.

Issued at Washington, D. C., April 9, 1946.

[SEAL] RAYMOND M. FOLEY,
Commissioner.

FEDERAL PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY

[24 CFR, Ch. VI]

PART 600—DESCRIPTION OF AGENCY AND PROGRAMS

§ 600.1 Description of agency and program—(a) Functions of FPHA. The Federal Public Housing Authority (hereinafter referred to as the FPHA) is an agency of the United States created under the Second War Powers Act by Executive Order 9070, dated February 24, 1942 (7 F. R. 1529). As so established, FPHA is one of the main constituent units of the National Housing Agency. It is headed by the Federal Public Housing Authority Commissioner (hereinafter referred to as the Commissioner). In general, it is the responsibility of the FPHA to administer those housing programs of the Federal Government which involve either the direct expenditure of Federal funds or the loan of such funds to public bodies to provide housing. In addition it has certain other responsibilities such as acting as Disposal Agency for surplus real property under the Surplus Property Act of 1944.

(b) Programs administered. The programs administered by the Federal Public Housing Authority are as follows:

(1) Low rent housing and slum clearance program. This program is based on the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended, (50 Stat. 88, 42 U. S. C. 1401). That statute created the United States Housing Authority, a corporate agency of the United States, which was authorized to make loans to local public agencies, created by state laws, in amounts not to exceed the development cost of permanent urban and rural housing designed to provide decent, safe and sanitary housing for families of low income. It also provided for the elimination of slum dwellings in numbers substantially equal to the numbers of new dwellings provided. The Act also permits the payment of annual contributions, when the amount of the FPHA loan involved does not exceed 90% of the development cost, in order to reduce the rents which families of low income pay in projects financed thereunder. Included in the low-rent program are certain housing assets and projects of the Public Works Administration which were transferred to the U. S. Housing Authority under the U. S. Housing Act of 1937. These projects are Federally owned and directly operated or leased by the FPHA to local authorities for management. This program, formerly administered by the United States Housing Authority, is now administered by the FPHA under Executive Order 9070.

(2) Rural rehabilitation program. Executive Order 9070 of February 24, 1945 transferred the functions of the Farm Security Administration relating to such housing projects for families not deriving their principal income from operating or working on a farm to the National Housing Agency which assigned the administration of them to FPHA. These included the greenbelt towns and certain of the subsistence homestead projects. The purposes of projects built under this program were (i) to rehabilitate families in distress by providing them with a homestead on which they could supplement income received by seasonal industrial work, (ii) to demonstrate a method of redistributing what was considered an over-balance of population in industrial centers by constructing small suburban communities insulated from encroachment by a belt of farms and forests, and (iii) to provide work relief and to increase employment by providing useful projects.

(3) Public war housing program. The responsibilities of the FPHA under this program originally involved the construction and management of public war housing facilities for persons engaged in national defense activities, including enlisted men in the naval or military services, civilian employees of the War and Navy Departments and of private industries engaged in war contracts and officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps up to specified ranks. The basic statutes under which this program is carried out are the following: Title II of Public Law 671, approved August 25, 1937; Public Law 781, approved September 9, 1940; Public Law 849, approved October 14, 1940; Public Law 9, approved March 1, 1941; Public Law 73, approved May 24, 1941; Public Law 353, approved December 17, 1941; Public Law 140, approved July 12, 1943. It included the following types of housing: (i) stopgap shelter, provided mainly by trailers; (ii) temporary housing (provided under several laws, principal of which was the Lanham Act, as amended, (54 Stat. 1125); and (iii) permanent housing. The post-war responsibility of the FPHA is to use such housing temporarily for distressed families of veterans and servicemen and dispose of it as rapidly as conditions permit. Removal of temporary housing is mandatory not later than two years after the end of the emergency, declared by the President of the United States, or within such additional time as the Administrator deems necessary in the interest of orderly demobilization. Some permanent projects were developed under Public Law 671, approved June 28, 1940, with funds of the United States Housing Authority, under an authorization requiring the conversion of those projects to low-rent housing and slum clearance purposes after the war. These projects are now being converted as rapidly as possible. Other permanent projects are to be sold to occupants, or other private purchasers, or transferred or sold to Federal, State or local agencies, or, if approved by Congress, to local housing authorities for low-rent use.

(4) Veterans emergency housing program. The Veterans Emergency Housing Program was authorized by Public Laws 292 and 336 (79th Congress) which amended Title V of the Lanham Act. This legislation directed the National Housing Agency to alleviate the housing difficulties of distressed families of servicemen and veterans and their families and single veterans attending educational institutions by the movement and re-erection of temporary public housing facilities and by conversion and movement where necessary of temporary dormitories, barracks, and other adaptable structures, materials, equipment, and facilities. Federal agencies having jurisdiction or control of any structure or facilities (including land, equipment or material) which are surplus to its needs were authorized to transfer without reimbursement such structures or facilities to the Administrator of the National Housing Agency (upon his request) for use under this title. Provision is also made for reimbursement of those applicants choosing to perform the demounting and re-erection work themselves for the cost of relocation and conversion of temporary housing facilities. The responsibility for providing this housing has been delegated to the Federal Public Housing Authority concept that the Office of the Administrator of the National Housing Agency will determine the maximum allowable number of units that may be provided in an area and the regional quotas.

(5) Conversion management program. This program was initiated by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in 1942 under the Lanham Act, to house war workers and was accomplished by remodeling existing dwellings, large mansions no longer suitable for single family occupancy, unused but sturdy warehouses, vacant stores, closed filling stations, abandoned lodge halls, or any type of building which possessed a sound structure. On August 1, 1944 responsibility for management supervision was transferred to the Federal Public Housing Authority. Development responsibility was transferred to FPHA on July 1, 1945.

(6) Disposal program. The FPHA has been designated by the National Housing Agency as the disposal agency for certain war housing and real property declared surplus by other agencies and assigned to the National Housing Agency by the War Assets Administration, or by other Federal agencies, for disposal; also for Government-owned surplus land classified as residential. This program is governed by War Assets Administration regulations and the Surplus Property Act of 1944.

D. S. MYER,
Commissioner.

§ 601.1 Central Office organization—(a) Functions of the Commissioner. The Administrator of the United States Housing Authority serves as the Commissioner and is appointed for a term of five years by the President of the United States with the advice and consent of the Senate. He is primarily responsible for the administration of all of the programs of the Authority. He usually serves as President of the Defense Homes Corporation, and the divisions and offices of the Central Office of FPHA assist and advise Defense Homes Corporation as directed by the Commissioner. The following are the major organizational units of the FPHA Central Office with their respective functions:

(b) Operating units—(1) Development and Reutilization Branch. This Branch of the Authority is headed by an Assistant Commissioner who plans, directs and supervises FPHA development and reutilization programs, including the design and construction of all public housing, and the demounting, transporting, and re-erection of housing for the veterans' emergency housing program, and establishes standards for housing accommodations.

PART 602—FIELD ORGANIZATION

§ 602.1 Field organization—(a) Organization of field offices. The Commissioner in administering the FPHA has established a highly decentralized organization, vesting primary responsibility over all possible operating phases of the program in field offices. Primary field responsibility is vested in Regional Offices and a General Field Office located at the addresses, and having geographical jurisdiction as shown in paragraph (b) of this section. Two subregional, or area offices, and numerous project and rental offices, and contact managers operate under the direct control of Regional Offices. The organizational pattern of the Regional Offices, in general, follows that of the Central Office. Each office is headed by a Regional Director who is responsible to the Commissioner. Divisions (headed by Assistant Regional Directors) and Sections (headed by a Budget Officer, Personnel Officer, etc.) have functions within the Regional Offices similar to the functions of the Central Office Branches and Divisions, of which they are counterparts. The same organization of operating and staff functions obtains in the Regional Offices as in the Central Office. The General Field Office, in addition to its geographical jurisdiction as shown below, has jurisdiction over the administration of the Greenbelt, subsistence Homestead and Rural Housing programs, irrespective of their geographical location. Powers, duties, and functions delegated to regional officials also apply to the officials of the General Field Office, unless specifically excepted.

(b) Addresses and areas of regional offices. Because of the large number of project engineers', housing managers', contract managers' offices and other subregional FPHA offices located throughout the country, it is impractical to list them here. Any request for information concerning them should be addressed to the appropriate Regional Office as listed below:

(1) By revising Article 2 in accordance with the schedule of compensation provided in the Contract Manager's Manual. This authority should be exercised only where management service contracts are amended or modified without regard to the provisions of law relating to the amendment and modification of contracts. Wherever a consideration in the form of a benefit to the Government can be shown in connection with any amendment or modification, such amendment or modification may be made without invoking the authority herein set forth.

(2) To modify by amendment without the receipt of consideration all leases of public conversion properties which require the lessor to maintain the premises in good repair and tenantable condition during the continuance of the lease wherever the regional director determines such leases erroneously provide for maintenance to be performed by the lessor because (i) it is found that the original intent of the persons negotiating the lease on behalf of the Government and the lessor was to have such maintenance performed by the Government, and (ii) the records pertaining to the negotiation of such leases indicate unequivocally that the computation of rents to be paid by the Government was based on the performance of such maintenance by the Government. Where necessary, such amendments shall modify and settle any claim the Government may have acquired against a lessor by a lessor's failure to perform maintenance work in the past and provide for the ratification of payment for, and for the acceptance by, the lessor of all maintenance work performed by the Government between the date of the lease and the date of the amendment. This delegation is made to cover all situations where an amendment of the leases, except for the authority hereby delegated, would violate the provisions of law that employees of the Government are without authority to modify contracts to the detriment of the Government or to remit a claim of the Government.

(3) To amend or clarify existing leases entered into between the several property owners and the United States of America acting through the National Housing Agency on Form US-NHA-30-2 by deleting from paragraph 7 (paragraph 8 in revision of January 1943) of said lease the form language beginning at the top of page 3 of said lease as follows: "When any obligation scheduled in paragraph 7 (8) of this lease, which is payable in substantially equal installments • • •" and ending with the end of said paragraph 7 (8) and inserting in lieu thereof the following language: "The payments required to be made under this paragraph are additional payments on account of rent and should the necessity for the making of any such payments on account of any obligation of the lessor as listed above cease because of the extinguishment of the debt, such payments shall nevertheless continue to be made by the Government at the same rate as heretofore as though said indebtedness had not been extinguished: Provided, That such further payments shall be made directly to the lessor: And provided, That the Government may, if it so elects, accumulate one or more installments and make payment on the same date as the next payment is made on account of the rent provided in paragraph 3 (4) of this lease: And provided further, That such payment and subsequent payments shall include all amounts due for the period for which payments are made on account of rent. The Government may require the submission of proof acceptable to it that the indebtedness has been released of record before making any payment directly to the Lessor." Authority is also delegated to the regional directors to modify the foregoing language to fit specific cases provided always that such modification shall express the intent of the Government to continue making payments to the owners of the property of the total amounts required to be paid as rent, whether said rent be paid in the form of a cash payment made directly to the owner or in the form of payments on account of the owner against any mortgage indebtedness.
